Regents Met Latter Part of September

Reports of Superintendent and Treasurer Made for Six Months. -Case Work Reviewed

At the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home here on September 29th, it was announced that $20,200 in government bonds were in hand toward a proposed new church and that a $10,000 legacy for one of six proposed cottages of a six-cottage children's village for the smaller boys and girls had been paid in since the last meeting of the board.

Most of the government securities for the new church are memorial donations and the legacy paid came from the estate of the late Mrs. James K. Mebane of Washington, D. C., in memory of her husband. Receiving this bequest makes $27,000 in hand for three of the six cottages.

These facts were brought out in reports made to the board by J. B. Johnston, superintendent, and Ernest Milton, treasurer.

Mr. Johnston's report covered the entire field of operations at Barium Springs, taking up the workings of each department. He stated that the truck farm and fruit crops were slim, but that there had been a good return, for the most part, from the big farm. He revealed that there were 297 children in the Home at the present time.

Plans were started by the Reg-

New Members Are On Permanent Committee

Synod Made Selections at Recent Meeting. -Entire Personnel of Ten Is Given

Two men in the Synod of North Carolina will be functioning for the first time this fall as members of Synod's Permanent Committee on Orphanage work. These are C. Spears Hicks, of Durham, who will direct the emphasis in Granville Presbytery, and Hugh A. Query, of Gastonia, who will be in charge for Kings Mountain Presbytery.

These two and Rufus A. Grier, of Charlotte, who is Mecklenburg's chairman, were named for three-year terms on this permanent committee at the recent meeting of the Synod of North Carolina. Mr. Grier served in 1942-1943, filling out an unexpired term, and his work was so effective that Synod selected him for a full three-year tenure.

The other seven members of this committee were continued, for

Lt. Fred Lowrance Was Killed In Action

Definite Word Was Received from His Chaplain That He Lost His Life on July 30th

Late on the afternoon of Sept. 29th Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lowrance, of Barium Springs, received word that their son, Second Lieutenant Fred J. Lowrance, was killed in action on July 30th in the New Georgia area of the Solomon Islands. Mr. and Mrs. Lowrance were notified by the war department on August 21st that their son was missing in action, and the definite statement that he was lost in battle was received in a letter from Captain Dudley H. Burr, chaplain of the 169th regiment, with which the late Lieutenant Lowrance was attached.

The chaplain wrote these Barium Springs parents that Lieut. Lowrance was last seen on July 30th wounded but firing his pistol at the advancing enemy. He said that the "attack came suddenly, which coupled with the excitement of battle, leads me to say that he suffered little, if at all."

On July 31st another regiment was assigned to that territory in which Lieut. Lowrance lost his life. His body was found when this regiment regained the lost territory and the chaplain wrote that it was removed to the central national cemetery on New Georgia island, where all of the soldiers lost in the Southwest Pacific area would eventually be buried. The fact that he was buried by another regiment other than his own accounted for the delay, he wrote, in getting definite information. Until such could be obtained he had to be reported as missing in action.

Capt. Burr paid a glowing tribute to the Barium Springs boy, who was born here, attended the schools at this Home and thus spent most of his almost 25 years in this vicinity. In his letter, Captain Burr wrote "You may all be proud of the splendid service which Lieut. Lowrance gave to his country—a good soldier who fought for God, for country and for no reward. He died for his beliefs; there are so many people in this world who just die."

Lieut. Lowrance was born at Barium Springs on October 14, 1918, just before the last war was concluded. Until he graduated from high school at Barium in 1937 he had spent all of his life here. He attended Davidson College and Appalachian Teachers' College and for a time he was affiliated with the Statesville Flour Mills and later with the Children's Home at Lexington. He entered the army as a private, was promoted to sergeant and was selected for Officers' Candidate School from which he

Good News

Royal Oaks Sunday School, one of the most recently organized Sunday Schools in a new church in Concord Presbytery, has started the Offering-per-month plan for Barium. The first response in September was $4.33; it jumped to $10.25 in October.

Asheboro Sunday School in Orange Presbytery has started the Offering-per-month plan and has sent three responses for August, September and October. This Sunday School once used the fifth Sunday plan, but this has been changed to once a month. There's a possibility that Asheboro will join the $100.00 Club. If they don't do it in 1943-1944, they will in 1944-1945 when responses for a whole year will be available.

WHICH SUNDAY SCHOOL IS NEXT?

Thanksgiving Funds Have Started Arriving

Thanksgiving Gifts of $1,498.75 Had Been Received by October 22nd. -Big Emphasis in Nov.

There are some individuals who follow the annual custom of making their Thanksgiving Offerings to Barium Springs even before the season gets under way, for they realize that their contributions before the large influx of such donations from the churches and individuals will be particularly useful to the Home in its operation.

As the time arrived for going to press with the October copy of the paper on the 22nd, Thanksgiving sums in hand were tabulated and these totaled $1,498.75. Of that sum, $1,191.00 is what is listed in The Messenger as "Miscellaneous" which means that they arrive direct from individuals and are not credited to any church. The remaining $307.75 was received from people who designated that certain churches were to receive credit or they came from one or two organizations.

It was announced two issues ago that an alumnus had left $40.00 as his Thanksgiving Offering for Barium on a visit here and only $100.00 appears in this issue of the

Very Interesting

A few years ago a comparatively small Sunday School, which never before did so, instituted the Offering-per-month plan for this Home, and as a result they have had more money in the treasury than at any previous time. In sending a quarterly sum recently, the treasurer told about this as follows:

"I'm proud to know we have doubled our contribution to the Orphans' Home this quarter, and hope to keep up the good work."

"One reason it was so good this quarter was that the third Sundays were fine days, with good attendances."

"I believe the Sunday School for the past two or three years, has given more than it ever has. We got so much ahead that we presented the church with a nice pulpit Bible last second Sunday. It cost $28.35. Then we had enough to pay for literature for the next quarter and $27.09 over."

These statements simply corroborate what has been said and written so many times, i. e., an offering can be contributed each month to Barium Springs and more money somehow becomes available for other purposes. It simply is a means of developing benevolent giving. Once the plan is in operation it is seldom discontinued unless some unexpected local expense makes it necessary.

Over $1,000 Increase In Bonds In A Month

On October 22nd, Government Bonds for Proposed Church Had Passed Sum of $21,100.00

In the September Messenger it was announced that $20,000.00 in government bonds of the Series F issue were in the hands of Barium Springs for a proposed church and educational building, but there was considerably more than a $1,000.00 increase in such securities within a month's time. On October 22nd, the bonds in hand numbered $21,100.00, with $7.80 of cash towards the next purchase.

On April 1st, the record showed this to be $15,100.00, so there has been a gain of $6,000.00 in a period of seven months. The advances have been gaining momentum all along.

All memorial contributions are going into bonds for that church, and then there have been contributions of bonds and money, some of which had the memorial thought behind them and others with no memorial idea attached.

Within the past month the following has arrived:

Mr. and Mrs. Coit Robinson, of Lowell, gave a $100.00 bond.

From Mrs. Bonnie Austin Petteway, of Charlotte, another $25.00 bond was received in memory of her father and mother, with the statement that she expected to follow this with more later. That is the second such donation from Mrs. Petteway.

Eugene Larry and Edward Bosworth, very young sons of Gene and Bobby Bosworth, brothers who graduated from Barium, sent a $25.00 bond.

W. Osborne Lee and family of Lumberton had a $100.00 Series E bond issued in the name of the Home.

Mrs. W. S. Wilson, of Davidson, sent a $100.00 check to be used in the new church.

The necessary blanks, properly made out in the corporate name of Barium Springs, will be furnished by Ernest Milton, Treasurer, Barium Springs, to any individual who wants to buy bonds for the proposed church or for any other need at Barium Springs. Individuals who have been purchasing these securities have been reading The Messenger and have had these made out in the name of "The Regents of the Orphans' Home, a corporation, Barium Springs, N. C."

Explanation Is Made of Thanksgiving Sums

Majority of Churches Have Made Best Responses In Recent Years.—170 Best in '42

On the third and fourth pages of this issue of The Messenger are a lot of figures, the biggest number dealing with Thanksgiving responses in 1941 and 1942, as well as the greatest donation of the past 18 years and the year in which the peak sum was contributed. There are 536 churches or missions listed as having participated in either of the last two Thanksgiving seasons, and if the name of any place is omitted it is because no Thanksgiving Offerings have been received for the past two years.

Back in 1934 the Synod of North Carolina appointed a special committee to emphasize the Thanksgiving Offering for Barium. That special group has since become a permanent committee on Orphanage work. It is extremely interesting that since this corps of individuals started functioning in 1934 that 328 of the 536 churches can boast of their greatest Thanksgiving Offerings, with 170 of those 328 going to their highest heights in 1942.

The year in which these 536 have given their greatest Thanksgiving Offerings and the number in each of the past 18 years follows:

Year	Number
1926	29
1927	50
1928	16
1929	17
1930	16
1931	4
1932	4
1933	6
1934	13
1935	18
1936	33
1937	7
1938	15
1939	22
1940	20
1941	30
1943	???

A detailed examination of individual churches will show that many of them were within a few cents, and others within a few dollars, of touching new zeniths in 1942. It is the hope here that members in all churches will do their best to reach the greatest heights ever in 1943.

News About Some of the Alumni of Barium

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

HOWARD COTTAGE

We wish to thank Mr. Johnston for taking us to the show to see "Dixie" Tuesday. We all thought it was grand.

We went bean-picking Monday. We picked fourteen bushels. We have plenty of beans to string. We string them in the afternoon. We have invited the Synod's boys to help us. They can do them as fast as we can. The Annie Louise girls are helping us, too. We have almost finished them.

We got our report cards Wednesday. The following girls made the honor roll: Hazel Creech, third grade; Betty McMannen, Mary Frances Price, and Louise Campbell, fourth grade, and Shirley Inman, fifth grade. We are very proud of them. All of us will try to make it next time.

Some of the girls have had visits from their people. They are Louise Campbell, Florence Andrews, Jennie Lee Phillips, Hazel Creech and Shirley Inman.

It has been raining today so we have to string beans inside.

PRINTING OFFICE NEWS

As you know, this is the backbone of The Messenger. When we say that we mean to say a few kind words for our workers.

As some of you know, we are paying tribute to "Hungry" Harold Myatt, one of our fellow workers. "Hungry," one day while roaming through the fields of corn, took a liking to be a farmer. He is now one of Mr. Clark's boys. "Hungry" was a "printer's devil," a fine one if I knew one. He could make a dirty roller shine. But "Hungry" is gone now and we have two to replace him, Donald Mitchell and John Meroney. They are two fine lads who have been with us six weeks.

"Ole" Paul Reid, one of the linotype boys, has just knocked off of work. I can say one thing for Paul, he is always here when you don't need him!

Ray Lewis, the boy who works five minutes a day and is asking for shorter hours, is the hardest worker down here; you should see him work to get out of work!

We tried to find Earl Allen right now but we decided he was asleep and we are talking in whispers.

Our mighty quarterback, James Reid, has gone to play against Children's Home. Donald is there, too. They started to take just those two and leave all the other boys at home, but the coaches decided to take the rest of the team because our stars might get tired. As you know, and as we said, they are a team in themselves. Now all that talk about not taking the other boys is what they said. They might have been talking through their heads, just in case any Children's Home scouts were around!

Mr. Kyles, our boss, said hello.

—Earl Allen

INFIRMARY

We have a few boys in bed on account of eating green hickory nuts. Better wait until they are ripe, boys. They are having a good time making airplanes.

We have received our first report cards. They are pretty good but could be better. Maybe we will improve next time.

We had our first home football game last Friday and were sorry to lose. Our boys played good, though, and we hope to win next time.

Mr. Parker preached to us last week and we enjoyed his sermons very much. Hope to have you again some time, Mr. Parker.

We are having cold weather these mornings and find it hard to get up but it is usually warmer by dinner-time so we don't mind it so much.

Our campaign for the purpose of selling war bonds and stamps turned out O. K., and we are glad to help our Uncle Sam in his time of need.

Dr. Martin has been here to clean our teeth but he is through now. All the teeth look brighter. Dr. Martin, you did your job.

Miss Frances O'Kelly went home last week-end to see T. L. O'Kelly who was home on leave. We hope she enjoyed her visit.

Mrs. Milton, the wife of one of the workers upon the campus, is in the hospital at Charlotte. We hope she will be well soon.

We had a short visit from "Aunt" Blanche Feimster and enjoyed it very much.

WOMEN'S BUILDING

Just at this time we are being inspired by the messages of Rev. J. K. Parker of Centre Church near Mooresville. We find his practical application of the truths concerning "The Word of God", which has been the subject of his discussions each evening, most helpful.

On Friday of this week we are looking forward to the first football game to be played on our field. Naturally we are anticipating a wonderful time. We opened the season with a 0-0 tie with Harding High. According to the reports of the seniors who attended the game in Charlotte our boys gave them a good game.

We were delighted to have some of the members of the board as guests in our building. Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Robinson, and Miss Johnson have lodged with us a number of times since they have been on the board and we have always looked forward to their coming.

The maples on the campus are very lovely just now. This is the season of the year that is so colorful because of the beautiful autumn leaves.

Report cards are due next week. We are all anxious to see them so that we may know how we stand in our classes. We all hope to get S's but know that such a thing is hardly probable.

RUMPLE HALL

We will give a complete list of the girls in our cottage now:

Annie Marie Andrews, Jean Stepp, Lucille Brown, Nellie Isenhour, Dorothy Shepherd, Mary Morgan, Elsie Vest, Callie Dunn, Edna Thomas, Frances Rhyne, Annie Star Langley, Gwendolyn Landrum, Jean Turlington, Willie Mae Robinson, Lorena Hall, Elizabeth Johnson, Kathleen Monroe, Betty Sue Wolf, Lucille Holt, Helen Morgan, Joyce Katen, Betty Lou Williams, Vivian Jacumin, Melva Powell, Ann Pope, Ann Wicker, Frances Adams, Bessie Dishman, Evelyn Coates and Margaret Bullard. Mrs. R. A. Thompson is our matron. We like her very much.

The following girls have had visits from their people: Annie Star Langley's mother and father, Annie Marie Andrews' father, and Dorothy Shepherd's two sisters and her brother.

As you know our football season has started and our first game here will be Friday with Children's Home. (Come on, boys, beat 'em).

We have one girl at the Infirmary and we hope she will be up soon.

ANNIE LOUISE

You haven't heard from us since school started. We have been very busy with our school work.

We haven't "done" so very many beans this fall. We have had some painting done inside our house. Our playroom was sanded. We are so proud of it. Miss Hardin has just finished some pretty chintz curtains.

Pattie Inman has been in the Infirmary about three weeks with earache. She hopes to be able to come up this week.

Carol Jean Andrews has gotten a clothing box from some friends. Everything she got was so nice. We are anxious to get the rest of our new clothes. We always look forward in the fall and spring to getting our clothing boxes. Nothing gives us a greater thrill.

Our revival is going on this week. Mr. Parker is our guest minister conducting the services. He has helped us a great deal and we hope he will want to come back to visit us again soon.

Some friends from Wilmington sent us some candy last week. We all wish to thank them for it.

Miss Louise Everett, one of our substitute matrons who lives in our cottage, was away last week-end. She visited Lorene Brown in Whiteville. Lorene was a classmate of hers here.

Miss Greene, Barium's music teacher, went home last weekend.

Pattie Inman and Shirley Thomas are taking piano this year. Shirley expects to play at the first club meeting next week.

We like our new teachers, Miss Koon and Miss Vidal. We are glad to have Miss Brandon back in grammar school.

In the war loan drive, our girls bought about six dollars in stamps last week. We all have stamp books. We are trying very hard to fill them up.

You will be hearing from us again next month if the spooks and goblins don't get us Halloween night. It isn't far off, you know.

SYNODS COTTAGE

We have gone to school a whole month now. Report cards will soon be ready. We are all hoping to have a real good one this month.

We went to town in the truck last Wednesday afternoon to be fitted for our winter shoes. The man at Belk's let us all look at our shoes in the X-ray machine. It was fun to be able to see our toes through our shoes. We have not worn our new shoes yet, but we will put them on as soon as it gets cold enough. We just can't wait to wear them.

The dentist has been fixing our teeth. Some of us had to have some pulled. We put our teeth that the dentist pulled under our pillow and sometimes we found a piece of candy in the morning. Miss Taylor says she just can't imagine where the candy comes from.

John Thomas Jordan has come to live with us. He seems to like staying with us. We are glad to have him.

Come to see us when you can

BABY COTTAGE

If we can be still long enough we will write you a letter.

We have lots of things to tell you but Donnie Campbell keeps saying, "Ookie! Ookie!" Charles Creech gets in the empty clothes box, and Donnie gets in, too. They say, "Bye," wave their little hands and off they go, rocking and singing "Wocky bye baby."

Ralph Huddleston and Clyde Andrews pull the strings out of their shoes! Loretta and Kate tried to wash their faces and they don't like a wash rag in such tiny hands. May Rose Privett rocks and pats her little feet on the floor, but we will write between time.

Jimmy Campbell's sisters came to see him Saturday. Idell and Clyde Andrews looked towards the big tree by the road and saw Daddy out there, and did they run?

Payton Miller's "dood" old daddy came to see him Saturday.

We had some visitors from Kannapolis, too. They thought our little pink and blue beds, and pink, blue and yellow chairs were pretty. Miss Ann Fayssoux Johnson has been helping us to get our cottage so cheery and pretty. Santa will like it when he comes Christmas.

Linda Inman had a visit from her daddy, too. Charles Creech was glad to see his sisters when they came a few days ago, and Jerry Thomas fairly flew to the seat under the big tree when "his people" came to see him.

When Jimmy Campbell was coming from the dining room the other day his sister said Jimmy, you've torn a hole in your pants" and Jimmy said, "That's O. K. I'm wearing new underwear, too."

We went to walk the other day and went to the little cemetery. Bobby Terye and Shirley Johnson were walking 'round a grave and Bobby stopped and said, "Scuse me, please." Babies like us know and feel something about a mound in a grave yard. We know it best as grave yard. We've seen a big hole in the ground and seen it filled up with a white box. See what we mean?

Charles Creech and Donnie Campbell are only two years old. The other night we heard a noise in the bath room and when we looked to see, Donnie and Charles had slipped out of bed and Donnie was standing on our little bath room steppladder, looking in the mirror combing his hair and Charles was mopping up the floor with a wash rag!

was graduated with a commission of Second Lieutenant. He was sent to the Southwest Pacific sector in October of 1941, and had been actively engaged in many battles before he sacrificed his life.

He is survived by his parents; a brother, Captain Wilson W. Lowrance, of El Paso, Texas, who was here when the message came about his brother's death, and two sisters, Mrs. Joe Rhyne of Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. Bruce Parcell, whose husband is a major in charge of the air field at Clearwater, Fla.

gents, too, to take care of the meeting of the Synod of North Carolina in September of 1944, that body recently accepting the invitation to meet here.

Among other things, plans were outlined for the approaching Thanksgiving offering emphasis, for it is during that period of the year when 50 per cent of the contributions from churches is received.

It is the policy of the Board to have some department's work presented at alternating meetings. The spring meeting was so full that no such presentation was made, but this fall a detailed discussion of the functions and work of the case work department was offered to the Regents present. Miss Rebekah Carpenter is Barium Springs' case worker.

Rev. S. H. Fulton, D. D., Laurinburg, presided as president, and Mrs. Coit Robinson, Lowell, was secretary.

their terms do not expire until later. The full personnel of the 10-man committee follows:

General chairman, J. Archie Cannon, Concord.

Albemarle Presbytery, Colon McLean, Washington.

Concord, Wm. A. Sherrill, Salisbury.

Fayetteville, J. B. McCallum, Jr., Maxton.

Granville, C. Spears Hicks, Durham.

Kings Mountain, Hugh A. Query, Gastonia.

Mecklenburg, Rufus A. Grier, Charlotte.

Orange, Ralph M. Holt, Burlington.

Wilmington, J. B. Huntington, Wilmington.

Winston-Salem, Thos. L. Wood, Winston-Salem.

These men are now contacting all of the pastors of the Synod and are asking for the appointment of local committees for every church and mission point in order that the local groups will see that every Presbyterian in the Synod has an opportunity to make a 1943 Thanksgiving Offering. They are getting all of this lined up, so that the proper emphasis can be placed upon the work of this Home at Barium Springs during the time allotted to it by Synod.

After the local committees' names are furnished officials at Barium Springs, leaflets will be sent to them for distribution and use during the Thanksgiving season. To the Auxiliaries have already gone over 25,000 booklets entitled "Pride and Appreciation of Alumni", along with envelopes for Auxiliary members, and soon the remaining Thanksgiving Offering envelopes will be mailed to the pastors so as to be available for use in their churches at the right time.

paper, $50.00 apiece from two individuals belonging to the same church. The other donations making up the amount in hand the latter part of October will be tabulated in the next issue of The Messenger.

These are the vanguard gifts of what is expected to be a banner Thanksgiving report for this Home during the season of 1943. Last year, the churches sent $56,013.38 and from individuals $6,285.20 was welcomed as 1942 Thanksgiving responses for a grand total of $62,298.58. That was the greatest Thanksgiving aggregate ever received and more than likely it will be surpassed when the final tabulation has been made of the 1943 reports. That is the trend in the pre-season gifts recorded at Barium Springs.

MY THANKSGIVING OFFERING

Ernest Milton, Treasurer,
Presbyterian Orphans' Home,
Barium Springs, N. C.

Dear Mr. Milton:

Enclosed is my check for $..... a personal Thanksgiving Offering to the Home.

Name

Address

Home-Coming Day Is Slated for Nov. 24th

No Elaborate Program Is Planned for Returning Visitors.—
Game Will be at 3:30

The 1943 Home-coming of Barium Springs alumni is one of particularly great convenience this year, for the day is Wednesday, November 24th, immediately before Thanksgiving. Usually, Homecoming is on a Friday, but by having it over the holiday season, those alumni who can possibly
"make" it can use a holiday period and remain at their Home through Thanksgiving Day.

Many of the boys and girls - close to 180 of them - are in the services of the country and with few exceptions none of those will be able to attend Home-coming.
However, those nearer by might be able to visit their Home by bus and can join in the festivities of the day. No elaborate program is planned, for this is home to these boys

Orphanage Work Secretary Says:

Dear Friends and Co-workers:

Another cycle of time has rolled around; Thanksgiving is approaching, and we once again turn our thoughts to our orphan children at Barium.

An appeal for the Presbyterian Orphans' Home is particularly inviting opportunity for investment of liberal gifts at the Thanksgiving season, and let us consider it more than merely a responsibility but a privilege to which we eagerly accept in practicing on this Thanksgiving the "pure and undefiled religion" which consists in visiting the fatherless with our financial resources and sharing with them our material goodness.

At this season, the management of the Home looks to the Presbyterians of North Carolina for more than half of the contributions for the year for the support of the fatherless and motherless ones

PRIDE AND APPRECIATION OF BARIUM SPRINGS

Voluntarily Voiced by the Alumni

The boys and girls who have been one-time residents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home at Barium Springs are always writing back to members of the staff. Over a period of about three months, a few extracts from their many, many letters were copied, without the consent of the writers and entirely without their knowledge that this was being done. The problem was one of condensation and selection, for their words of pride in, appreciation of, and loyalty to their Home could easily have filled a much larger booklet than the 11 pages which were allotted for their use in the 1943 Thanksgiving publicity.

Approximately 30,000 of these booklets were printed. The greater majority was sent to the Auxiliaries, to be used in their fall programs, and to each individual to whom the Thanksgiving envelopes and literature were sent a copy of this booklet was enclosed. Almost 75,000 leaflets were printed for distribution to the various congregations, the material in these simply being extracts from the larger booklet volume.

In order that the general public might become more familiar with the thinking of the alumni, the series of quotations is being used in full in the November Messenger. Every inch of space in this copy could have easily been filled with kindred statements. Not a one was solicited. Care was taken that the alumni did not know of the plan, for it was the desire of officials that no comment be inspired, for the value of the booklet would have been discounted had this been known.

As Presbyterian supporters read these comments, it is felt that there will be a large sense of pride that they have the privilege of maintaining a Home which ranks so high in the hearts of the alumni, a place for which they frequently get homesick, and a Home toward which they display the highest kind of allegiance.

These voluntary comments follow:

"I wouldn't take all the money in the world for the time that I spent at Barium, and hope to visit you on my first furlough. There's no place in the United States, in my opinion, that needs to be fought for more than Barium, and I'll be glad to give my life just in order that the splendid work that is being carried on, and has been carried on at Barium, may be continued."

"I am writing you this letter knowing how sad some of the seniors will be tonight after graduation, having to leave the home that some of them hold so dear, and where most of them were raised ever since they were just little tots. That's the saddest moment in a man's life, having to leave his home. I can remember how badly I felt when I left that morning. You soon get over it but you will always have a feeling inside of you of wanting to come back."

"Five of us were together to spend a very happy evening talking about our experiences and about the good old times we had at Barium."

"If I can send any money to help out, please let me know. I sure would like to help because I was at Barium myself."

"I know that they (the graduates) will have success in anything they undertake to do because they were raised at Barium."

"Spirit and teamwork is what every team needs to win and it's the thing that's going to carry our army to victory, with God's help."

"Give my love to all Barium mothers. I miss you all so much. I sure love old Barium."

"There are a lot of boys interested in us, and I spend a lot of my time telling them of our life at Barium."

"We ended our conversation by wishing that we were still kids just starting out at Barium. I don't think that there is a boy or girl who has gone away from Barium who doesn't wish the same."

"It seems impossible to some of my shipmates that there could be an Orphanage anywhere that is unlike those which are portrayed by the pictures. They are amazed that anyone can look back and thank God for the privilege of having lived there."

"I have seen a lot of pretty country, but I guess I saw so much of Barium I still like it best."

From a wife of a Barium boy: "My husband is a good person, and is well liked by his men and officers. I am sure that he will never depart from the good training that he received at Barium in his early years. We have Barium to be grateful for."

"I wouldn't take anything in this world for the years that I spent there, and I will always call it home. I still continue to go to church and read my Testament every day. It sure does console me. It brings back memories of Barium."

"I will be getting leave in August and I am longing for Barium right now. This time I want to get some of that soil and put in my shoes to steady me for the next invasion we have.
It was because I learned to obey orders at Barium that I am alive today. * * * Barium is blessed so much. We didn't realize when we were there what a lucky bunch we were, always happy and enjoying life. I pray every night that God will keep Barium in the same manner He has always kept it - just as beautiful and lovely as ever."

"It seems as if there has been an umbrella

Marion Chuurch in Coneord
Presbytery included Barium Springs in its 1943-1944 budget for a "special" of $200.00 and has already paid the pledge in full.

Royal Oaks Auxiliary is a new organization in Coneord Presbytery but has started the plan of sending $1.00 a month to the Home.

Commonwealth Avenue Sunday School in Mecklenburg Presbytery has reinstated the Offering-per-month plan and sent $17.00 as its October gift.
They formerly did this at Commonwealth Avenue, but for a year tried the fifth Sunday plan.
The results of the earlier procedure were apparently more effective.

Hallsville Sunday School in Wilmington Presbytery has started the Offering-per-month plan and contributed $7.45 on the third Sunday in October.

25 Leading Churches of 1942 Thanksgiving

Membership Also Given for Top 25 Churches in the Amount Contributed

Since the 1943 Thanksgiving season is near at hand, a tabulation has been prepared of the leading 25 Churches in the 1942 Thanksgiving response to Barium Springs.
The memberships of the churches, as they appeared in the 1943 Minutes of the General Assembly, have been listed, for it so happens that occasionally churches with smaller enrollments exceed the generosity of the larger churches.

While the listing is on a numerical basis of the amount contributed last Thanksgiving, the
per capita amount given. However, some churches much smaller than any of the 25 recounted would be ahead of any of these. At present the idea is to give monetary leaders and those 25 accordingly

Memorial Service For Lt. Fred Lowrance

Held in Little Joe's Church On October 30th, With Rev.
Thos. C. Cook in Charge

Many friends and relatives on Sunday morning, October 31, attended a beautiful memorial service at Little Joe's Presbyterian Church at Barium Springs in memory of the late Second Lieut. Fred Lowrance, who lost his life on July 30th in battle in the Southwest Pacific theatre of the war. The service was conducted by Rev. Thos.
C. Cook, pastor, who serves the church of which Lt. Lowrance was a member.

Rev. Mr. Cook opened the services by singing "The Prayer Perfect", and held in his hands the music of that song that Lt. Low-rance himself had frequently used when singing in the church choir.
Mr. Cook explained that the thoughts of the song were those

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

ANNIE LOUISE

We have had several girls here to get the show ticket. They are: Mary, Bowles, Leitha Walker, Pattie Inman, Geraldine Katen, Aline Thomas, Helen Hawley and Mary Elizabeth McNeill. We are very proud of them.

Several children, Jackie Porterfield, Sylvia Sue Buie, Shirley Thomas and Helen Hawley went to Morganton and Davidson to give a Thanksgiving program. They reported a nice time.

We have all gotten two new pairs of shoes and a pretty brand new cap. We sure do look cute, we think. We sure are proud of them.

We have been to some football games. Although we didn't win them all we surely had a swell time. We surely were glad we beat Davidson and of course you know Statesville couldn't beat us. It was a scoreless tie, 0-0. It was very exciting.

Have you all heard the latest moron joke? Here is how it was told to us by our matron, Miss Hardin. "A man came to his refrigerator to get some ice, and found this moron sitting in it. He said, 'What are you doing in my refrigerator? Get out and don't you ever let me catch you in here again'. The next night the man went again to his refrigerator and there sat the moron. The man said, 'I thought I told you to stay out of my refrigerator.' 'Yes, sir. You did but isn't this a 'Westinghouse' 'Yes, it is.' The little moron replied, 'Well, I'm only Westing. (resting)'. 'Ha! Ha! Ha!'

It isn't long until Thanksgiving now. We sure have lots to be thankful for. Say, and only seven weeks until old Santa Claus is coming. (I'm going to start being good.) You know he only likes good boys and girls.

We went to the show a few weeks ago and saw "Nasty Nuisance". "Mr." Hitler, Mussa, and the Emperor of Japan played. We sure enjoyed watching "Mr." Hitler with his head stuck in the ground and tootsies in the air.

We sure are all stained up with pecans. We have been to the orchard and it looks like we picked up all the green ones, but we surely are having some be-u-tiful apples. Our cheeks are about as rosy as they are.

"We-uns" will be seeing "you-uns". Come when you can (if I were you I would ask Santa Claus for a car and some gas coupons to come to see us. Tell him not to forget to give you an extra set of tires).

INFIRMARY

Clyde Reid has spent a few weeks here in the Infirmary and is looking better now.

We are glad to have Amos Hardy back from the Hospital. "Hurry and get well, Amos".

We had several nights of Hal-loween celebration, and the Infirmary was "overrun" with patients afterwards. They registered to fifty-three, but by Tuesday night they had all vanished.

Miss Lucky has had good luck with her flowers this fall and has sold most of them to the Johnston Greenhouse.

We were very glad to have Lt. R. G. Calhoun on the campus for a few hours and hope he can come again when he can stay longer.

Football is the leading sport now and especially when Barium wins.

November 24th is Home-coming and we hope to see a lot of old Barium boys and girls again.

Thanksgiving is just about here and we have a lot to be thankful for.

RUMPLE HALL

Here we are again with news about our Hallowe'en party we had last Friday night. We each invited a boy. We played games directed by Miss Clark while Mrs. Thompson, who gave us the party, played the piano. About 9:30 we had refreshments of ice-cream, cake and candy in Hallowe'en colors.

We made all the decorations for the sitting room. And, if we do say so, we had many compliments about them.

We want to thank Miss Clark, Ruth May and Mary Alice Stevens for helping us. We also enjoyed having Miss Carpenter stop in for refreshments.

Mrs. Thompson said that we all acted so nice that she would give us another one around Christmas. "Can't wait". We also want to thank Mrs. Thompson for giving us so good a time.

We were so glad to see Mr. Calhoun today and we wish he could stay longer.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

You ought to come to see us in our new winter schoolshirts. They are checked, red, green, blue, yellow, brown, just most every color. We think they are just beautiful. We fixed four pumpkins on Hallowe'en and Dewie Belle Buie put candles in them and put them in our dormitory while we told stories. They looked awful funny when they were all lighted up.

Woodie and Frankie Smith had a visit from their daddy Saturday. He brought their little sister to see them. She is just three years old. They had not seen her since she was quite small. Woodie and Frankie certainly did enjoy their visit.

Come to see us whenever you can.

—The Wigglers

BABY COTTAGE

The girls have their new shoes. Never mind, the boys will get theirs, too, then we can stick out our feet and show off. "Just wait, girls," say the boys.

We had a Hallowe'en party and we dressed up and said speeches and had candy and cakes to eat. Miss McNeill, our Kindergarten teacher, gave us the party and we had a good time.

At night the big girls dressed up and put on ugly faces. We laughed and laughed.

Boyce Dean Smith had company last Saturday, including his father, sister and Aunt, and they gave him some candy for all the babies.

Myrtle Rushing's mother came to see her and gave all the little girls a hair comb - pink, red, green and yellow ones.

We have some pretty new bed spreads from Gastonia and Lexington. We are so proud of them.

Mrs. Massey's son, Lt. Massey, brought us some bananas and oranges.

This morning we heard the piano. It sounded like kitten on the keys, and little two year old Donnie Privette had opened the piano, climbed up on the chair. His little fingers were pounding on the keys and he was singing "Birdie, Birdie, I tan see 'oo way high up in dat tee." We just let him alone.

Pride and Appreciation of prayer over me during the campaign; keep praying."

"I really didn't know how to appreciate Barium until I got here."

"There have been some very unusual questions put to me about Barium and in most all cases I gave them an answer that made them agree with me that the Orphanage is a very good place. They have also asked me how I got to grow so big and ugly. My answer was that food was swell and the milk plentiful."

"There is a boy in my hut that used to be in an Orphanage in Maryland and he and I together are slowly but surely getting the boys straightened out about Orphanages. I told them I would not take anything in the world for the time I spent there. I really mean that, too. I don't guess they realize how much the training I got there helps me. * * * I hope I can keep up the good name that so many of our boys started for Barium; but rather, the name that they have kept for Barium."

"I think of my Barium home always. To me it has become the most beautiful place in the world."

"I have started off at $70.00 a month. I do not know whether my salary will decrease or increase, but whatever happens I intend to keep my pledge of one-tenth to God."

"I think about how thankful I am that I was brought up in an Orphanage. I don't think I'd trade it for anything. I've been taught what is right and wrong and I try to live that way. I'll never be able to repay everyone for what they have done for me. * * * I don't have a chance to go to church often, but I can still pray and read the Bible myself."

"I know that I haven't lived the best life of a Christian but the background I received at Barium has stayed with me. Since we have been here I have seen miracles performed and I know that they just didn't happen."

"It seems like every time I am offered a drink those Sunday School lessons pop into my mind very quickly and very vividly. * * * Every boy I run around with drinks a little and they ask me time and time again to drink with them but I have always refused. It seems as if I can see a light of respect in their faces."

"I shall continue my membership in Little Joe's Church and would like to send something to the church for the next church year."

"When I was at Barium I loved the Home very much but really didn't know how much until I left it."

"When I try to express my gratitude for all the opportunities received at Barium, it seems impossible. Just hope that through a wholesome and Christain life its influence might be better known. It shall always hold a warm place in my heart and be a model for our home in years to come."

"Am sending $5.00 for Little Joe's Church; it is part of my pledge. Please give two of the five to the Boys' Bible Class."

"We have churches down here and I enjoy attending every time I get a chance. I go every Sunday except when I am on guard duty or some other detail."

"I don't know just yet what my pay will be, but just as soon as I get it I will send one-tenth of it."

"I stand up for Barium and what it has done for me. I can never repay in words or money or in any way possible. I believe that God is really behind the whole plan at Barium because there is something you get there that no man can take from you."

"One of our boys made the remark that he felt sorry for me because I was the only one who didn't smoke, curse or never had a yarn to tell about getting drunk, so I replied that I was very sorry for them because they could not resist the temptations of life. Since then I have made a good many friends and hardly ever hear a curse from them."

"There's one thing I learned at Barium that helps me out a lot here, and that is the 'discipline.' It's pitiful to watch boys here, who have never had any kind of discipline, try to do or not do things they are told."

"Any small success that I may be able to achieve shall be due entirely to your splendid work. Thanks for everything and especially for having confidence in me when I made mistakes."

"I finished my 16 weeks' school last night, but I didn't feel half as bad as when I finished at Barium."

"I have never said much toward thanking you for all you and Barium have done for me. There is no use trying to thank you because there are no words that can tell you the feeling in the old Barium graduates' hearts. The only way to tell you what Barium is, is to say that it's paradise and let it go at that. Thanks for everything."

"You don't realize how good those 'old' matrons and teachers (as we sometimes referred to them) were to you until you get out and try to understand other people. I'm telling you it's hard to do."

"I have met up with some fellows who have a very low opinion of an Orphanage, but I've changed their minds a good bit by telling them of Barium. Every time I mention home (Barium) they ask me about it and I tell them a lot."

"I really don't believe we are praying for our boys and our country enough. It seems that all the people study about is having a big time and going places. That's why so many ships and planes are lost. If people would pray more there would be a great difference in this world."

"I pray to God every day that the day will speedily come when all of us will be together, celebrating the glorious victory, which surely will be ours, because if peace, freedom, love and happiness isn't the right way of life, I don't care for any other kind."

"I'd be worth millions if I had a nickel for every time I've wished I was back in school again. Those were the 'grand old days'."

"Boy would I love to see Barium again. I get quite blue when I think of what swell times I've had there. My husband thinks quite a lot of Barium, too. He's in Africa now. * * * My only regret is that I didn't get to get married at Barium, but my future husband couldn't get a leave, so I just went to him."

"My stay at Barium has helped me quite a lot since I have been in the Navy - in the line of making friends and things like that."

"I know the boys and girls who graduate are going to miss Barium and I know that they would like to stay on there. I sure did when I finished and only wish I were there now."

"I want to express my sincere gratitude to you for the things that you have done for me in my stay at Barium. I shall never forget you and your splendid way of doing things. * * * I will always hold the memories of you and Barium and the people of Barium deep and close in my heart. I know how much it has meant to me to have stayed there."

"I will probably run up against many temptations, but I feel sure that all the splendid training I received at Barium will help me from yielding to them. Tell all the workers I thank them with all my heart for the fine job they did when they taught me all I know."

"About this time of year (right after graduation) I begin to get a little homesick for good old Barium."

"I can honestly say that I could write a love letter about Barium, for I do love that place."

"One of my corporals asked me where I was from and I told him about Barium. I also told him that I wouldn't take anything in the world for the time I spent there. He said that it was the first time he had ever heard a person from an Orphanage say they liked it. Barium is a fine place and I think of it a lot."

"It makes me proud to know that I went to school with such a fine bunch of boys that has come out of Barium."

"I realize I will be confronted with many temptations in all sorts of disguises, but please don't worry about me. I think I'm prepared to deal with them all."

"My wife is in love with Barium, as I knew she would be. It certainly does the old heart good to see the homestead."

"I sincerely hope the war and its results have not, and will not, cripple the operation of Barium Springs."

"I really enjoy 'Stars and Stripes' and I always look for some Barium names. But The Barium Messenger comes first. I'm enclosing $1.00 for ours."

"It (Barium) is one of the best places for anyone to think about, and to also know that some of your time had been spent in such a wonderful place."

"Even by being away from Barium I have always and always will think of it as my home and will try and carry the splendid name that goes with all alumni that go out from there. More than once the name 'Barium Springs' has helped where anything else would have failed. It's something that one cannot buy. This makes me, like all other Barium boys and girls, more than glad to get in here and do my bit, whatever it might be, to help make our country a place where others may get the chance that we have had because of the many fine people who made it possible, there and elsewhere."

"Everyone here likes to hear me talk about Barium and I really enjoy telling them about my fine home. When I start I usually keep talking for an hour or so and no one seems to get tired of it, even though I do it every night. I have not found a single person from North Carolina. I met one boy from California and he is real nice and a church boy, too. He and I went to the Soldiers' Club Saturday night and drank a quart of milk apiece." (Ed's. note; The word milk was underscored by the fellow who wrote the letter.)

"It will soon be graduation at Barium and I wish I were there. It's been four years since I graduated. I spent my happiest years at Barium and I have always considered it as my only home."

"You sure sent out some good advice on the liquor question, but we couldn't get any here if we wanted it. Even if we could I'm sure I would not touch it."

"I owe Barium a very great deal. I was very glad to get a chance to talk of Barium in one of the churches last Thanksgiving, and I hope I get another chance some other time."

"The army is just fine, but I still haven't been able to find a place that I like as well as Barium. * * * I go to Church every Sunday and enjoy it very much."

"The training I got while at Barium has really taken me places and when people ask me where I am from, I don't hesitate to tell them Barium, because I am proud to be from such a fine place."

"I miss Barium a lot and I sincerely wish that I lived close enough that I could visit there oftener, I am planning on trying to get a job somewhere nearby after the war is over. The main reason for this idea is because I want, more than anything else, for my boy to go to school at Barium."

"This is a second Barium (so many Barium graduates at the same place) but it can never take the place of Barium in my heart."

"I want you to know how very much I enjoyed my visit to Barium. Certainly gives one a proud feeling to know that it's their home. * * *

I enjoyed those meals. Barium food always did taste twice as good as any other."

"The enemy must have forgotten that Barium Springs raises men to take it and dish it out and we will keep it up until they are whipped good and proper. I will certainly be glad when I can get back to visit my dearly beloved home. I have traveled far and wide but have never forgotten my good old Barium home and never will. I truly believe that it was the way I was raised at Barium that helped me through life because if I had not been taught to go to church while growing up I would never have thought that going to church and listening to the pastor would have done any good. But, thanks to my good old Barium home, I was taught while little and it is still in me."

Bonds for New Church Now Total $21,700.00

Within Past 25 Days These Securities for Proposed Church Building Increased $600.00

Series F bonds purchased in the name of "The Regents or the Orphans Home, a corporation, Barium Springs, N. C." and sent to officials here by individuals, plus purchases made by the authorities at Barium Springs with memorial and special contributions for the contemplated church and educational building here, totaled $21,700.00 on November 16th, with a cash amount of $35.30 in hand toward the next bond purchase.

This is an increase of over $600.00 in these securities within a period of 25 days, for on October 22nd the bonds aggregated $21,100.00, with $7.80 of cash on hand. These monthly accounts of the fund are revealed because of the widespread interest that is being manifested in the needed facilities which will so much enhance the spiritual training of the boys and girls in The Home, as well as being useful in such care during many, many years to come.

Four separate bonds were received during the last 25 days in memory of individuals. These are recounted below, for all the cash donations in memory of friends and loved ones are monthly listed elsewhere in The Messenger:

The Ola Warner Bible Class of the Hickory First Presbyterian Church sent a $25.00 bond in memory of the late Mrs. Annie Richards Hay, of Liberty Hill, S. C. Mrs. Hay was the mother of the Hickory First pastor, Rev. John R. Hay, D. D., former president of the Board of Regents.

A $25.00 bond was forwarded in memory of the late Mr. J. J. Sumner, of Raleigh, who died on January 9, 1942. The sender of this tribute was a former associate, Mr. B. B. Plyler, of Wilson.

Two $100.00 bonds came in memory of the late Miss Mattie Livingston, of Wagram. These were given by a surviving brother and sister, Mr. John P. Livingston and Miss Sallie Livingston, of Wagram.

More than likely other bonds will be arriving soon. In response to an offer made in the last issue of The Messenger to furnish proper blanks with the correct corporate title of the Home, a request has been received that one set of blanks be forwarded. No doubt other requests will follow, and compliance will immediately be made.

Constant Needs

Frequent requests reach Barium Springs as to what is needed, and this article in The Messenger can take care of some future requests of the same nature.

A constant and never-ending need is linens of all sorts - bed spreads, quilts, sheets, towels, tablecloths, table napkins, etc., but no pillow cases. As for the sizes of the spreads, quilts and sheets, no specific size need be named, for there are beds of all sizes for which such articles can be used, since the family age range is from two to 18 years.

Another big need here is canned good such as jellies, jams, fruits and preserves. The local canning plant takes care of surpluses, but very few of the four items mentioned above are handled. These are especially needed for the Saturday and Sunday night cottage suppers as sandwich spreads for the children.

Synod's Giving Shows Increase In October

The Presbyterian Orphans' Home at Barium Springs enters the Thanksgiving month of November with the feeling that the regular giving through October 30th can be interpreted as a gauge to the expectancy of the Home in the approaching 1943 Thanksgiving offering. The gain by Synod in seven months of regular giving was only a few dollars shy of a $4,000.00 increase. It was $3,977.94, to be exact.

A substantial part of this increase occurred in October, when an increase of $1,095.99 was noted for the single month, after the income had fallen down in September. It may be that some gifts that would normally have arrived in September reached Barium Springs in October to make that a good month - the best one so far experienced. Too, a few scattering Thanksgiving returns were in hand, but for the most part these were individual personal gifts, to be credited to specific churches. All told, $334.75 of Thanksgiving Offering had been received by October 30th through the Presbyteries.

Presbytery	August Receipts Member for Year.	Amount Per Member.	Re- ceived Per Member.	Total Per
W.-Salem	$297.98	6 c	39 c	39 c

Synod $5,582.66 6 c 28.9c
Concord includes $225.00 Thanksgiving offering; Fayetteville $8.25 and Orange $1.50.

Of the regular total of $26,681.91, Sunday Schools had sent $13,311.85; Church budgets had appropriated $9,080.39 and $4,289.67 had come from Auxiliaries. That works out for respective percentages of 49.9%, 34% and 16.1% of the receipts. Detail on this follows:

Presbytery	Ch.	S.S.	Aux.

Both communications were glowing tributes to the deceased officer's character, valor and leadership.

Major Zimmer told Mr. and Mrs. Lowrance in his letter that during

BIRTHS.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Clarke, of Route 3, Statesville, announce the birth of a daughter, Linda Wade, on October 21st. Mrs. Clarke is the former Nettie Miller of the class of 1932.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Jackins, of Barium Springs, announce the birth of a daughter, Jo Ann, on October 21st. Mr. Jackins is better known to the majority as "Buck" and finished here in 1927.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Donaldson, of Statesville, announce the birth of a son, Charles LaFayette, on October 29th. Mr. Donaldson's nickname is "Toe" and by that the alumni can identify the father.

NEW RECRUITS.

Dick Parrish in the Marines and Herman Clark in the Navy are the two Barium alumni among the latest recruits for Uncle Sam.

PROMOTIONS.

Latest promotions with which we have become familiar include Julius Kinard to Captain; Nelson Farmer to Corporal; Ray Norman to Sergeant; Richard Shoaf to S-1-C; George Lewis and Donny Bolton to privates first class, and Hazel Simmons, whose title is probably the same, to assistant to the chief nurse.

VISITORS.

the first weeks of July "Fred took an active part in the strenuous Munda Trail battles with many hardships and the fanatical, harassing Jap night attacks. We had a short rest period on Rendova and it was my privilege at that time to recommend him for a promotion. I regret that he cannot receive the pleasures of higher rank, so well merited and deserved."

Mr. Cook mentioned a good many displays of thoughtfulness on the part of Lt. Lowrance, one of which was his intention of enlisting his brother and two sisters in furnishing a room in the new church at Barium in honor of his mother and father. He had said that he wanted to "give flowers to the living and not to the dead" and wanted this room furnished while they were still living. Lt. Lowrance had planned to match dollar for dollar anything that the other three children would contribute, and was planning for a total of $300 to be spent for such a room. He never had time to attend to this after receiving a letter from his brother, Capt. Wilson Lowrance, to the effect that the other three would give $150.00, but the surviving captain has said that his brother's wishes would be carried out.

In closing the services, Mr. Cook read a prayer which was found in a scrapbook which Lt. Lowrance started in 1938, and Mr. Cook told his hearers that the thought of this prayer could appropriately be what Lt. Lowrance's loved ones were praying after he was gone. Whether this was an original one or not was not known, for the name of the author was not given, but it was an effective way to conclude the service in honor of one who was born and reared at Barium Springs and who had a host of admirers in this vicinity and over a wide territory.

Ann Fayssoux Johnston Was Married In October

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 24—A marriage of charm and dignity was solemnized Saturday at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Withers Wilkinson, 51 S. Battery, Charleston, S. C., when Miss Ann Fayssoux Johnston of Barium Springs, became the bride of David Walter Morris, corporal, Army of the United States.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Guerant Lilly, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Charleston. The bride entered with her father, Joseph Boudinot Johnston. Corporal Morris had as his best man, Lieut. Henry LaStu Stubbs, of Louisiana. Mrs. Wilkinson, aunt of the bride, acted as dame of honor.

Mrs. Morris is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boudinot Johnston of Barium Springs. She received her education at Queens college in Charlotte. She has been a member of the high school faculty in Statesville, traveling secretary of Kappa Delta Sorority, hostess for the Atlantic Coast Line railroad and on the teaching staff of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home, Barium Springs.

Mr. Morris is the elder son of Mrs. David Walter Morris and the late Mr. Morris of Sterling, Colo. He received his education at the University of Colorado and at Colorado State. Before entering service he was production manager of the Goodman School of the Theater, Chicago, Ill.

After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Morris will be at home, 51 S. Battery, Charleston.

The above condensed account will be of widespread interest locally and elsewhere. This daughter of the Barium Springs superintendent was a member of the local faculty during the 1942-1943 school session and was teaching here this fall when she was married.

there. This year, on account of the high cost of living and the failure of a fruit crop as well as farm products, the need will be much greater.

Let each local secretary of orphanage work present Barium at their auxiliaries and urge the women to continue the good work that they have done in the past.

The little booklet, "Pride and Appreciation", that has been sent shows you what the girls and boys think of the Home. If the children are proud of their home, those who support it have a right to be proud of it, too.

In what better way can we more spiritually express and show the Thanksgiving spirit than in making a liberal contribution at Thanksgiving for the support of the two hundred ninety-two girls and boys at Barium?

"Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His wonderful works to these children of men."

"And let them sacrifice the sacrifices of Thanksgiving and declare His works with rejoicing."

May you everyone have a very happy Thanksgiving season.

(Mrs. C. I.) Janie J. Loftin
Synodical Secretary of Orphanage Work

—The Babies

WOMEN'S BUILDING

October has been an eventful month for all of us.

The Davidson "B" team gave us a thrilling game. It was a perfect day for a game, weather just right, crowd very enthusiastic, and best of all we won, 20-19.

Last Friday Statesville paid us a visit expecting to carry home a victory but alas and alack it was a tie, 0-0. Of course we should have liked to win, but it was an awfully good game and both teams put up a good fight.

On Hallowe'en we had a quite spooky evening together in our living room. In a darkened room, lit only by the firelight and the grinning faces of the jack-o-lanterns, we were fascinated by the gruesome tales that are peculiarly appropriate for an occasion of this kind. It was strictly a feminine affair - a pajama party. For slaking our thirst, cokes were served at the termination of the yarns.

A big event of the year was celebrated by a show for all. We went into town and were fitted in our fall shoes. Everyone seems pleased with their choice. The Belks Department store, by their courteous service, always add to the pleasure of this occasion.

A number of interesting shows have been on the bill this past month - some of which most of us have enjoyed. The Playhouse had us as their guests to see "Nazi Nuisance" which proved to be very amusing. We imitated Hitler, Mussolini and Togo for days afterwards (or at least we tried to do so).

HOWARD COTTAGE

We have not had very many beans this month.

The following girls got the show tickets for this month: Louise Campbell, Mary Frances Price, Betty McMann, Hazel Creech and Shirley Inman.

We got new caps the other day. Miss Burgess was off on a week-end Hallowe'en. Miss Burns, who was our matron, gave us a party. We enjoyed it very much.

The other day we went to the pecan orchard and gathered some pecans. But we can't eat them yet because they are green.

We were all very sorry to hear that Fred Lowrance was killed in action. But we know he died serving his country.

We have enjoyed the football season very much.

We got our new shoes about two weeks ago. We think they are very pretty.

The Birthday table was today. Louise Campbell and Shirley Inman got to go. They enjoyed it very much.

Home-Coming Day

and girls and they never care much for speech-making and a large to-do when they come back to their childhood habitat.

In the afternoon the closing football game of the season will be played with Kannapolis high school at 3:30. This will be a largely attended affair, not only by those who are returning for the Home-coming celebration, but also by a good many who will be getting their last glimpse of any kind of football for the season of 1943.

All in all, the season was fairly satisfactory. We knew we didn't have a world beater to start with, and we feel that the boys did better than the pre-season dope would have al-

Alumni Expect To Raise Memorial Sum

This Was Decided on Home-Coming Day.— Ed Flowers Named As Alumni President

Alumni of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home attending the annual Home-coming here on Wednesday, Nov. 24th, decided to inaugurate a memorial fund to be used in the proposed new church and educational building at Barium Springs, elected officers for the next two years, attended a luncheon at Rumble Hall at noon, held a short meeting after lunch, visited the various places here which is home to them, and witnessed a While less than half of the Churches and Missions in the Synod of North Carolina had filed their completed 1943 Thanksgiving Offering reports with officials at Barium Springs by December 9th, the day this article is being written, yet the unqualified prediction is made that the final total for the season is going to exceed considerably the 1942 peak of $56,013.-38.

On the morning of the ninth, 226 reports had been completed, and very close 50% of the churches and missions—112, to be exact—already boasting of their greatest Thanksgiving Offerings since 1925. Most of these would easily be the best for all time if the records prior to that year were checked. Of the completed Offerings in the hands of Barium, 183 had shown increases, leaving but 43 that had given less than in 1942.

There is no reason to believe but that this trend will continue as the remainder of the Thanksgiving Offering is daily received and recorded. Since less than half of the reports are finished, no prediction is being offered this month as to the final aggregate for Thanksgiving of 1943.

The Silver Star is a citation given to Major Johnston (at the time

Good News

Warsaw Sunday School in Wilmington Presbytery is the latest Sunday School to become a "once-a-monther", having instituted an offering per month for Barium Springs on the first Sunday in November. A check for $25.00 has arrived for November and December together. At this rate, Warsaw is also going to be a member of the $100.00 Club in 1944-1945, when 12 gifts are received, for only three more months remain in 1943-1944.

The number of Sunday Schools regularly helping Barium Springs, either by a response once a month or on the fifth Sundays, is now nearing 300, which represents a majority in the Synod.

Since 1943-1944 started, eight Sunday Schools have inaugurated the Offering-per-month plan, and it is conservatively estimated that the eight together will average $75.00 monthly, or $900.00 more in a full year's time.

SHALL THERE BE ANY GOOD NEWS ITEMS FOR JANUARY'S MESSENGER?

Income Taxes — And Barium Springs

Within a very short time individuals and business firms will be checking up on their contributions of 1943 to see how much more they have available for giving to various causes before the close of the year. As this was done toward the close of 1942, several substantial checks were forwarded to Barium Springs without any solicitation from the Home or any awareness that Barium Springs was to be the recipient of those gifts.

This thoughtful action on the part of some in the closing days of 1942 has inspired the writing of this article to commend this Home to any individual or business firm making a distribution of gifts in the waning days of this year.

It may be, too, that the donor would like to designate a specific use of the gift, and some suggestions are offered for these special donations. It is known that some are primarily interested in the immediate operation and prefer that their gifts be so used. Some are known to be interested in the proposed church and educational building (if you want your gift in memory of some one individual or individuals, that information can be furnished to Barium Springs) and still others are interested in a permanent endowment fund for the Home. With these three things in mind, the following is for your convenience:

Paul Burney Is Named Most Valuable Player

Announcements of Other Selections Made at Football Banquet on December 3rd

With W. A. Hethcox, principal of the schools here, as the efficient toastmaster, a banquet was staged at Barium on Friday night, December 3rd, in honor of the several football teams which have represented the Presbyterian Orphans' Home in the past season. It was an informal affair, with a few outsiders as guests from Statesville, Davidson, Troutman and other nearby points.

At the close of each season the Barium varsity players select certain of their players for particularly outstanding performance. It was announced that Paul Burney was the unanimous choice as the most valuable on the team; Bill Tyce, the center, was selected as the best blocker, and Hervey Stricklin was named at the best

Anyone counting the number of leading Churches in the Thanksgiving season of 1942, as they appeared in the November issue of The Messenger, would have found that 24 churches and their offerings were tabulated. The missing one was Rocky Mount First, which gave $508.09 as its 1942 Thanksgiving Offering.

The type on this article was prepared for the October issue, but was held over for November. In all of the rush, the line revealing that Rocky Mount First was among those 25 disappeared, and the error was made in not making a last-minute re-check to see that all 25 were listed.

It is a pleasure to call this omission to the attention of readers, and an apology is being offered the Rocky Mount First people who were generous enough to be included in that tabulation.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks,
Here we are back with you again. We sure did have a swell Thanks giving. We really enjoyed the show "Girl Crazy." We wish to thank Mr. Johnston for letting us go.

We sure do hate to see football over with, for we looked forward to every other Friday to a ball game. The last game was a swell one, but we are sorry our boys couldn't claim full victory. There's one good thing to the ending of football. We get to play basketball right down to the first grade.

Now that winter is here, we see jack frost every morning. We have been having lots of fun cleaning up the leaves. You should see us 28 and the 27 Annie Louise girls with brooms. Boy, we can go after those leaves. It doesn't take long. If you want your leaves raked up just let us know. Ha! Ha! Don't everybody ask us at the same time.

We were very glad to have the boys and girls back with us last Wednesday. Just about everyone had a baby. We enjoyed hearing them cry out. Say, boys and girls, don't wait 'til next Homecoming to come see us, for we are always glad to see you.

Miss Burgess was gone last week-end. We really enjoyed Miss McNeill being with us. We had a scrap drive, played games, and told stories. We wish to thank Miss Burgess for those pecans. They were paper shells and we could really get to them.

We wish to thank Miss Inman for the candy and chewing gum.

We had just three girls this month on the honor roll. I guess we were thinking too much about Thanksgiving and writing the Christmas letters. They were Hazel Creech, Louise Campbell and Shirley Inman. By the way, I guess by now Santa has gotten most of our letters. Most of us are Scouts. You will see we asked for Scout articles. Let's hope Santa can find those Scout things. If he can't, we will be proud of anything he can find this year, for we know that Santa has gone to war.

One of our little girls, Hazel Creech, went to Winston-Salem on November 21st to represent our cottage. She visited in the home of Mrs. Miles. She surely did have a nice time.

The following girls had visits this month: Shirley Inman, Louise Campbell, and Carolyn Wicker. All of us had a visit from a couple of Whiteville friends, Hubbard McGirt and Jack Moore. Jack is in the Navy now. Good luck, Jack and hurry back.

By the time we write you again Santa will have been and we hope that he won't forget anyone. We hope he is good to all of you.

Well, so long, Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

BABY COTTAGE

Of course we have our new shoes, girls! Mr. Lowrance, somehow or other, packed us all in the station wagon, and took us to Belk's store in Statesville, and they fitted us with the prettiest brown shoes, and are our feet stuck out, now!

They gave us marbles, puzzles and tops, too. We had a grand time looking 'round in the store at all the pretty things.

Idell Andrews thought the little boy showing the pretty underwear should hurry and get his clothes on, because he might get cold.

Johnny Collins went to the second floor and when he came down he said, (all puffed out, too) "Uh, huh, I got to ride in the 'alligator' and you didn't." Clyde Andrews carried his shoes 'round all hugged up like a doll, and when he finally agreed to put them on on Saturday morning he grinned and said "Now, ain't I pur-ty!"

Charles Bowles put his in the box and sat down on it. He didn't want to go to bed at all, and it night.

We're the proudest set of boys in the state 'cause "we got shoes!"

We've been to Mooresville, too. The ladies of the First Presbyterian Church Auxiliary invited us to go and tell them something about ourselves. We also sang them some songs. Mrs. Massey, our matron, and Miss Green, our music teacher, went with us. Mr. Lowrance put us in the station wagon that time, too. We're still talking about the good time we had. They gave us a fruit shower, a whole crate of oranges, and more besides and some candy, and then they gave us ice cream at the ice cream place. We saw the pretty Sunday School rooms for the little folks. They let us play the piano and look at the pretty things. We think they liked us 'cause they invited us to come again. We were so happy. Hope we do get to go again sometimes. So many people were so good to us.

Miss Stowe of Belmont brought a box of candy-lots of pieces in white paper tied with little green ribbons. Miss Stowe said the Business Woman's Circle No. 2 of the First Presbyterian Church there sent it, and you know, candy suckers were in that box! We get some of it once every day. We've had oranges and candy, just like Christmas.

Some ladies from near Monroe came to see us and each brought a package of chewing gum. We like to chew gum.

Jerry Thomas has a football and we play with it, but we mustn't kick it too hard.

Bobby Frye and Boyce Smith kick so hard they miss the ball. Their feet go the wrong way.

Mr. Inman sent some candy and chewing gum to his little girl, Linda, and sent enough for everyone of us. We're just so sweet and sticky there's somebody with an old wash rag behind us all the time, and we can't run fast enough to get away from it either. You know, don't you, that children just hate soap and wash rags?

The Sand Man is coming, so goodnight everybody.

The Babies

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends,

Many nice things have happened to us lately. Mr. Stowe and his lovely cousin visited us Home-coming day and brought us two large delicious cakes. We enjoyed them very much.

We enjoyed the splendid Thanksgiving service arranged for us by our beloved pastor, Mr. Cook. After dinner we went to see a show, "Girl Crazy" in Statesville. Mr. Johnston, who is always so thoughtful of us, planned for us to go.

Many of our girls have had an enjoyable week by going to different towns to give programs.

The Junior Choir went to Statesville to sing at a Social meeting at the Presbyterian Church.

Two of our girls, Elsie Vest and Kathleen Monroe, were on the honor roll and the rest have improved their marks.

We are looking forward with eagerness to the Christmas Vacation; doubtless the teachers are, too. We won't mention our long-suffering matrons.

Good-bye until 1944.

INFIRMARY

Hello Friends,

Here we are again, bringing you the latest news of the Infirmary. There has been so much happening lately we hardly know how to word it.

Home-coming was a great day for us here at Barium, because we got to see a lot of the old Barium boys and girls. We had a good game with Kannapolis Home-coming day and tied 13 to 13. This brought our football season to a close. We have had a grand season of football.

Friday, November 26th, we had some friends to come and entertain us. We sure did enjoy it. We also enjoyed going to the show "Thanksgiving day to see "Girl Crazy".

Well, Christmas is not far off and we will be looking for old Santa when he comes down the chimney with his pack. Watch out for Santa, and be good kids.

There have been very few sick children and we have been very lucky.

Betty Joe Smith had a visit from her relatives and she also made the honor roll. "Good going, Joe".

Lucille Smith and some other boys and girls went to Winston-Salem to talk on how we live at Barium. They had a grand time.

Amos Hardy, a patient, wants to write a few lines. "Go ahead, Amos".

Hello Folks, I am feeling fine and hope to be up soon. Everybody sure has been good to me and they must want me to be awful sweet from the candy I have been receiving. I sure have enjoyed all of the nice visits. "Thanks Everybody". —Amos

ANNIE LOUISE

Dear Friends,

Here we are bringing you the highlights of the news from Annie Louise Cottage.

We had a nice Thanksgiving. Some friends from Belmont sent us some candy. We want to thank them. We had our Home-coming on the day before Thanksgiving. Many of our old girls and grandchildren came back, but there were only a few boys. We played Kannapolis that day. It was a tie, 13 to 13, believe it or not.

We have already written Ole Santa. We wrote him early this year in cooperation with Uncle Sam.

We received our second report cards last week. We had eight girls on the honor roll: Jackie Porterfield, Louise Bradshaw, Pattie Inman, Mary Bowles, Letha Walker, Geraldine Katen, Margaret Hopkins and Carol Jean Andrews.

Mr. Johnston took us to see Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Girl Crazy" on Thanksgiving Day. We surely did enjoy it.

Diamond Jim Speagle and his talking dummies came to entertain us last week. Have you met Tony "Hethcox"? And Jerry and Hervey? Well, they are two of Diamond Jim's gang. They really are "snaazzy" folks. We actually believe they have more fun than people!

Well, hold on! It's time for Santa to be a-coming. You better be good. (Sh! Don't tell a single soul about this, but we really think he's in the army now). He traded his sleigh for a jeep. Rumor has it that Mrs. Santa will take up his work right where he left off, so in that case we don't have a thing to worry about there. We can't help getting excited and over-anxious when we talk about Christmas and Ole Santa, and it's so hard to wait. So, We'll sign off and you can bet your bottom dollar we will have plenty to tell you next time.

So long, Merry Christmas to all of you!

its touchdowns the hard way, driving the length of the field for they were evidently the stronger team, but we might have held on to our one-point margin of 13-12 and thus obtained the victory over the team that later became the South Piedmont Conference Champions. In Asheville we were entirely

MARRIAGES.

Roach-Goodnight.

Miss Mary Ethel Goodnight, of Mooresville, was married on November 3rd at El Paso, Texas, to Sergeant Arthur W. Roach, of the Army Air Corps. Sgt. Roach was graduated from Barium in the class of 1941, and had attended Davidson Cottage for a year and a half before going into partnership with Uncle Sam in the business at hand. Mrs. Roach has returned to Mooresville and the Barium graduate now has an APO number.

Allen-Howe.

Mary Parks Allen, of Charlotte, was married on October 19th to Staff Sergeant Walter F. Howe, of Scranton, Pa., and the U. S. Army. The marriage took place at Langley Field, Va. Mary Parks was graduated from Barium in 1942 and has been working in Charlotte. Sgt. Howe has been transferred to the U. S. Army air forces at Salt Lake City, Utah, where he and Mrs. Howe are residing.

BIRTHS.

Corp. and Mrs. S. T. Williams of Arsenal, Delaware, announce the birth of a son, Billy Gray, on November 23rd. Mrs. Williams is the former Linda Culp.

News was recently received from Mrs. Irene Shannon Wise that a red-headed daughter was born about three months ago to Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Shanklin, of Radford, Va. Mrs. Shanklin is the former Ruth Shannon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McLaughlin, of Charlotte, announce the birth of a daughter on November 13th. Mrs. McLaughlin is the former Avis Archer.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Thompson, of Concord, announce the birth of a daughter, Rebecca Sue, on November 22nd. Mrs. Thompson is the former Mildred Eudy.

NEW RECRUITS.

Roscoe Twombly, Eugene Bosworth, Scott Poole and Olin Brigrance are four more alumni now in the service of Uncle Sam. The first two were here for Home-Coming Day, Roscoe being slated to report to the Navy Friday after being here on Wednesday; and Eugene was to go into the Army following Monday. Olin and Scott have been in some time. Olin with the Navy and Scott with the air forces. This makes a total of 179 boys and girls directly connected with the fighting forces.

PROMOTIONS.

Promotions with which officials of Barium Springs have become familiar since the last Messenger include Leila Johnston to an Ensign in the Waves; Roy Wilson to Sergeant; Billy McCall to Corporal and William Wadsworth to private first class.

PERSONALS.

Many friends will be glad to know that Miss Frances Steele, formerly case worker for the Home here, is recuperating from a serious attack of neuritis. She has been a patient at the Garfield Hospital, Washington, D. C. and until she leaves her address is Room No. 7, CB-2 at the hospital.

George Faison has recently been taken under the care of Concord Presbytry as a candidate for the ministry. In preparation for his entering the Seminary he is now studying at Lenoir-Rhyne College and also working in Newton, where he makes his residence. After leaving Barium he worked in Statesville and later went to Newton. He is married and he and his wife have one child.

out of our class, Asheville beat us 32-0 through the speedy legs of two backs, Britt and Justice, and yet there were moments in that game during the second and third quarters particularly when we looked mighty good. In those two quarters we stopped those backs before they could get up to full speed. Those two quarters were scoreless.

At Lexington the team was somewhat upset over the loss of the captain and tailback, and it took them half of the game against Lexington to find themselves. During that half, Lexington scored six points. During the second half, Barium was much the better team and pushed Lexington around everywhere except over the goal line. Barium missed two good chances to score.

Davidson B team, means the Davidson squad less their top 15 men. We won this game by a one-point margin due to the determination of one boy in making the last extra point. Paul Burney assisted in all of the scoring that we had this year; we think we should let him claim the Davidson game as his own.

Everyone realizes that the civilian colleges had teams composed of what was ordinarily high school material, and the Davidson B team played us on even terms. The Barium team was constantly behind in the game; Davidson scored two quick touchdowns at the beginning of the game, Barium scored one in the second period. Then after Davidson scored a third touchdown in the last period, Barium came back to score two quick touchdowns and win the ball game. This was probably the most interesting game on the list.

Statesville - Barium, a tie game for the first time in the long history of Barium - Statesville competition. Both teams knew just too much about the other's offense and took steps to stop it. Barium threatened in the first quarter; the rest of the game Statesville did the threatening. At one time a pass was made into the end zone, which looked as if a Statesville boy had caught it, but his basket had a hole in the bottom and the ball went on through. Their failure to win a victory was just that close.

Our game in Salisbury, was, as usual, one of those wide open interesting games from start to finish with one team making a touchdown and then the other team matching it, and so on. We finally emerged the victors by a score of 20-13 with the most spectacular touchdown being made by a former Salisbury boy, Fred Cole. Barium blocked a kick, John Ammons recovered it, ran ten yards toward the goal and when tackled, lateraled the ball to Fred, who went on for the winning touchdown.

At Morganton we defeated this good team 12-0. In that game, we resembled Salisbury the week before. In the Salisbury game, we many times gave Salisbury the ball through a fumble or an intercepted pass deep in our territory, but Salisbury couldn't score; however, they twice took the ball on their own ten and marched the length of the field for touchdowns. That's the way we were in Morganton; they would give us the ball deep in their territory and then take it away from us, but twice we marched the length of the field for touchdowns which gave us the victory.

Home-coming Day and Kannapolis: Barium has never been defeated on Home-coming Day; they have been tied twice, once with Belmont Abbey and once with Lees-McRae. We knew that Kannapolis was one of the strongest teams we were to face; they had an old Children's Home boy playing on it, and he was responsible for one of the touchdowns; Greene is his name. Kannapolis scored first and then in the last minute of play of the first half Barium scored two touchdowns: one, a forward pass to Ed Blake; another, an intercepted pass taken by Bill Tyce, who made his one and only touchdown in the final game just as several years ago, Dick Parrish did. Bill Tyce is center of our team. We entered the second half with a seven-point margin, but we couldn't hold it. Kannapolis was just too strong, and in the fourth quarter, they came through with a touchdown to tie up the score, and that is the Varsity story!

Now for the B team, which includes two regular 125-pound games: We found this year that so few people were getting out 125-pound teams that we joined the B teams and played altogether ten games. All of these games were interesting, in some respects more interesting than the varsity. Summing it all up, we beat Landis twice, China Grove twice, a whole mess of games with Concord, and one with Statesville. There are some good players on this team that makes us believe that next year we will really have some replacements for the varsity. Earl Allen acted as Captain for this team; Earl Adams was the tailback, receiving good assistance from Fred Cole, Wilbur Coats, and at the first part of the season, Ed Blake. The totals for this bunch are six wins, two ties, and two defeats.

Our 100-pound team probably showed more consistent class than any group we had. They played eight games, winning seven, losing one. In some of the games, they gave the other team plenty of weight in order to make the outcome more even. The team played like veterans, and quite often members of this team played on the B team: Jack Clark in the backfield, Jack Jones at center. By the way, we might call this the "Jack Team" since Jack Caldwell and Jack Mangum also played on it.

The 85-pound team got in more games than any other 85 since way back yonder ten years ago. They played six games, winning four and losing two. It begins to look as if this 85-pound team is building up talent to really go to town later on. We don't know how good a memory you readers have, but about eight years ago you may remember how we bragged on a bunch of boys on the 85-pound team. They could do so many things well that we predicted many things for them. Well, just one year later, that team was christened "The Symphony in Blue"; a few years later they became the "Rhapsody in Gold" when they reached the 125-pound weight, and then some people called them the "Ragtime in Red" when they were varsity and state champions. Just stick around. We have some boys on the 85-pound who look a lot like those boys who made such a record. The war will be over when they reach the varsity, and who knows - Barium might again be state champions! We don't want to name these boys now, but we will preserve pictures of them to show you later on. All in all, our various teams played 35 games with teams from other schools. They won 21; they lost 9 and tied 5, not bad for a war season.

A gentleman traveling in a railway compartment was endeavoring, with earnestness, to impress an argument upon a fellow passenger who appeared rather dull of comprehension. Slightly irritated, he exclaimed in a louder tone: "Why, sir, it's as plain as A B C!"

"That may be," quietly replied the other, "but I am D E F!"

Government Bonds for Church

in memory of her father and mother, the late Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Farrior. In this connection, the interest to be paid twice a year on this bond will become part of the principal. The Home is purchasing the Series F securities, where the interest accumulates.

A $1,000.00 check was delivered to Barium Springs on Thanksgiving Day and was given in memory of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Turner, of Statesville, the donors being friends who did not want their identity revealed.

Mr. W. F. Thompson, of Cleveland, sent $100.00 in memory of his wife, the late Mrs. Margaret Wilson Steele Thompson, who died on May 4, 1943.

From Mr. Lloyd Swindell, of Raleigh, came a $500.00 check in memory of his wife, Ruth, who died March 16, 1943, and it was asked that this be used in furnishing musical equipment when the new church is constructed.

This is the biggest upswing in the church fund that has occurred in a period of 23 days, but these bond securities are expected to continue to climb as others are honored. It has grown from $15,100.00 in bonds on April 1st to the December 9th amount of $24,500, which is an increase of $9,400.00 in such securities within a little over eight months.

"Father!" cried the son of the absent-minded professor. "there's a bug on the ceiling."

The professor, busy reading at the time, answered without raising his eyes from his book: "Step on it and leave me alone."

Constant Needs

Frequent requests reach Barium Springs as to what is needed, and this article in The Messenger can take care of some future requests of the same nature.

A constant and never-ending need is linens of all sorts - bed spreads, quilts, sheets, towels, tablecloths, table napkins, etc., but no pillow cases. As for the sizes of the spreads, quilts and sheets, no specific size need be named, for there are beds of all sizes for which such articles can be used, since the family age range is from two to 18 years.

Another big need here is canned good such as jellies, jams, fruits and preserves. The local canning plant takes care of surpluses, but very few of the four items mentioned above are handled. These are especially needed for the Saturday and Sunday night cottage suppers as sandwich spreads for the children.

Alumni Expect To Raise

13-13 football game between Knapolis high and Barium.

Officers elected were Ed. Flowers, of Statesville, president, and Miss Helen Price, of North Wilkesboro, secretary-treasurer. They respectively succeed T. G. McConnell, of Newton, and Mrs. Ruth Freeman Jordan, of Charlotte. Mr. McConnell presided over the alumni meeting following lunch.

The new president was authorized to appoint a committee to work out details on the proposed alumni memorial fund and to contact all alumni of Barium Springs. The idea is to start the fund with contributions now, this to be added to from time to time until authorities at Barium Springs are ready to build the church. At the time of construction it will then be decided exactly for what the memorial fund will be used in the church and a designation given of individuals whose names will be on a suitable plaque.

While the alumni attendance was slim in comparison to those years before the war, yet it was better than expected. A few of the 179 boys and girls in the services were able to have furloughs to coincide with the Home-coming celebration and were here for the festivities.

captain) when as company commander he was given command of the Second Battalion whose commanding officer was missing in action. "Without hesitation," the citation states, "and with utter disregard for his personal safety, Captain Johnston passed through heavy artillery fire to recover a vehicle and reach the unit. Upon arrival, he reorganized the Battalion and with outstanding coolness and courage commanded throughout the entire engagement." He was given the rank of major shortly after this engagement.

The Legion of Merit award is given to members of the U. S. armed forces as award for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service.

Thanksgiving Offering Reaches New Peak $20,000.00 Given To Barium for Building

Final Total From All Sources Estimated To Be More Than $72,000

Churches Have Already Passed the Peak of $56,000 Established in 1942

$6,000 YET TO COME

Miscellaneous Sources Have Been Responsible for $8,000, Which Shows $2,000 Increase

The 1943 Thanksgiving Offering from the Synod of North Carolina has already touched a new all-time high by having exceeded the pinnacle sum of $56,013.38, for on January 17th, $58,265.30 had been received from the churches, with an estimated $6,000.00 yet to be forwarded before the books are closed on the 1943 Thanksgiving response. Besides these donations through church channels, from miscellaneous sources a total of $8,137.50 had been received, for an increase of around $2,000.00 from individuals who send direct and whose gifts are credited to no church.

Thus, $66,402.80 was in hand on the 17th of this month as the combined Thanksgiving response, and with approximately $6,000.00 yet to be received, the final will be between $72,000 and $73,000, which will be a gain of $10,000.00, in round numbers, over the combined church and miscellaneous Thanksgiving sums of 1942.

Besides this increase at Thanksgiving-time, the regular giving for three-fourths of 1943-1944 had shown a gain of $5,540.04. Church budgets were responsible for an increase of $3,258.76 and Sunday Schools had given $2,819.67 more. Auxiliaries had sent $538.39 less, to give the net regular gain of $5,540.04.

Of the 453 completed Thanksgiving reports on January 17th, 356 of the churches had given more than in 1942, leaving but 97 that fell below the previous year's donations. It was particularly noteworthy that 205 churches or missions in the Synod were boasting of their best Thanksgiving donations since the season of 1925.

Church Bonds Have Advanced to $26,100

One Large Gift of $500.00 Is Among Others Available in Recent Purchases

On January 17th, the maturity value of bonds in the possession for a proposed church and educational building at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home was $26,100.00, and there was $68.55 of cash on hand, which was almost enough to buy another $100.00 security. This is an increase of $1,600.00 in bonds and $12.00 in cash since December 9th.

When it is remembered that the Home owned $15,100.00 of bonds on April 1st, then it is realized that these securities have climbed over $11,000.00 in a little over nine and a half months. An increase like that over a period of a few years would give the necessary money for the project that is contemplated.

Three $25.00 bonds were sent direct. One came from Mrs. W. H. Sullivan, of Greensboro, and another friend gave the other two as a Christmas gift, with the request that the name of the donor not be revealed.

Money specifically given by individuals without any memorial thought behind them included $18.75 from a Class in the Rocky Mount First Church for a bond; a like amount from friends as a Christmas gift for another bond; $500.00 from L. Young White, of Mooresville, and $1.00 from another individual.

The balance of the bond purchases was possible because of the regular memorial contributions received at Barium Springs. Some (Continued On Page Two)

FUNDS FOR GYM

In his address to the congregation of the Greensboro First Church just before Thanksgiving, Jos. B. Johnston, superintendent of the Home, mentioned the need of a gymnasium at Barium Springs, explaining that all the facilities now available here was the auditorium which was converted into a basketball court during the season for that sport.

Since Mr. Johnston's appearance in Greensboro, two friends in that city have sent respective contributions of $50.00 and $25.00, which constitutes a nucleus of $75.00 toward this project. These funds were placed in the capital fund, and other donations for a gymnasium will be so placed, too.

The government now has the use of the $75.00 contributed, and it will also temporarily have other such funds, since all building money is being placed in government securities.

GOOD NEWS

Shearer's Chapel Sunday School, in Concord Presbytery, has adopted the plan of giving Barium Springs one Offering each month, this being the first time that Sunday School has ever used it.

Ashpole Sunday School, in Fayetteville Presbytery, has been following the offering-per-month plan since last February, but this was not known at Barium Springs until a gift was received for the months of February through November. This Sunday School once followed the procedure, so this can be considered a re-instatement of it.

Because so many more Sunday Schools are helping on a regular basis, and because others have been showing increases, the Sunday Schools of Synod together had shown an increase of $2,819.67 in the regular giving for nine months of 1943-1944 as compared with three-fourths of 1942-1943.

Fayetteville Family Honors Mother By Making Such a Gift

Messrs Edward W. and Charles King Grannis and Mrs. Mary Grannis McLeod Are Donors INVESTED IN BONDS

All Building Money at Barium Is Being Invested in Such Securities

Early in January a check for $20,000.00 was received at Barium Springs for the future construction of a cottage, or other building, to be known as the Kate Fields Grannis Building and which is a donation in honor of their mother, Mrs. Kate Fields Grannis, of Fayetteville, by her three children, Messrs. Edward W. and Charles King Grannis, and Mrs. Mary Grannis McLeod, all of Fayetteville.

This gift of $20,000.00 to Barium Springs was part of a $33,500.00 trust fund which the children created in honor of their mother, and which was forwarded to the respective participants through the trustees of the First Presbyterian Church in Fayetteville.

Others sharing in the funds included $6,000.00 for the Fayetteville First Presbyterian Church, to be used for the erection and equipment of a recreation room; $5,000.00 to the Presbyterian Junior College for a scholarship fund, and $2,500.00 to Flora MacDonald College, also for a scholarship fund.

The trust agreement between the donors and the Trustees of the Fayetteville First Church pertaining to the $20,000.00 sent to Barium Springs specifically read:

"The check for the sum of $20,000.00 is to be transmitted to the Trustees of the Presbyterian Orphanage, located at Barium Springs, North Carolina, now owned and controlled by the Synod of North Carolina. The said sum is to be used by the Trustees of the Orphanage for the erection of a cottage, or other building, for the use of the orphans located in said orphanage; and it is the request of the Trustees that it be designated as (Continued On Page Two)

WALLACE COTTAGE

This is Wallace Cottage bringing you the latest news.

Santa Claus has already come and gone. We want to thank everybody for the nice things they sent us.

Douglas Ryder, one of our "little" boys, is one of the best basketball coaches around here. He took a short vacation over the holidays and had a good time.

Earl Allen must have found something he likes up in Statesville because he goes up there every chance he gets. Is that right, Charlotte?

Bennie Gregory and Dallas Ammons have gone to look in their rabbit hollows, or rather they have gone to look in somebody else's.

"Snake" Blake has got him a girl now. You can't find him in his room or on the "Hall" anywhere.

Scott Blue is practicing up for the 125-pound team. He will more than likely be captain.

Wilbur Coates, Earl Allen's roommate, drinks all of the chocolate milk that is made up here.

Jack Jones finally changed his sox and Ryder sure was glad. He got Jones' old sox.

Tommy Hayes is a new boy over here.

"General" Grover Ingram and "Admiral" David Burney came to see the boys and Dwight Spencer made good use of the sleeping porch while they were here.

Charles Smith is quite a studious boy nowadays. He is one of the better students of Wallace Building.

Will fold. So long.

—Douglas Ryder.

CANNON COTTAGE

Hello faithful readers. This is Thad Stevens giving you the latest news of the famous Cannon building.

We all had a wondrous Christmas and a very happy New Year and we hope all of you folks did too.

Mrs. David Blair, of Washington, D. C., sent us some nuts and fruit and a dollar apiece for Christmas, and we wish to thank her very much. We appreciated it, Mrs. Blair.

Mrs. Neel gave us a game and we also wish to thank her a lots for we enjoy playing with it very much.

"Boys will be boys." Mr. "Nut" George Landrum, had a ten-cent date the other night on his girl.

Our house-wife, Charles Barrett, is the best house-wife among all these hills. All "she" needs is a "tuff" husband.

"Wahoo" Hayes finally got off of the mighty war path when receiving a good grade in school.

"Silas Marty", better described as Jerry Young, was found hiding pennies in an old red sock in the bottom of his trunk.

Other great characters in our building are "Craig" Mundy, our assistant housewife; J. D. Everett, "Human" Blue who had a girl named Sue; Donald Pettus, Herbert Good and John Lee.

I hope I have been able to keep you up with the latest happenings.

Your devoted reporter,
—Thad Stevens.

LOTTIE WALKER

The kindness of many people made our holidays most joyous. The management of the theaters in Statesville, with their usual thoughtfulness, gave theater tickets which were presented at the Christmas Eve tree which has become a tradition on the campus. This year the scouts prepared and presented the treats of fruit, candy and nuts.

On Christmas morning we awoke about 5:30 to find that Santa had already come and gone, leaving behind an assortment of lovely things. Our tree, being rather small, was practically hidden by the array of packages. After singing carols we received our packages and were delighted with the manner in which our friends had remembered us. Each year our many neighbors excell themselves in their generosity to us. The love and good will of our many friends is what makes Christmas for us.

During the holidays we enjoyed our tickets to the fullest extent. Mr. Sams always takes this way to say Merry Christmas to us. We appreciate this and the many other times that he remembers us throughout the year.

We had several small parties during the week following Christmas. Each class had an evening of fun. It was cold and clammy and we enjoyed the open fire very much. A variety of entertainment, including cards, various table games, contests and dances, filled the evenings.

On New Year's Eve everyone in High School enjoyed a square dance at the gymnasium. After light refreshments, we went down to the church for the annual night watch service. Under the guidance of our minister, Mr. Cook, we participated in a very simple but inspiring service. Thus together we saw the new year dawn.

May we take this opportunity to wish each of you, our friends, a very prosperous new year and much happiness.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

We would like to wish all of you a very happy New Year.

We had such a wonderful Christmas. Everybody was so good to us. Our friends all over the state were just grand to us.

Santa put our toys under our beds this Christmas, and we waked up real early Christmas morning and found them there. Oh! boy! did we make a lot of noise. Miss Taylor said it was a regular bang - bang Christmas. We played soldier all day long. Some of the boys got the nicest soldier and cow boy suits. Wish you could see how nice they look in them.

Since everybody had been so good to us, we thought we would like to make somebody else happy. So we played Santa to a colored family that lives close by. We had more fun going to town to buy their presents. Then we all helped fix them up real pretty. We knew they were just as happy Christmas morning as we were.

We are all working hard in school so we will have good report cards.

One of our boys had his tonsils out last week, Gene Thomas. He was real good at the hospital and didn't fuss a bit.

Dewie Belle Buie, one of our big girls, had a visit from her mother. We like Mrs. Buie a lot; she's so sweet.

—The Wiggles.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends,

I know I'm not going to be able to tell you all the good things that have happened to us during the past month.

We don't know all of those who

REMEMBERING THE ORPHANS.

From The Charlotte Observer.

The approach of Thanksgiving suggests to different people different forms of commemoration, but to all it should suggest the day as being an occasion for remembering the orphaned boys and girls of our State in whatever institutions they may be located.

Particularly in this community and general area of Presbyterianism, the needs of the Orphans' Home at Barium Springs come to mind at this time, and Thanksgiving Day will be marked by the annual collections in the churches for this worthy cause.

This institution last year received a total of $62,000 as a result of contributions from the Thanksgiving offerings—$56,000 from the churches and $6,000 in individual gifts.

That represented more than one-half of the total income of the Barium Springs Home during the entire year, a circumstance which illustrates how dependent it is upon these particular remembrances.

The needs there now are no whit less than they were last year and the opportunity, therefore, for liberal support from these thank-offering just as challenging.

Indeed, the entire program of its activities for another year will be determined in large measure by the generosity of its friends on Thanksgiving Day.

Other similar institutions in the State may not be quite so utterly dependent for their support upon these particular contributions, but there is not a one of them which is independent of such free-will aid as is thus represented.

And each denomination which sponsors institutions of this kind will have both the privilege and challenge this week to "remember those in bonds" in these several well-operated Christian agencies for the homeless and the parentless boys and girls who receive their beneficent ministrations.

Contributions made to such worthy causes are verily like unto the "bread cast upon the waters," returning in due time laden for those who receive of the bounties of a kindly and Christian charity.

Due to the crowded condition of December's Messenger we were unable to re-print an appreciated editorial which appeared in The Charlotte Observer just before Thanksgiving. While that special season has passed, some of the things said by The Observer editor are applicable to the whole 12 months, and then we would like for the entire Presbyterian constituency in this Synod to have access to the comments made by an outside party about this Home at Barium Springs.

played Santa Claus to us but whoever they were they sure were good to us.

Mr. Stowe, of Belmont, gave us some orange and grapes, and we wish to thank him for them. Mr. Stowe is a real good friend of ours and he never forgets us and we never forget him, either.

Christmas morning at six o'clock Mrs. Thompson, our sweet matron, played a Christmas carol and we all jumped up out of bed and ran into the sitting room where the Christmas tree was. We all knew where our presents were because we had put our names where we wanted our presents placed and Santa was real nice to us for he put them where our names were. We all got a lot of presents so no one was disappointed. We were all very happy.

During the Christmas holidays most of us went to the basketball court and had a real good time. I think we all like basketball.

The teachers have already started coming back so we had better be getting ready for school.

We all want to thank Mr. Sams for the show tickets that he gave us for Christmas, and we thank Mrs. Blair for the $1.00 she gave each one of us.

Here's wishing you all a happy New Year.

—Elsie Vest.

JOHNSTON COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

Since we last wrote you we have been doing big things. We all had a very nice Christmas, thanks to you folks.

Buster (Gadget) Myatt is in the Infirmary. We sure do miss his blowing all our fuses.

Jack Caldwell is now one of the Gopher Gang.

John Whiting is still having girl trouble.

Amos Hardy spent Christmas at the Infirmary and we sure did miss him.

"Pee Wee" Reid has been promoted from sweeping the floor at the printing office to cleaning the press.

I guess we have shot enough bull, so, so long 'til next time.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Here we are back with you again bringing you the cottage news.

We sure did have a good Christmas and hope you did, too.

We want to thank Mr. Sams for giving us the show tickets. We went to the show to see "Mr. Mugs Steps Out". Boy, was it good? Thank you, Mr. Johnston, and Mr Sams.

Two new girls have come in since the last time we wrote. We are very glad to have them stay at Barium. Their names are Vally Brown and Annie Elizabeth Hendrix.

The following girls have had visits from their people: Annie Elizabeth Hendrix, Kathleen and Edna Ellis and Louise Campbell.

We sure were glad to see the snow. We have fun in the snow.

The following girls made the honor roll: Hazel Creech, Shirley Innan and Louise Campbell.

Annie Elizabeth Hendrix brought her little dog named "Snuffy". We sure do have fun with him.

Mary Frances Price had her tonsils taken out. She is back with us now. We are glad to have her back with us.

Miss Hardin is in the hospital and we miss her very much and we hope she will be back before long.

Your Friends,

The Bean Stringers

INFIRMARY

We had a Merry Christmas and received lots of gifts. We didn't have a white Christmas, but the following Sunday when we awoke the ground was covered with snow. We had an icy Christmas and it was lots of fun skating and falling on it.

Amos Hardy was our Santa Claus and this is the first time that our Santa wasn't fat.

We want to thank all of our many friends and folks who made our Christmas such a happy one.

Our teachers are all back from their holidays and from their reports they all had a nice Christmas.

We are glad to report that Amos Hardy, who has been with us quite a while now, is recovering fast.

For three weeks during December we didn't have any patients, but at the present time we have 47, most of whom have the measles. And, let me tell you, the girls here at the Infirmary are really busy. One patient, Lee Vinson, has a sprained ankle. You should know that she is one of our "all-star" basketball girls. The girls lost one of their games on account of this missing member. Can you imagine that?

Dot Maples has a boil on her eye and, boy, is it painful? But, this doesn't affect her eating.

Now you can see that the Infirmary girls are going through a "work-out", and how. We are a cheerful group of girls and you can always depend on us to do our job.

—The Infirmary Girls

Alumni News

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gant, of Pensacola, Fla. announce the birth of a daughter, Doris Eloise, on December 8, 1943. "A. C." is in Squad 4 of the Gunnery Range, USNATC, Borin Field at Pensacola.

Lt. and Mrs. David Neiffer Bender, 3 Lake Forest Parkway, Wilmington, announce the birth of a daughter in January. Mrs. Bender is the former Alice Jones.

NEW RECRUITS

Five more Barium alumni are now known to be in the services, some of them having been connected with Uncle Sam for some time. The five are Dick Griswold, a chief carpenter's mate in the Navy; Tony Alessandrini, William Billings, and Robert Wimberly in the air corps, and Evelyn Billings who has recently enlisted in the Army Nursing Corps, but who will have to complete her training first before being on active duty. This makes 184 alumni aligned with which officials are acquainted. Probably there are others about which we do not know at present.

PROMOTIONS

Promotions occurring since the last issue of The Messenger include Dewey Barnhill, Joe Johnston and A. D. Potter to captaincies; Grover Ingram and Bryson Stinson to corporals; Marjorie Lail to corporal in the Wacs; Clyde Johnson to private first class; James Shroyer to AMM 1-c, and Wallace Twombly to S 1-c.

VISITORS

PERSONALS

In the December Messenger we announced the marriage of Mary Parks Allen to Master Sergeant Walter Howe, and it is with deep regret that announcement has to be made in this issue of the death of this officer in a plane crash at Boise, Idaho on January 8, 1944. They had been married seven weeks. The funeral was held at Scranton, Pa. Mrs. Howe will later return to Charlotte, where she was making her home before her marriage.

Information has come to Barium of the death of Mr. L. J. Boyle on November 11th. Mr. Boyle was the husband of Vanilla Bolden Boyle, who lives with her three children at 612 3rd Avenue, S. E., Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Mrs. Boyle's oldest child is a son 16 years of age.

Sergeant Ray Norman

chievement while participating in both day and night long range patrol flights over an area of the Caribbean sea, extending from the western tip of Cuba to the equatorial belt of South America. He is the son of Mrs. Annie Bryant Norman of 415 New Jersey Avenue.

The above was clipped from a Washington (D. C.) paper, and sent to Barium Springs by relatives of Sgt Ray Norman, who did not know anything of the award until they read it in the newspapers. No doubt this is also true of other alumni who have been decorated, but whose reticence has kept the Barium people unaware. If anyone knows of such awards to those who were once at Barium, such information will be gladly and heartily received here, publicly announced and added to the case history of this individual on file at Barium Springs.

"The Kate Fields Grannis Building."

Each of the three children accompanied identical letters to Barium Springs in which they expressed a thankfulness that their mother was still living and was in good health.

Since it is impossible to do any building at the present time, and in their letters the three donors advised against using their $20,000.00 until the period of inflation had passed, this gift has been invested in government securities, which is the disposition which has been made of all building fund money that has been coming to Barium Springs during the past several years.

Besides this $20,000.00 which was promptly placed in government securities, the Home here possesses $26,100.00 (maturity value) of government bonds toward a new church; and funds of $10,000.00, 7,000.00 and $9,550.00 for three small cottages of a proposed children's village have also been invested in government bonds. Still other funds, labeled for specific things, have been placed in this type of security.

Among the Presbyteries, two of them had already gone beyond their finals of 1942. These were Concord with an increase of $2,- 580.84 and Granville with a gain of $814.32. It is estimated that all Presbyteries, except one, will give more than in 1942, and even that Presbytery might have supplementary Offerings which will put it over the top. A better picture of this can be obtained in next month's Messenger.

Through December 31st, the following from each Presbytery, compared with the final of 1942,
had been received:

Thanksgiving Offering Continues to Arrive

By Feb. 18, the Response Had Advanced to $62,991.33.— More Expected

On January 31st, the Thanksgiving Offering received from the Synod of North Carolina had advanced to $61,021.81, with an estimated $3,500.00 of that special donation yet to be forwarded in the closing two months to officials here by church treasurers - some to send original offerings, others to dispatch supplementary sums, and gifts to be received from certain organizations in some of the churches before the Offering was completed.

(NOTE: On February 18th, the Thanksgiving total received was $62,991.33, with 41 churches to have their reports marked as being completed.)

The latest tabulation on churches shows that 482 completed reports were in hand, with 381 giving as much, or more, than in 1942, leaving but 101 that failed to reach the '42 amounts. Of the grand total of 481, 214 churches were boasting of the greatest Thanksgiving Offerings to Barium Springs since the season of 1925.

Seven of the nine Presbyteries had surpassed the final 1942 aggregate by January 31st. These seven and their gains were Concord Presbytery, $2,799.27; Granville, $975.28; Mecklenburg, $948.22; Wilmington, $606.56; Winston-Salem, $332.97; Fayetteville, $171.06, and Albemarle, $99.99.

The two that were not "over the top" at the end of last month were Kings Mountain, lacking $531.04, and Orange, $393.88. The former's giving in February sent them into a plus category, while Orange will also have an increase when all of the Offering is here from that Presbytery. That will make a 100% record for the nine divisions of Synod.

Here is the way the Offering had been received through January 31, 1944, as compared with the final Offerings from each Presbytery for 1942:

	Through Jan. 31, '44	1942 Final
Presbytery	$ 2,411.19	$ 2,311.20
Albemarle	14,865.95	12,066.68
Concord	5,833.87	5,662.81
Fayetteville	4,733.89	3,758.61
Granville	4,800.44	5,331.48
Kings Mountain	13,462.85	12,514.63
Mecklenburg	7,666.37	8,060.25
Orange	3,642.26	3,035.70
Wilmington	3,604.99	3,272.02

TOTALS $61,021.81 $56,013.38

Bonds for Church Now Total $26,800

Increase of $700.00 Noted In Such Securities Within the Past Month

Between January 17th and February 18th, government bonds for a proposed church and educational building at Barium Springs increased from $26,100.00 to $26,800.00. Besides those securities, there was cash of $44.40 in hand on February 18th which will be used in the next bond purchase.

Quite interesting is the fact that this $700.00 increase in such holdings came about largely through small memorial contributions. The Mebane Sunday School sent the money for a $25.00 bond, to join other organizations helping on the project, and one $100.00 check in memory of an individual was received. The other gifts were small memorial contributions of individuals, organizations and business firms. Part of those are in January's Messenger; the others will be listed in February.

No doubt some bonds will be forwarded to Barium Springs soon which were purchased in the recent bond drive. An inquiry was received here recently as to the proper name to be used, for relatives wanted to honor a boy who recently sacrificed his life in an airplane accident. The information always reads "The Regents of the Orphans' Home, a corporation, Barium Springs, N. C."

Substantial progress is being made toward the necessary funds for the contemplated church and memorial building, for the current holdings represent an increase of $11,700.00 in bonds since last April 1st, which covers a period of almost 11 months. For the whole year, the average monthly gain is going to be well over $1,000.00 a month in such securities.

$100.00 S. S. Club

By January 31st, 65 Sunday Schools in the Synod of North Carolina had sent as much as $100.00 regularly to Barium Springs in 10 months, and with that many already included in the Club, the final number to be listed for 1943-1944 is going to pass, by a considerable number, the 77 that were tabulated at the close of 1942-1943.

Of the 65 Sunday Schools, four have been listed in the Club for the first time in history. These are Centre and Red Springs in Fayetteville Presbytery; Mallard Creek in Mecklenburg and Chadbourne in Wilmington.

GOOD NEWS

Add the name of Grantham Sunday School, a mission point in Albemarle Presbytery, to that fast-growing list of Sunday Schools in the North Carolina Synod that give Barium Springs an Offering each month. Grantham adopted this plan in February, and the initial gift of $2.00 for the first Sunday of this month has been welcomed here.

Each additional Sunday School is helping to swell the regular receipts at Barium Springs and as more join in, the amount annually received will still climb, aside from the pleasure that it will give Sunday School members in doing something for these boys and girls every month. The total from this source in 1943-1944 is going to be more than doubled, according to present indications, the aggregate arriving from this source in 1933-1934 - ten years ago.

WHAT SUNDAY SCHOOL WILL BE NEXT TO JOIN IN THE PARADE?

Lieut. T. L. O'Kelley Missing on Flight

Parents Receive Word on Feb. 9th.— This Officer Graduated From High School Here

From The Charlotte Observer of February 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. O'Kelley, of 1816 Cleveland avenue, were notified last night that their son, Second Lieutenant Thomas L. O'Kelley, 24, is reported missing while on an "overwater aircraft flight."

The telegram which was sent from Morrison Field, Fla., added that a search has been instituted and further details would be furnished as they become available. It was signed Richard T. Knight, lieutenant-colonel, commanding.

Lieutenant O'Kelley had been in the army since September 1942. He received his commission as a second lieutenant and a navigator at Mather Field, Calif., about the first of October 1943. From Mather Field he was sent to Tucson, Arizona, and from there to Westover Field, near Springfield, Mass. He had been stationed there since October. Mr. O'Kelley said last night he had received his son's APO number from Westover Field and assumed that he would be on his way overseas by this time. He last heard from him two weeks ago from Mitchell Field, N. Y. Mr. O'Kelley believed that he was leaving for overseas from Mitchell Field.

Second Lieut. O'Kelley was educated at Mitchell college, Statesville, and later attended the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. He has one brother, Air Cadet Joseph C. O'Kelley, who is stationed at the University of Chicago where he is attending the School of Meteorology. He is with the 31st AAFTC.

The above distressing news cast a pall over the campus at Barium Springs, where T. L. is so well known because of the many years he spent at Barium, going to the schools here. His father was at one time head of the local schools, and later on his mother was matron at the Baby Cottage. Hope is still being entertained that this navigator will be found. T. L. was among the first in Statesville to volunteer. His first attempt to get into the service led to his rejection, but he later made the grade, and had since proved his ability which led to his commission.

Regular Giving of Synod Much Better

Increase of $5,623.20 Shown In First Ten Months.— Other Gain Expected

The combined regular and Thanksgiving Offerings from the Synod of North Carolina for Barium Springs were $13,058.76 ahead of the total posted here through January 31, 1943. Elsewhere, information is furnished on the Thanksgiving Offering increase, more particularly as related to the final figure for 1942, but in this article it is being announced that the regular donations were $5,623.20 ahead for the first 10 months.

With Synod having shown this much of a gain through January, it is logical to believe that other increases will be noted in receipts during February and March. The latter is always a month of large receipts as that is the "pay-up" month, and the tenor of the giving earlier in 1943-1944 is expected to find further reflection in the final sums that will be forwarded by Church budgets, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries.

The Thanksgiving Offering for 1943 will be close to an $8,000.00 increase over 1942, and the regular increase will possibly hover around $7,000.00, to give Barium Springs a gain of $15,000.00 over the 1942-1943 giving by Synod.

Of the regular total of $41,431.51, the larger portion has arrived from Sunday Schools. Approximately 300 of these organizations had forwarded $19,673.97, or 47.6% of the total. Church budgets were responsible for the next largest amount of $15,517.91, or 37.4%, and the balance of regular income, $6,239.63 had been sent by the Auxiliaries for 15% of the aggregate.

In this connection, it is interesting that Church budgets have shown an increase of $3,248.76; $2,703.59 more had come from the Sunday Schools, but there had been a decrease of $329.15 by the Auxiliaries.

Detail on the regular receipts by Presbyteries and organizations within them is as follows:

Presbytery	Ch.	S. S.	Aux.
Albemarle	$ 362.44	$1,041.93	$ 794.00
Concord	2,525.65	3,061.96	913.28

TOTAL $15,517.91 $19,673.97 $6,239.63

Below will be found a picture of the per capita giving of the Presbyteries, comment upon which is being withheld, since some of the Presbyteries had just about finished their Thanksgiving Offerings, and others yet had substantial amounts to be forwarded:

214 Churches Send Outstanding Sums

During the 1943 Thanksgiving Season.— Other Facts Given on Offering

By February 18th, completed reports for the Thanksgiving season showed that 214 churches, missions or chapels in the Synod of North Carolina were boasting of their best Thanksgiving totals since 1925, and in many instances, the Offering of 1943 was tops for all time. Since all reports have not been completed to officials at Barium Springs, there may be others to be added to the present number; if so, these will be publicly announced later.

Since there were 482 completed reports in hand, it meant that just about 44.4% of the places reporting 1943 Thanksgiving Offerings to this Home had the best for a period of 19 years that has been examined by authorities at Barium. A scrutiny of the Offerings since this Home was established in 1891 would no doubt reveal that the majority was the best in the 52 years that this Home has been in operation.

Most of the churches broke peaks which were set in 1942, for 116 smashed those high-water marks of the previous year. But, they weren't content simply to relegate to musty records recent zeniths, but many of the churches surpassed offerings that have been standing at the helm since the 1920's. For instance, 34 churches broke peaks that were on the books between 1925 and 1929. Among the 214 total were nine places reporting their first Thanksgiving offerings.

Full details on the 214 shows that 9 smashed 1925 highs; six for 1926; 15 for 1927; one, 1928; three, 1929; five, 1930; one, 1932; four, 1934; five, 1935; nine, 1936; four, 1937; three, 1938; one, 1939; eight, 1940; 15, 1941; 116, 1942, and nine, first reports.

The 214 churches which will have new sums to their credit when the Thanksgiving tabulations for the season of 1944 are prepared for distribution are as follows:

Quotable Quotes From the Alumni

In November's Messenger there were many quotations from alumni of Barium Springs anent their love, pride, appreciation, loyalty, etc., all pertaining to their old Home here. Since that time there have been many other comments of a similar nature. Some of these are being printed now, and there may be more later. The first ones, prepared in booklet form, had such a far-reaching effect that it was felt here that still more of these voluntary statements would be worthwhile. It will be noticed that a few of them have made some comment about the booklet, verifying all that others had written.

Every now and then I get sick - nothing wrong with my body, just homesick. I wonder where I can get medicine to cure me of that sickness.

Quite a few fellows have asked me just what the life in the Orphanage is like. I tell them of all the wonderful times I've had there. All have very high respect for the Home there. I shall never forget the years that I was at Barium. They were very happy ones. If I had my life to live over again I would want to be there at Barium.

After having lived at Barium for a little over 16 years I can readily understand why we love Barium so much.

Sure would love to have been there yesterday (Home-Coming Day). I don't think I was the "onliest" boy who was homesick. — and really looked very sad and we just sat here talking about who was there and who was not there. About the little book from Barium graduates: Well, I got into a conversation with one boy about Barium and I handed him the book. After he got through reading it he said, "I never knew a place like that was on earth." Then I said I never did, either, until I had left there. That book does the talking now when someone asks me about Barium.

From a wife of a Barium graduate: — has always told me it was a paradise on earth and has praised it to the skies. All I can say is I wasn't one bit disappointed when I visited there and — didn't over-praise it at all. All of the children seemed so happy and not once did I hear from any of them that they didn't like the Home and wished they weren't there.

When this war is over I am planning on coming and seeing the good old place. I really miss Barium and the good times I had there with a swell bunch of people.

I got my furlough last week and went to London. While I was in the Red Cross at a show I heard a boy call me and I looked around. About 20 feet away was —. I was so glad to see him I 'bout cried. We went out of the show and we talked about the good times we had at Barium. We stayed out 'til 4:30 the next morning talking. And then he went and stayed with me, but we could not sleep because we wanted to talk to each other.

I miss the "ole" place and I'm looking forward to the day when I can bring my wife up, show her around, try to tell her of some of the grand times I've had there and introduce her to the grandest people in the world and the best home this guy has ever known.

Barium deserves only the best.

Glad to hear that our fellows are doing such good work. We can't help it, we were trained and raised at Barium.

The things I learned at Barium are really coming in good now more than ever before.

When I go out on these missions it's a great feeling to know that not only my prayers but the prayers of my friends back home are with me constantly. I know, because sometimes it would be impossible if it wasn't for our Good Lord.

I'm doing my best to make a pilot. If I fall out of that I still have a chance to make a navigator, bombardier or gunner, but whatever I make or wherever I go I'll always give Barium the best name I know.

A fellow doesn't know how much he misses his home (Barium) and friends until he's away for some time. I want you to know I think the world of Barium, and I'd rather be there than any other place in the world. Here lately so many fellows ask me so many questions about it and each night they get me to tell them more about the place.

Those quotations that were printed in it (The Messenger) are the right things all of us who leave Barium think about. The army sure is a lot easier to the Barium boys than to most of the other fellows. So many of the boys in the army break down under the least little temptation that comes along.

I also learned down here how much Barium has meant to me. Not only in the way of discipline, but religiously, educationally and physically. I find that it is easy to be disciplined by these officers because I was taught discipline at Barium. I realize that if I had not been at Barium I would not have the education I have, or be as well acquainted with the church as I am, or even be as physically fit for training as I am. I have Barium to thank for this and, believe me, I appreciate everything Barium did for me. I think it is a fine place and I believe no one will ever regret staying there.

I sure am proud that I was there. When I read anything about Barium's games, sports or church activities, something deep down inside of me warms with pride.

I also wish there was some way I could pay back Barium for all the good times I've had there, and what you and the rest of the folks did for me. I know now that any person who has ever been at Barium could never be in better hands, and I'm thankful that I had the chance to go through Barium. I hate to brag, and yet it isn't bragging at all, but I like to think that it's bragging. I haven't touched a drink while in service. I can honestly say that you really got the hold on me on that subject. I've been offered a drink about every time I go out. I was even called a sissy by a girl. Isn't that something?

I tell every new bunch of boys that come in about my home at Barium. They do not know that places like this exist. I do not have to stretch anything either.

I have a very nice group to work with, but after all I still think Barium is the best place in the world.

I always remember Barium in my prayers. To me Barium is my home and I hope the day will soon come when I will get back home.

I am still trying to practice the morale you taught us at Barium and yet expect to come out of this Army with a clean record and yet to take my first strong drink.

Sometimes wonder what I would have looked like if I had not had the care and love that Barium gave me. Then I just thank God for Barium and all the "Bariums" everywhere and all the people who make them the kind of places that they are.

It was a great pleasure to return to Barium again and I hope I will again soon. I also hope that all the boys will have the same privilege. It is just like home to me and I am very proud to say that I was raised there.

You know Barium will be running this war if some of the boys don't stop slowing up. Barium really has something to be proud of. It certainly does make one feel proud to say, "Yes, I was there fifteen years," and then to read down the roster of those from Barium. I only hope to be able some day to repay Barium in some way for the things she has done, and made possible for me. And I will.

It is just like home to me, and I am very proud to say I was raised there. I don't believe that you can find a home better than Barium.

It's gratifying to look over the list of names of the old boys and girls and find that they are living up to the tradition inherited while at Barium. Of course we are not all Generals, but they alone cannot suppress the charges of the enemy. I do believe that we are performing our respective duties as well as the big boys above us. At least that is our goal.

Those 15½ years I spent there at Barium I wouldn't trade for anything in the world, and can imagine that is the way that lots of the other boys feel.

Seven Mistakes

The delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others down.

The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or converted.

Insisting that a thing is impossible because we ourselves cannot accomplish it.

Refusing to set aside trivial preference in order that important things may be accomplished.

Neglecting development and refreshment of the mind by not acquiring the habit of reading.

Attempting to compel other people to believe and live as we do.

The failure to establish the habit of saving money.

—But the greatest mistake of Christian people is the neglect of witnessing, and honoring the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

—Exchange.

The sailor was recounting his experiences to a dear old lady when she interrupted him. "But what rank did you hold?" she asked.

"Ship's optician, lady," was the reply.

"Ship's optician! I never knew there was such a rank in the Navy. What did your duty consist of?" asked the old lady.

"Scraping the eyes out of potatoes," the sailor replied.

She: "What has happened, George?"

George: "A puncture."

She: "You should have been more careful. The guide book warned us there was a fork in the road at this point."

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

LOTTIE WALKER

With the exception of a number of very exciting basketball games the lull after Christmas was very pronounced.

Last week Statesville played the local team an unusually interesting game. Having already met the Statesville team on its own court and having been defeated by them, the girls team was particularly anxious to win. The margin of victory was not large, but decisive enough. The spirit of real sportsmanship and skill displayed by the members of both teams was very fine. An unusually large crowd enjoyed this game with us.

On February 12 the girls at the Lottie Walker building are entertaining their friends at the gymnasium with a barn dance. A prize is to be presented to the couple who dresses as the most typical "Clem" and "Country lass." The standard garment is, I believe, to favor overalls, straw hats and gingham gowns. Already the invitations are out and the necessary borrowing is taking place. For refreshments, those attending will quench their thirst with apple juice, with doughnuts for dunking.

We'll let you know how it turns out.

LEE'S COTTAGE

It has been quite a while since we last wrote news of our cottage and a number of things have happened since then.

Our number is reduced by one. Johnny Slater went to live with his mother in Portsmouth, Va. We miss him, but we are happy that he can be with his mother. So now we have 25 boys and the black kitty.

We have had our yearly physical check-up by Dr. Herman, and all were found to be in good health.

We had a little spell of measles and the following boys had to be in the Infirmary: Charles Faircloth, Mac Caldwell, John Junius Wicker, Cromer Curtis, Jerry Ennis, Bobby McMannen and Buddy Maples, but everyone is well now.

Miss Turner, our house mother, fell and sprained her ankle and we had to help her around a bit, but she is all right now.

A number of the old Lee's cottage boys who are in the service called by the cottage to see us recently. They were: Jack Weeks, Billy McCall, Roscoe and Wallace Twombly and Robert Brown. We are always glad to see our boys. We think of them and pray for them every day.

Our good friend, Mrs. Ervin of Charlotte, came to see us at Christmas time. We always enjoy having our friends come.

Every Saturday, Mr. Thomas and the orchard boys bring us a big box of apples that grew in our orchard. We have them every day. They are very good, and it makes us appreciate the orchard force.

We have been seeing some good pictures. One was "Lassie Come Home." Mr. Sams gave us tickets for Christmas.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends, This is Valentine month, and a good friend gave our matron money to get us some Valentines and candy. We certainly appreciate this kindness.

Our three measles girls are back with us after two weeks at the Infirmary. We missed them, as each girl has her place in our home.

Annie Star Langley is still the "boy crazy girl" of our cottage.

Monday night we went to the show to see "Lassie Come Home." We thank our matron very much for her kindness in paying our way. We had to wait an hour before we got in, but it was worth waiting for.

The Junior choir sang last Sunday. We hope the people enjoyed hearing us as much as we enjoyed singing for them.

Our Junior basketball team is knocking it hard and hope to bring home the bacon someday.

Spring seems to be right around the corner and the swimming pool seems very peaceful and waiting for us to take a dip.

Signing off 'til next month.

—Rumple Hall Girls.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks, This is the Infirmary girls bringing you the news of the month.

Our epidemic of measles is finally over. We had over 60 in bed, but they have all gone out, and none of them has come back. We had a hard time while they were here, but since they have gone our nurse, Mrs. McNatt, was off for a few days visiting her son, Staff Sgt. Charles McNatt at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Our kitchen matron, Miss Lackey, was sick for a few days, and Miss Sallie Whitner took her place.

Miss Juanita Hardin, matron of Annie Louise Cottage, was with us two weeks recovering from an operation which she had at Davis Hospital.

Amos Hardy, who has been with us for quite a while, has left the Infirmary. "We miss you, Amos, but we were glad you could go."

One of our girls, Jean McDonald, finally got on the honor roll. Good luck Jean.

One of our dear friends, Lucile Smith, has been looking "down in the dumps lately." What could the matter be? Is it because her boy friend is leaving? Keep your chin up, Lou, he'll come back!

We wonder why our Junior team lost with Statesville. It couldn't be because Betty Joe Smith played half a quarter which you never could expect to happen. Keep it up, Joe, we'll win next time.

Tune in again next month.

—The Infirmary Girls.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Here we are again, bring you news from Synod's Cottage.

Since you heard from us the last time 15 boys have had measles, and as soon as Clayton Miller got over the measles, he took chicken pox. We are all well now, though, and real glad to get back to our cottage.

You should see our new basketballs and goals. The ladies from Miss Cora Freeze's Circle in Mooresville sent the money to buy them. We are having such a good time playing ball. Some of our boys can play real good now, since they have a place to practice. We want to thank the ladies of the circle for a nice gift.

Albert Clough had a visit from his sister last week. Billy Hardin's mamma and a big sister came to see him from Raleigh. They were both real tickled to see their folks.

—The Wigglers.

BABY COTTAGE

Hey there folks! Would you like for us to crowd 'round you for a little visit, feel your pretty dresses with our sticky fingers (for we're eating candy and oranges), maybe step on your toes with our "bootful" shoes and all talk at one time?

Well here we come: Shirley Johnson is all smiles these days. She has found a little new friend about her own age, who is Donna Brooks Irving of Greenville and they are having lots of fun writing letters and exchanging valentines. Donna sent Shirley the nicest little white slips you ever saw. Shirley smiles most of the time. She is just so happy.

Myrtle Rushing, one of our big girls, was taking little Donnie Privette to ride on her back. We asked Donnie what he was riding on and he said "a elephant." Myrtle just laughed and they rode on up and down the hall. You see, it's been snowing and raining and cold and muddy. We think that is fine but they just will not let us go "outsides" to play in any of it, and he said "I see a phet 'ittle boy. I went to seep."

Little Charles Bowles had just gotten up from his afternoon nap, and he said "I see a phet 'ittle boy. I went to seep."

Andy Brown is in the rocking chair all by himself and says "I'm a big boy." But he's out now, trying to get Mrs. Massey's ink bottle off the table. He has pretty brown eyes.

We had a fine time Valentine day. The first and second grades and their teachers, Misses Koon and Vidall, came over to our cottage and had a party and a little play called "Tarts." Beth Jackins was Queen of hearts and baked some tarts, and Donald Dean, a little Knave, stole them away, and then, would you believe it, he wanted another one! The children sang some songs, including some solos, some duets and some quartets. After that, they gave us tangerines, cookies and candy. Miss Vidall said Miss Koon made the

MARRIAGES.

Johnston-Quigley.
Capt. Jos. B. Johnston, Jr., son of the Barium superintendent and his wife, was married in Christ Episcopal Church in Algiers, North Africa, on January 21st to Lieut. Margaret Mary Quigley, of Roxbury, Mass. and the U. S. Army nursing corps. Both are connected with the station hospital in Algiers, Capt. Johnston being on the medical staff. Mrs. Johnston attended Katherine Gibbs School in Boston before taking her nurse's training. Capt. Johnston finished at Barium, at Davidson College and Tulane's Medical School. Before entering the Army Medical Corps he was with Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

BIRTHS.

Sergt. and Mrs. William Morris Freeman, of Statesville and the U. S. Army, announce the birth of a daughter, Rebecca Alice, on February 2nd. Mrs. Freeman is in Statesville; Sergt. Freeman is stationed in California, but had a furlough that enabled him to see his daughter shortly after her arrival.

VISITORS.

Among the many visitors of the alumni to Barium recently have been Mary Ann McCormick, Wilma Jessup, Mr. & Mrs. Jack Weeks (the latter the former Virginia Cranfill), Billy McCall, Wallace and Roscoe Twombly, Paul Horne, Dick Parrish and Robert Brown.

NEW RECRUITS.

The total number of alumni who have joined forces with Uncle Sam now number 187, for the three latest additions are Cecil Shepherd, Mott Price and Paul Reid. The latter was a member of the 1944 graduating class, but left here this month to go into the air corps. The other two are with the Navy.

PROMOTIONS.

Promotions recently occurring among the alumni include Marley Sigmon to Ensign; Hazel Simmons and Sarah Fort to First Lieutenants in the Army Nursing corps; Sam Lackey to Second Lieutenant and pilot in the Army Air Corps; Gordon Jones to Warrent Officer in the Navy; Ernest Stricklin to S-2c, and Mrs. Nellie Johnson Summers (Marine Corps Auxiliary), Dick Parrish and William Cranfill to privates first class.

PERSONALS.

On Page 90 of the February 21st issue of Life Magazine, the nurse standing near the light is First Lieutenant Hazel Simmons, a graduate of Barium Springs. The caption under the picture does not identify the four gathered around the wounded soldier, but those who knew Hazel when she was at Barium Springs recognized her immediately. She was in Charlotte before entering the service.

He: "I've come to a conclusion."
She: "What is it?"
"I realized today that I have been a bachelor for 38 years, and—" cookies. They were so good. Miss Koon wouldn't tell us herself, so Miss Vidall told on her. Mr. Jack-ins, Beth's father; Miss McNeill, our kindergarden teacher, and Mr. Hethcox, were invited to the party, and they came, too. We were invited to the party at school, but there was so much snow on the ground we couldn't go, so they came to us. Now, don't you think that was nice?

Miss Lily Bryant, one of our matrons here (and she's pretty, too), spent the week end in Winston-Salem. Now, can't tell, but her boy friend, who is a marine, was over to see her. He was wearing a pretty uniform and we asked him to stand up and let us look at him - and he did. He's goodlooking, too, if he does wear freckles and "red" hair, and he's "dood," too. He saluted for us and that was pretty. His name is Dick Parrish, and he use to be a little boy here like us. Mrs. Massey taught them both in the first grade! Of course, he comes to see us when he comes

THE SECOND MILE

Wrote a Sunday School treasurer, "The fourth Sunday of December was a bad day for Sunday School, on account of the weather and 'flu'. We only had a few present on that day, and no collection was taken. However, we are sending $8.00 to apply in the usual way. I notice that our gift on the fourth Sunday of December in 1942 was $6.50. We did not want our donation for 1943 to fall under that of 1942, so we are sending the $8.00 as mentioned above." Can you imagine the reply made to that?

From another treasurer: "They wrote me that we had six inches of snow last Sunday and couldn't have Sunday School, as ours is a country church. So, I am sending you my personal check for $3.00, which will represent our second Sunday Offering. I don't want us to miss out." What a treasure was that treasurer!

"Whenever our contribution does not come up to $10.00," penned still another treasurer recently, "I always make up the difference as I want our Class to have a record this year. Up to date, we are $35.43 ahead of last year, with one month to go." Incidentally, that new record is already "in the bag", but officials are expecting that March Offering of this particular class to be among the best of 1943-1944, to bring the year to an appropriate, fitting and outstanding conclusion.

"The last two Sundays for Barium," wrote still another treasurer, "were very bad. In fact, December's Sunday was so bad that the collection only amounted to $3.32, but I collected sums and got it up to $9.47. January would have been better also, but for the weather." This treasurer is among a corps of interested and loyal treasurers who show personal concern about the sum available for Barium Springs each time.

From still another treasurer: "On account of inclement weather there was no Sunday School on December 26th, but I send small Offering." Is there any idea as to the reaction to this?

The above quotations are from treasurers who expressed themselves. Had all of them made some comment, it would make a long list of quotations, for some might have said that they used more than one Sunday to make up the gift that was forwarded for those rainy or snowy Sundays. This would certainly appear to be true from the splendiddness of some reports on those bad days.

MIGHTY FAR-REACHING

A mother in North Carolina wrote, "I sent our son, _____, a copy of your 'Pride and Appreciation'. He is in service somewhere on the South Pacific. He was so impressed with the fine spirit of all the boys who graduated at Barium. He wrote us to send you $25.00 so some other boys might be helped along life's way. Enclosed you will find money order for same. Please do not publish name as he is a very modest type who just wanted to do his bit." This big influence of the 1943 Thanksgiving literature could be multiplied many times, and it will continue to be of powerful influence upon friends.

to Barium, and do we "clean up!" Patsy, Marie, Mary Rose, Shirley, Lois, Linda, Ann, and Jackie Pauline have all "come up" from the Infirmary, where they went because they had the measles.
Ralph, Bobby, Boyce, Richard, Donald, Ronnie, Jerry Ellis (we have two Jerrys) Jimmy, Payton, Johnnie and Charles have come up, too. Didn't Mrs. McNatt have a time with all the measles babies at one time?
But, everyone of us got along just fine, and had a good time even if we were in bed. We tell you, Mrs. McNatt and Miss Lackey are "tops."
We could write you just lots more, but we're about left all the sugar from candy on your "pretty dresses," and hope we didn't hurt your toes with our shoes!
Charles, Jerry, Thomas, Clyde and Idell Andrews and Loretta didn't get sick. Wonder if they're just tougher'n us.
Donnie didn't get sick, either; He gets 'round too fast, keeping ahead of measles 'n things.

"This is a type of car that pays for itself, sir."

"Well, as soon as it has done that you may have it delivered to my garage."

A teacher was impressing upon her class the fact that you cannot subtract one thing from others unless they are of the same denomination. "For instance," she said, "we cannot take two apples from three oranges."

Then a bright boy said, "But teacher, can't we take four apples from two trees?"

Mrs. Jones: "How did Henry get on with his history examinations, my dear?"

Mrs. Jones: "He failed. What else can you expect? Why, they asked him questions about things that happened before he was born."

"Daddy, may I ask you a question?"

"Yes, son, but it must be a short one."

"If a doctor is doctoring a doctor, does the doctor doing the doctoring have to doctor the doctor the way the doctor being doctor'd wants to be doctor'd, or does the doctor doctoring the doctor, doctor the doctor the way he usually doctors?"

Mother: "Tommy, what are you doing in the pantry?"
Tommy: "Oh, just putting a few things away."

Visitor: "What make is your nephew's new car?"

Old Lady (rather vague about such things): "I think I heard him say it was a wow."

He: "I have killed five flies, two masculine and three feminine."

She: "How do you know that?"
He: "Two were on the table and three on the looking glass."

A salesman, driving through a remote section of a distant state, stopped at a service station for some gasoline. By way of making conversation with the attendant, he said:

"Great job General MacArthur is doing over there in the Pacific, isn't it?"

"Who's MacArthur?" drawled the slow-moving attendant.

"Why, he's the fellow who's leading our forces that are whipping the Japs!"

"What's he whipping them about?"

"Oh, never mind! Just give me twenty gallons of gas and two full sets of new tires."

"Willie," said his mother, "I wish you would run across the street and see how old Mrs. Brown is this morning." A few minutes later Willie reported: "Mrs. Brown says it's none of your business how old she is."

"Hello! This is Mrs. Jones. Will you send some nice cutlets right away?"

"I'm sorry, but we haven't any cutlets."

"Well, then, a couple of nice lean pork chops."

"We haven't any pork chops either, Mrs. Jones."

"Oh, how provoking! Then a small sirloin steak will have to do."

"We haven't any steak."

"For heaven's sake! Aren't you Smith the butcher?"

"No, I'm Smith the florist."

"Oh! Well, send me a dozen white lilies. My husband must be starved to death by now."

"Ah," said the doctor, looking into one eye, "it is easy for me to see what is the matter with you! This is not merely eye trouble; it is an affection of the nervous system. There are all the signs of liver trouble, of fatty degeneration of the heart, of a bad blood supply. The only thing I can recommend is—"

"Here, here!" cried the patient, "Isn't it about time you looked into the other eye? That's my glass one!"

"Do you worry over your children's modern ways?" the mother was asked.

"Yes," she sighed, "but it sometimes seems they worry even more over my old-fashioned notions."

Annual Health Clinic Is Held In January

General Health of Barium Family Has Been Good As Shown by Check-up

You know, we always have our health examinations in January, and usually we write about it in the next issue of The Messenger. This year that was skipped, and now this article is appearing a month late; in fact, nearly two months late. Here's why: the examinations went off just as usual. There were 16 bad tonsils; there were a few other minor operations, and for the most part, the children were in good shape.

We were just squaring off to write an article bragging about the fine state of their health. Everybody around us was having flu, and we didn't have a single case, and we were really feeling in a very superior frame of mind when our nurse, Mrs. McNatt, informed us one day that she had a case of measles - zowie! We were right in the midst of tonsil operations when that announcement was made; in fact, the Infirmary had eight tonsillectomy convalescents (how do you like those two words?) when this one little case of measles showed up. The boy's name was Whiting, by the way, and he is very blond ordinarily. We thought of changing his name from White to "Red" - it would have been more appropriate, because he was certainly on fire, and in just a few days, the procession started. Something like 90 went through the mill before we took down the quarantine sign and announced that the measles was over.

At times there were 70 in the Infirmary at one time, and the routine with each one was just about the same - a few bumps, a rather sickly grin, followed the next day by many bumps and a decidedly doleful countenance; then on the third day the smiles started to return, and from then on, the patients really enjoyed the party.

Having a good many sick at one time was very hard on the nurse and the housekeeper, Mrs. McNatt and Miss Beatty Lackey, respectively, because after the first couple of days, there wasn't a thing wrong with appetites, and it taxed the kitchen at the Infirmary to keep all those appetites satisfied. For a time we had to have some extra help there preparing and serving meals and cleaning up the wreckage afterwards.

Having so many sick at one time had its advantages, too. A single measles patient gets mighty lonesome; the room has to be kept darkened, and unless there is a radio or something like (Continued On Page Three)

Beattie Memorial Goes Over the Top

Beattie Memorial Church in Concord Presbytery has become the 215th one in North Carolina Synod to send its greatest Thanksgiving Offering to Barium Springs since the season of 1925. Last month's Messenger listed 214 churches, missions or chapels achieving this, and in March the final Thanksgiving response arrived from Beattie Memorial which sent its Offering beyond the former high of $39.00, sent in 1940.

There may possibly be some more; if so, public mention of these churches will be made in subsequent issues of The Messenger.

These 215 were among the 390 giving as much or more than in 1942, leaving but 106 that failed to reach their Offerings of the previous Thanksgiving. All told, 496 reports had been finished on March 14th, while at least 30 others were yet to be marked as complete.

Government Bonds Show $1,000 Increase

This Gain In Securities For New Church Occurs Span of 26 Days

Within less than a month the United States government bonds which are either being bought or sent to Barium Springs for the contemplated new church and educational building have increased $1,000.00. On March 15th, the securities in hand totaled $27,800.00 and on February 18th, when the last article was written for the (Continued On Page Three)

Thanksgiving Sums Continue to Arrive

All Presbyteries Will Show Some Increase.— Books on 1943 Offering Close Soon

On February 29th, the total Thanksgiving Offering received from churches in the Synod of North Carolina had advanced to $63,337.01, which was then $7,323.63 greater than the final total for the season of 1942. In addition to these Thanksgiving sums through the regular church channels, $8,967.00 had been sent by individuals and business firms direct to Barium Springs, making (Continued On Page Three)

Girl Scouts Celebrate Their First Birthday

March 10th Marked the An- niversary of Organization.— Play Was Presented

By the Girl Scouts.
We, the Girl Scouts of Barium Springs, celebrated our first birthday Friday night, March 10th, from eight 'til ten o'clock. You can imagine our excitement and keen enjoyment when we tell you that we not only had many of our friends from Barium who are interested in us, but fourteen sister scouts and their leader, Mrs. Ples Canter, from Statesville with us. And we had a real birthday cake with all the trimmings! The one lonely candle looked 'most lost on that big cake but next year we hope to have two!

Troop Number II, under the direction of Miss Gladys Burroughs and Miss Sara McNeill, the leaders, presented a play called "The Vanishing Pearls" after an investiture ceremony and patriotic song "He's My Uncle." All twenty-one of us in this troop had a part in the play and were proud to wear our uniforms for the first time before an audience. At the end of our play the cake was brought on the stage by two of the characters, the little negro maid and her "boy friend." All the scouts who were not in the play, including our Statesville visitors, were asked to come to the front of the auditorium while the audience stood and sang "Happy Birthday" to all the scouts.

Orphanage Work Secretary Says:

Dear Friends of Barium in the Woman's Synodical Auxiliary:
Again it is time to balance our books and close our accounts for the past year.

By this time all local Secretaries have the Orphanage work blanks in their hands and are ready to make out the report of the work that has been accomplished in their Presbyterial during the year.

If we have been faithful and served well we will have a feeling of joy and satisfaction.

Nothing can give our hearts greater happiness than to feel that our fatherless ones have all the comforts of life.

Let us be 100% in our reporting. Two features are necessary for successful reporting - accuracy and promptness.

When we read in The Messenger that the Thanksgiving Offering has been unusually good and the memorial gifts are increasing rapidly from month to month we realize that the Presbyterians of North Carolina have the interest of their Orphans' Home on their hearts.

I want to express to all my co-workers my deep appreciation of their cooperation in this work and for the liberal gifts that have enabled this work to go forward so wonderfully during the past year.

We all feel a sense of pride that in these critical times this work could be carried on without interruption.

At this time when our attention is so centered on the war, let us not forget to keep the home fires burning and faithful to all our responsibilities and obligations especially our boys and girls at Barium Orphanage who are to be the men and women of tomorrow.
JANIE J. LOFTIN,
Synodical Secretary of Orphanage Work.

GOOD NEWS

The single good news item for the March issue of The Messenger is the revelation that Cross Roads Auxiliary in Orange Presbytery is adding a Circle in 1944-1945, which will mean $12.00 more to Barium Springs, since that Auxiliary follows the $1.00-per-month-per-Circle plan. This is going to be a 50% increase in giving by that Auxiliary, for they now have two Circles and sent $24.00 for 1943-1944. Next year, it will be $36.00.

Officials at Barium take a great deal of pleasure in revealing any items increasing the regular income, and will continue to follow the policy of acquainting everybody in the Synod with any newcomers to regular systematic plans or any definite increases in regular appropriations. Of course, some organizations allotting all of one particular offering to Barium Springs show gains repeatedly, and if these were listed each time, the majority of churches in the Synod would be listed at one time or another throughout the year, and some of them in most of the months.

Two Commencement Speakers Are Selected

Dr. Roy D. Watts, Albemarle, and Dr. George Mauze, Win- ston-Salem Accept Invitations

Two of the three people who will make addresses at the 1944 commencement exercises of the high school at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home have been invited and accepted invitations, and within a short time the third and final speaker will have been chosen and an acceptance received from (Continued On Page Two)

Many Are Entering $100.00 S. S. Club

Sixty-eight Were "In" On Feb- ruary 29th.— Final Num- ber to Be Over 80

By February 29th, three more Sunday Schools had become members of the $100.00 Club, to make 68 in this classification when the 11th month of 1943-1944 was ended. The final number in the Club in 1942-1943 was 77, but with many of the Sunday Schools on the threshold, the total "making" it when all donations are in hand this year will be nearer 85. Some stepped across in the early days of March when the final Offerings of 1943-1944 were welcomed at Barium Springs after the first Sunday.

The three that were added in February were Church-in-the-Pines and Jackson Springs in Fayetteville Presbytery and Rutherfordton in Kings Mountain Presbytery. The first two were grouped with the 77 last year, but Rutherfordton returns to the $100.00 Club after being on the outside one year.

Lacked But $320.98 on Febru- ary 9th.— New Peak Reach- ed Early in March

If the Synod of North Carolina had reported $320.98 more to Barium Springs by February 29th, then the total receipts for the 11 months would have been exactly equal to the final aggregate for the full 12 months of 1942-1943. In the first few days of March more than the $320.98 was received from Synod, so the contributions from Synod for 1943-1944 are slated to be considerably in excess of the 1942-1943 income from this source.

The record shows that in March and the first 15 days of April last year, when the books were kept open to receive old year funds, that $14,372.34 was forwarded to Barium Springs. On this basis, the final figures for Synod will show a gain of slightly more than $14,000.00 if the receipts were identical. However, since there has been an increase in regular donations throughout most of the past 11 months, a further gain in regular gifts is expected in March and through April 12th, when the books will be closed.

Elsewhere in The Messenger detail is furnished on the Thanksgiving Offering as it has arrived from the nine Presbyteries, but in this article it is revealed that the regular receipts showed an advance of $6,353.91 for the 11 months. Church appropriations and Sunday School Offerings had respective increases of $3,551.09 and $2,963.70, with the Auxiliaries showing a decline of $160.88, to give the net gain as announced above.

Of the regular total of $45,894.91, Sunday Schools were leading in the amount contributed. These organizations had been responsible for $21,376.83, or 46.6% of the aggregate. Church budgets sent 37.6%, or $17,265.55. The balance of $7,252.53 came from Auxiliaries and meant they were responsible for 15.8% of the regular month-by-month income.

Within the nine Presbyteries, this regular amount had been received from the three main sources as follows:

Presbytery	Ch.	S. S.	Aux.
Albemarle	$ 373.69	$1,181.65	$1,020.00
Concord	2,779.94	3,281.59	1,052.35
Fayetteville	2,173.37	3,842.26	766.72
Granville	925.95	850.63	719.65
Kings Mtn.	1,378.76	2,595.88	531.02
Mecklenburg	4,486.56	4,443.26	1,062.63
Orange	1,580.96	2,329.19	1,236.52
Wilmington	1,856.45	1,855.32	437.79
W.-Salem	1,709.37	967.05	425.85

TOTALS $17,265.55 $21,376.83 $7,252.53

Concord Presbytery has a fairly comfortable lead over Kings Mountain in per capita giving, with Concord and Kings Mountain both being 'way out in front of the other seven. The lineup of the Presbyteries as noticed at the close of February is going to fairly approximate the standing at the year's conclusion, for most of the Thanksgiving Offering was in hand, and the balance of the giving is slated to follow the pattern observed in earlier months.

After Concord and Kings Mountain comes Winston-Salem and Mecklenburg, which have slots (Continued On Page Three)

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Friends,
Here we are back with you bringing you the latest news.

We hope you are feeling as good as we are.

Old spring is just around the corner, but it doesn't seem like it right now.

Miss Burgess went off for a week-end not so long ago and while she was there she made the best cake! Each one of us got a slice.

Miss Burgess (who is always thoughtful) took some of our Christmas money and bought each of us a mirror. She had them put on the wall according to our height. She also had a long dressing table made for each dressing room, and a shelf put underneath to put our shoes on.

Miss Hardin, Annie Louise Matron, is well now and, boy, are we glad! But we sure are sorry that Mrs. Rogers went home.

We got report cards and only two girls made the honor roll. They were Hazel Creech and Shirley Inman. All of us will try to make it next month.

Our Girl Scouts gave a play last night and invited the scouts from Statesville. After the play we had punch and cake, which was our birthday cake.

—The Howard Girls.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends,

Our spring month is here again and our basketball tournaments are about to start. We have several girls who will enter and they are just itching to get out there and help win for all of us.

The following girls had visits from their people: Lucille Brown, Betsy Disherman, Virginia Hendrix, Annie Marie Andrews, and Dorothy Shepherd.

A good friend of ours came and brought us some cookies. We all want to thank her for them very much.

Some of the girls got very pretty presents from some of their people in the service. We have 10 girls who have relatives in some part of the armed forces.

We are looking forward to the Girl Scout party which we are going to have this month. We are now a year old. Mrs. Johnston is going to cut the cake which we will all join in eating.

We want to thank Mr. Johnston for letting us go to the show. We certainly did enjoy it.

—Rumple Hall Girls.

PRINTING OFFICE

Dear Readers,

Sometimes you probably wonder how The Barium Messenger is printed.

The boys do it themselves, along with the help of Mr. E. K. Kyles, the foreman. Of course, there is someone behind him Mr. Ernest Milton, assistant editor, who makes up the copy and Mr. Johnston, takes the blame for anything printed that ought not to be. I doubt if you very seldom find anything that ought not to be there.

The money copy, as you see every month on the back page, is worked up by Miss Andrews, bookkeeper and cashier.

The copy is sent down here and Ray Lewis sets a lot of it up on the linotype when he is here. Mr. Kyles usually does it now since we are in school most of the day. Paul Reid, a former Barium boy who was drafted, used to set it up. I set a little of it up myself.

James Reid runs the linotype a little. What he does mostly is to work on our mailing list, putting in names and taking them out, changing addresses, making proofs of it to run through the mailers which stamps the name on every paper.

Our mailing list has over 25,000 names on it, not counting the boys in the service which are from Barium. We send one to them every month. They number about 230, which includes the ones we send to the wives of the soldiers or various other branches of the armed forces. We have boys from up here in about every branch there is.

When Mr. Kyles has "made up" the forms, I run them off the press with his aid (if anything goes wrong that I can't fix, he does; I wonder what we'll do without him if the Army calls him).

Then we hand it over to Mr. Martin, our shoeman. He fixes shoes during the time he doesn't run the folder.

One of our printer's devils watches the "box" (that is where the papers come out of the folder after they have gone through the process of folding). They are then passed to Ray Lewis and myself to have a name stamped on them and from us to James Reid and the beginners who wrap them. James is not a printer's devil any more. He has passed that stage of learning.

The bundles are then put in bags labeled and set out on the Printing Office porch. Mr. Thomas, the postmaster, gets them. We then see no more of them unless some have the wrong address on them or come unwrapped on the way.

—Earl Allen.

ANNIE LOUISE

Dear Friends,

Well, we are glad to have Miss Hardin back with us after having been out for two months on account of illness. We missed her so much. Mrs. Margaret Rogers from Franklin, Va. was with us during Miss Hardin's absence. She was so sweet. We hated to see her leave us. In fact, we begged her to stay with us.

We are so proud of our lovely new bed spreads. Circle No. 3 in Mooresville so graciously gave them to us. They also brought us some candy. We enjoyed the candy and our beds look so good with our new spreads on.

We got our report cards. These were the girls on honor roll: Pattie Inman, Aline Thomas, Shirley Thomas, Martha Nell Hall, Sylvia Sue Buie, Geraldine Katen, Margaret Hopkins and Jackie Porterfield.

Since you last heard from us Betty Lou Hooten has come to live with us as one of our big girls. We like her very much.

Nearly all of us had measles and several have had pink eye, but we are all well and happy again.

We have an honor guest on our campus now. She is Mrs. John Q. Holton from Winston-Salem. She was seventh grade teacher here for many years and for five years before her retirement she was matron of our cottage. We are delighted to have her visit us. We hope she will not wait so long before she visits us again. We all learned to love Mrs. Holton and we can never forget her. She just seems to belong to Barium.

We will soon be thinking of school closing and spring. Then it won't be long until summer and camp and vacation time. We get all excited when we think of all this, so we'll sign off right here.

BABY COTTAGE

Most before we know it, it's time to write you another letter. Wish we could get a letter some day. We like to get mail.

We'll just come in and sit down, try to keep our feet on the floor, and our hands on our laps long enough to write you a letter.

Mrs. Massey came in just now and said, "little birds, open your mouths", and they flew wide open. She dropped a little round piece of candy right "ker-dab" on our tongues. Was it good! Oh, my!

Myrtle Rushing put on a little play the other night and she made it all up herself, too! And here it is:

The Land of Winter

Queen of the Land of Winter, Lois Dellinger; Snow Shoes, Linda Inman; Messenger, Donald Deane; King of March, Richard Vest; Flowers, Shirley and Jackie; Children, Johnnie, Marie Idell, Patsy, Charles and Mary Rose.

Place: In basement of playroom. Time: 7:30.

We wish you could have seen us. We liked ourselves pretty good, all dressed up!

Nina Berryhill, one of our big girls, just will not let us start anywhere with soiled hands and faces. She adores a wash rag and "ole" soap. We try to slip by some times, but no, sir, she gets there with that wash rag first!

Hazel Walker has gone to live at the Woman's Building and Dorothy Maples has come to live with us. Bye, bye, Hazel, and good luck to you and to Dorothy, too, if we give you time to find it.

Virginia Presnell and Dorothy play basketball.

Miss Lily Bryant spent the week end at Salisbury visiting her friend, Miss Janie Smith.

Little Andy Brown's father came to see him last Sunday. Andy was so glad he just laughed and laughed.

Donnie Privett couldn't run fast enough to get away from a cold, and he is at the Infirmary. One night before he went to the Infirmary he heard an air plane. (he had been put to bed and it was time he was asleep). He called out loud, "Dot air plane's 'yumm'n' fast."

Mary Rose was rocking her baby doll in a little cradle and was singing Mary's little lamb like this: "and Mary put the teacher out."

Miss Whitener has come to live with us awhile too. She plays games with us and we have a grand time.

We have two new babies, Doris and Jean Harris. They are sweet little folks.

Our feet just will not be still another minute and our hands are so tired being still. We'll just have to get up and run out now in the sunshine.

We must tell you, though, that little Charles Bowles' mother came to see him last week.

Mrs. Holton has been to see us, too. She lives in Winston-Salem now.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks,

This is the Infirmary bringing you the news of the month.

We are very glad to have Mrs. Holton, one of our retired matrons, with us. We feel honored having her stay in our cottage.

We have had very few patients sick this month. We have one patient, Herbert Good, who has just had his appendix removed. He is much better and will soon be out.

We enjoyed having all the Sunday School Superintendents with us Sunday for their conference.

We have taken in five new children since we last wrote you. They are: Earl and Bobby Johnson, and Jimmy, Donnie and Jean Harrington. We are very glad to have them with us.

Look for us in the next Messenger.

—The Infirmary Girls.

leaving here in 1941, Jimmy has been in the naval air corps continuously, and has been an aerial gunner. He was on duty for 22 consecutive months in the South Pacific after Pearl Harbor. Mrs. Dorton is a native of Granelly, Ark., and is stationed at the Marine Corps base at San Diego.

BIRTHS.

Warrant Officer and Mrs. James Fred Edwards, of Taft, Calif., announce the birth of a son on March 13th. Both of these are graduates of Barium, Mrs. Edwards being the former Lucile Burney.

Corp. and Mrs. James Hannon, of Atlanta, Ga. announce the birth of a girl. The exact date of the recent arrival is not known at Barium.

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Turner, of Greenville, Ills., announce the birth of a son on December 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pollock, of Clinton, N. C., announce the birth of a son on December 12th. Mrs. Pollock is the former Minnie Lou Turner.

Anna Turner, who told of the above two births, also announced the birth of a child on December 9th, but didn't say whether it was a boy or girl, nor did she give her married name. It was interesting that children were born in these homes on December 9th, 10th and 12th.

When A. C. Gantt was a visitor recently (the only alumni visitor besides Dick Parrish) he also stated that he was a father, but he didn't reveal whether it was a boy or a girl, or the date of birth. A. C. is stationed at Pensacola, Fla.

PROMOTIONS

James D. Johnston, son of the Barium superintendent, from Major to Lieutenant Colonel (he has been acting in this capacity since June, though his commission was only recently received) and Marshall Norris to S 1-c.

NEW RECRUITS.

Strange as it may seem, this is the first issue of The Barium Messenger in a long, long while that has not given the name of some alumnus entering the services of Uncle Sam. Maybe there were some within the past three weeks, but officials here are not acquainted with them.

PERSONALS.

No further word has been received about Second Lieut. T. L. O'Kelly, missing on an over-water flight. For 14 consecutive days his family received a telegram in Charlotte that the search for him was continuing, but on the 16th day, the telegram said that the search had been abandoned after covering a territory of a thousand miles and extending over a period of 16 days. Mr. and Mrs. O'Kelly, former residents of Barium, were informed that their next official word would be coming from Washington.

The newspapers recently listed the name of Vance Smith, Jr., of Statesville, a Barium alumnus, as having been wounded. That information was known here some time before it became public property, and by now Vance has no doubt recovered and is back in the thick of things.

At the Sunday School superintendents' conference at Barium Springs recently, four of the visitors (not all are superintendents, though) were alumni of Barium. These were Rev. J. O. Mann, D. D., of Charlotte, W. T. Warlick and Ed. Flowers, of Statesville, and George Faison, of Newton.

Two Commencement Speakers

him. Rev. Roy D. Watts, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albemarle, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates on Sunday, May 14th, and the commencement address on Monday night, May 15th, will be delivered by Rev. George Mauze, D. D., pastor of the First Church of Winston-Salem and a member of the Board of Regents of the Home.

The third speaker, who has not yet been invited, will be the minister who will preach to the various Young People's Societies on the Sunday night of May 14th.

In addition to the appearances of these three speakers, there will be other program events of the commencement season, which always include exercises on the Friday night preceding graduation and the final Class Day program on the morning of graduation. Before these events, too, there will be a junior and senior music recital by the pupils of Miss Laura Gray Greene. Usually there has been but one recital, but two are planned for this spring.

Commencement of 1944 will be a month later than it has been for a good many years, and that is because the schools here, like all others in North Carolina, are now operating under a nine-month schedule instead of eight months. Even as it is, the graduating exercises at Barium Springs will be earlier than the average school, because of the opening of the 1943-1944 session the latter part of August and also because no time is lost here because of bad weather. The school buildings are on the campus and nobody has to depend upon a bus getting them there. Consequently, heavy snows never interfere, as it does in most schools.

Fuller details on the 1944 commencement program will be announced in the April issue, when the name of the third speaker will also be available.

INSPIRING TRIBUTE

Maybe this ought to be placed in the "Alumni News" of The Barium Messenger, but if so, it might be that only the alumni would read it. Since it is the desire of officials that everybody - both alumni and the constituents of the North Carolina Synod - read this, it is being published in the general columns of The Messenger. It is a comment of which all should be proud. It will be gratifying to those students who have attended Davidson College and it will be stimulating to those who have made possible this higher education.

In March a gift of $20.00 was forwarded to Barium through a friend by a Captain in the U. S. Air Corps, and the accompanying letter said this:

"I graduated from Davidson College and during that time he saw much of the Barium Springs Orphanage boys. In the letter with this enclosed check he said he had never met a finer group of boys anywhere."

Such a tribute is inevitably of large satisfaction to every person at Barium Springs who has had any part whatsoever in helping to train the boys and girls who graduate from the Home.

This comment by a Davidson alumnus is not the first one, by any means, that has come to officials at Barium Springs, but it is the latest. Many such assertions have been made, and contacts with Barium Springs' boys at Davidson have even led to the sending of contributions to this Home by people who are not affiliated with the Presbyterian denomination. They simply wanted to give their stamp of approval to the type of work that was being done with the graduates whom they later knew in college.

JOHN DOE CONTRIBUTES

You've read of "John Doe" in school textbooks a good many times, and John Doe has been a figure in many arithmetic problems offered for solving. That gentleman has become quite real to officials at Barium Springs in recent months, for airmail letters have been reaching Barium from Pueblo, Colorado, and in each airmail letter has been a splendid donation.

Officials here have no idea who this particular John Doe is, but it is an assured fact that he or she does not want his or her identity known, for there is never any return address on the envelope. No copy of The Messenger goes to anyone in Pueblo, though there might be some relative in North Carolina forwarding a copy out to Colorado.

Anyway, the gifts keep on coming, they keep on being recorded at Barium Springs, and the gratitude of the people here keeps on climbing.

S. S. Superintendents' Conference Held Here

Sunday School Leaders of Concord Presbytery Have All-Day Session on March 5th

More than 25 Sunday Schools of Concord Presbytery were represented at Barium Springs Sunday, March 5th, at an all-day conference of Sunday School superintendents and their assistants, who were met here by leaders from the Synod and from Richmond, Va. Approximately 40 arrived for the morning sessions and lunch at Barium, while an equally large number of elders, deacons and pastors came in the afternoon for the closing address on "Men and the Church" by S. J. Patterson, director of men's work, with headquarters in Richmond.

McAlister Carson, of Charlotte, was the key individual arranging the sessions in conjunction with Rev. J. O. Mann, D.D., also of Charlotte and who is director of religious education.

Dr. John C. Bailey, dean of students at Davidson College, spoke on "The Sunday School and Christian Culture" at the first exercise, followed by a discussion on "The Superintendent's Job" by Mr. Patterson from Richmond.

Rev. Thos. C. Cook, pastor of Little Joe's church, preached a sermon at the regular morning worship service in which he extolled the importance of Sunday Schools endeavor. Lillie Bell Smith, a senior at Barium, led the devotional exercises in the church service. The choir, which gave a special number, was composed solely of Barium boys and girls, with Dewey Belle Buie at the piano.

Participating in the afternoon session, presided over by Mr. Carson, were Elbert Todd, Charlotte, former superintendent of Westminster Sunday School, who presented an outline of detailed records kept on their Sunday School members; Miss Mary Louise Woodson, Charlotte, on "Improving Our Worship Services," Dr. Mann on "Securing and Helping Teachers," with the final stirring and inspirational address by Mr. Patterson. Just before Mr. Patterson's address, a general discussion on the Sunday School was led by Rev. A. R. Batchelor, of Richmond, Va., director of Sunday Schools in the General Assembly, who was a former pastor in Concord Presbytery.

This meeting at Barium Springs was one of several which have been planned throughout North Carolina Synod, and are designed to inspire the Sunday School superintendents in their important jobs and to fortify them with materials to carry on their work in an effective manner. The consensus of opinion after adjournment at 4 o'clock was that this assembly of Sunday School leaders was an unusually worthwhile attempt on the part of those planning them.

somewhat to themselves. The other five are in a closer range of each other, with Granville ahead and with Wilmington trailing. There's not such a great difference between the last five. Granville has a per capita sum of 106.1 cents as compared with Wilmington's low of 90.9 cents. In between will be found Albemarle, Orange and Fayetteville in that order.

Last-minute giving by some Presbyteries may change this picture of the ratings, and it will be interesting when the final standing is prepared to see how closely it conforms to the one appearing in this issue of The Messenger.

Through February the Presbyterians of the Synod had an average of $1.17 per person. The final average will probably be around $1.23 for the 93,371 North Carolina Presbyterians.

a grand total of $72,304.01 that had arrived as a result of that special season of the year.

And, that is not all of the Thanksgiving. Offering yet. The individual donations have probably been completed, but a considerable amount was yet to be welcomed from treasurers of churches, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries. Quite a bit of that had arrived at Barium Springs through the middle of March. Synod's total on March 14th was $64,047.44, with an estimate of around $600.00 yet to be recorded at Barium.

April 12th has been set as the closing date on the 1943-1944 books, and any Thanksgiving Offering arriving after that date cannot be included in the 1943 grand aggregate. It is hoped that practically all of it will be here long before that time, and that treasurers will notice that they have not sent the Offerings when they start balancing off their books for the year.

All but one Presbytery had gone beyond the 1942 final by February 29th, and that Presbytery had Thanksgiving Offerings for Barium Springs in early March that sent it over, too. The one behind on February 29th was Orange, which lacked $340.38. The other eight Presbyteries had increases at the close of last month as follows: Concord, $2,817.77; Mecklenburg, $1,414.65; Granville, $1,055.53; Wilmington, $751.62; Fayetteville, $586.61; Winston-Salem, $439.27; Kings Mountain, $373.07, and Albemarle, $225.49.

The total from all Presbyteries through February, as compared with the final 1942 Thanksgiving Offering, is as follows:

Generous Response To Red Cross Appeal

Sum of $124.50 Given By Barium Springs Under Sponsorship of Senior Class

The greatest amount ever contributed to the Red Cross cause was donated by the people at Barium Springs in the recent 1944 campaign when $124.50 was collected and sent on to officials in charge of the efforts in Iredell County. This was considerably in excess of the response which the people made in 1943.

Members of the senior class are annually in charge of the task of contacting everyone on the campus, and this is also presented to the pupils in the classroom. Mr. W. A. Hethcox, school principal, turned over the job to the seniors entirely, told them to elect their own chairman and then to proceed in their efforts.

As the collections were made, they were handed to Mr. Hethcox, who was the individual turning the final sum in to the proper authorities. "The Seniors did an unusually good job this year," said Mr. Hethcox, "and deserve to be congratulated. Too, the people of Barium Springs are to be commended for their generosity."

Everyone at Barium Springs is keenly interested in this important agency. Most of the workers have some relative with the armed forces, this is also true of many of the children, and then there are close to 200 alumni of Barium Springs affiliated with the fighting forces in some way. The senior solicitors said that everybody seemed glad of the opportunity to aid the Red Cross.

Government Bonds Show

Messenger on the progress of the funds, the bonds numbered $26,800.00.

That was a thousand dollar gain in 26 days, and from what has been written to officials at Barium about other bonds to be sent, there will be a further decided gain by the time the next Messenger is issued. The bonds through March 15th had increased $12,700.00 over what the Home owned last April 1st.

Included in the recent increase were four bonds sent direct to Barium Springs. Three of these were of $25.00 denomination and one was a $100.00 bond, all of the Series F and properly made out to "The Regents of the Orphans' Home, a corporation, Barium Springs, N. C."

Mrs. George Petteway, of Charlotte, sent two more $25.00 bonds, to make $100.00 in such securities that she has sent here in memory of her father and mother, the late Dr. and Mrs. James Aaron Austin.

A $25.00 bond was received from Mrs. Comann M. Gold, of Wilson, who had honored her aunt, the late Miss Louise Daniel, of Wilson.

From a friend a $100.00 bond was received in memory of the late Mr. E. J. McIntire, of Wilmington, who died in January. The friend desired that identity remain unknown.

Two monetary gifts were received without any memorial thought behind them - simply a desire on the part of the donors to help on the church project. One was a $100.00 check from Miss Ella Graham, Route 3, Laurinburg, and the other was a $50.00 check from a friend who also asked that the name not be made public.

The balance of the money available for bond purchases were memorial contributions such as those listed on the back page of this Messenger and which appear in the paper every month. These gifts average about three a day, and are not only helping to build a church and aid the government, but appropriately honor the deceased and express heartfelt sympathy to those who survive.

Girl Scouts Celebrate

Ellen Holt, Jennie Lee Phillips, Annie Hendrix, Essie Jean Lee, Hilda Barnes, Hazel Creech, Mary Lee Jordan, Ethel Brotherton, and Elizabeth Johnston.

After the play we had a birthday party at the Woman's building where we were happy to have as our guests the Statesville scouts, our Troop Committee, Mrs. Jos. B. Johnston, Mrs. George Neel, and Mr. Ernest Milton and Mr. Jos. B. Johnston, and Mrs. John Q. Holton. Troop Number I and their leader, Miss Lorena Clark, had charge of the party. Mrs. Johnston cut the birthday cake and Miss Clark officiated at the punch table. Our Girl Scout color scheme of green and yellow was beautifully carried out with arrangements of spring flowers as well as in the refreshments. We were happy Girl Scouts as we sat before the log fire and discussed scouting with our friends.

As it is the beginning of a new Scout year it is in order for us to take inventory: During the year we, Troop Number II, have received as a gift, $32.50; we cleared from the sale of Christmas cards, $21.00; from the sale of scrap paper we earned $16.02. We now have over a hundred dollars invested in uniforms after using most of the money from our treasury and receiving generous gifts from friends. We have bought Girl Scout Handbooks and song and program books. Our membership fees and Troop credential fee for next year have been sent to National headquarters and our Girl Scout pins have been ordered. Each member of our Troop was able to pay her own membership dues, as we had saved money that had been given to us. We now have in our treasury $6.96. At our play we sold ice cream and candy to pay the expenses of our party.

We have had many good times during the past year. The younger patrol in our Troop, headed by Miss Burroughs, is now working on handicraft, while the other patrol, with Miss McNeill as leader, is working to earn our First Aid badge.

Troop Number I. Leader: Miss Lorena Clark; Assistant leader, Miss Vidal. Patrol Number I, headed by Miss Clark, has the following members: Frances Rhyne, Margaret Bullard, Annie Star Langley, Dorothy Shepherd, Nellie Isenhour, Callie Dunn, Vivian Jacumin, Frances Adams, Elina Thomas, Helen Morgan, Anne Wicker, Elsie Vest, and Virginia Hendrix.

Miss Vidal has charge of Patrol Number II, with the following members: Mary Morgan, Betsy Dishman, Lucille Holt, Elizabeth Johnson, Melva Powell, Lucille Brown, Gwendolyn Landrum, Kathleen Monroe, Willie Mae Robinson, Jean Turlington, Betty Sue Wolfe, and Betty Lou Williams.

Troop Number II: Leader, Miss Sara McNeill; Assistant leader, Miss Gladys Burroughs. Patrol Number I, with Miss McNeill as leader, has the following members: Ellen Holt, Shirley Inman, Lucille Stinson, Kathleen Ellis, Mabel Milton, Peggy Neel, Juanita Young, Frances Stricklin, Clara Mangum, Essie Jean Lee, Mary Lee Jordan and Annie Hendrix.

Patrol Number II, headed by Miss Burroughs, has the following members: Louise Campbell, Hilda Barnes, Ethel Brotherton, Jennie Lee Phillips, Catherine Stevens, Hazel Creech, Betty McMannen and Jane Feimster.

Annual Health Clinic

that handy, time passes mighty slowly, but when there are a half dozen in that room - my, my - the jokes they can tell, the songs they can sing, the games they can play, and all we had to do was to keep the building comfortable and let nature take its course. Now that is all settled, and we are getting down to the business of writing about the clinic.

As you know, there is a doctor shortage - a most serious doctor shortage in Iredell County. Instead of having one doctor for each 800 people, I believe we have one doctor for every 4,500 people right now in this county. That being the case, we didn't want to take as much time of our regular Dr. Herman as we had been formerly, so we asked Dr. Skeen to help out, and the two of them really did give our youngsters a going over.

Both doctors seemed to get a great kick out of it. Dr. Skeen was Barium Boys Were Champions at Landis

Boys and Girls Participate In Three Others.—Big Tournament Staged Here

The latter part of February and the early part of March has been the season for basketball tournaments. The initial one is always the Mid-Piedmont affair at Barium Springs in which 32 teams are guests and in which the Barium players play host to the visiting contingents. That tournament has been followed by three in which the Barium varsity aggregations have been participants.

Naturally the one which stands out uppermost in the minds of the Barium crowd is the affair over at Landis, for the Barium Springs boys were champions of that tournament. Their laurels were won against China Grove's boys, and the Barium five had to play sensationally in the closing quarter to overcome a substantial lead and win by two points. Six gold basketballs were given the individual members, and a trophy to the team. This award has been added to many which are already displayed in the dining room at Rumble Hall. The girls were entered, too, but they were eliminated in the semi-finals.

Both of the varsity teams participated in the tournament at Scotts, but they both went down in the semi-finals. However, Mary Alice Stevens won the foul-shooting trophy, having been chosen to represent Barium Springs. Three times did she have to toe the foul mark, for she tied with other players, but in the final go-round she dropped through 18 out of 25 attempts to win handily.

The other tournament in which Barium advanced to the semi-finals for both the boys and girls, was in the southern division of the South Piedmont conference, of which the school is a member. Had they won at Kannapolis, they would later have had to meet both crews from the Methodist Children's Home of Winston-Salem, who copped the northern division and then went on to win both engagements against their competitors for the 1944 championship of the South Piedmont conference.

having his first experience with us although he had helped with tubercular clinics many times before, and Dr. Herman, being able to say, "I told you so," to Dr. Skeen. Dr. Herman prides himself on recognizing the children that he has examined before, but one boy puzzled him: He said, "That youngster looks familiar, but I don't remember examining him at all." I refreshed his memory; a year ago he examined him. At that time he had bad tonsils, adenoids, intestinal parasites, and he was just badly run down. During the year those things had been corrected, and the lad had gained 25 pounds. Instead of being stoop-shouldered and weak looking, he was square-shouldered and just radiating good health. No wonder Dr. Herman didn't recognize him!

The most gain in weight goes to a girl - 31 pounds. The most to a boy is 25 pounds, but there were a 24, a 23, and several 22's, so the boy didn't lead the procession very much.

The general health during the year has been good in spite of the fact we have taken in more small children than usual, and these smaller children, as a rule, need a good deal of attention. All in all, our health examination revealed many things to make us grateful and many things to challenge our continued efforts. We try to do everything possible, so that every child who leaves Barium Springs will have as fine physical equipment as is possible for him to have.

From year to year we give you this report. This year we can give you an over-all report, which is most gratifying. We read from time to time in the papers that of the inductees from 17% to 25% are turned down because of physical defects.

As far as we know, out of about 190 inductees from Barium, only three have been turned down; they were for eye conditions. That makes us feel mighty good.

God has certainly blessed our efforts, and the young people themselves have cooperated so that our small efforts have really resulted in big things.

Barium Boys Were Champions

the 13th annual Mid-Piedmont Basketball tournament was staged at Barium Springs, with the 1944 attendance being the largest in history. In 1943, it was an abbreviated affair, but a full 32 teams took part last month in interesting and exciting games over the four-day period. Final winners were the Landis girls over China Grove and the Union Grove boys over Saint Stephens. To be champions of this tournament means that these teams had to be exceptionally good.

It is in this tournament that a good part of the athletic funds are raised at Barium Springs, both through the gate receipts and the operation of the refreshment stand. The net income, after all expenses have been paid, will be the largest of any of the previous 12 tournaments.

As the Messenger goes to press, the Junior Mid-Piedmont basketball tournament is in progress at Barium. The smaller teams of the Home participate in these annual affairs, with varsity members being sponsors for the visitors.

Synod Breaks All Records During 1943-44

Vacations Will Be Allowed This Summer

Arrangements for These Must Be Made Between May 22nd and July 22nd

Every summer until 1943 the children at Barium were allowed to visit relatives and friends for a limited period of time.

As the summer of 1943 approached, there was such an acute gasoline shortage and transportation of all kinds was so congested that we did not think it patriotic or practical to allow vacations to take place with the necessary traveling that that would entail.

Some of the children could have gone to relatives and friends without causing any travel bother at all, those who lived nearby in particular. It did not seem fair, however, to allow these to go and deny the others, so for that one year we did not have vacations.

Now this year is another story: it appears that car travel has eased up somewhat, and while bus and railroad travel appear to be just as much congested, we are still going to try to restore the

Every Presbytery Shows An Increase.— 217 Give Best Amount's Since 1925

The final 1943 Thanksgiving Offering from the Synod of North Carolina was $64,838.34, which is by far the greatest in the 52 years of operation of this Home. This relegated to history the peak of $56,013.38 reached in 1942, being $8,824.96 more. In addition to this aggregate by Synod, Thanksgiving responses coming direct from individuals and business firms, and not credited to churches, were $8,967.00, to give a grand total of $73,805.34 at Thanksgiving-time.

There were 529 churches or mission points in North Carolina that participated in Synod's Thanksgiving Offering, and it is interesting that 217 of the 529 sent the best responses since the 1925 season. All told, 405 gave more than in 1942, while only 125 fell below the sums donated in the immediately previous Thanksgiving period.

Had 17 churches which sent offerings in 1942 responded in

During the month of March, Marshville Church in Mecklenburg Presbytery and Grier's Church in Orange Presbytery became the 216th and 217th churches or missions in the Synod of North Carolina to establish new Thanksgiving peaks over a period of the last 19 years. Additional responses from organizations at both of these places arrived at Barium Springs in the closing days of the 1943-1944 year to send them to new highs at Thanksgiving-time since the season of 1925. It is quite remarkable that 217 of the 529 participating churches in the offering last November could climb to such heights in the 1943 special period of emphasis.

Recognition of the 215 others has already been given in previous issues of The Messenger, and officials are glad this month to make public these additional two. To all 217 genuine and hearty congratulations are being extended upon the marvelous record that was made in the 1943 season of unprecedented giving to this Home in its 52 years of operation.

Church Bonds Show Phenomenal Advance

Gain of $2,600.00 in 37 Days.— Present Holdings for Proposed Church Are $30,400.00

On April 21st, the Presbyterian Orphans' Home owned $30,400.00 of government bonds toward a proposed church and educational building at Barium Springs, which represents a phenomenal 37-day increase of $2,600.00 in such securities since the last article was written for The Messenger on March 15th. Besides these bonds, there was a small amount of cash on hand toward the next $100.00 similar security.

The present holdings for the church are more than doubled what they were on April 1, 1943, when $15,100.00 were in the lock box of the Home at a bank in Statesville. That is an increase of $15,300.00 in bonds within a little over one year, and if this present rise continues in the months and years ahead it will not be such a long while before the Home will own the necessary $75,000.00, maturity value, of such bonds. This is a tentative estimate of what the contemplated church and educational building will cost.

During the past 37 days, many memorial contributions have been received at the Home, part of which are listed in this issue of The Messenger, with the others to be recorded in next month's copy. Too, there have been gifts for the church without a memorial thought behind them and those are also tabulated this month or will appear in May's issue.

Those contributions, though, not listed in The Messenger at any time under monetary donations are the bonds that came direct. In recent days there have been two of these.

From the family and friends of the late Rev. John Shaw Foster, D. D., of Winston-Salem, arrived $750.00 in Series F government bonds as part of a fund which they are establishing in memory of this eminent minister who was a professor at Columbia Theological Seminary at the time of his death.

A $100.00 Series F bond also arrived from First Lieut. James V. Neelley, of Greensboro, who is now serving overseas in England.

Publicity will be given other bonds as they are received and recorded in the "journal" at Barium, and quite a number of these are expected when the fifth war loan drive gets under way in June. The Series F bond is preferable and these should always be made out to "The Regents of the Orphans' Home, a corporation, Barium Springs, N. C."

Not since the Home was established at Barium Springs in November of 1891 have the Presbyterians of the Synod of North Carolina exhibited a liberality of such generous proportions as that reached in 1943-1944, when the grand total of regular and Thanksgiving Offerings for the support fund were $121,843.92 - just a little bit shy of $125,000.00 for the 12 months. The 93,371 Presbyterian in Synod averaged almost $1.34 per person in the 1943-1944 year, showing a per capita gain of almost 18 cents over 1942-1943.

The sum of $109,442.90 for 1942-1943 was "tops" until the recently concluded year, but the increase overshadowed last year's peak by $15,291.02. This deals with support fund money and does not include anything given by the churches or organizations on the clothing fund, which is kept separately, or for the proposed church at Barium, the latter gifts going into a capital fund.

Regular monthly giving accounted for $60,005.58 - an increase of $6,466.06 in the month-by-month responses - and the Thanksgiving Offering was responsible for $64,838.34 - an advance of $8,824.96 - to make up the gain of $15,291.02. Regular donations represented 48% of the total and 52% as Thanksgiving responses.

Every one of the nine Presbyteries surpassed their giving of 1942-1943, with six of them giving the best aggregates since 1927-28, and two having the next-best totals for that period of time. The six were Concord, Fayetteville, Granville, Kings Mountain, Mecklenburg and Wilmington. Next-best were Albemarle and Orange. What the Presbyteries have sent each year since 1927-1928 is shown elsewhere in this paper.

Increases by Presbyteries follow: Concord, $4,194.56; Mecklenburg, $2,565.86; Fayetteville, $2,022.68; Wilmington, $1,747.72; Kings Mountain, $1,604.16; Granville, $1,240.80; Winston-Salem, $715.62; Albemarle, $660.23, and Orange, $539.39. These gains represent both regular and Thanksgiving sums.

Of the $60,005.58 of regular income, Sunday Schools were responsible for 44.6%, or $26,738.69; Church budgets, 38.4%, or $23,052.77, and Auxiliaries 17%, or $10,214.12. Sunday Schools showed an increase of $3,456.57; Church budgets gained $3,333.66, but the Auxiliaries were $324.17 shy of their 1942-1943 regular amount.

Sunday Schools Very Generous Last Year

Show Gain of $3,456.57.- Grand Total of $26,738.69 Given By 266 Sunday Schools

During 1943-1944 266 Sunday Schools in the Synod of North Carolina made some regular contribution to the Home at Barium Springs and the total of all of these donations advanced to the unprecedented amount of $26,738.69. This is $3,456.57 more than the Sunday Schools gave in 1942-1943, and it is almost twice as great as the $13,446.42 which was sent on a regular basis by these organizations in 1933-1934. This giving represented 44.6% of all that Synod sent regularly in 12 months, which so clearly and decisively indicates the dependence of Barium Springs upon these Sunday School Offerings.

Here is the record of Sunday School donations for the past 11 years:

Year	Amount
1933-1934	$13,446.42
1934-1935	15,594.03
1935-1936	16,490.62
1936-1937	18,458.19

90 Sunday Schools Are In $100.00 Club

Greatest Number Ever Classified in This Group Met Century Sums In 1943-1944

A grand total of 90 Sunday Schools in the Synod of North Carolina - the greatest number in any single year - sent a minimum of $100.00 regularly throughout 1943-1944 and thus are included as members of the 1943-1944 $100.00 Sunday School Club. In 1942-1943 there were 77 organizations tabulated. Thirteen Sunday Schools entered the Club for the first time in history, three returned to it after a short lapse, while three in this classification last year failed to maintain their seats in 1943-1944.

Newcomers to the Club were Black River, Centre (F), Chadbourn, Cook's Memorial, Culdee, Flat Branch, Gilwood, Jonesboro, Mallard Creek, Mooresville Second, Mount Olive, Red Springs and Williams' Memorial.

Re-entering the group were Lee Memorial, Marion and Rutherfordton.

Barium Treasurer Goes to Birmingham

Ernest Milton Accepts Position As Treasurer of Box Manufacturing Business

On March 23rd the Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home received in writing the resignation of Ernest Milton as treasurer, this to become effective at the close of April. Thus, the Barium Springs' treasurer and his family will be leaving here for Birmingham, Ala. about the time that this issue of The Messenger is delivered to the friends of the Home.

Mr. Milton has accepted a position as treasurer of the Hightower Box & Tank Company, of Birmingham, which is a 52-year-old box manufacturing business. He has also been made a director.

The departing treasurer came to Barium Springs in September of 1932 and has been operating in this capacity for over eleven and a half years. Prior to his affiliation with the Home he served for six years as the first alumni secretary of Davidson College, from which institution he was graduated in 1926, after having entered Davidson in 1922 from his native home of Thomasville, Ga.

Before Mr. Milton became connected with Barium Springs the office of superintendent-treasurer was a joint one which had been filled by Jos. B. Johnston from the time of his coming to the Home in July of 1922. The work was divided with the arrival of Mr. Milton, Mr. Johnston continuing as superintendent.

In submitting his resignation to the Board Mr. Milton wrote that "the decision to leave this work after over eleven and a half years was made after weighty deliberation on my part. It is difficult to loosen one's self from roots which have gone deep through such a period of years, during which time a great attachment has been developed for the Home. Many, many angles were turned over in my mind and heart and the conclusion was that I should accept the offer which was made and which has been carefully investigated."

To the Regents Mr. Milton also wrote "My resignation could not be submitted without a personal word of thanks to the members for their co-operation and vital assistance in promoting this Home

These Are the Ones Which Have Averaged a Minimum of 50c Per Enrolled Member Exactly one-half of the 266 Sunday Schools that regularly assisted Barium Springs in 1943-1944 averaged as much as 50 cents per enrolled member, to give them a special grouping as leaders in the Synod. Had the Average attendance been used, many more would have been included, but the basis of figuring was the memberships as listed in the 1943 Minutes of the General Assembly.

MARRIAGES

Presnell-Mayhew. Margaret Presnell and Max Mayhew, both of Mooresville, were married in Little Joe's Church here on March 25th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas C. Cook, pastor of Miss Presnell during a number of her years at Barium. She was given in marriage by Jos. B. Johnston, superintendent. Since graduating Mrs. Mayhew has been a student nurse at Lowrance Hospital, Mooresville. Mrs. Mayhew's sister, Virginia Presnell, who is still a student here, was one of two to light the candles.

BIRTHS.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin K. Kyles, of Barium Springs, announce the birth of a son, Edwin Kenneth, Jr., on April 14th. Mr. Kyles is head of the printing and shoe departments. Mrs. Kyles is the former Rachel Moore.

Sgt. and Mrs. Bert Rawald announce the birth of a son on March 10th. Mrs. Rawald is the former Matoaka Torrence.

Pvt. and Mrs. Tommy Lindsay announce the birth of a daughter, Patricia Dale, on April 2nd.

PERSONALS.

There have been quite a few visitors at Barium these past few weeks. Donny Bolton, Mrs. Jack Weeks, Charles Hooten, and Buford Robinson were here for Easter.

No further news has been received from either Dalma Jessup or Walter Archer who have been missing in action. Dalma has been missing since February 25th on a mission over Germany, and Walter, since March 11th in the Pacific area.

Our first letter from Hazel Simmons came since the bombing of her hospital in Italy by the Germans several weeks ago. Much to our relief, she came through without a scratch.

Basketball Banquet Is Given At Barium

Leona Hall and Paul Burney, Captains of Teams, Voted As Most Valuable

On Friday night, April 7th, Leona Hall and Paul Burney were announced as the players' choices as the most valuable 1944 members of the Barium Springs girls and boys varsity teams, respectively. This was revealed at the annual banquet served in the dining room of Rumble Hall here. This was an affair in honor of the two varsity cage teams of the Home as well as the midget outfits and others who had participated in the winter sports activity. Both of the most valuable participants were captains of the teams, Miss Hall being named by her teammates as captain at the season's close.

R. E. Jackins, football coach at Barium and basketball official in many games, was toastmaster of the occasion when a few invited guests joined the local people in honoring the athletes. He introduced W. A. Hethcox, school principal, who started off with a few appropriate jokes and a tribute to the boys' varsity which won the Landis basketball tournament.

Jos. B. Johnston, superintendent, introduced all of the visitors and presented one trophy to the Statesville coach and two to the China Grove coaches as a result of their teams' performances in the two tournaments staged at Barium.

The after-dinner speech was made by Rev. E. G. Carson, a rabid basketball fan who sees a host of court games during all seasons. Rev. Mr. Carson kept his hearers continuously laughing with his jokes and anecdotes and dissertation upon the peculiarity of people's names. He ended the lighter vein by seriously speaking to those present on the valuelessness of a good name, emphasizing that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches."

Harry E. Barkley, basketball coach, awarded certificates to the boys and girls who had played on the midget teams and Mr. Johnston gave out the varsity letters. The following were the awards:

Seventh and eighth grade girls: Sadie Grey Buie, Ernestine Baldwin, Bradley Jean Manus, Lucille Stricklin, Hazel Walker, Betty Lou Hooten, Violet Knight, Helen Vinson, Callie Dunn and Margaret Bullard.

Boy Scout Troop Being Organized

Necessary steps were begun at Barium Springs in March to have a Boy Scout troop on the campus, which will be the first time that a troop of this organization has ever been organized here. The preliminaries occurred on Tuesday night, March 21st, when 33 boys assembled together to meet with Frank Deaton of Statesville, chairman of the Boy Scouts in this district; Ed Flowers, of Statesville, an assistant scoutmaster; Rev. T. C. Cook, who will be the scoutmaster for the local troop, and W. A. Hethcox, school principal here, who will be assistant scoutmaster.

While 33 boys met to talk over this, yet there will be only 27 to become scouts because of their age. The others, though, will be joining as they get old enough.

Among the steps taken was an application to get a charter, which they hope will be obtained by May 10th, when there will be a special meeting in Statesville of boy scouts who will pass the tenderfoot test. These Barium boys hope to be ready to do that.

To give the new organization a boost, Mr. Deaton made a personal contribution to the treasury, the gift being turned over to Mr. Hethcox, who will handle the funds as assistant scoutmaster.

Mundy and J. D. Everette.

Varsity girls: Crosby Mundy, Mary Alice Stevens, Marion Coffey, Toni De Lancy, Edith Powell, Leona Hall, Capt.; Lee Vinson, Janie Hall, Ida Belle Dunn, Pat Hooten and Adelia Knight.

Boys' varsity: Paul Burney, Capt.; Fred Cole, John Ammons, Bennett Baldwin, Earl Adams, Hervey Stricklin, Wilbur Coates, Leland Rogers, Ray Lewis and John Lee.

Delightful music was rendered during the first part of the program by a group of the high school boys and girls.

This very distinctive achievement is glowing reflection upon all of the 266 Sunday Schools that helped, but special congratulations are being extended to 125 of these organizations - almost half of them - which sent the greatest sums in any year since the donations were divided at Barium Springs according to whether they arrived from Church budgets, Sunday Schools or Auxiliaries.

These 125, by Presbyteries, are listed below:

Albemarle Presbytery - Farmville, Fountain, Greenville, Jason, Macclesfield, Nahalah, New Bern, Newsome's Chapel, Rocky Mount Second.

Concord - Centre, Cleveland, Davidson, Fairview Mission, Gilwood, Kannapolis First, McKinnon, Mooresville First, Mooresville Second, Poplar Tent, Prospect, Royal Oaks, Salisbury Second, Shearer's Chapel, Sherrill's Ford, Tabor, Thyatira.

during my tenure of office. The contacts have been delightful with all of you and the friendships that have been developed and enjoyed over the years with you and your predecessors shall always be cherished. Though I shall be living in another state, I will continue to be keenly interested in the progress of this Home."

The resigning treasurer is a past president of the North Carolina Orphanage Association, has been an elder in Little Joe's Church, treasurer of the local church's benevolences, treasurer of Little Joe's Sunday School, a teacher in the latter and was a commissioner to the General Assembly from Concord Presbytery at the May, 1943, meeting in Montreat. For three years he had served as chairman of Synod's Finance Committee and at the last meeting of Synod he was named for another three-year term. His resignation from this post has gone into the Stated Clerk of Synod.

During his years with Barium Springs Mr. Milton has handled all publicity matters for the Home, toured Synod two falls with a moving picture depicting the life at Barium, entertained delegations coming to the campus and has been associate editor of The Barium Messenger.

There was a tremendous juggling in the rating of the nine Presbyteries, with Concord taking over first place from Kings Mountain, the latter having to be content with second honors. Winston-Salem, Mecklenburg and Granville ranked in the 3rd, 4th and 5th places for the two years, but for the remainder there was a considerable shifting. Perhaps the most notable was the rising of Wilmington Presbytery from ninth place to sixth, while Fayetteville went one notch from eighth to seventh. Albemarle tumbled from sixth to eighth, and the cellar position is occupied by Orange Presbytery, which fell from seventh to ninth.

For a good many years Wilmington and Fayetteville Presbyteries have been at the bottom of the heap, sometimes Wilmington being last and then Fayetteville. But, both of these spurred remarkably in the past 12 months and now leave the cellar "battle" to Albemarle and Orange Presbyteries.

Vacations Will Be Allowed

vacations as much as possible. A vacation of two weeks will be allowed to those children whose relatives or friends can provide a vacation and arrange for their travel.

Now this does not mean a wholesale throwing open of the doors; it doesn't mean that all children will have a vacation away from Barium Springs - it never has meant that. There are some families who are unable to shelter the children for even a brief period of time; some others have been entirely broken up, and some of the children are too small to risk any extended trip. So each vacation has to be arranged on its own merits and for those who do not get to go we will as far as possible arrange other pleasures.

We will have our camp on the river as usual; the first one is scheduled for July 24th, and each child will get one week at camp and those who do not have any other sort of vacation will get an additional week.

In order for these two things not to conflict, all vacations must be arranged for between May 22nd and July 22nd; on July 22nd vacations away from Barium will be over.

We note that the trains and buses are much more crowded on the weekends than in the middle of the week, so it appears no more than common sense that we arrange our traveling in midweek, so all going and coming must be done on Wednesday and Thursday. Where the trip is arranged by car, the other days in the week may be used, but not Sunday.

It will make it more convenient, however, if all vacations are arranged to start, say on Wednesday and return two weeks later on Thursday.

We hope that vacations will not be the one and exclusive topic of conversation from now until the opening of school next fall. We have many other recreations and pleasures - the swimming pool, picture shows, picnics, ball games, parties, to mention just a few - but when the children talk about vacations too much, those who are not going to have a place to go become very unhappy. Some of the very young ones almost become sick over it, and it is not very pleasant to even visit the smaller cottages when each one is clamoring about vacations or "batayshuns" as the smaller ones call it.

So we would like to impress on relatives, friends, and children not to allow the vacation idea to occupy too much of their thinking and talking, and we'll all be happier.

The 1944 Basketball season is officially at an end, and looking back over the record, we can understand why Mr. Barkley's hair is much thinner now than it was at the beginning of the season, but in spite of that, he wears a smile.

Here's how come: if you will glance through the scores, you will find that our girls played two tie games; two important games were won by one point; one was won by two points and one lost by two points, and all of the games were fairly close. Usually when a coach goes through such an experience with the opening games he can relax and enjoy himself during the boys' games - but not Mr. Barkley! Here's what happened in the boys' division. Take a look at the scores; remember, you don't have tie games in the boys' division. Four games were won by one point, one was lost by one point, two won by two points, and a whole flock of others that were close.

Some of these were tournament games; some had an extra period.

In fact, one of our girls' games had to go into an extra period since it was a tournament game. In some of these games, our boys and girls made marvelous comebacks and came from behind to win. The final game in the Landis tournament when they were seven points behind and had four minutes to go was the most remarkable. In only one game was the reverse true. In the Scotts Tournament, our boys led all the way and then had Celeste Henkel to overtake them and win out in the last few minutes of the game. It has been a good season; we missed our contacts with the South Piedmont Conference teams, but we enjoyed our games with our neighbors and the tournaments that we entered so much that we wonder if we'll ever really want to go back to the strenuous schedule of meeting the South Piedmont opponents all during the season.

In the Midget Tournament, ten teams were entered this year, which required some games being played on Wednesday. There was so much enthusiasm for this tournament that likely next year, there will be twelve teams entered, and then some of you mathematicians sit down and try to figure out how to have these games so that each team will have two chances - double elimination, it is called - where it takes two wins in three games to win a trophy.

The Midgets took pity on Mr. Barkley and either won or lost their games by a comfortable margin, the only exception to this being the first game of our girls with Celeste Henkel which they won by one point, and then on the return game, they lost it by two points.

Well, the season ended with everybody still hungry for basketball. We'll go into next season all pepped up and rarin' to go with the abundance of material that the Midget Tournament seemed to indicate. Three girls will graduate from the Varsity, four boys from the Varsity. By the way, one of those boys, Paul Burney, was named All-Tournament player in the Landis tournament, and Mary Alice Stevens won the goal shooting trophy at the Scotts tournament. We have enough rather tired looking basketballs to start us off next fall after football, so we'll be seeing you!

90 Sunday Schools Are In

Looking back over the records it is found that at one time or other since 1928-1929, there were 29 other Sunday Schools giving as much as $100.00 regularly in any single year. If all former members could have achieved this, there would today be 119 $100.00 Club members.

Those 29, exclusive of the three mentioned above as dropping out, are Charlotte Second, Covenant (O), Front Street, Graham, High Point First, Leaksville, Lexington First, Lillington, Little Joe's, Mocksville, Montpelier, Morgan, Newton, Raleigh First, Reids-ville, Reynolda, Saint Andrews (M), Saint Paul (F), Saint Paul (M), Sanford, Shiloh (KM), Spencer, Sugaw Creek, Warrenton, Warsaw and Washington First.

Final Thanksgiving Sum

1943, there would have been 546 participants. Those places from which gifts did not arrive last fall were Buffalo (G) Chapel, Cape Fear, Danbury, Ebenezer (F), Euphonia, Gilmore Memorial, Hebron (W), Maple Hill, Morton, Naomi, Pee Dee, Pine Hall, Pine Ridge, Poplar Point, Rehobeth, Unionville and West End. There are some churches and missions which did not report offerings in either of the past two Thanksgiving seasons, but these are not being listed.

Every one of the nine Presbyteries showed an increase in its Thanksgiving response, ranging from a high of $3,026.38 by Concord Presbytery to a low gain of $219.20 by Orange. In between were the following Presbytery increases: Mecklenburg, $1,581.85; Granville, $1,090.53; Fayetteville, $938.55; Wilmington, $786.62; Winston-Salem, $558.27; Kings Mountain, $398.07 and Albemarle $225.49.

(FORM OF BEQUEST)

"I give and bequeath to the REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME OF THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated Under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (HERE NAME THE BEQUEST)

Hail and Farewell

Along about Commencement time is "goodbye time" when we say more or less tearful goodbye to the Seniors who are leaving us, and we have just gone through that experience, saying goodbye to what was left of a fairly large class.

In the last issue of the Messenger, quite a bit was said about the Miltons' leaving us, and now we want to speak of some others: Miss Beattie Lackey - "Miss Beattie" has served the Orphanage most faithfully for nearly a quarter of a century. For a time she was assistant in the kitchen, then kitchen matron, and then housekeeper at the Infirmary where she built up a reputation of being the most successful flower grower at Barium, in addition to fulfilling a most useful place in providing the food for the Infirmary staff all the time and for a varying number of sick youngsters also. Miss Lackey left us about a month ago; she is living in Statesville, a near neighbor, and we hope to keep our ties of affection that have been built through the years ever fresh and strong.

Mrs. Purdy, who has presided over the dining room so efficiently and faithfully for more years than she likes to have mentioned (we'll say in the neighborhood of seventeen), is leaving us also. There is not a child at Barium who remembers any other dining room matron. The returning boys and girls know just what person to look for to find a place to eat. Mrs. Purdy is giving up her work to take one not quite so strenuous here at Barium. You will still find her when you come back, but someone else will be in charge of the dining room.

Miss Long will leave soon from the kitchen, and how we will miss her! How you boys and girls have smacked your lips over the dishes that Miss Long knew so well how to prepare. She knew so well how to gauge your appetites and to have enough without having too much. Miss Long's father died during the year, and she is leaving us to take up work in Charlotte and to live with her mother over in Lincoln County.

Mrs. Marshall, who has done such a good job as housekeeper and matron in old Alexander and at Jennie Gilmer, is going to leave us soon, also. Mrs. Marshall has also been a pinch hitter in the kitchen, and she can turn out a swell meal anytime she puts her mind to it. Mrs. Marshall is leaving us to move to Charlotte where she will keep house for her two daughters who are now working in Charlotte.

Miss Burgess, a most efficient matron in Howard Cottage, has gone and did not get to carry out some projects that she had started in Howard Cottage. Through her own efforts she secured individual mirrors, and through the cooperation of the carpenter, she was fixing up some special arrangements for each girl in Howard Cottage. You could always depend on Miss Burgess doing a large part of the work herself - "Always Busy Burgess" should be her full name.

Mrs. Thompson from Rumble Hall - Mrs. Thompson was just here a year, but she did a grand job during that year mothering those busy Rumble Hall girls - that's quite a task for anyone! None ever gained the affection of her charges more quickly and more completely than did Mrs. Thompson. Before she had been here, two months, they had forgotten her name and called her "Honey" all the time. We regret to give her up!

Mr. Keever, our most efficient English teacher, who had charge of the library and who had a big hand in all school activities, will not be back this fall. We are going to miss not only Mr. Keever, but Mrs. Keever and those two little blonde daughters. One of them is getting big enough already to know how to take care of herself and incidentally to use her eyes for other things than just looking - they have a decided "Come hither" in them already.

I know you want to know who is going to take the place of all these people who are leaving. We would like to know, too. Up to the present the following replacements are: In Mr. Milton's place is Rev. R. S. Arrowood, for a number of years pastor of the McKinnon Presbyterian Church at Concord, and for the last twelve months, President of Mitchell College. He will move to Barium the first of June, and we will welcome him and his family with open arms and hearts.

At Rumble Hall Miss Juanita Hardin and Miss Louise Everett will take over the duties of Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Purdy.

Mrs. Ray Clendenin, Johnny Burgin to most of you, is taking over Howard Cottage. Ray has been called into the service and will soon be reporting to camp. Johnny and little Ray will be permanent residents at Barium with big Ray - a most welcome transient.

Annie Louise Cottage is right now being taken care of by Mrs. Utley, and she is doing a splendid job of it. She took the work on a part time basis, and we are hoping she can be with us for the duration, at least.

Mrs. Ralph Spencer, Bobby Marlowe to you, is taking over Mrs. Marshall's work in Jennie Gilmer. The other vacancies have not as yet been filled. It would be too bad if we could not fill them. We'd just have to stop eating for the duration; that wouldn't do at all. We hope that everything will be in shape before next fall.

We wish all of these departing workers a most affectionate farewell. We'll never get anyone to serve us better or that will have a higher place in our affections. We hope they will get a little bit homesick for Barium just as we know that we'll get homesick for them. They won't be so far from us, but it won't be like having them right here on the job. More of you will miss Mrs. Purdy and Miss Long, because somehow our appetites never take a holiday; they have a big part in our lives three times every day. I know at the meeting of Synod early in September, there will be many people inquiring for these two. They will want to know what has become of Mrs. Marshall also, because there were many who complimented her splendid housekeeping when they used Jennie Gilmer to house the commissioners of Synod. Miss Lackey will be remembered by many, many folks; she is the one who fixed up those meals for you when you were sick, and she is the one who managed somehow to take over Mrs. McNatt's duties when Mrs. McNatt was away. It looks like sometimes that the various bugs that cause illnesses would hide somewhere until Mrs. McNatt left and then kick up a fever in some kid to frighten us all to death.

One time that we remember a youngster ran a very high temperature for no apparent reason. Miss Lackey insisted there was

Freshman and Seniors Presented Two Plays

Tuesday evening, May 2, the children of the orphanage, and also many people from the community, including a number of teachers and students of the Troutman school, enjoyed two one-act plays given by the Freshman and Senior Classes of Barium Springs High School. The Freshman Class presented "Ten Per Cent Tommy" under the direction of their home-room teacher, Miss Reba Thompson. Those taking part in the play were: Bennie Gregory, as Tommy Ballinger, Ida Belle Dunn as Tommy's mother; Mary Ann Ryder, Lee Vinson, and Hannah Price as his sisters; Helen Hawley as the girl friend; Jack Caldwell, Earl Allen, Dwight Spencer, Buddy Lippard, and Horace Denton as Tommy's boy friends; Toni Delancey as the fruit peddler's daughter; and Myrtle Rushing as the maid.

The second of the plays, under the direction of Miss Ruth Troutman, English teacher, was "Buddy Buys an Orchid". In this one-act comedy Buddy Bradley was played by Hervey Stricklin; Mrs. Bradley, his mother, by Lillie Belle Smith; Alida, his sister, by Bette Lou Williamson; Belle, the hired girl (and very black, by the way) by Mabel Vinson; and Bill, an admirer of Alida, by Paul Burney.

All of the members of these two classes who did not have parts in the plays were on various committees that helped to make the evening a very enjoyable one.

pageant as that would mean naming all of the grammar grade children. A few of the principal parts were played by Herbert Good, Herman Smith, Vivian Jacumin, Ray Powell, Anne Wicker, Jack Jones, and Gwendolyn Landrum.

When May comes around again, we hope that the teachers and others who helped to make this festival such a beautiful and enjoyable occasion, will have recovered from the blisters they received practicing under the broiling sun, and will be ready to give a repeat performance.

Following the May Festival by the Grammar Grades in the afternoon, the primary grades gave an operetta in the auditorium at eight o'clock in the evening. The principal parts were played by Hazel Creech, Geraldine Katen, Pattie Inman, Billy Black, Jimmie Harrison, Franklin Smith, and Linda Inman. All of the primary children took part.

something wrong with that youngster that ought to be attended to. We took him to the hospital in the wee, small hours of the morning; he was on the verge of pneumonia; had we delayed just a few hours, he might have been desperately ill.

There will be a number of children returned to their homes this summer. Arrangements have already been made for the following children to go home: the four little Browns who have been here just long enough for everybody to fall in love with them - Vallie, Clara, Pauline, and Andy. They came here when their mother was quite ill, their father was helpless to look after them; now their mother is well, and they, together with their still younger brother, are all united again at home. Clayton and Peyton Miller from up in Ashe County - their father has remarried, reestablished his home and needs those little youngsters to live up the house. We don't blame him for wanting these two attractive boys at home again. Wilbur and Evelyn Coats - their mother remarried several years ago, she is living in Baltimore and finally has a home large enough to take care of these fast growing, attractive young people. Charles Smith from Lumberton - he will be eighteen years old in August. He has decided that there is not much point in staying because Uncle Sam will tap him on the shoulder before he really gets started in his final year of school. He wants to visit relatives and friends and then join up even before his 18th birthday.

Our paper this month is pretty well loaded with pictures of the graduating class and the news about those leaving. Our next issues will have something to say about the newcomers.

PERSONALS

The Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel of April 23rd contained pictures of the Beshears boys and a writeup of them. This writeup said that another message had been received from J. D., it read as follows: "Dear Brother: Again I have the opportunity and pleasure of writing you. This message leaves me in good health and hope it finds you the same. I hope and pray it won't be long until we are together again. Our living quarters are as good as could be expected in the conditions and circumstances. Hope to hear from you soon. Your brother, James."

Dalma Jessup who has been missing in action over Germany since February 25th, has just been reported a German prisoner, and we are all much relieved.

A letter came from Robert Blue of Burlington that his brother, Miller had been wounded in action and that he has been awarded the Purple Heart.

"For meritorious service while serving as a member of a Marine battalion in action against enemy Japanese forces on Namur Island, Kwajalein atoll, Feb. 1, 1944. Faced with extremely heavy enemy small arms fire, he led his men forward to an advantageous position and there skillfully organized a defense which secured the right flank of his battalion. His heroic and courageous conduct was in keeping with the highest traditions of the naval service," said Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commanding none other than Marine Sgt. Miller Blue!

Two Recitals Given By Music Department

The 1944 commencement season at Barium Springs began the last week in April with two recitals by the music department. The first of these was given by the piano pupils of the elementary grades Tuesday afternoon, April 25th. The program began with the Star Spangled Banner as arranged by R. M. Stults, played by Mabel Milton and Shirley Inman at two pianos. Others taking part on the program were Hazel Creech, Shirley Thomas, Peggy Neel, Louise Campbell, Lucile Stinson, Ann Wicker, Jackie Porterfield, Patty Inman, Elsie Vest and Mary Morgan.

Thursday evening, April 27th, the second of these recitals was given by the high school piano pupils of Miss Greene, assisted by the glee club, and Miss Carolyn Vidal, violinist. The following high school pupils took part in this recital: Lillie Belle Smith, Myrtle Rushing, Billy Everett, Helen Hawley, Charles Smith, Dixie Lee Buie, Dewie Belle Buie, Bette Lou Williamson, Hannah Price, and Martha Price.

These recitals gave evidence that much has been accomplished this year in both piano and vocal music. Miss Greene, piano teacher, and Misses Vidal and Cherry, musical members of the regular faculty, are to be congratulated for their excellent work.

pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albemarle. He based his message on the story of David and Goliath as found in I Samuel 17: 44-50. He began his message by saying that David was not the only one who faced giants in life. "You Seniors have giants to fight. Whether you slay them or they slay you depends on how you are trained and equipped."

The choir for the service was made up of the High School Glee Club and Junior Choir. The Glee Club sang the anthem "The Heavens are Declaring" - Beethoven.

The sermon to the young people Sunday night was preached by Rev. W. B. Heyward, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Kannapolis, and Chairman of Presbytery's Committee on Young People's Work. He used as his text, Matt. 6:33, "Seek Ye first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness."

Two anthems, "Great is thy Love" by Carl Bohn, and "Send Out Thy Light" by Gounod, were sung by the Junior Choir.

All the Seniors took part in the Class Day Program at eleven o'clock Monday Morning, May 15. An original skit, prepared by the Seniors with the help of Mr. Keever, their home-room teacher showing the members of the class in a situation in which they might find themselves at some future time, was very cleverly used as a background for the class history prophesy, will, and class gifts. Among the gifts was a check presented to Mr. Johnston to be used in some way in memory of the class, if and when a new gymnasium is built at Barium.

Cottage News

BABY COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Here we are again having to sit quietly while we get all our little happenings together so we can write to all you nice folks.

School has been out almost a whole week and we have been having fun playing out in the warm sunshine with the clean dirt tickling our bare feet.

The swimming pool opened today and we bet it won't be long now 'till we are in there doing our part of the splashing.

Mrs. Massey has been in Georgia for two weeks with her sister who is sick. We miss her just lots and hope her sister will soon be well so Mrs. Massey can come back to us.

Pauline and Andy Brown have gone home to live with their daddy and mother. We sure will miss our good times, but we are glad that they can go. They said that they would write to us, so we always run to Lilly when she comes from the post office.

Charles Creech found a turtle and gave it to Richard Vest. He put it in the grass and it snapped at little Charles Bowles. Charles didn't run, he said, "I can go faster than a turtle."

While we were playing in the play woods we found a little birds nest with four little blue eggs in it, but we didn't bother it.

Mrs. Cook invited her Sunday School Class to a party. We went to her house, played games on the pretty grass and she gave us candy and cake and ice cream to eat. Mrs. Cook had some Lillies planted down by her house and Shirley thought they were Lilly Bryant who came to the party to see if we had been good and had used our manners.

Well, sitting here is awfully hard for Little Donnie, who says, "Nina wanta go" and that goes for the rest of us. We'll see you again next month.

—The Babies.

RUMPLE HALL

We see the close of a lot of things this month; the seniors are leaving us and we all hope to pass to another grade.

I will venture to say in a whisper "We'll be so happy when school is out".

We have looked with longing eyes at the swimming even on cold days. Soon we can feel the coolness of the water after a hot day.

We have had one of the most elaborate May programs at Barium that we have ever had. Margaret Bullard was May Queen and the queen in the play was Vivian Jacumin. The attendants in the play were Nellie Isenhour, Ann Pope, Francis Rhyme, Evelyn Coates, Virginia Hendrix, Dorothy Shepherd, and your reporter, Annie Star Langley. The teachers did a lot of work for it and we sure do appreciate it. We only wish that you could have seen it.

Our matron, Mrs. R. A. Thompson is leaving us, we sure are going to miss her. She has been faithful to us she has put her very best efforts in trying to make us the kind of girls you would be proud of. Good luck to you Mrs. Thompson.

PRINTING OFFICE

All is quiet before the storm. When I say that, I mean everything is under control before we start trying to put out the Barium Messenger, the Annual, and a few other odd jobs at the same time.

The "printer's devils" Johnny Meroney and Donald Mitchell have been shining up the equipment for occasions to come.

James Reid has been putting with the mailing list getting everything under control before the storm.

Mr. Martin, the shoeman, is taking it easy since summer slackens up the shoe trade.

Everyone is feeling like they have a load off their mind since school is out, and are looking forward to vacations and summers' joys.

—Earl Allen.

"A BOY FROM BARIUM SPRINGS"

The Mooresville High School invited seniors from several different schools down to spend the day with them. Among these were our seniors. This was called Vocational Guidance Day.

One girl was so struck when she saw one of our boys that she wrote a poem and sent it to the editor of the Mooresville Tribune.

Here is her letter as it was printed.

My Dear Mr. Editor:

I am sending you a poem after the vocational Guidance Day at the Mooresville High School. I would like to dedicate it to a senior from Barium Springs High School from a student from Mooresville High School if it be thy will Mister Editor.

I was sitting there in chapel
Just thinking over things,
And standing there behind me
Was a boy from Barium Springs.

His hair was dark and wavy
His shoulders broad and square,
And his face was refreshing
As the cool autumn air.

Oh! my heart how it flutters,
And my heart how it sings
When anyone does mention
The boys from Barium Springs.

His eyes were as dreamy
As the twinkling stars at night,
And his whole personality
Was like a shining light.

Some thought that day boring,
But in my mem-o-r-y it clings,
For that's the day I first saw,
The boy from Barium Springs.

We have been debating which one of the senior boys it is talking about. See if you can make a decision.

Life at Barium Through the Eyes of the Children

A few months ago the young people in one of our churches became much interested in the life here at Barium. Certain of the young people, through their Pastor, wrote suggesting some very interesting topics which they wished discussed in letters. They requested that the letters which dealt with a topic be sent to the person who suggested that topic. And in suggesting a topic they added what they wished to be covered in the discussion of it. For instance: The first topic suggested is "The Children." The writer wishes to know the number of the children, the age limits, and about the life in the cottages. The next topic is "The food." That topic comes from a boy. He wants to know "How much it takes to feed, how it is done, how cooked, how served, etc.

We are publishing these letters as we feel that there are many other young people and older ones too who will be interested in the discussion of these subjects.

The writer of the two papers which we publish this month, graduated from the Home this past spring and have left us. We are glad that we can share with you the description of the Home as seen through the eyes of young people who lived and were brought up in the Home.

CHILDREN OF THE HOME

I am glad to know that you are interested in knowing about the children of the home, and I shall try to give you the best information in answer to your questions that is obtainable.

I shall take each cottage separately, starting with the cottage where the younger ones stay and finishing with the cottage where the older ones stay.

There are twelve cottages on the campus. By observing the life in one cottage you will have a picture of the life in all of the cottages, except for minor exceptions which I will call to your attention as I mention the cottage.

The three cottages where the younger children live have the same life records. The Baby cottage has the boys and girls of ages from two to six. There are at present nine baby girls and twelve baby boys.

The boys of the Synod's Cottage are the next to the babies. There are twenty five boys in this cottage, and they are from six to ten years of age.

The Annie Louise Cottage keeps the girls who are from six to eight. There are twenty five girls living at this cottage now. As I said before, the above three cottages mentioned have the same kind of work, but I haven't told you what their life at the cottage is. Those who live at these three cottages have little or nothing to do except to keep their teeth brushed, hair combed, and their faces clean; this ends their part of the work.

In Lee's Cottage there are now thirty boys whose ages are from ten to thirteen. The majority of these boys work on the truck farm. The other help keep the cottage clean.

Over at the Howard Cottage we have the girls whose ages range from eight to twelve. There are twenty eight of them, and their task is to string all the beans and shell all the peas that are eaten at the home. In later life if these girls can't do anything else, they can certainly string beans and shell peas!

Rumple Hall, being situated in the middle of the campus, happens to be a main building, for it is here that the kitchen, dining room, place to do the dish washing, and home of the girls who are from eleven to thirteen years of age are; also the teachers live up on third floor in this building during

REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Meet the new treasurer, Rev. R. S. Arrowood - a thoroughly North Carolina product, born in Iredell County, Elmwood, back in the lush '90's when so many good things happened. He has lived in North Carolina ever since except for a brief pastorate in Virginia, and for a year as chaplain in the services during the first World War, a graduate of Davidson, the Class of '13, was assistant pastor in Salisbury and held pastorates in Glenwood near Greensboro and in Concord. He was President of Mitchell College for one year. At present he is Stated Clerk of Concord Presbytery and is already well known to many of you. His family, besides

Mr. Arrowood, consists of Mrs. Arrowood; his daughter, Katherine who is now ready for college; another daughter, "Dickey", who is just entering high school, and a son, Bobby, the "boss of the ranch", who is about ready to enter the kindergarten, and Mrs. Arrowood's mother, Mrs. Murray.

We at Barium are delighted to have this splendid family living in our midst right in the center of things. Their home is the Boyd cottage, between the office and the Lottie Walker building.

Mr. Arrowood is supplying for Mr. Cook during the month of June.

Invasion News — "That Sunday Punch"

The time is 9 A. M. Sunday, June 18th, listening to the news of the world, all dressed up and ready to go to Sunday School, but just waiting to get the last war news before leaving the radio. We had been thrilled all week with the doings in Italy where a whole lot of Barium boys are in it up to their necks, with the news in the Pacific where our boys are cutting up didos in the islands that are getting nearer and nearer to Japan, and also that bombing of Japan.

We had been wondering, though, where that old Ninth Division was. We had listened to the invasion news from England and read about the exploits of this division and that division, but nothing about the Ninth Division, and we knew that that was one of Eisenhower's finest.

We couldn't help but think that all the invasion so far was that Eisenhower's just leading with his left, that he had his right hand cocked for a real knockout blow, a "Sunday punch", if you please. If any of you folks don't know what a Sunday punch is, ask some of these Jack Dempsey admirers.

Well, as we sat listening to the news over the radio, here is what it said: "General Bradley's army, spearheaded by the Ninth Infantry Division, has broken clear across the Cherbourg Peninsula to the sea a daring advance made during the night", and when the news came in, this division had already repulsed a determined German counterattack with two divisions. Atta boy!

That is the division that was trained here at Fort Bragg and so liberally sprinkled with Barium Springs' boys that it just had to be good. They did monumental fighting in the landings on the west coast of Africa, they distinguished themselves in Tunisia and climaxed their campaign there by taking Bizerte; then they put on a demonstration in Sicily just to prove to Hitler that the best he had wasn't good enough to stop the old Ninth Division.

You don't have to wait til Sunday to deliver a "Sunday punch", but the news coming in on Sunday morning was just too much to be a coincidence. They had finally landed their Sunday punch, and part of the German army had ceased to be useful on account of it. Every newspaper account that you read has the name of some local boy in it, so many from Davidson College that they will have the whole area turned Presbyterian if they stay there long. Frank Niven was in this morning's bulletin; John Bolin is another.

It seems that this particular section of North Carolina is having one of the most severe hot spells in its history. The thermometer says that Sunday, the 18th of June, was one of the hottest days ever recorded. We wouldn't know; as long as the radio was bringing in news from any direction, it might have been snowing or cycloning for all we knew about the weather.

If any of you folks who read this article get uneasy for fear the war is not going right, just keep your ears cocked for the old Ninth Division. When it is operation, it is going to arrive at its destination. You know, that is the Division that the Berlin broadcaster referred to after three attempts of the Hermann Goering Division to stop it; he said the reason the Germans could not defeat the Ninth Division was because the Ninth was made up of gangsters from New York and Chicago and they didn't care if they killed themselves. Well, they made a mistake about what it is composed of but they didn't make a mistake about its being unbeatable.

Now you tell one!

Vacation News

You know, in 1943 we didn't have any vacations, and it was such a disappointment to so many people that we decided this year to try to put them back in force, and we have gone ahead with that. Now we are just about half way through vacations, and our youngsters have been scattered all over the country. I know many of you people living throughout the state have seen a little stranger sitting in church or walking out on the street and have wondered from what place that nice looking child came. Well, it might have been one of ours. One of the very first to go were three children who did most of their visiting around Pinehurst - Anne Wicker, Carolyn Wicker, and Mack Wicker; Carolyn (Continued On Page Three)

Young People Meet At Camp Fellowship

The Pioneer Camp for youngsters, (12-14) of Camp Fellowship was held at Camp Fellowship during the week of June 12-17. There were seventy registered for the Camp. The following is a partial sketch of a pioneer's day at Camp.

In the early morning before breakfast, we had the morning Watch or Worship. This was lead by Miss Hattie McLean of Lenior, N. C. These morning worship programs were most inspirational and gave a good start to the day. After breakfast, the pioneers went to their quests. The very able teachers were Miss Louise Maxwell of Davidson, N. C., and Miss Martha McLeod of Aberdeen, N. C. Following the class meetings, (Continued On Page Three)

MR. AND MRS. S. A. GRIER

Hey you - do you know who this is? Well, of the nearly 2200 boys and girls who were reared at Barium Springs, at least 1600 will say, "Yes", most emphatically. This is Mr. and Mrs. Sam Andy Grier, who has been at Barium Springs since December 1, 1916.

If we tried to enumerate all the good things associated with his couple, we would need this whole front page of the MESSENGER. We are just going to mention a few.

Mr. Grier has been the Sunday School Superintendent for nearly all of the years he has been here, a member of the Session, and he has been an indispensable member of our religious life. All the rest of the time, Mr. Grier is the trouble shooter; if anything is wrong anywhere, send for Mr. Grier. If the electric light goes out, if the iron won't heat, if the water line is stopped up, if the buildings are cold, send for Mr. Grier, and he will fix it as he has been fixing it all these years. Some of us get a headache just thinking about the number of headaches Mr. Grier fixes, and yet it seems to leave him unruffled, in a good humor, and with a most wholesome outlook on life. We wonder why - that must be where Mrs. Grier comes into the picture. You couldn't know Mrs. Grier and think about her for any length of time without getting in a good humor; she is that kind of person. Every boy who ever worked on Mr. Grier's group remember Mrs. Grier above all others, and my, my - such an impressive number they were. One of the reason may be that Mrs. Grier can make the best candy of anybody on the place, but she hasn't been able to make much of it since sugar has been rationed, and the boys go on thinking just as much of her now as they did when joy was unconfined, meaning when the sugar was unrationed.

The Senior Class of '44 has dedicated their annual to Mr. and Mrs. Grier. You might think that they would have picked out one of the heroes of this World War for that honor, another striking evidence of the high esteem in which this most worthy couple is held, that they were chosen. Mr. Grier is a veteran of that dim and distant Spanish-American War, and he still has a tale to tell of those days.

There is another thing about Mr. Grier - sometimes on rainy days his bones will creak a little bit, and he gets the notion that he is getting up in years, and he begins to add up his birthdays, but whenever that old State College football team is on the rampage and is playing somebody, he forgets all about those birthdays and gets just as interested as if he was still on the team.

Mr. Grier is one of the most loyal supporters of our athletic teams; in fact, he is a loyal supporter of everything that is good about Barium. He and Mrs. Grier are two people who make Barium the lovely place that it is, and they make the boys and girls look backward with longing when they leave. May they never grow old!

(FORM OF BEQUEST)

"I give and bequeath to the REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME OF THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated Under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (HERE NAME THE BEQUEST)"

THE NEED OF A MARGIN

Eight years ago most of the agencies of our Church were struggling under a heavy load of debt. Hundreds of thousands of dollars had been borrowed from banks and the interest paid during that period of depression, if totaled, for the debts of our Assembly agencies, our Synodical and Presbyterian Home Mission work, and our Schools and Colleges, would run into really colossal figures.

At that time the word often went to the various organizations, "You are to incur no more debt. Your spending must be limited to receipts." Stringent methods were called for and they were carried out.

The problem was not solved in this way, however. A preacher or a school teacher or institutional worker who does not get his check at the end of the month will either have to go hungry, into debt, or to the bank and borrow. So when the church refused to incur debt, that debt was at times transferred to the backs of those least able to bear it. The credit of our most faithful was strained, they were forced to buy on long term credit, and to pay interest and carrying charges.

At the end of the church year they were paid up, so they could go out and straighten up obligations and draw a sigh of relief. All too soon the summer slump was on again receipts dropped off and debts must be made again.

Then we realized that we needed a margin, a margin big enough at the beginning of the year to carry over through the slack times of the summer season. Eighty per cent of the income of Presbyterian Orphan's Home is received in the last four months of the church year, December-April. But children must be fed and clothed and cared for the year around, every day. Workers must have their pay every month. If we are to avoid interest payments, that is using the benevolence of our people to finance loans, we must maintain a margin sufficient to carry through the summer months.

All that has been said with reference to the short summer slump is doubly true with reference to longer terms of business depressions. We are so happy now that money is coming in not only to Presbyterian Orphan's Home, but to the other great and noble causes of the church. We can maintain a pay as we go basis. For over a year now we have run on a cash basis here. We can do some needed repair work and add something of much needed equipment. Much credit is due the Churches, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries whose care now flourishes twelve months in the year.

It is important that we do all we can in these days to create a margin of safety that, if and when another period of depression shall befall us, we may not find it necessary to again begin to do business on the "insolvent plan". One thing we can do these days is to redouble our efforts to economize and wisely use each dollar that is given. It is not easy to be saving now. Everything costs more. Money is being freely spent all around. Still we must make every effort to husband our resources and be good stewards of the money given to our institution. Another thing we can do is to maintain the level of giving. The church at large must not get the idea that this institution is being flooded with money and has more than it can use, such is not the case.

If our vigilance were relaxed and our money was not wisely ex-

ADVENTURES AND REFLECTIONS OF A WAYFARING MAN

In order to make this article readable, we will just have to break down and write it in the first person singular and not use the editorial "we".

It started out by an invitation made to me by the Superintendent of the Colored Orphanage of North Carolina. He had made me an invitation sometime before to come up and see him sometime, but this time it was definite and the date set was Sunday, June 11th. I accepted the invitation, and then things really began to happen. This Superintendent, in order to see that I was properly entertained, spoke to Mr. Proctor, Superintendent of the Oxford Masonic Orphanage and to the pulpit committee of the First Presbyterian Church at Oxford, and here came invitations showering on me to be entertained by Mr. Proctor and to fill the pulpit at the First Church Sunday morning. Then two of our very small children received an invitation to spend a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claudius Dockery at Guilford College. The Dockerys run a most delightful camp for a flock of young children there at their home during the summer, and two of our children were invited, so on Saturday morning we started out. The two children, after a hasty and early dinner, and me, with a very much disturbed mind and empty stomach.

The day was hot, and we were traveling right in the middle of it. We discussed every subject under the sun, and I was much enlightened by my youngest passenger, Elizabeth Huddleston, and her views on life in general.

As we approached Winston-Salem, we became acutely aware of the ice cream plant that adorned the country side just before you get into Winston. We stopped for refreshments without even taking a vote on it, and we were served most bountiful helpings of ice cream - unbelievable helpings - so much so, that while Richard Huddleston managed his saucerful, Elizabeth couldn't possibly hold all of hers, so I had to help her in addition to mine. When I started to pay for this, I was told, "Oh no, you are the guests of the house". We had been recognized as coming from Barium Springs, and we had been packed full of ice cream as a courtesy.

Well, we started out again on our trip, all of us very much uplifted. The world looked better. We didn't care if the sun was hot. It wasn't long before we reached the Dockerys and unloaded. Everything was lovely except one small item - there were three big bird dogs at the Dockerys. They took one look at Richard and decided that he was just an ordinary boy, but they looked at Elizabeth and knew she was an extraordinary girl; she looked so cute that I know they thought she must be good to eat, and to prove it, they licked her face to see if she tasted as good as she looked. This was somewhat an embarrassment to Elizabeth, and it took her sometime to really find out whether or not the dogs were going any further with their manifestation than just the face licking.

After a brief visit with the Dockerys, I traveled on. The car was empty for about 100 yards, and then from there on, it was a soldier and sailor transport. I stopped at Durham for a short visit with the Pittman family, and there was more ice cream and most pleasant associations. Mrs. House, the mother of the big Pittman family who were reared at Barium, looked as young as some of her children, and that isn't saying anything against her children. She has just one evidence of advancing age, according to her daughter Margaret, and that is, she has great difficulty in remembering how old her older children are. Margaret was mean enough to say that her mother was doing it on purpose. Well, there is this much to say about it; very few people would believe it if she really told the true age of her oldest if they were seeing the mother.

On to Oxford where I arrived about 7 o'clock - I found both boys and girls most industriously drilling and doing a mighty good job of it. The whole Saturday afternoon was put in at this. They were not producing sweat, blood, and tears, but sweet and enthusiasms in abundance.

I was entertained so beautifully at Oxford that I hesitate to attempt to describe it. The fact that Mr. and Mrs. Proctor have been for a number of years at the head of the Oxford Orphanage makes them both mighty understanding people. They know when a person gets tired, they know when he wants to be alone, and they just do the kind and considerate thing on every occasion. Mr. Proctor even went farther than that; he agreed to conduct the service at the Presbyterian Church, so that all I had to do was to make the speech, and he did that so beautiful that the people listened to me as though I were someone of a special kind. It was mainly because Mr. Proctor so beautifully paved the way and started me off so well.

In the congregation were Mrs. Holton and her daughter, Emily, and her son who is now as large as his mother. Then there was a little old lady who came up to speak to me after the service and wanted me just to sit down and tell her about one of the families from Oxford; this little woman was Mr. Lucy Fort, the grandmother of the Fort family. I didn't have time to really talk to her; there were too many interruptions, so the next day I just sat down and wrote her all about the family.

After a most bountiful and beautiful dinner at the Masonic orphanage, I went out to the colored orphanage. About 150 young people are cared for there at that colored institution; they have a good school building. They were quite thrilled over having completed a new dairy barn, but there were many things they wanted that they didn't have, but they were enthusiastic and appeared headed for better times. The superintendent is doing something that has never been thoroughly tried out in in North Carolina, and I doubt if it had been tried out in any Southern state, and that is, to look to the colored people themselves for the support of their institution. If you go into the chapel or the office, you will find pictures of prominent and rich white people. Mr. Duke, for instance, gave them the school building; others have donated and helped support the institution. Unfortunately when these men died, others have donated and helped there would be no one else to take up where they left off, so the support of this institution has been more or less uncertain.

Now in an ever increasing measure, Mr. Hamme has been successful in interesting his own race in supporting it, and I believe I can already see an improvement in the morale and in the general atmosphere of this worthy institution. I wish it were possible to reach the ear of every colored man and woman in the state and tell them what an opportunity they have for doing a worth while job for the benefit of their race right here in this splendid institution so ably administrated at this time.

The afternoon passed away all too soon, and I found myself on the way home. I started out with a passenger, a nice, tall red-headed school teacher who wanted to go back home in Salisbury. We also had a lunch - fried chicken, cookies, and all the trimmings. I knew just as soon as I left Oxford that this car would be loaded up with soldiers and sailors all the way home, even more so than on the trip up, because now the soldiers would not only have a ride, they would have somebody to talk to. The first group of soldiers that we passed, however, were so struct with the wonderfully opportunity that they were attacked by something like "buck ague"; it's a thing that keeps a hunter from pulling the trigger when a beautiful deer is standing right in front of him. These soldiers, when I stopped to pick them up, just stood and stared and delayed so long in making a move toward the car that we had to go off and leave them, but that was only the first crowd. We had sailors, Marines, air men, students - we even picked up a soldier, his wife, and a little puppy. The little puppy was lost, and the soldier's wife had picked him up, and we picked them up, and everybody in the car took such an interest in that puppy that you would have thought his being properly fed was more important than waging the war. Our hitchhikers entertained us, ate up our lunch, and helped us change a tire that went flat at a most inconvenient spot.

We landed back home about ten o'clock Sunday night. I was really tired, but I had to stop and just sum up the whole trip.

People have said that the war is making us hard, that we are so intent on destruction that we don't have room in our minds for kindnesses or looking after the weak. In answer to that, there kept flashing into my mind these pictures - these two little youngsters from here being given a bountiful treat of ice cream to make their day happier, that fine couple at Guilford College turning their home into a camp for the summer for the pleasure of little youngsters who still require so much attention that the days may not be a complete picnic for the people who give their home; the busy Superintendent of an orphanage giving us his small leisure time, Saturday afternoon and Sunday, to make a visiting brother more comfortable and more at home, the picture of a colored man who has given up a rather satisfactory job as a farm demonstrator to become the head of an institution that lacks so many things that one might think that all he would get out of it would be headaches, determined, however, to make of it a thing of pride and of enlarged service to his race.

The picture of some soldiers doubling up in a car so that a man, his wife, and a puppy would have room to get in, too. These soldiers were all dressed up and waiting to go out among the girls and on a hot afternoon, sitting in each other's lap wasn't something to really be cheerful about. The picture of two young Naval officers, spic and span in their white uniforms, changing a tire in spite of my insistence that they not risk soiling their clothes, and the apology that one made when he had to hurry away to a class and was not able to stay and finish the job. I didn't pick the soldiers who rode with me; they were privates, officers, Northerners, Southerners, Westerners or what have you - they were all likeable boys, extremely appreciative of the small courtesies accorded them.

Well, to sum it all up - the old United States has been at war for nearly three years now; it was getting ready for war a good while before that. If war hasn't done any better job driving out kindness and courtesy from the hearts of people than this trip gave evidence of, there isn't much use to worry about what might happen in the future - a pretty good old country, nice folks no matter what their color, their age, occupations, or where they came from.

When I came back and told the Ration Board about the trouble with the tire, they didn't raise the roof but gave me a new tire, so I couldn't have been dreaming all that I have written here; maybe you don't have to go to Europe for high adventure after all!

BABY COTTAGE

Hi Folks!

Yes you guess right this is us. We told you we would be back this month.

We went in swimming this morning and did we have a big time. Miss Neel and Myrtle took us in their arms, wet us and got us used to the water. Little Donnie said, "I won't to dive" and little Charles said "I wanta get wet." Shirley ducked her head ten times in the water.

Marie, Johnnie, Anne, and Linda have gone on their vacations but they are back playing with us again now.

Lilly has gone on her vacation too and is going to stay a whole month. We didn't think that we could get along with out her until Mrs. Massey came back Saturday and now everything is just fine.

Nina Berryhill our big girl has moved to Women's Building for her Senior year at Barium. Now she doesn't carry the wash rag but Dorothy Plumber from Charlotte does. (Wonder if we'll ever have a big girl that won't wash our faces?)

Friday we went blackberry picking and got enough berries to have a pie. Miss Long sure made two nice pies for us babies on Saturday.

Yesterday afternoon Clyde said to Myrtle, "I like blackberries and think they are good for babies". (He was getting ready to eat green berries.)

It has been hot these days and we spend most of our time down in the cool playwoods.

Dorothy asked little Donnie if he were a mess and his answer was, "Yes, and my daddy's too."

Well so long folks we will see you again next month.

JENNIE GILMER

Hello Everyone,

It has been quite some time since you heard from us but we will let you hear more often from now on.

We are having a grand time going swimming since it has been so hot. We've had fourteen boys to come over from Lee's Cottage and some of them can already dive off the top board. We had fourteen boys to go to the 'quads' where the larger boys stay.

Mrs. Marshall, who worked with us for a long time has gone to Charlotte to live. We all miss her very much, but hope she will be happy with her daughters. Mrs. Spencer, is working in her place at the present.

Many of our boys have gone and are going on vacations. They reported having very good times. Those that don't get vacations will get two weeks at our Camp on the river. Nearly all of our boys belong to the Scouts and expect to get uniforms soon. We hiked to the camp at the river the other week and had a picnic after we arrived.

We certainly did enjoy that and want to thank Mr. Cook, our Pastor and Scout Master.

We have some more good news too. A circle in Mooresville has adopted our Cottage for the year and they have already given us lots of books to read (Comics) and cookies to eat. We appreciated them so much and want to thank them.

We must stop now but we'll have more news next time.

—Jennie Gilmer Boys

HOWARD COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

Here we are back with you again bringing you the cottage news.

We have not had so many beans this year but we will have more later on.

The following girls have had visits: Louise Campbell, Jackie Porterfield, Essie Jean Lee, Kathleen and Edna Ellis.

Some of the girls have been on vacations and come back. We are sure they all had a nice time.

We will soon be going to camp and we will all be glad.

The Annie Louise Cottage is being repaired and the Annie Louise girls are staying with us. We are very glad to have them stay with us and their new matron Miss Blakeney.

We will close for this time. So, Good-by.

Dallas Ammons. Several of our boys have gone on their vacation. They are Bennie Gregory, Charles Barrett, Dwight Spencer and your reporter.
There isn't much news this month, it's too hot to write much. Earl Allen, our artist, is drawing pin-up girls and Charles Barrett is posing for him. That's the way it goes.
Donald Mitchell one of our boys is looking over my shoulder and evidently doesn't agree with me. So long until next month.

PRINTING OFFICE
The printing office is composed of four boys and Mr. Kyles, the boss. The boys are Earl Allen, Johnny Meroney, James Reid and Donald Mitchell.
We have been pretty busy since school has been out. A few thousand letter-heads, checks, annual and now The Messenger. We are always glad to see the Messenger on its way.
Ray Lewis one of our boys who graduated this year is helping us with the annual and it will soon be out for everyone to see.
Johnny Meroney has been on his vacation to Mocksville and Earl Allen is going to Lexington the later part of this month.
We have been going in swimming after work most every day. It sure feels good to hit the nice cool water these hot days.
Donald Mitchell is walking around here grinning like a wolf. I think he's got a girl.
Well, I will say good-bye until next month when we will again let you in on the latest news of the printing office.

SYNODS COTTAGE
Hello Friends,
Since the last time you heard from us, we have made a change in our big happy family. We sent 14 little boys to Lee's Cottage and we certainly do miss them, but to satisfy our grief the Baby Cottage sent us nine little boys. They are: Ronnie Hudgins, Hoyce Dean Smith, Idell Andrews, Bobby Fry, Jimmy Campbell, Charles Creech, Jerris Ellis, Donald Dean and Richard Vest. We have a time settling their arguments because they are so small. We also have a hard time keeping them clean.
Some of our little boys have gone on their vacations. They are: Gene Thomas, Jimmy Freeman, Charles Creech, David Thomas, and Ronnie Hudgins and we certainly do miss them.
We are having a real good time going in swimming and we are preparing ourselves for camp so we won't spend most of our time suffering from sunburns.
All of our little boys will be back when we write you next time and they will want to tell you a lot of the good times they had. So we'll sign off for this time.
—The Wigglers

INFIRMARY
Hello Folks,
Here we are again after waiting a long time. All the girls and Mrs. McNatt have gone on their vacation except Mary Belle Reid and she will go in July.
We have a little boy here with us now and he is a good baby although he gets mad once in a while.
Clyde Reid works at the Infirmary and seems to like it.
Miss Duke was our matron while Mrs. McNatt was away and we enjoyed having her.
Mrs. McNatt sent us some funny books while she was gone and we enjoyed reading them.
We enjoyed having Mrs. Jackens with us. Sorry that she could not stay.
We are glad to tell you that we are having very few patients at the present.
Good-bye until next time.

Life At Barium
the school term. The girls in this cottage have a heavier burden because they are now big enough to take charge of one. They wait on tables, clean up the dining room, wash dishes, and see that everything is in perfect order for the next meal. They do this three times each day, and then when the different banquets are held, they are always entitled to more work. In all we have three big occasions which call for more work on their part: the Kiwanis supper, and the football and basketball banquets. But even with all this to do, they like it and feel it is just their minor part in keeping the home a cheerful place in which to live. These girls will certainly make good housewives for some males in the future.

The boys of the Jennie Gilmer Cottage do the dairy work. They see to not only the feeding and milking of the cows, but they also see that it is done through clear processes. They also see that the milk is brought to the kitchen where it is served or poured into the pitchers before each meal. You would probably think that these must be large boys, but there are thirty of them in this cottage and their ages range from eleven to thirteen. These boys are learning the requirements of grown men before their time, so I suppose they will have to find some other traits of men when they get older.
Now we will push over to where the girls who see that the boys and girl's cloths are kept clean and the meal are prepared promptly all the time. I just about forgot to mention this, but I shall also tell you where most of the cloths are made and who is behind the machines. The juniors, the sophomores, and freshmen have the task of seeing that the clothes are washed, starched, and ironed. Although we have electric washers, a mangle, a wringer, and a drier you can rest assured that we do not hve electric ironers! But we do have electric irons. To do this work the girls are divided into different groups. For instance, one group of girls works in the kitchen one month and then the next month an easy piece of work is given to them. They take this as their regular duty as the others, and then the next month they start over again on heir various tasks.
I count the Quadrangles as separate dwellings. Three of these cottages were constructed by various people; they thus carry the name of the cottage in their memory: the Stultz, Wallace, and Cannon are the three which were named in memory of people. The Johnston building was named for Mr. and Mrs. Johnston; Mr. Johnston is the Superintendent of the Home, and we feel that this credit was just a fraction of what he deserves. These cottages are homes for forty high school boys, and their ages range from twelve to eighteen. These boys work on the orchard group, carpenter group, electrician group, and the farm group; also a few work in the printing shop. Now these boys date girls from the Woman's Building and we leave them now on their way to a date.
Respectfully yours,
Mable Vinson

THE FOOD
In reply to the letter received by Mr. Johnston asking for information about the various types of work and activities at Barium, I am going to give you a few facts concerning the food situation.
The food is cooked in large pots, two of which hold fifty gallons and one which holds twenty-five gallons. We have a big oven in which we fry and bake to different foods.
Cereal - 75 boxes.
Oatmeal - 4 boxes - each weighing three pounds.
Eggs - 500 (scrambled).
Butter - 6 pounds.
Bread - 75 loaves.
Green Beans - 16 gallons.
Dried Beans - 8 gallons.
Tomatoes - 2 bushels.
Hams - 6 large.
Chickens - 60 (fried).
Apples - 4 bushels.
Sugar - 25 pounds for cereal.
The food is cooked in the kitchen and served in large bowls, which are placed on the table by the waitresses. When a table asks for a second helping or a third helping, the waitress goes to the kitchen and gets more for them. There are usually between forty-three and forty-seven tables. Each table has eight places to be filled, and a matron or teacher sits at the head of each table. Usually we stay in the dining-room a half hour. After every one eats and leaves, the waitresses then eat, clean the tables and wash the dishes.
Although I'm not the dietitian, or even an assistant, I hope I have given you the main facts which will help you to know more about the food situation at Barium.
Respectfully yours,
Jeanne Fletcher

Box: Are you going to study singing as you intended?
Cox: No, I gave up the idea when the teacher convinced me it would take me three years of hard work to enable me to sing as well as I thought I sang already.

Vacation News

lyn and Mack are twins and a three are red headed, and that kind of redhead that just distinguishes a person and makes you look twice. Yes, freckles go with them when they are little, but you know what people have found out about freckles - the more freckles a little girl has, the more beautiful she is when she grows up, and these people are growing up.
Then there were Jennie Lee and Ann Phillips, who had a brief visit with their father in Laurinburg. Their father is a soldier and this visit coincided with his time at home on his furlough.
Jackie Porterfield, who hasn't had many vacations in her sweet, young life, started out visiting her aunt in Greensboro. She got to travel around a great deal and had a little while in Atlanta.
Then there was a whole family of Walkers - Hazel, Ed, Kenneth, Nancy, and Letha - who descended on Burlington at one time. They went away in good humor and came back in good humor; maybe it is because they found so many Walkers' wherever they went - gas shortage, you know. (Not such a hot pun after all.)
Hannah Price, another red head and the only one of the Price family still on the roll, visited her two sisters and mother in Charlotte.
Hazel Creech, Cecil Creech, Charles Creech, the three small Creeches from Wilmington were back there for two weeks, and to hear them tell it, they saw all of Wilmington while they were there.
Billy Black visited his mother in Kannapolis.
On May 24th so many went away, it made our dining room look like something had happened to us. We began to eat in just one end of the dining room to keep from feeling lonesome.
The three Coffey girls went to Guilford College, Jean Turlington to Clinton, Dorothy and Frances Maples to Pinehurst, Lucille Smith and her two brothers to Glen Alpine, Essie Lee to Morganton, the five Dunns to Clinton, S. C., the two McNeills to Broadway, the Innans to Lumberton, the Popes to Charlotte and Elizabethtown. Then there was a lull for a few days, and on the 31th, things picked up again.
Pearl, Helen, and Bobby Morgan went to Concord, Jimmy Freeman to Candor, Earl and Frances Adams to Durham, the Whitfield twins to Keenansville, the Halls to Roxboro, Charles Barrett to Asheville, Amos Hardy to Henderson, Elizabeth and Lucy Johnson to Tarboro, Johnny Meroney and the two Ammons boys to Mocksville, the three Barnes to Stony Point, Earl and Bobby Johnson to Laurinburg, Bessie and Betty Jean Page to Raleigh, Anne Starr Langley to Akron, Ohio, believe it or not, the two Scotts to Winston-Salem, Edna, Jean, and Aileen Thomas to Charlotte, Nina Berryhill to Knoxville, Tenn., Dwight Spencer to Davidson, the Bradshaws to Mooresville, the Isenhours to Winston-Salem.
On June 7th, Robert, Charles, and Shirley Hall went to Ivanhoe, the Clark boys to Lenoir, the Barbers to Laurel Hill, the Burneys to Clarkton, the Baldwins to Whiteville, Vivian Jacumin to Valdese, the Vinsons to Durham, Jean Steppe to Raleigh, Virginia Presnell to Lenoir, the Holts and the Traywicks to Belmont, the Landrums and the four Hudgins to Charlotte, and the four Katens to Lexington. Jack Jones to Kinston, the three Manus children and Toni Delancey to Charlotte.
This week the Pioneer Camp of Concord Presbytery meets at Camp Fellowship, and four of our young people are there; they are Charles Campbell, Earl Huddleston, Bessie Dishman, and Mary Morgan. Then two of our rather small ones are at the home of Mrs. Dockery at Guilford College for a week. The Dockerys just made a camp out of their wonderful home there near the college. There are ponies to ride, wadings pools, and more interesting things than you can imagine. Well, Richard and Elizabeth Huddleston went over there last Saturday, and they will spend a week there; then they will spend the following month telling us what a good time they had.
All in all, vacations are in the air. Usually some children come back from vacations weeping. There has been a minimum of that this year, and that makes us all feel good.

Young People Meet
there were various committee meetings. It was during this time that the camp newspaper, "Camp Review", was written. The editor of the "Camp Review" was Miss Phyllis Summers of Statesville N. C. Her very efficient staff was composed of volunteers from the campers.
The afternoon was full of recreation and swimming. On the waterfront were Miss Ann Keeter of Morganton and Mr. Harry Barkley of Barium Springs. The recreation, consisting of games, baseball, and folk dances, was under the direction of Miss Katherine Ballew of Marion. After supper there was a song feast with Miss Nancy Ridenhour of Concord, leading the singing. One of the most popular fellows at Camp was Middy Raynal of Statesville, who had charge of the store.
The highlight of the camp was the Campfire evening service. Rev. J. K. Parker of Mt. Mourne, was the speaker; and he delivered very inspirational and clear talks. His general topic was "Building on the Bible. He gave such fine talks that each person listening to him came to love the Bible more than ever. Rev. Parker told the Pioneers that they were the future builders of the world; and that they should build their future on the Bible and Christ. The following is a very beautiful poem quoted in one of his services.
MY BIBLE AND I
"We've travelled together through life's rugged way.
O'er land and o'er water, by night and by day,
To travel without it I never would try
We keep close together, my Bible and I.
In sorrow I've found it my comfort and joy.
When weak, my strong tower which naught can destroy.
When death comes so near me 'tis thought I would die,
We still are together my Bible and I.
If powers of evil against me would come,
And threaten to rob me of heaven and home,
God's Word then directs me to Him in the sky;
And nothing can part us - my Bible and I."
The Camp was under the direction of Rev. W. B. Heyward of Kannapolis, and Rev. Earl Thompson of Statesville. Much of the success of the Camp is due to the faithfulness, understanding, and guidance of these two fine directors. The Camp was most successful; and everyone had a grand time.
The teacher was putting questions to the class.
"What do you call a man," he asked, "who keeps on talking when people are no longer interested?"
"Please, sir," replied the boy, "a teacher."
"So you believe in free speech," said the Irishman to the Scotsman.
"Yes, I do," replied the canny Scot. "Can I use your telephone?"
"My doctor says that eating of onions is the secret of health."
"Yes? But how are you going to keep it a secret?"
"Do you have animals crackers?"
"No, but we have some very nice dog biscuits."

A Few of the Recent Newcomers at Barium

Dorothy and Mattie Plummer - They came to us from Alexander Home in Charlotte, originally from Cabarrus County. Mattie fits right in with the Howard Cottage girls, and Dorothy is helping at the Baby Cottage.
Earl and Bobby Johnson - from Laurinburg - They say that Scotland County is 'way behind in its dairying. When these boys go back, they should be able to remedy that, because they are most efficient members of our dairy here.
Billy McAllister - His name sounds Scotch, and he looks Irish, so he must be Scotch Irish. He started out in Iredell County, but he spent quite awhile in Asheville. Yes, you guessed it - he is red headed and freckled.
The Harrison family - Jimmy, Jean, and Donald came to us from Charlotte, but they have been living in Wilmington. Their father is in war work, and for the time being, he is in Wilmington.
Lady Jane: "Have you given the gold-fish fresh water, Janet?" Janet: "No, mum, they ain't finished the water I gave them yesterday yet."

Beggar (accompanying man on street): "I've seen better days, sir—"

Man: "Sorry, but I've no time to discuss the weather."

A conceited young preacher had just indulged in a tirade against college and other higher institutions of learning. He concluded by saying he was thankful he had never been corrupted by contact with such institutions. Whereupon the bishop asked him if he meant to say he was thankful for his ignorance.

"Well, yes," said the young man, "you may put it that way if you like."

"My observation is," said the bishop, "you have much to be thankful for."

"Mose, you lazy rascal, do you think it right to leave your wife at the washtub while you spend your time fishing?"

"Oh, yassuh, mah! wife doan need no watchin'. She'll wuk just as hard as if'n I was dere."

No. 10

Lt. Col. James D. Johnston Died In France June 29th

Lt. Col. James D. Johnston died in France June 29th, 1944 as result of wounds received in action June 20. Message received on July 23rd by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Jos. B. Johnston from the War Dept. follows:

The Secretary of War asks that I assure you of his deep sympathy in the loss of you son, Lt. Col. James D. Johnston. Report received states he died twenty nine June in France as result of wounds received in action. Letter follows.

Ulio Adj. General

Lt. Col. James D. Johnston was seriously wounded on June 20th, 1944, in the fight for the taking of Cherbourg. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston, of Barium

LT. COL. JAMES D. JOHNSTON Springs received a telegram July 9th, 1944, from the War Department informing them that their son had been seriously wounded. The whole Barium Springs Community was shocked and saddened by the news.

For one so young, Col. Johnston had a most interesting and colorful career. He was a graduate of Davidson College, having finished in the Centennial Class of 1937. Being his father's son, he was a most enthusiastic football player. He belonged to the "Scairt o' Nuthin" team of 1936 that went up against the best in the state with one regular substitute.

Having taken advanced R. O. T. C. at Davidson, Col. Johnston held a reserve commission. He went into the Army on Christmas day, 1940, with a rank of first lieutenant and took further training at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

He had his orders to go to the Philippines and was home on leave when Pearl Harbor was attacked. He was then sent to Fort Benning, Georgia, where he was run over by a tank, escaping miraculously.

He landed in Saffi, Africa in 1942. He saw much action in Tunisia. At this time he was awarded the Silver Star. The incident giving rise to this signal honor occurred when as Company Commander, he was given Command of the Second Battalion whose commanding officer was missing in action. The citation states: "Without hesitation, and with utter disregard for his personal safety, Capt. Johnston passed through heavy artillery fire to recover a vehicle and reached the unit. Upon arrival, he reorganized the battalion and with outstanding coolness and courage commanded throughout the entire engagement."

The Silver Star medal is a bronze star having at its center, an oak wreath and small silver star.

Growth of the Memorial Funds

The history of the growth of our Memorial Funds here at Presbyterian Orphanage during the past few years is a most fascinating one. If we go back to the files of the Barium Messenger we find that twenty years ago perhaps a half dozen people in this community, when occasion arose, sent a check to the Orphanage in memory of a deceased friend. At that time it was listed as Miscellaneous Support. For many years such donations did not average more than one per month.

In December, 1943 a separate heading was given to these funds and they were designated at Memorial Gifts. There were four memorials that month almost ten years ago. It is interesting to note that there is listed in the June Messenger 1944, sixty-seven memorials. Perhaps the largest number of memorials yet received in any one month was eighty-five in April, 1944.

In 1935 Mr. Milton distributed a leaflet among some of the friends of the Home on the appropriateness of such memorials. A copy of this leaflet fell into the hands of Dr. Walter L. Lingle. That, and some other observations, which Dr. Lingle had made led him to write an article in his column in the "Christian Observer" in the issue for June 5, 1935. He entitled his article "Instead of Flowers". This article was reprinted in the July 1935 issue of the Barium Messenger and has since been issued in pamphlet form and hundreds of copies have been distributed.

The next year a blank for the use of those desiring to send memorial gifts was published in the Messenger and it has been appearing since that time. A large percentage of our memorial gifts are accompanied with the blank clipped from the Messenger.

A careful search of the pages of the Messenger reveals that not until 1941 was there an article on the Memorial Fund printed in the Messenger. That story told something of the growth of the fund since its beginning. The fact was mentioned that in the church year of 1932-33 seventy eight dollars was given the Memorial Fund while in 1940-41 the amount given was $1,592.75. It is interesting to observe that in the church year 1943-44 that government bonds with a face value of over fifteen thousand dollars were added to our Memorial Funds.

In October, 1942, The Board of Regents appointed a special committee to make a study of the Memorial Funds and to bring in a recommendation at the spring meeting as to what definite object should be named for which the undesignated Memorial Funds would be dedicated. This committee reported to the meeting of the Regents May 12th, 1942, and made the following recommendations which were adopted by the Board of Regents.

1. The Board of Regents authorize the setting aside of memorial gifts which have been received at Barium Springs during the last ten years - $7,263.36, that this fund become a part of a fund to build

Newcomers

Virginia and Ann Hendricks from Scotland County. When they arrived at Barium, they had a little dog named "Trixy" that was the favorite of the whole cottage where they stayed. Trixy got to running in bad company, however, and was killed. The girls stood their bereavement splendidly. Virginia is one of the big girls at Synod Cottage. Ann has just moved to Rumble Hall.

Ray Shoemaker. A lad from north Iredell in the Union Grove neighborhood. He already knows a lot about farming. He's at Jennie Gilmer and a member of the dairy group.

Doris Rockley from Clinton, N. Carolina. She's at Howard and already knows all the girls there. If you ever come to Barium and get lonesome, Doris will do more to keep you entertained than any one you can find.

Suzanne, George and Ruby Truelove. All Baby Cottagers. They came from Fayetteville. No, Ruby isn't the smallest one at Barium. Little Jimmy Harris is the smallest, but we haven't been able to get him to stand still long enough to take his picture. Maybe we'll get in the next issue.

a memorial building.

- 2 That all future memorial gifts, not otherwise designated, be placed in this memorial fund.
3. That this memorial building be a church for Barium Springs.

Reports of 1st Quarter of the Church Year

The first quarter of the church year has come to a close and we print below the giving of the churches, Sunday schools, and Presbyteries of the Synod of North Carolina to the Presbyterian Orphans' Home for the first three months of the year. With the report we print along side the giving for the same period of last year.

We make no attempt to analyze these figures exhaustively for we know that they represent amounts that have been received here and that in some cases money has been given which has not yet reached us. We will mention the totals, however. We have received from the churches of Synod as of June 30th five hundred thirty-two dollars and eighty-seven cents less than last year.

The Sunday Schools show a very gratifying increase of $192.39 from the excellent giving of last year.

On the other hand the gifts from the Women's Auxiliaries for the support fund is somewhat less than for the same period last year. Last year the first quarter total was $1,615.00; this year $1,324.93, or, $290.07 less than last year.

The following shows the giving by Presbyteries, Churches, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries as of the amounts received up to June

at Barium through the Eyes of the Children

Last month we carried two letters written by young people of last year's graduating class describing the life here. One was entitled "Children of the Home" and was written by Mable Vinson - the other was "The Food" which was written by Jeanne Fletcher.

This month we have two more which we believe will be informative.

OUR STOCK

It gives me pleasure to have the opportunity of writing to you about our stock. The first thing you asked about is the horses. We have ten mules and two horses at the farm. The two horses are kept mainly for breeding. We try to raise one mule every year, but sometimes we don't succeed.

The greater part of our meat comes from our hogs. Each year we raise around two hundred and twenty-five Poland Chinas. This past year we sold one hundred and fifty and killed seventy-five for our own use.

People are always saying something about our sheep. We have forty-eight now, and during the past year thirty-six were killed and five were sold. They are sheared once every year at the first of the summer. We got three hundred pounds of wool from our sheep last year; so you see they are valuable.

Take a good look at this man. Very few of you have ever seen him and yet his handiwork reaches more people than anybody here at Barium Springs. He is the man who prints the Messenger. You don't hear of him because when there's anything good about the Messenger, we editors blandly take the credit for it. When there's anything wrong, we blame it on the printer, Mr. Kyles, and he rocks along just as good-naturedly accepting all the blame and somehow never being on hand when the bouquets are passed out.

Seriously, Mr. Kyles is one of the most valued members of the staff at Barium. He not only prints The Messenger, he keeps that monumental mailing list in order, he prints and binds the annual and does hundreds of other jobs. The calls on the printing office for job work are surprisingly high.

In addition to all of this Mr. Kyles looks after the shoe repair shop. We might call him our hoof and mouth doctor. Not that we have the hoof or mouth disease, but he in a way is our mouthpiece in that he prints the Messenger. He's a hoof specialist in that he supervises the repairing of our shoes.

ED KYLES

Mr. Kyles not only looks after the work, but he keeps the machinery in shape - an intertype machine, a linotype machine, a big printing press, job presses and all the other tools that you'll find in a print shop.

Mr. Kyles also has a very interesting family. He's not exactly a son of Barium, but a son-in-law. His lady, Rachel Moore, (she used to be,) was raised at Barium and graduated here. The rest of the family consists of little Nancy, five years old, little Ed, four months old, and a little dog who is very much interested in these two younger members of the family. All mighty nice folks.

Polio

As this is written all of North Carolina is concerned over the infantile paralysis epidemic. Some sections are alarmed and some are hysterical.

A number of regulations have been set up to prevent the spread and to control this disease. These regulations have affected orphanages very much. In some orphanages all going and coming has been forbidden. No new children are being received. No children are being allowed to go on vacation, and those that have already gone on vacation cannot come back. In some places day nurseries have been closed and the children are required to remain in their home surroundings. In almost all localities the assembling of children under thirteen has been forbidden, which has stopped Sunday Schools for the most part, and schools that ordinarily would be starting up at this time of the year. These things are all, of course, intended to prevent the spread of the disease by keeping children from different localities from mingling together. There is a question, though, as to whether the closing of these normal gathering places doesn't give rise to other contacts that may be just as dangerous. Grownups sometimes forget that children are going to move around. They aren't going to stay where you put them. If they can't go to picture shows, can't go to swimming pools, can't go to Sunday School, can't go to day nurseries, they aren't going to just sit still in their homes with their arms folded and not make and contacts with anyone.

We at Barium Springs have tried to inform ourselves in every way possible about the disease; what has been done to check it, what has been done to cure it, what should be done if it strikes, and we've tried to govern ourselves according to these findings.

In our investigation we found out some rather remarkable facts. The most striking and to us the most comforting is this: that children in orphanages apparently are immune to the disease. They've been so few cases in all the orphanages that it might well be said that it just doesn't strike orphanage groups.

From this it appears that where children are constantly in groups, that they build up some personal protection that we do not know much about yet. Knowing this, we have not attempted to curtail our own gatherings of our own children. We continue to operate our Sunday School, we continue to allow the children to use the swimming pool. In deference to the neighboring towns, we do not allow the children to visit the picture shows.

In the first two instances, Sunday School and swimming pool, they do not come in contact with other children; in the picture shows they would.

We're going to have our camps on the Catawba River, Camp Fellowship, just as usual. The only difference from other years is that we will not invite outside children to participate. It'll just be our own Barium Springs crowd.

We let our children go on their vacations in the early part of the summer. When the epidemic reached the proportion that the whole state was alarmed, we ceased to grant additional vacations, and the children are all coming back and by the end of this week, vacations will be over. We're continuing to take in new children, and in doing so we are not attempting to flout the recommendation or the practices of other communities. We're simply trying to weigh one hazard against another. Let us give you an illustration.

An application came to us a short time ago from a home in which the mother was tubercular. There were nine children altogether involved. The key to the situation, however, was four. We were told that if we could take four children here, that the three older children could be provided for among one set or relatives, and another relative would take the two youngest, and then the mother would be free to go to a sanatorium. The sanatorium was ready for her, but she would not go and could not go until provisions were made for her children. Now we know that the longer the children had to stay in this rather small home where the mother prepared the food, slept in the same room with them and in other ways came in contact with them, that every day that they continued there, it constituted a hazard on the safety of all the children. Would we be justified in continuing that hazard to protect our institution from the remote hazard of these four children bringing infantile paralysis here? We know that tuberculosis is extremely contagious. We know that somehow infantile paralysis is not so universally contagious. The fact that in the majority of families that polio strikes affect only one member of that family is evidence to that end.

We are not accepting children where their advent can be delayed for a month or two without creating or continuing a hazard for their welfare, but where there is a real hazard in their present situation, we do not feel justified holding them out until we feel perfectly safe about polio.

We have not put a ban on visitors coming to see us. If we did put a ban on that, it would result in many people being disappointed. For no matter how many papers you publish it in, some relative will fail to see it. Then in event that we attempt to put the ban on, and relatives would come from a far away place like Wilmington or New Bern expecting to see the children, we'd be faced with the problem of either denying them the privilege of seeing the children or else being rather unfair to those nearby that we did not turn back. We've had practically no visits from children, and we believe in that way we are carrying out the spirit of the polio quarantine.

There's one feature of this thing that is very difficult to control. We grown people forget that children absorb what we print, what we say, and sometimes what we think. This was brought to light by a rather pathetic incident. A little girl had been on a visit. The community that she visited was very much excited over polio. It was a subject of conversation all the time. She came back from this little vacation and was a little upset and had to spend a day or two at the infirmary. There was nothing serious about her slight illness. She did run a little temperature. She was upset - possibly lived too high while she was away. She got it into her head that she had polio and one night about 3:30 A. M. she came into the nurse's room terribly distressed. She said, "Mrs. McNatt, I'm paralyzed. I can't move a leg or foot." The fact that this little thing had walked the whole length of the hall and was standing on her feet when she was talking to Mrs. McNatt hadn't apparently entered her mind. She was so sure that she had this dread disease that she couldn't get away from the fear even in her sleep. Some children are laboring under fears that may be far more dangerous for their future welfare than the actual danger of polio.

How many cases are there in North Carolina? Something over three hundred. How many children have been seriously ill from measles during the last twelve months? We'd venture to say five times that number and yet we didn't get excited about it. Right here at Barium where a number of people are dreading polio, we had within a week's time three very serious accidents. By the grace of God no permanent injuries resulted but the cars on the highway, the tempting apples in the top of a tree, the temptation to do something daring at the swimming pool, all constitute more real hazards for the general run of children than the much advertised polio. If you don't believe it, get down your figures. We'll even enter the innocent looking bath tub as being a more lethal weapon of destruction than the polio germ taken year in and year out.

Don't get the idea that we are belittling this thing. No one who has ever seen the result of a single case of polio can treat that disease lightly. Death is a terrible thing to think of in connection with a little child, and yet we are trying to not be so afraid of one thing that we'll back into something more dangerous. There are many things that need to be watched and sometimes we will let the bars down for one danger in our excessive zeal in trying to protect ourselves from some other danger. We are trying to stay on an even keel at Barium and not forgetting that with the doctors, with the foundations and with all the other efforts made for the control of this disease, that God is still in His heaven and he still answers prayers and he still affords protection. We will do all we can to protect our children, but will leave the worrying to Almighty God.

We Would Be Worthy

There are certain tasks from which it is never possible to wholly divert one's thinking. I have been call to such a task.

During the month of June, I was privileged to be at Montreat for a period of rest and change, but no day passed that my thoughts did not, again and again, turn to Barium where it is my task to furnish the spiritual leadership for the more than 300 boys and girls of that institution.

In my thinking I have tried to honestly evaluate our Barium program. I have been wondering just how worthy is that program, and just how worthy those of us who belong to the staff of workers, are, of the confidence that has been placed in us by the Presbyterians of North Carolina.

I have no doubts about the worthiness of our program. To put it briefly, we are seeking to provide that sort of program that will most surely enable the boys and girls committed to our care to grow as did JESUS, "in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man." We could have no worthier program. But what of the manner in which that program is being carried on?

Each day, there must be thousands of Presbyterians in North Carolina who think of us at Barium. Are we worthy of their consideration.

Each day, those same thousands remember us at His great throne of grace. Are we worthy of their prayers.

Almost every day in the year, gifts of one kind or another reach Barium. Are we worthy of the tremendous sacrifices of time, thought and effort, represented by these generous gifts.

Today, with our country at war, and more than 200 of our own boys and girls from Barium in our Armed Forces, it can be said that men and women each day are giving "the last full measure of devotion" for Barium. Are our efforts at Barium worth dying for?

Presbyterians of North Carolina, I believe I express the sincere feeling of all who labor here, when I say that we would be worthy! Keep us on your hearts. Continue to send in your gifts - but above all else, PRAY for us! PRAY that we shall become increasingly worthy of the confidence you have placed in us. More important still, pray that we shall merit the confidence in HIM, Who said, "suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven", and Who more than all others has enriched childhood.

Old Morgan

One of the most unique characters and one of the best friends a boy ever had was Old Morgan. He had his faults, as most people do, but his virtues were many. He had his peculiarities and eccentricities as most people have but he served his generation well and died a useful and respected member of society.

Old Morgan was a horse. We called him old because he was older and had more sense in some ways than we boys who worked him. Also "Old Morgan" was something of a term of endearment. Reverend Robert S. Arrowood bought him while living at Cool Springs in Iredell county. Old Morgan helped move the family and lived there for ten years during Mr. Arrowood's pastorate in Rowan County.

Old Morgan was a big rangy black horse. He was never very fat; he worked too hard for that. He was never very poor; he was too well fed for that. Old Morgan was a versatile horse. For many years his chief duty was to take Mr. Arrowood to his appointments and on his rounds of visiting in the homes of the people. Old Morgan was no race horse but his rangy legs covered the ground at

This is the Rumble Hall girls bringing you our news for this month.

Most of our girls went on vacation this year. All of us had a good time visiting our friends and relatives. Everybody is back except two girls and they are due today.

We all have been going in swimming nearly every day. We are sorry that Betty Dishman fell off the back of the pool and broke her wrist. She is down at the infirmary. We have been going down to see her. We are so anxious for her to hurry and come up.

Miss Hardin's sister, Grace, spent a few days with us. We enjoyed having her so much.

Last Saturday Misses Hardin, Everett, and Lorene Brown took us down to the spring for a picnic.

a good rate of speed in those days. In summer he pulled the buggy at a steady trot. In winter when the roads were deep in mud, the buggy was put away and Morgan was saddled. Under the saddle he was a pacer and carried his two hundred pound master with security and ease. Mr. Arrowood did quite a bit of farming on the thirty acres which belonged to the manse and a large farm which he bought. Morgan was a plow horse of superb quality. If it was needed to take a load of cotton to the gin or corn to the mill or to haul a load of wood Morgan was hitched to the wagon and could pull all that the wagon or harness could stand.

We spoke of his faults. Morgan had two major ones. He was an individualist. It irked him to be hitched with other horses. Put him to a reaper with three or four other horses and he would get in a very sour humor and he accommodated his pace and direction to the other horses only after much persuasion of his driver. His disposition would be bad for a week afterwards. Morgan's other fault was that he would occasionally run away.

If it was cold weather and he had not been getting plenty of exercise and he had a boy on his back; he would take the bit in his teeth and run a half mile or so for the fun of it. It was more serious when something went wrong with the gear and he would run till he broke loose from every thing. That only happen twice, however.

He was a well known figure in Rowan Rowan County in those days. He carried Mr. Arrowood to his appointments so many years that it is said, (I will not say by whom) that he knew, without a rein being pulled, to turn right in front of the manse on the second and fourth Sundays to go to Third Creek and Cleveland Churches; and to turn left on the first and third Sundays to go to Franklin Church.

When Morgan was still hale and hearty at eighteen years of age, Mr. Arrowood left Rowan County. Before he left he presented Morgan to Barium Springs Orphanage. So Morgan was the first one from the Arrowood family to work at Barium Springs. A couple of years later Reverend A. Shorter Caldwell who was at that time representative of the Home came by to see us. We asked him how Old Morgan was getting along. Our hearts were saddened to learn that Old Morgan had eaten too heartily of some fresh cut millet and was dead; but that, before his passing, he had made quite a place for himself at Barium Springs; that to the last he took delight occasionally in taking the bit in his teeth and running a piece for the fun of it. Yes, he was a horse.

4. That a Book of Memory be placed in the building including all names of donors, and those memorialized.

There are those whose support we welcome who prefer to designate some other department of the home as the recipient of their memorial gifts. We gladly carry out such requests to the letter.

Since the time when the Board of Regents authorized that the undesignated funds be set aside for a church we have purchased government bonds with the income of this fund, thus aiding the war effort and giving a safe and liquid depository for the money. At this time we have in the bank vault, bonds with a face value of $31,425.00 and we have the amount in cash of $626.10 for the purchase of additional securities.

So the memorial fund is growing day by day. So when peace has come and the Regents feel that sufficient means are available and business conditions right we shall see a beautiful church here for the glory of God and the blessing of succeeding generations of our children.

awarded under congressional authority for gallantry in action in any war.

The second battalion with Major Johnston commanding was first to enter the city of Bizerte. For this feat his outfit was given the usual distinction of being the Guard of Honor for the king of England on his visit to Bizerte. This gave rise to the famous conversation when the king asked Major Johnston how his men kept so clean in that climate. Major Johnston replied: "By using plenty of elbow grease, your majesty." It was necessary for Major Johnston to further explain the American idiom "elbow grease", as King George had never heard it before.

After a further campaign in Sicily at Randazzo, he was sent to England. There he was promoted to Lt. Col. At the time he was wounded he was in command of the 2nd Battalion of the 47th Infantry in the 9th Division.

Col. Johnston is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Jos. B. Johnston of Barium Springs; his two sisters, Mrs. D. W. Morris of California; and Ensign Leila D. Johnston of Jacksonville, Fla., his three brothers, Lt. R. Z. Johnston of Louisiana; W. L. D. Johnston of Batesburg, S. C.; and Captain Jos. B. Johnston Jr. in the medical Corps in Africa.

The following was clipped from a service paper.

"The veteran Ninth Division from Fort Bragg, N. C.," of which Col. Johnston was a member "received official credit for breaking through to the west coast of the Cherbourg Peninsula and cutting off more than 25,000 Germans from the main body of the enemy troops in France. The 9th Division scored this first big victory of the Normandy campaign after the drive to isolate Cherbourg had been started by the 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions and the 4th Division.

The 9th took most of its early training at Fort Bragg under Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, now commander of U. S. forces in the Mediterranean. Under Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, it landed in Morocco during the North African invasion, fought at Maknassy and was the first infantry division to enter Bizerte. It also fought at Troina and Randazza in Sicily as part of the II Corps of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's U. S. Seventh Army."

able to us in many ways.

We have a chicken farm about a mile from us, where five hundred white leghorns are bought every year. Of these three hundred hens are kept to lay and the other two hundred are eaten mostly as friers. The hens are thinned out by eating them as they get too old. We do not have any turkeys.

Our beef cows are kept in a separate pasture during the summer and brought to the barn when winter comes. We raise from twelve to fifteen every year.

I hope this letter has given you the information you wanted. Maybe we can help you again sometime.

Respectfully,
Leland Rogers

FARM

Replying to your letter written by the pastor of your church for information about the farm, I am very glad to give you just the information you want.

First of all the farm is divided into three main groups, the large farm, the truck farm, and the orchard. I will take these units one at a time, and give you an idea of how they were managed.

The large farm is composed of about five hundred acres which is under cultivation and from which wheat, corn, barley, oats rye, hay, lespedeza, clover, and kindred products are obtained. The work of this group requires a skilled boss and about four other experienced white farm hands and about three or four colored workers along with the larger boys of the orphanage which takes about thirteen or fourteen. The farm also has its own machinery such as two reapers, two trucks, two tractors, a thresher, a combine, and different sort of plows. In addition to this we have eleven mules to help do most of the plowing and cultivating.

The truck farm is composed of about one hundred acres in cultivation. This group is managed by an experienced truck farmer who is boss, a colored helper, about five or six large boys from the ages of nine to twelve. The latter group has the responsibility of gathering the vegetables for the table. The products which are raised by this group are corn, onions, tomatoes, potatoes, cabbage, carrots, pumpkins, canteloupes, celery, radishes, lettuce, okra, beans, (both lima and string) beets, peas, and different kinds of greens. This seems like a lot of work but the boys enjoy working this because this is the food most enjoyed by the children. This group is sometimes referred to as the garden group of Barium, and I know people are much interested in their gardens.

Now for the orchard or the fruit group which has about one hundred acres in peaches and apples. This group has a small tractor and about seven large boys and three are four smaller boys to help. This group also tends to the grape vineyard and the canning house which turns out from four to five thousands gallons of surplus foods and fruits which are consumed during the winter.

I think I have covered your questions about the farm and the different divisions and their work. I hope that this information will be very helpful to you and that you will have a better understanding of our farm.

Respectfully yours,
Fred Cole

We had such a good time. We are so grateful to them.

Three of our girls, Shirley Inman, Hilda Barnes, and Juanita Young, attended Kannapolis Girl Scout Camp in Concord last week. We are sure they brought back some good ideas and suggestions that will be of much help to us in our own Girl Scout work here.

Vacations are all over now and Camp Fellowship opens Monday of next week. We are all so thrilled over going to camp for a week.

We have many things on our schedule for next month. Maybe we will have lots to tell you then.

So long, Thanks for listing!

INFIRMARY NEWS

Hello Folks,
Here are the nurses again writing a few lines in which to let you know how things are at the infirmary. We have five patients but they aren't really sick. Little Jimmy Harris's mother came to see him Monday and he seemed to know who she was.

Mrs. Barkley is cooking for us now and she is a good cook. We sure do miss Mrs. Jackins now that she is staying over at the quads.

We all went to the show the 4th of July and saw "Up in Arms" and we sure did enjoy it.

We sure do miss Paul Reid's jokes now that he has gone to the Air Corps; maybe he is telling them to his pals.

I guess we will be signing off now because there isn't really anything new happening.

We sure are glad we are getting our building done over.

JENNIE GILMER NEWS

Hello Everybody,
It doesn't seem long since we wrote the last news and since then all of us that were to go on vacations have gone and returned except two. Bobby Haddin and

Jas. E. Martin Wed to Miss Nellie Sherrill

Of interest to the Barium Community was the marriage of Mr. James E. Martin, who is head of the Shoe Repairing Department of Presbyterian Orphans' Home to Miss Nellie Sherrill of Troutman, N. C.

The marriage was performed in York, South Carolina on July 1st, 1944. The happy couple are now at their home in Troutman, North Carolina.

Tommy Ryan are still on theirs. Bobby Allen returned today and reported a good time. Mason Traywick's mother wrote him and said she missed him a lot, especially at meal time.

Our friends in Mooresville are so good to us. They brought us a complete badminton set, a box of bar candy, and stacks of funnies and books. The badminton set even had a roller to line off the court. We are enjoying everything and we sincerely wish to thank them.

We have our scout uniforms now and they are really good looking. Our pants are up town being altered now but we will soon be able to wear the whole outfit. Having the uniform makes us feel more like a full fledged scout.

Well, so long and a very pleasant summer to all of you.

PRINTING OFFICE

Friends.

Saturday, July 1, 1944 our shoe-man, Mr. Martin, had plans in his mind known only to a small portion of the world. He went swiftly from his home and entered the bus and headed for York, S. C. to get married. This bit of news came as a shock to his fellow workers, but we are over it now and wish them happiness the rest of their life.

We are now working on our biggest job of the year, The Annual, better known as The Spotlight. This is the twenty-first volume.

ANNIE LOUISE

The Annie Louise girls are glad to be back home again. We appreciate our nice clean building. We are going to try to be good house keepers and keep it clean.

All are excited over going to Camp next week. We hope all can enjoy this experience and have the best time ever.

Five little girls came to join our family from the Baby Cottage. We are glad to have them and hope they will like it here. Their names are: Shirley Johnson, Anne Phillips, Jackie Liverman, Linda Inman and Lois Dellinger. We welcome them to our group.

BABY COTTAGE

Room for your babies folks?

Here we come, Charles Bowles trying to run ahead of Donald Privette; Clyde Andrews ducking under the table; Loretta Katzen is so tiny she gets by anything most anywhere. Donnie Harris stately as a judge; Ralph Huddleston with his story book, Jerry Thomas with his whistle; Johnny Collins carrying his navy doll, George True-love with a cap in his hand and our little Charles Andrews, who just came in this morning. He's sweet, too.

The other little girls, Mary Rose Privette, Patsy Dean, Marie McNeil, Susie Truelove, Jean Harrison and the baby, Ruby Truelove are coming and we get up and ask them to take our little chairs. We sit down beside them but we can't be quiet long.

Miss Lily Bryant came back yesterday from her vacation and were we glad to see her! Myrtle Rushing came back, too. She had been to Charlotte to visit her mother. We were glad to see her, we missed them while they were away and don't you think they would miss us too? Anyway they seemed glad to see us.

Mr. Grier has a little car he uses to ride in when it's too far to walk, and when he leaves it close to our cottage Donnie Privette tries to open the door and get in it. He does sometimes. Mr. Grier said, "Donnie, don't get in my car," and Donnie said, "I already did it!" Mr. Grier just laughed and said "That's Donnie."

Anyway, we are all well and happy as can be, and just can't sit still any longer - so, bye.

K. P. NEWS

Just a minute folks, you wouldn't stop before hearing from the girls on K P would you?

The kitchen matron, and girls are fine. We have been very busy getting the kitchen in good shape and want to thank Mr. Ralph Spencer and his boys for the splendid job they did on our basement. If we had any company we would probably bring them in through our basement just to show it off. Thank you Ralph.

We miss our former matron, Miss Long, who was with us for so long that it seems strange now that she has gone. Come up to see us Miss Long, we'll be very glad to see you, and you are always welcome out here in our "Den."

Miss Turner has taken over as our leader on K P and she's grand. But we regret to inform you that she is only staying for the present, she has plans for the future. At the present we are sending our prayers for her father who is ill. We hope he will be better soon. We miss you Miss Turner, but we also have a good sub matron, our head matron, Miss Clark. She's carrying on for you, so hurry back.

Our group of eight girls are as

Nellie Isenhour, shall we say, is our Mascot. Well anyway she's 4 ft. 11, a blonde and has a eye for Dwight Spencer. You find them on the back porch after each meal if you drop around.

Toni Delancey comes next. She's 5 ft. 2, a blonde and ——— censor. Sorry folks, but if you ever want to find Earl Allen call up Toni phone number.

Mary Frances Isenhour is a brunette and has a boy friend over seas, but she's always the one to tell the boiler boy that we want steam, huh, Donald Pettus?

Annie Star Langley is a sweet girl, but Annie likes to pick a fuss with a certain dairy boy. Could it be Earl Johnson? could be.

Marion Coffey is one you could not very well stick on the wall-flower list. She reports that Vinson Secest has gone in to the service. Don't stay away too long Vinson.

Janie Hall is a cute girl and has bow-legs. You'll know her if you see her. She has a bad habit of feeding "Son" Fred Cole ice cream on Thursday. Stop that Janie.

Frances Adams is a "Chicken" or at least you'd think so if you could hear her when she gets tickled. But don't get the idea that she doesn't work. She does.

And as for Lee Vinson, we can't say much because her Navy guys might get a chance to censor this paper.

We are sorry folks but our time is short, but first let me give you our favorites: sub matron, Miss Clark; our pin-up boy, Earl Allen; our motto, "Can Do"; badge of honor, dish rag; pin-up girl, Blanche Fienster; favorite work, K. P.

I'll sign off for now, hoping there is no censoring done to this.

Shining In the Night

A friend gave me a cardboard cross. One side of it has been treated chemically so that it absorbs light when exposed to the sun and gives off light in the dark. I have it hanging on my bedroom wall and often my eyes turn to it when I wake during the night. I have gradually become aware of certain things about it. For example, I find that the darker the room, the brighter the light rays to which the cross is exposed, the brighter and longer will it shine in the dark. Shall we ever forget that many years ago Jesus was crucified on a rude wooden cross? That cross shines now more brightly for us during the darkness of our distress and grief. It has become a symbol to the christian world of a glory that will not dim. The rugged cross once erected on Calvary is a symbol of power that draws men to Christ, even as He said: "And I, if I be lifted up . . . will draw all men unto me."

—George C. Alborn

Henry: "Girls want a lot nowadays."

John: "Yes, and they want a house on it, too."

WELCOME SYNOD!

BARIUM GRID SEASON OPENS SEPT. 15TH

Synod Met Here In 1936, 1941 — 1944;
Looks Like A Habit But We Love It

A short time after you receive this paper it will be time for the Synod of North Carolina to meet, and we are expecting them here at Barium Springs again this year.

Ever since we invited Synod to meet with us this meeting has not been entirely absent from our minds. We enjoyed your meeting with us in 1941 and in 1936, and we pleasant than those two former ones. When you commence to arrive on Monday, September 4th, and then on September 5th when the big crowd comes, you will find the lawn mowed, the shrubbery trimmed, the buildings cleaned, the beds all made up fresh, our pillows taken out of storage, arranged on the beds; you will find us in our Sunday best with our hair brushed and our faces clean, all set for company. You will find that everybody at Barium has had a thought about you, and everybody has had a hand in it, even to the raising of the pigs, the lambs, the chickens, the vegetables and the fruits that go into your daily sustenance and for your daily comfort. Even the apple trees seem to have caught the spirit. Those of you who were here in 1941 remember the splendid apples we had for you. Well, since that time we have had plenty of apples but no bumper crop of that special early apple that you enjoyed so much. This year they seem to be ganging up to give you an abundance just as they did three years ago. It looks like those trees were just holding back during the years that you were not here to give you an abundance the years you are here.

Maybe that is the way it is with everything at Barium. The extra work that we have done to have things ready for you is a labor of love, and if you enjoy being with us, we will be amply repaid.

There are many changes since you were here before. Many of the staff are gone; many new staff members are with us for the first time. In the children there is an even marked difference. You won't find nearly so many large children here as when you were here before. In fact, in '41 we were still graduating classes of 30 and 40 people. Now our high school has dwindled due to the fact that the war fever hits us when the youngsters are around 17. There are more little children here, and you will be seeing many of them for the first time.

There are two organizations here that we didn't have before, the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts, and these two organizations will make it their special business to look after your comforts and to be at your beck and call. Do not hesitate to ask them to do you a favor. It will please them.

In 1941 the newspapers of the state, as a courtesy, sent in plenty of morning and afternoon papers, (Continued On Page Three)

Life at Barium Through the Eyes of the Children

This is the third issue of The Messenger in which we publish letters from children of the Home describing the life here at Barium as they see it.

Social Life

The purpose of this letter is to describe to you our social life here at Barium in response to the letter from your pastor.

To begin with I wish to tell you of the social life between the boys and girls. We all live together as one, big happy family. Our social life begins when we first get up and lasts all through the day. Our biggest social time is when we all eat together in our big dining room; then we all have a good chance to associate with everyone else. I think this is well worth mentioning: every Sunday morning after breakfast Mr. Johnston brings us very interesting talks; he brings us up to date on the war news and (Continued On Page Three)

In each issue of THE MESSENGER, we like to do honor to a member of the staff. This month we are honoring Miss Mary Turner, and it is the most fitting that we do so. She has about the biggest job to do of any for this month. She presides over the cooking; in addition to the preparation of our regular meals, it is up to her that the members of Synod are kept full and happy - quite some job!

Our confidence in Miss Turner, however, keeps us from being uneasy. We know she will deliver the goods.

Football. Did you ever hear that word before? The war, infantile paralysis, the Republican-Democratic Conventions and all these things have made us forget for a time that there could be a thing like football. Maybe we are feeling impatient and have a kind of notion that we haven't time this year for these kid's doings. Well, this article, we hope, will wake you up and get you out of that.

The Synod of North Carolina And Barium Springs

From its very beginning Presbyterian Orphan's Home has been owned and controlled by the Synod of North Carolina.

The Synod of North Carolina is composed of nine Presbyteries, Albemarle, Concord, Fayetteville, Granville, Kings Mountain, Mecklenburg, Orange, Wilmington, and Winston-Salem. These Presbyteries occupy eighty-six counties of North Carolina. Fourteen of the Mountain Counties of the state were set off in 1916 to form a part of the Synod of Appalachia.

In May 1978 the Synod of New York and Philadelphia decided to constitute the Synod of the Carolinas. The following resolution was passed, Resolved that the Synod of the Carolinas meet the first Wednesday of November next at eleven o'clock in Center Church, Rowan County" (now Iredell), "and that Mr. Pattillo, or, in his absence, (Continued On Page Two)

To our way of thinking, there is no time in our whole lives when we have needed the feeling that football gives us more than we do right now this fall. We have all been tense with anxiety over the war news. Many of us have been grieved over the death or the crippling of a loved one. We are tortured by our thoughts of what might have been or our dreams disturbed by the thoughts of this awful war. As it goes on, we can hardly find a family but that some beloved member has been touched, and we can let our thoughts dwell on these things until we forget this still younger generation that is growing up around us. It is not natural for teen age young people to grieve for any length of time. It isn't good for them to have to live in a home or in a community that is burdened with grief continuously. We must, even in the midst of war, consider these young people who will some day carry on. There is none of us who would hesitate to do something that would honor our soldiers or our beloved dead. Let us have the same feeling about our young children whose lives are all before them, who are now in school, many of them who wish they were with their older brothers in the fight. They are chaffing under the necessity of having to continue the prosaic business of the three R's.

If we lose interest in their activities, if we brush aside their athletic interest and their other interests as something of little account, we may encourage a situation that we will later regret. Let's give the kids all the encouragement possible. Let's go out and see them play whether we feel like it or not, and we guarantee that if you do, you will find a blessed relief from the things that weigh you down. You will join in with their triumphs; you will grieve with them over their losses, and you will love them for their enthusiasm.

Barium springs is going to carry on a full schedule. We will have 100-pound teams, 85-pound teams, 125-pound teams, although the 125-pound team may have to be the Varsity. We hope there will be enough teams around so that these youngsters can get some of the thrills of an inter-school game.

Our season will open in Charlotte on the night of the 15th of September. Harding High will be the opponent. We usually have (Continued On Page Three)

Take a good look, folks, at the above picture. They are the Senior Class at Barium this year. To us they look like a mighty nice set of folks. We have a lot of confidence in them. We have to have. The kind of place Barium Springs will be during this school year depends a lot on the kind of boys and girls in the Senior Class. We are looking to this year with hope and confidence. You will see these youngsters again when the graduate. They will have an individual picture in THE MESSENGER then.

sence, the senior minister present, open the Synod with a sermon and preside until a moderator is chosen.

The Presbyteries which united to form the Synod of the Carolinas were Orange in North Carolina; the Presbytery of South Carolina and Abington Presbytery in Tennessee.

At that time there were ten ministers in Orange Presbytery; eleven in the Presbytery of South Carolina; and seven in Abington Presbytery; a total of twenty-eight.

The Synod of the Carolinas adjourned sine die at New Providence Church October 5, 1812. The first meeting of the Synod of North Carolina was held at Alamance Church, Guilford County October 7, 1813. Twelve ministers and three ruling elders were present. They were Reverend Messrs. David Caldwell, Robert H. Chapman, James W. Thompson, William Paisley, Robert Tate, Murdock McMillan, John McIntyre, James Hall, Samuel C. Caldwell, John M. Wilson, John Robinson; Elders, Hugh Forbes, John McDonald, and William Carrigan. Dr. James Hall preached the opening sermon on the text "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature". The Synod at that time was composed of three Presbyteries, of thirty-one ministers, with eighty-five churches and about four thousand members.

It was from a report of the agent of Education given at the Synod in October 1888 that the following resolution was adopted, "Resolved, That, in the judgment of Synod the time has come to take steps looking to the establishment of an Orphans' Home within our bounds and that a committee be appointed to take the matter in charge to consider and execute whatever may seem wise and practical in putting such an enterprise on a permanent basis.

There was also before the Synod a memorial from the "Home and Hospital" a private institution which had been maintained in Charlotte for several years to care for children. A commission with Dr. Jethro Rumble as chairman was appointed by the Synod and the resolution and the memorial were referred to them.

This commission sent out a circular to each Presbytery asking for its opinion. The project was approved unanimously and offers began coming in of sites in various parts of the state. Synod met in Charlotte in 1889 and approved the idea of establishing a Home. They elected the following Board of Regents to direct the affairs of the Home:

Mecklenburg Presbytery— Reverend Wm. McIlwaine, George Wilson, Esq., Mr. John E. Oats.

Concord Presbytery— Reverend J. Rumble, Mr. G. M. Love.

Orange Presbytery— Reverend D. I. Craig, Hon. A. M. Scales.

Wilmington Presbytery— Geo. Chadbourne, Esq.

Fayetteville Presbytery— Reverend D. D. McBryde.

Albemarle Presbytery— Hon. D. G. Fowle.

This Board of Regents was directed to take over the group being maintained in Charlotte and to purchase ten acres of land near Charlotte and there open the Presbyterian Orphans' Home. Although a tract of land was bought near Charlotte the Home was not established there and the land was sold. But in 1891 the Regents bought the old hotel property here at Barium from Davidson College together with thirty-two acres of land for the price of $1,000.00. The old hotel was repaired and furnished for $1,222.58. So when the Home opened for its twenty children, 16 girls and 4 boys, the total investment was $2,222.58.

Reverend R. W. Boyd was the first superintendent here at Barium. His salary was $750.00 per year, Mrs. Boyd was employed as matron on a salary of $150.00 a year.

The first time Synod ever met at Barium was in 1897. The meeting was convened at Salisbury. Dr. Rumble, pastor at Salisbury, had been chairman of the Board of Regents from the beginning. So Synod came over from Salisbury on November 5, 1897 to Barium that they might dedicate a new building which on the program was called "Center Building." This was done to give the chairman the delightful surprise which came when the name was announced as "Rumple Hall." Distinguished men on that program were Dr. J. M. Rose, Dr. J. B. Shearer and Dr. Thornwell Jacobs.

Again the Synod visited Barium in 1911. Synod had met in Charlotte. One day was set aside and by means of a special train the delegates came to Center Church for an historical program and the unveiling of a tablet commemorating the founding of the Synod of the Carolinas in Center Church in 1788. Synod then took the train to Barium Springs, inspected the Home and returned to Charlotte.

In 1926 and in 1936 Synod was jointly entertained by Statesville, Mitchell College, and Presbyterian Orphans' Home. In 1941 for the first time all the sessions of Synod were held on the grounds of the Home. Three hundred and fifty-six ministers and elders were registered for that meeting of Synod.

In this sketch of our controlling Synod we have seen something of its growth from its beginning till the present time.

Of the seventeen Synods which compose the Presbyterian Church in the United States, North Carolina is by all odds the strongest. Virginia is next in strength. Of the 2562 ministers in the southern church 409 are in the Synod of North Carolina. Of the 3,500 churches, 549 are in North Carolina Synod. In the churches of our

FARM NEWS

Here is your newest reporter bringing you the latest gab about the farm. We have finished most of our big jobs such as: thrashing, 2 cuttings of hay, plowing and hoeing corn, mixing feed, combining, and we also fertilized two new plots of land. Although we have finished many our big jobs, we still have a few big ones to look forward to. Tearing down Alexander building, 3rd cutting of hay, shucking corn and cutting silage corn just to mention a few.

Robert Templeton, one of the most favored hand on the farm after twenty-three years of work has retired because of his health. We miss him very much and always will welcome him back for a visit.

This is about all the news for a while.

WALLACE COTTAGE

This is Quad 2 coming to you through the courtesy of Bennie Gregory and Dallas Ammons. The boys of quad 2 elected Ernestine Baldwin as their pin-up girl this month.

Camp is about over and everyone seems to have had a good time.

Dwight Spencer has been on the loose lately seeing Darling Nellie, Peanut has been swimming for the last three nights straight and he said the water is fairly warm. Peanut, you had better watch out for the Coffey's. Ken Manus has been to camp and rowed around in his size 10 1-2 shoes. Jack Jones has been fishing a good bit lately. Crow Mundy visited us the other night.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Here we are back with you again bringing you the cottage news.

We are looking for more beans today, because we get more every time we finish what Mr. Clark brings us at first. It is more than we can do, so we give the Annie Louise girls half of what we get.

We have been getting a lot of peaches this summer, they sure are good. We have been getting two crates a week.

We will soon be going to school and sure will be glad to get back at good school. Be looking for our news next month.

So long folks,

INFIRMARY NEWS

The next time you come to see us you probably won't recognize us because we'll be all "prettied up." The infirmary is being plastered and painted. And while all this is going on the screens are out so we're kept pretty busy fighting flies and mosquitoes.

We all spent a week at the Camp and had a grand time. That is, all Synod are to be found 3,073 elders; 3,631 deacons. Last year there was added on confession 3,407 members, and on certificates 3,188. The number of communicants in the churches of our Synod is 95,716 or about 1-6 of the number of the whole General Assembly. Last year the Synod of North Carolina gave the benevolences $755,609.00. The ministers of the Synod received as salaries $625,419.00. Though this was not a good year for building we see the item of Building Expense in the Synod was $445,728.

If we compare the figures with last year we find seventeen more ministers than last year, two more churches, 2,345 more members and 3,508 less were enrolled in Sunday Schools.

For all causes the Synod gave in the church year ending March 31st, $376,793.00 more than for the year ending March 31, 1943, and there were 679 more added on profession than on the year previously. If every minister who is a member of Synod attended and every church were represented the Synod would have a membership of nine hundred and fifty-eight.

except Katherine Stevens. She sprained her ankle and couldn't go this year but we thought about her and had fun for her too.

There has been very little sickness since the last time we wrote you. We can't seem to get rid of Nina Berryhill. She's had an appendicitis operation and has been with us three weeks. Could it be that she likes us?

We were so sorry to hear of Jim Johnston's death. He was a good friend to all the children and a real soldier too.

School will start the end of the month. It certainly will seem good to have the teacher back with us. We've had a grand vacation but we are always glad for school to begin and to end.

Our little friend, Jimmy Harris is two years old today. We hope he'll understand that all the little spankings he gets today are only "love licks."

Preacher Paragraphs

By Rev. T. C. Cook

"... Let us provoke one another unto love and good works, not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together as the manner of some is." Heb. 10:24, 25.

You see Lord, it is like this - I could attend Church much more faithfully if your day just came some other time, but you have chosen a day that comes at the end of a hard week when we are tired out.

Not only that, but it's a day following Saturday night. Saturday afternoon and evening is the time that we feel we should enjoy ourselves, so we go to town or shop, then to the movies, or maybe a party, and often it is around midnight, or after (especially) we go to a midnight show) when we reach home.

You have chosen the very day we need most for sleeping late. We find it hard to get the children off to Sunday School in time - getting up so late. It is usually after ten o'clock before the dishes are done, and by then it is time to get busy with Sunday dinner.

I mean no disrespect and do not claim that my judgment equals yours, but you must realize that you have picked the day when the morning paper is bigger than ever and takes longer to read thoroughly. You must also realize that Sunday we have the biggest dinner of the week.

Then too, we feel we must think about poor dad. He's cooped up in his office all week, and Sunday is the only day he has to do a lot of things that he can't do during the week. He wants to get out the open. He needs the fresh air and sunshine. When the weather is good, he gets with his friends for a round or two of golf, sometimes a little fishing trip. If the weather is bad, he feels he must tinker with the car. And, of course, when he gets into his old work clothes and gets his hands all greasy, it's hard for him to get cleaned up for Church. We could go, of course, but we hate to leave him at home all alone.

I'm telling you these things, Lord, because I want you to see our viewpoint and that it is not our fault that we are not able to get to Church. We want to go, and we know that we ought to go; we know that we promised to "attend up its ordinances", but it must be clear to you after this explanation that the real reason we cannot go is your having chosen the wrong day of the week. If you will select another day of the week, we shall be glad to give the matter further consideration.

Prayer: Lord Jesus, help us to "remember the Sabbath Day, keep it holy." Help us to know that if we will keep Thy Day holy, we shall be kept holy. AMEN.

to live with us.

We have been to camp and though we couldn't go swimming we had a good time boat riding, going on hikes and playing.

Some one gave us some of the best peaches and we have enjoyed them so much. We have also had some mighty good grapes and apples.

Miss Taylor will be back from her vacation next week. We have missed her and we hope she had a good time. Every one had a vacation and we have had very pleasant summer, so now we are looking forward to the opening of school.

Good bye folks,

BABY COTTAGE

For once in a long time we were so that everyone could have the news right hot off the press. We will have some papers this year but not so many as before. The restrictions on news print make it impossible for the publishers to grant us the courtesy to the extent that they did before.

As we write this, we don't know whether we will have the free soap or the free cigarettes. We are afraid that the surplus of both those articles has gone to war, but there will be soap and towels and hot water for your use even though none of you may stay over Saturday night.

We hope you will enjoy everything we have. You should get a special enjoyment out of the pillows you find on your bed. It might interest you to know that these are saved for your exclusive use. We chillum here at Barium don't use 'em. We keep 'em just for you.

We have had a lot of repairs to be done, and as usual, we have tried to hurry them through to have them entirely out of the way before you come so we could look composed when you did come. It has been more than usually difficult this year. Material is scarce and hard to get, and workers still harder. Those fine college boys we used to depend on so much to help with the repair work during the summer have also gone to war.

We have very little new in the way of building to show you at this time, but we do have plans, and we hope each of you will have time to look at the things we have in mind for the immediate and the distant future.

Money is coming in in memorials for our church. We feel sure that this church will be in sight when the war is over. The money for the Children's Village has been coming in in liberal amounts, and we might say that the building of the Children's Village is assured in the near future.

The third project which we need is the gymnasium. A few donations have been made to that, but nothing like in the amounts that encourage us to think that we will have it soon. You will have to live here awhile to know how badly this building is needed. We are not attempting to burden you with our wants and needs, but we hope many of you will have time to talk a few things over with us.

God has been good to us. The friends of our state and friends elsewhere have been liberal. We feel that your knowledge and help in these matters will make us handle more wisely these gifts that God encourages his servants to send our way.

seven or eight thousand people to see this opening game. We hope we'll have at least that many this year. It will do us good; we believe it will do you good. Our opening games in Charlotte have always been interesting and all the more interesting from the number of people who fill up our side of the stadium to cheer us on. There are a lot of Presbyterians in Mecklenburg County; if you come out to see this game, you can depend on it that your family at Barium Springs will not let you down. We hope you won't let us down.

Our complete schedule follows:

Sept. 22: Albemarle at Barium.
Sept. 29: Thomasville at Barium.
Oct. 6: Asheville at Asheville.

gives us first hand information from over a hundred of our boys and girls who are serving in the service of this great nation.

After our evening meal, the older boys and girls have a social hour and a half together. We usually have one special friend to be with at this time.

We have a very interesting and enjoyable sports' life. In the fall and winter we have basketball, football, and wrestling. In the summer we have baseball, softball, tennis, and swimming. The biggest part of every summer and the thing most looked forward to by all of us is our vacation period. Before the war most of us spent two or three happy weeks with our "home folks". This year, due to lack of transportation, we all spent two weeks out at our camp on the Catawba River. This camp was given to us by the Fellowship Club of Charlotte, so we named it Camp Fellowship.

Our camp consists of two barracks, one for the boys and one for the girls, a kitchen, a dining hall, and a pavilion. We have several boats or canoes which were made here. On rainy days we eat in the dining room, but generally we eat outside. We have an outside furnace where we prepare our meals and there are tables nearby where we serve them.

Our activities at the Camp are so much fun! We have two supervised swimming periods, one in the morning and one in the afternoon; each period last two hours. During the day we go on long hikes, play games, and sleep. After our evening meal our pastor or Mr. Johnston conducts a vesper service in which interesting talks are given. Afterwards we sing or present dramatic skits, and sometimes we have visitors present us special programs. Our week at Camp Fellowship begins Monday afternoon and ends Saturday morning - a glorious week in the life of a boy and girl!

During our school year we have various parties and picnics. At the beginning of each school year the senior girls give a buffet supper welcoming the teachers home again. The boys of the senior class are also invited. The girls prepare all the food themselves and decorate the drawing room. It is always a lovely occasion, and it is looked forward to by everyone concerned. I was especially interested in it this year, because being a senior, I had a definite part in it.

Over the weekends we take long hikes and have picnics. Usually every Saturday afternoon a group of us girls and a worker hike to Statesville, a distance of five miles, go to a movie, and then hike back home again. Various groups and grades have picnics either at the spring or at Camp Fellowship where we used to spend our camp life.

On special holidays we have parties and celebrations. One of the loviest parties takes place at Christmas. All of the students, teachers, and workers are invited to the school house. In the center of our auditorium is a huge Christmas tree, beautifully decorated, and under the tree is a Christmas box for each of us. We sing Christmas carols afterwards and enjoy ourselves immensely.

In closing I will tell you of the matches made by our home graduates. Approximately eighteen couples have been married after leaving Barium. I will give as examples two couples I have in mind who represent the fine standing our graduates are making in life. One of Statesville's most ideal couples is graduated from Barium; they have a lovely family of children and they are known and loved by many people. The other couple is living here on the campus; they have a beautiful child. The happiness of their married life together is a joy to all who know them.

So you see our social life here at Barium corresponds very closely to that of an average community.

Respectfully yours,

Lillie Belle Smith

Dairy

I have the pleasure of writing to you about our dairy here at Barium.

We have sixty-five cows, thirty-three milk cows, eighteen dry cows, ten calves, two beef cows, and two bulls. The boys from Virginia Gilmer Gilmer, which numbers about thirty, milk the cows and takes care of the barn. Their ages are between ten and fifteen years. We have two Red Poles and the rest are Holstein. We get about eighty-five gallons of milk a day and keep it in "the cold storage" until it is ready to be used.

We by what butter we can from the farmers around here, and we also use oleomargarine that we buy from Charlotte and Statesville. The butter is brought by the farmers every Saturday morning.

We have a big barn where the cows are milked and a barn below the milk barn where they stay. There are two other barns where the dry cows and the feed stay. The rest of the dairy, about one hundred and fifty acres, is taken up by pasture land.

I hope the information which is contained in this letter is adequate for your purpose.

Respectfully yours,
Ray Lewis

Miss Mary Turner

long Miss Turner has been working with us. She came here as a student matron. Her first regular assignment was Synod Cottage, and while there, Miss Kate Taylor, another student matron, worked under her for awhile as an assistant. Later on Miss Turner moved to Lee's; then for a time she was Rumble Hall matron; now she is kitchen matron.

A more faithful, conscientious, dependable person has never worked for Barium. We wish there were a whole flock of just such people as she is to draw on for all vacancies that may arise here.

When the boys return from the fighting fronts or wherever they may be, there are two people whom they always look up - Miss Turner and Miss Taylor, and they are quite ready to admit that they owe much to these fine women.

Our hats are off to Miss Turner - and our bibs tucked in, too, by the way. We salute you and praise you with every mouthful we eat.

We know that Miss Turner is human, so we don't think we had better go any further in this eulogy. If we told her what the youngsters said about her while she was away sometime ago, we know that there would be no doing with her. She would just have to get conceited. They missed her from her cottage, and they missed her from the kitchen, and there were mighty good substitutes at both places.

quite as little mice last Monday afternoon; all sitting on benches under the big tree waiting for a slice of watermelon. Mr. Whitener gave us some big ones, and they were sweet as candy. We were so busy eating we couldn't even talk and we ate every bite of it. Thank you, Mr. Whitener.

Mr. Andrews visited Clyde, Annie Marie, Idel and Carol Jean today; they are his little folks.

Mr. Thomas brought us some grapes and they are green but they are ripe, too. That's funny.

Donnie Privette was meddlesome in the cookie box and Dorothy Plummer saw him and told his matron. Later she said to him, Donnie, a little bird told me she saw a little boy in the cookie box. Do you know who it was?" Donnie said, "Um, um, dat bird dot some eyes!"

We're growing so fast that by the time our people get gas to see us they won't even know us.

Mr. Johnston took us to the camp yesterday in his car and as we rode along we saw corn, cotton, trees, mail boxes, a wind mill and we saw water running down the river!

We went boat riding too, and Charles Bowles stood up in the boat and said, "Gee up, hosses."

Miss Whitener is away on her vacation and we miss her. Have a good time, Miss Whitener, and hurry up and come back.

Ruby Truelove is our baby now. She was sitting on Myrtle's lap and all the little boys were trying to get close, when the least but loudest little boy pushed through and said, "Stan back, boys!" pushing them back with both hands; he put his little arms 'round her, kissed her and said, "Honey!" and little Sue Truelove was talking while riding with Mr. Johnston and said, "I'm going to blow his horn." Jerry Thomas said, uh! he wont let you." Then Susie said, "Yes, he will, 'cause he loves me." Mr. Johnston laughed big and said, "That's what a girl can do for you!" We think some body heard that horn blow!

Come to see us and we'll be so glad, we will all try to sit on your lap, talk to you and love you all at the same time.

Clyde picked up a greased paper off the ground and Donnie Harrison said, "Put it down, dot germs on it."

No. 12

Thirty Years A Servant of Barium Springs

On January 18, 1914 a young couple with one child moved to Barium Springs. For a year the man had charge of the dairy. After that, he became a kind of trouble hooter. Any job that might not appear to be anybody's particular business fell to his lot, and he has been working at that ever since. This man is J. I. Lowrance.

He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church when he came to Barium. He was immediately elected an elder here, so for thirty years, he has been an officer in Little Joe's Church. He has been the Clerk of the Session for practically all of that time.

Mr. Lowrance's title is Assistant Superintendent, which covers a multitude of duties, so many in fact that there are times that Mr. Lowrance is accused of having a poor memory. We don't think it is really a poor memory - it's just simply too many things to remember.

Three more children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Lowrance after they moved to Barium - Wilson, Fred, and Frances. The one daughter who was born before they came to Barium is now Mrs. Joe Rhyne of Jacksonville, Florida. The Rhynes have two lovely daughters who spend most of every summer at Barium. Captain Wilson Lowrance, the oldest son, is connected with a hospital unit at El Paso, Texas. Lt. Fred Lowrance was killed in the fighting in the Southwest Pacific a little more than a year ago. Frances married Bruce Parcell in 1942; his death is mentioned in another column of this paper.

The war has struck this family more deeply than any other at Barium.

Along with the honor that we wish to pay to this faithful servant and his family goes the sympathy of the entire community to him and his devoted family.

Early History of the Synod North Carolina

The history of Presbyterianism in what is now North Carolina goes back to the early days of the eighteenth century. Reverend R. C. Reed, D. D. in the history says, "Presbyterians began to settle in North Carolina at an early period, but owing to their scattered condition, and the want of preachers they gathered into organizations until far along in the eighteenth century. The materials of the first churches was mainly Scotch. Beginning with 1729 these came in increasing numbers through many years and settlements mainly along the Cape Fear River." These were Highland Scotch and the Macs who are in eastern North Carolina now are descended from them. About the same time came by way of Pennsylvania and down into the Piedmont Section of North Carolina a stream of Scotch-Irish.

The first Presbyterian minister known to have preached in North Carolina was Reverend William Robinson. Foote gives his date as about 1742. He did not settle in the state but returned to Virginia and settled there.

In 1744 we read in the minutes of the Synod of Philadelphia, "a representation was laid before the Synod of North Carolina, showing their desolate condition and petitioning that we would appoint one of our number to correspond with them."

The first minister to settle in North Carolina was Reverend James Campbell. Dr. Reed gives the date for his entrance to North Carolina as 1747. He settled on the Cape Fear and took charge of four churches near Fayetteville.

Reverend John Thompson came to this section about 1751. He settled near Center Church and preached in this community.

In the minutes of the Synod of New York we read that in 1753 that the Synod addressed a petition to the General Assembly to the Church of Scotland as follows: "There are in the colonies of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina a great number of congregations formed on the Presbyterian plan. * * *"

There are also large settlements lately planted in various parts, particularly in North and South Carolina where multitudes are extremely anxious for the ministrations of the gospel, but who are not formed into congregations and regularly organized for lack of ministers."

In 1775 the Synod of New York formed the Presbytery of Hanover for the whole southern country which embraced North Carolina.

It was stated in the minutes of the Presbytery of New Castle in (Continued On Page Two)

Life at Barium Through the Eyes of the Children

This is the fourth issue of The Messenger in which we publish letters from children of the Home describing the life here at Barium as they see it.

The Work.

In reply to your request for information concerning the work in different cottages; I will make an effort to supply you with this information as best I know how, starting with the smaller children and continuing through to the larger boys and girls.

We have some very small children at the baby cottage, who call for special attention. This is sup- (Continued On Page Two)

Newcomers

Introducing these nine newcomers may be a trifle late; they have already met in person most of the preachers of the North Carolina Synod and a lot of other folks besides. Just in case you don't remember their names, here is a rememberer:

Carolyn and James Garner - Second Presbyterian Church, Charlotte. Carolyn is an 8th grader, and she is catching on to things just like an old timer. James is a Jennie Gilmer boy.

Kenneth and James Jackson - from the Second Presbyterian Church, Mooresville, but at the time they entered here, they were (Continued On Page Two)

Killed In Action

Once again that dreaded telegram expressing the sympathy of the Secretary of War over the death of a soldier has been received at

LT. COLONEL BRUCE PARCELL

Barium, this time for Lt. Colonel Bruce Parcell, killed in action over France on July 27th.

Just a week before his wife received a telegram stating that he was missing in action. He was the pilot of a fighter plane, and his squadron was extremely busy during the latter part of July making possible the breakthrough of Patton's army. Every news broadcast had something to say of the effectiveness of the fighter command in the part they played in this tremendous thing. This effort was costly, and the life of this fine young man was part of the price paid in this effort.

Bruce came to Barium as an eleven year old boy on the 27th of August, 1928. He was a good student, a serious minded, friendly youngster. One of the jobs that he had as a lad was minding the sheep. Maybe he, like David of old, had time to think a lot of things out while the sheep were on their good behavior. Surely many things that he did and said in his later life bore out the fact that he thought more deeply of many things than the average boy. He graduated from Barium in 1934 and immediately went to Davidson College where he graduated in 1938. That same year he entered the army; this was long before Pearl Harbor. Bruce entered the Air Corps and later became a pilot.

His rating when he entered the army was 2nd Lieutenant. When he met his death in 1944, he was a Lt. Colonel, an average of an advancement of one rank a year.

He saw much service in this country; he rated tops as an instructor. He was careful of his men and during the latter part of his stay in the states, he was instructor in squadron maneuvers.

In March, 1944, he went to England and immediately began to see active combat. During his service he was awarded the Air Medal and Four Oak Leaf Clusters.

Many of the boys from Barium Springs are in the Air Corps. Some are navigators, mechanics, bombardiers, pilots. Bruce was the only one who piloted a fighter plane. We have heard him express satisfaction over this. He said when he (Continued On Page Two)

Home Mission Conference Was Held At Barium

By REV. J. G. GARTH.

(Charlotte Observer)

It is the writer's intention to prepare two feature articles, one on the recent meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina and one on the pre-synod home mission conference, both of which were held at Barium Springs Orphans' Home, the institution belonging to the synod which is caring for 290 children as wards of the synod, who helped to entertain both conventions, by giving up their rooms for use of the ministers and laymen for four days, September 4-7.

To show their appreciation for the children and their hospitality, the members of the synod and conference contributed $346 for the children to use in their pleasures. This fund exceeded a similar gift made in 1941.

According to the secretary of the conference the attendance at that meeting was about 200.

This conference was sponsored and expenses of guests were paid by the synod's executive committee of home missions of which Dr. E. E. Gillespie, Greensboro, is superintendent. Rev. R. H. Stone, Charlotte, was secretary of the conference. The efforts of these brethren were highly appreciated and the conference thanked them and hoped they would put on another conference when the synod meets next year at Davidson college.

Dr. Gillespie had written a letter sending out a call for book donations and over 1,000 books were brought in for free distribution to the ministers and laymen. This will be an annual feature, and the books will be shelved so as to be more accessible to inspection and choice.

Victory Theme.

With victory for the Allies in the war in the air, the home mission conference program adopted "Victory" as its motif and the addresses and testimonies were all based on successes attained in the work during the past year in church extension, in city, rural and industrial areas, Negro work, evangelism, and benevolence.

The appropriateness of the theme came out in the impromptu testimonies made by workers in the various fields. We give just a sketch of these short speeches. Rev. Ralph Buchanan, Pine Hall, told of a successful meeting in his field, with 23 additions, and two Bible vacation schools. Rev. P. D. Patrick, Kings Mountain, reported a vigorous outpost at Dixon. Rev. H. R. McFadden, Pinetops, said his section had the largest birthrate in the United States, and the importance of home missions was evident there. He and Miss Rachel Hassel reported a new church in Washington county at Plymouth, which county had no Presbyterian church till the one Miss Hassel serves, which now has 23 members.

Rev. R. K. Davenport, evangelist of synod, said a mission was formed at Hollywood, near Greenville, and this mission formed an outpost which is growing faster than its parent. Rev. R. H. Stone told of the activity of Amay James, Negro (Continued On Page Two) woman, who had run a mission school for over 20 years in Charlotte, and who is now starting another Negro Sunday school. The first school is now Amay James church.

Rev. J. W. Hassell reported marked success in his new work in the mill section of Goldsboro, and Dr. W. C. McLaughlin said his industrial work at Burlington is quickly becoming selfsupporting. Rev. I. M. Ellis, Gastonia, said the three outposts of his church were flourishing.

Karl G. Hudson related the success of work in Wake county. There was only one presbyterian church in Raleigh in 1910, with 450 members. Now there are four other churches and 2,800 Presbyterians. H. H. Littrell, Rocky Mount, told of the rapid growth of outposts near his church.

Rev. Marion Bradwell, pastor at Reynolda, was asked to describe his evangelistic work outside of his church in holding meetings, and said he held about four a year. Dr. Gillespie said 47 other pastors had done similar work, held 60 meetings, and there were 400 conversions, with 300 joining the Presbyterian church. Rev. T. B. Ruff, Old Fort, gave an exhortation on Evangelism.

Phases of Victory.

Besides the impromptu speeches, there were set addresses describing successful work in various fields. W. Erdman Love, Charlotte, a building contractor interested in chapel work, told of erecting chapels out of abandoned church buildings and school houses. He mentioned one on Beatty's Ford road called Erdman Love chapel, Avondale chapel, soon to be an organized church. South Park chapel, all in Charlotte, and Unity chapel near Polkton built from materials of the old Polkton church, which is now called the Hawley Memorial.

Rev. G. Dana Waters spoke on the Lord's Acre plan for rural churches, in which each member sets aside a portion of land, or one hour's wages for church work. It enlists all members, gives poor people a chance to do something and appeals to the people outside the church. This plan pays debts, helps get full-time pastors, increases benevolence, and develops co-operation. Proceeds ought to be dedicated in a harvest Thanksgiving service. It needs a zealous leader.

Rev. N. R. McGeachy spoke on Negro work. There are 981,000 Negroes in the state, less than half in churches, one-fifth in Sunday School. Northern Presbyterians have done more than Southern. The U.S.A. church has 132 churches in North Carolina, with 10,138 members, while Southern Negro churches number three with 111 members. There are now six missions to Negroes in the state. Negro Methodists in Charlotte number 5,490, and Negro Baptists 3,946. He exhorted revival of work among Negroes. The conference asked that Mr. McGeachy's paper be mimeographed and distributed to members of the conference.

Rev. R. H. Stone, Charlotte, said the cities of North Carolina have over 27 per cent of the populations and are growing fast. The cities have 38 per cent of the church members. He spoke of several new churches in Charlotte and several in prospect. All the cities offer great opportunities.

Rev. I. M. Ellis, Gastonia, spoke of the value of music in evangelism and pointed out the need of gospel songs as well as church hymns. Mr. Ellis had charge of the music of the conference. Special music was furnished by a ministerial male quartet and a Negro girl chorus from Fairview Homes, Charlotte.

Karl Hudson, Raleigh, on behalf of W. H. Belk, Charlotte, told of the work Mr. Belk has done with his benevolence to home missions in North Carolina. He told of the J. M. Belk Fund contributed by the various department stores in the Belk Brothers chain, and how they give brick for new churches. Mr. Belk himself makes many contributions to churches and workers and his liberality has multiplied churches and members in Union county and many other places.

Addresses Heard.

The opening address of the conference was delivered by Dr. J. R. Cunningham of Davidson, who stressed the importance to the home mission cause of temperance, interracial understanding and goodwill, and a durable world peace. Dr. Cunningham said the church must be concerned with all these things. The Negro asks for economic opportunity and social justice, educational privileges and participation in a government to which he pays taxes and gives his life.

Two devotional addresses were made. Rev. Marion G. Bradwell, Reynolda, spoke of devotion to Christ, and Dr. J. A. Redhead, Charlotte, of relying on divine support and having something to stand for.

Dr. H. H. Thompson, Baton Rouge, La., the director of Evangelism for the church, pointed out the vacillating record of conversions of the whole church, and exhorted the church to advance in evangelism by holding special meetings in every church during the period chosen in March, keep a continuous program of evangelism going every Sunday, and stimulate personal work among church members. He said the Southern Presbyterians have proposed 50,000 conversions as their goal for this year.

Dr. Thompson spoke again along similar lines at synod's meeting, when Rev. M. O. Sommers, Raleigh, reported as chairman of evangelism. Mr. Sommers said conversions numbered last year in the synod 3,407, which was an increase of 25 per cent. Synod pledged Dr. Thompson its full co-operation, and set as its goal 9,500 new members by conversion this year, in the Presbyterian Evangelistic Crusade. Mission Report.

We wish to combine with this story the report made on home missions to the synod. But before we give that report, let us note the findings on the conference. This report given by Rev. T. C. Cook, Barium Springs pastor, requested the publication of Mr. McGeachy's address on the Negro Work, urged the conference to take a stand against the liquor traffic, to co-operate with Dr. Thompson in evangelism, urged multiplication of outposts and missions, expressed appreciation to the family of Rev. A. M. Earl for the donation of his library, and thanked Dr. Gillespie and Mr. Stone for the splendid program of the conference.

An exhibit furnished by Rev. O. V. Caudill, Winston-Salem, showed pictures of new church buildings and manses erected in the synod recently.

Rev. J. W. Witherspoon, Lexington, chairman of synod's home missions, presented the 56th annual report to synod. This report shows 54 workers received aid from the committee, a full-time evangelist, Rev. R. K. Davenport held 12 revivals, with 82 professions and 34 additions, and 47 pastors held 65 revivals with 400 professions and 300 additions.

Dr. Gillespie, the superintendent of home missions, has managed the home mission office which also handles the assets of home missions as well as the collections, and other funds, emergency home missions, defense service, and educational institutions, and served as a bureau for the pastor revivals. About $47,000 was paid out for home missions which includes funds reserved for future use, about $7,514. Dr. Gillespie edited and distributed 30,000 copies of Presbyterian News to 7,500 families in the synod. This office handles about $100,000 a year.

Fourteen church and manse projects were aided to the amount of $4,930.

Dr. Gillespie was re-elected to his office for two years, and Rev. R. J. Davenport was re-elected evangelist for one year.

Rev. D. T. Patrick, Kings Mountain, is the new chairman of synod's home missions.

The conference adjourned at noon Tuesday in time for the synod to open the same day at 2:30 p. m.

Killed In Action

went into battle, he did not want to feel responsible for other lives than his own, that the responsibility of leading a squadron is enough without feeling that an error in judgment or a mechanical failure might cause him to be even slightly responsible for the lives of other members of his crew.

We can imagine this lad in his last battle as a brave leader, hunting out danger spots himself and protecting the other ships of his squadron whenever possible - surely a noble leader of men!

While we at Barium will never again see his face, we will cherish in our memory the high ideals and the brave deeds of this fine young man.

Bruce's mother lives at Cleveland, North Carolina. His widow and her parents live at Barium. Bruce had two sisters younger than he at Barium, two older than he who never came to Barium. These older sisters helped Bruce with his education, and he most generously helped his younger sisters with theirs. Surely we must all be better men and women for having accepted for our protection the life of this young man.

A movement was started at Synod to honor those Barium boys who have paid the full price. At this writing there are eight boys. Synod voted to perpetuate their memory in a memorial, a gymnasium and the thought behind this is not just a matter of raising money for a building, but it is in having a building here erected in memory of these boys who in years past, by their devotion and bravery, made possible the athletic developments of the young people at Barium. The things that made them good athletes here afterwards made them good soldiers.

It is hoped that in building a gymnasium to their memory, we may capture in some way this fine spirit and transmit it to their younger brothers and sisters in the years to come. Could anybody ever become a coward who is trained in a gymnasium erected to the memory of boys like Bruce? Could anyone ever be a slacker in a game, in war, or in the other affairs of life if he has passed the portals that had on them the list of names of these boys who will never come back to us?

We hope that before many years have passed this building will be erected. What could be a more fitting memorial?

living in Kannapolis. They say they like it here. From the grin on Kenneth's face, we are inclined to believe them.

David Jones - from 'way down in New Bern, a brother of Jack Jones, by the way, and he felt right at home from the first day he landed here.

The Andrews family from Kannapolis - Janie, James, Charles, and Annie. Yes, you guessed it - Janie and James are twins. All four of these youngsters came to Barium wearing a smile. They greet you with that same smile every time you are near them. They look more serious in this picture than you will ever be able to find them otherwise.

We are behind in our introductions; there are this many more whom you haven't met yet, but just keep watching. Their pictures will appear in a later issue of the Messenger.

plied by four large girls and two matrons, who keep the house clean, do the mending of their clothes and keep the children clean. When children first enter the orphanage, they are taught how to make their beds and keep their clothes in correct order. Outside of this they have no other duties to perform.

Annie Louise girls and Synod's boys are the same age, ranging from six to eight years. These children do very little in the way of work. They ake their beds, keep their clothes neat, and some of the older children help with the sweeping in their cottage. They also keep their play grounds clean by picking up paper every morning. Two large girls and one matron are in both of these cottages to perform the necessary duties.

In Howard and Lees' cottages the ages vary from nine to eleven. The Howard girls are better known as the bean stringers. Of course this gives away their occupation. They string enough beans to last the year round which is a very large quantity. They do no other work outside of keeping their own building clean. All boys at Lees' cottage work on the truck farm with the exception of about four boys who do the house cleaning. They have a matron in each one of these buildings.

Rumple Hall girls serve the tables and do the dish washing. Each girl waits on two tables, and there are seven students and one matron or teacher at each table. The Jennie Gilmer boys who are the same ages as the Rumple Hall girls work on the dairy.

Lottie Walker is the building that girls live in during their four years in high school. The boys live at the Quads. All senior girls work in the sewing room. They make clothes for all children who do not receive a clothing box, aprons for girls to work in sheets, play suits and other things that may need to be made by them. The girls in eighth, ninth, and tenth grades work in the laundry and kitchen. During the winter there are three negro women who do the washing of the clothes. We have two washers which the clothes are washed in; the girls iron after school. Two girls work at the mangle where all flat work is ironed such as pillow cases, etc. The other girls work in the kitchen. Two girls fix breakfast every morning, and the dietitian helps. The Quad boys have different kinds of work: the farm, the repair group, who fix all window lights that are broken out and build the boats which are used at the camp, and repair buildings. Two boys are on the plumbing group. I have not gone in detail and explained certain work due to the fact it is being explained as separate subjects, the dairy, the farm group, the kitchen, and the serving of the food.

I hope that this information will prove of value to you and that I have answered your question satisfactorily.

Respectfully,

Peggie Lou Buie.

School.

In answering your request for information concerning our school work, I am happy to tell you my opinion of it. We are proud of our school system here at our home, Barium; and I'm glad you made inquiries concerning this very important phase of our life.

We have two separate school buildings on our campus, one the grammar grade school, to which grades one through eight go; the other, the high school where grades from nine to twelve are included. The eighth grade is not considered the freshman class; this title goes to the ninth graders. The school is a state school with more teachers than are allotted by the State hired by the orphanage.

In the primary school there are teachers for each grade with a separate music teacher, piano teacher, and a physical education teacher, who also teaches the kindergarten.

The high school is altogether different from the grammar school. We have the State required subjects and in addition a two-year Bible course which is not required by the State but by the orphanage. The electives are third year Home Economics, Glee Club, Sociology and Economics, Basic Math, Public Speaking, World History, Geometry, and a Safety course.

The total number in both schools is two hundred and eighty-six.

I have enjoyed writing this letter, and I hope that it answers your questions.

Respectively yours,
Grace Adams.

"Yes", admitted the optimistic salesman, "business is booming. This time a year ago my order book was half empty; now it's half full."

Gloria: "Was your uncle's mind vigorous and sane up to the last?"

Harold: "I don't know. The will won't be read until tomorrow."

Preacher Paragraphs

By Rev. T. C. Cook

Has Your Candle Gone Out?

"Thou wilt light my candle: the Lord my God will enlighten my darkness." Psalm 18:28.

Archibald Rutledge, in his book, "Home by the River," has a chapter entitled, "It's a Dark Business," in which he tells of some of the interesting experiences he has had with the negroes. He relates a conversation he had with an old darky who was on his way to Church. On parting company with Mr. Rutledge, the old negro said: "And now, I must go light my candle by His fire." How we do need to ponder the truths contained in that quaint remark!

Our spiritual candles have become as smoking flax. The prophecy made by one of England's statesmen on the eve of the last world war has well-nigh become fulfilled. Our churches, our social relationships, and our homes have been blacked out. The lights, physical and spiritual, have gone out, pretty much everywhere. And until we as Christians bring our candles into contact with "His fire", our world will be plunged into ever-deepening darkness.

Our candles can burn again with a bright flame. David, again and again suffered spiritual blackouts, but he was willing, again and again to have his candle rekindled from above. And God, as often as David came to Him, lighted his candle and enlightened his darkness. What God did for David, He can and will do for us. There are some things, however, that we must do ourselves.

We shall have to repent of our sins, individual and corporate. We shall have to stand with David, with the publican, and with the prodigal. We shall have to cry as they did: "Have mercy upon me, O God. Be merciful to me a sinner. Against Thee, Thee only have I sinned." Once we have sincerely uttered such a confession of sin, God will hear. He will forgive, our candles will burn again with a bright light and we shall have restored unto us the joy of His salvation.

Like the old negro, we can make our way to the House of God. Faithful attendance upon the services of the Church will keep our candles from going out. Many a Christian can trace the beginning of his spiritual decline to the day he began neglecting God's House.

We can spend some time each day with God's Word. Daily meditation upon the Book that tells of Jesus the light of the world will keep our candles burning brightly. "The entrance of" God's Word "giveth light."

We can spend a while each day in prayer, and we must, if we would keep our lights burning brightly. A physical candle cannot burn without air. Prayer is the Christian's vital breath. It contains the spiritual oxygen that feeds the flame of the soul. It is no wonder that Jesus said, Men ought always to pray and not to faint." If we don't pray we shall faint. Paul discovered this truth, hence his injunction: "Pray without ceasing." Stop breathing physically and the body dies. Stop breathing spiritually and the soul dies.

Jesus, the "Light of the World" is most merciful. "A bruised reed shall He not break, and the smoking flax shall He not quench." Let us go to Him, poor smoking flax that we are, at best. Let us feel "His fire." Only thus can our lamps be trimmed and burning bright. Only thus can we shine in a world that is so desperately in need of light just now.

through the settlements of Eastern North Carolina and to Virginia. Later he came back to this state to settle as pastor in Duplin and New Hanover counties. He was received by the Presbytery of Hanover and settled in this field in 1759.

The last meeting of Hanover Presbytery held in North Carolina was at Buffalo Church in Guilford County March 7, 1770. At this meeting an overture that the Presbytery of Orange be formed was granted. On the 5th of September 1770 in Orange County at Hawfields Church the Presbytery of Orange was organized.

The first settled pastor in the western section of the state according to Dr. Foote was Dr. Alexander Craighead. He was called to Rocky River and installed there in 1758.

Other early ministers of the sections were McMordie, Donaldson, James Creswell, Henry Pattillo, David Caldwell and James Tate and others.

Dr. D. I. Craig tells us that the first meeting of a church court in the bounds of what is now the Synod of North Carolina was at "Lower Hico" Church, Person County, October 2, 1765, when the Presbytery of Hanover met there.

There was present at Center at the organizations of the Synod of the Carolinas from Orange; six ministers and six elders; from South Carolina, three ministers and two elders; and from Abington, one minister; eighteen all told.

Reverend David Caldwell preached the sermon and was the moderator of this meeting.

In 1795 the Presbytery of Concord was set off from Orange by the Synod of the Carolinas and consisted of twelve ministers. The Yadkin River was made the dividing line. All east of the Yadkin comprised Orange Presbytery and all west in North Carolina belonged to Concord. The first meeting of Concord Presbytery was at Bethpage Church December 24, 1795.

In 1712 the Presbytery of Fayetteville was formed from Orange with eight ministers as members.

Not An Upset But A Disappointment.

As usual, Barium Springs opened the football season with a Charlotte team in the Memorial Stadium in Charlotte on the night of September 15th.

It was a perfect night for football and should have been an even more auspicious season's opening game than it was.

The relative strength of the two teams was about as usual. Charlotte teams always have a larger student body to choose from; they usually have a week's more practice before the starting game. They have opportunities to scrimmage between schools and have access to the playing field so that, as a rule, they have some advantage over the Barium team, and Barium enters the game as the underdog.

This year for some unknown reason, the Charlotte papers and the Charlotte schools played down the strength of the Harding team and made them the underdog, conceding the victory to Barium by two or three touchdowns. We couldn't understand their reasoning, because Barium has been hit even harder by the war taking the older boys and by the younger boys enlisting, and at the present time Barium has the smallest student body of boys to get a team from and a younger group than they ever had before.

Be that as it may, a great many people believed the Charlotte papers. From the looks of the first quarter of the game, the Barium team believed it, and certainly many thousands of people in Charlotte believed it because the attendance was less than half of the number that usually sees the opening game.

Charlotte people do not like to see their teams pushed around. This is easily understandable, and they didn't care to see Barium Springs defeat Harding by three or four touchdowns as was freely predicted.

It took the first quarter of the game for the Barium team to find out that they were up against a real opponent, and finding this out was a painful procedure; it upset the Barium team to such an extent that for a while, they forgot most of the football they knew.

During the interval Harding scored two touchdowns, both touchdowns being set up by the Old Statue of Liberty play, something that we now look on as "kindergarten football". All of this happened in the first quarter, and at the end of that quarter, Harding was leading 13-0. From then on it was a real ball game. Fred Cole's punting for Barium was something beautiful to see. We didn't get the full advantage of his kicks, because they were not well covered and the runbacks were too liberal. Barium's passing offense was not so good, while Harding's would have been a credit to a midseason team.

The running plays of both teams in the early part of the game were poor except for those Statue of Liberty plays. Later on Barium picked up and the ball carrying of Earl Adams, Bennett Baldwin, Scott Blue, Fred Cole, and Gene Bounous looked good.

Harding had the weight on Barium, and they looked like they had the experience. While Harding does not have a regular coach, one of the ex-Central High coaches, Pasco Gettle, coached for that Fayetteville Presbytery had its first meeting at Center Church in Robeson County on October 21, 1813.

KINGS MOUNTAIN S. S. SENDS MEMORIAL SUM TO BARIUM

The Sunday School of the Kings Mountain Presbyterian church has shown its love for its beloved superintendent, Mr. C. F. Thomasson by contributing to our Memorial Fund the sum of one hundred dollars to be added to our church building fund.

We will carry this gift in our list of Memorials in next month's Messenger.

A country preacher was informed that the congregation had voted to increase his salary $200.

"Tell those good souls," he replied, "that I cannot accept it. I have enough trouble now trying to collect my present salary."

Johnson: What's wrong? You look awfully mad.

Thompson: I am. Here I have been treating a patient for three years for yellow jaundice and now I find he's a Chinese.

game.

After the game the students of Harding High had an open house to which the Barium team was invited and it was a delightful occasion. It was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Knox near the Harding School.

It is interesting to note how much different a boy looks wearing his social smile than he does when he is wearing his football helmet.

Barium Springs took a small cheering section, which didn't function too well; too many amateurs wanted to get in on it. Some had the desire to help, some with the desire just to have fun. The Harding side was as little organized as Barium; their school had not opened at the time of the game, and many of the student activities hadn't gotten started. One of the things was that band that always adds so much to the festivities.

Taking it all in all, it was a good start for the season, handicapped as everyone was by the late starting of school and the usual wartime inhibitions.

The police force evidently had such confidence in the two teams that it didn't show up at all, not that they were needed!

The Barium Messenger

Published by Presbyterian Orphans' Home For the Information of Its Friends

Vol. 22

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., OCTOBER 1944

No. 1

Miss Lulie E. Andrews

Cashier - Bookkeeper and Most Capable "Handy Man."

In presenting a lady, it isn't always the best policy to be too meticulous in giving the number of years that she has worked at any particular place.

In saying something about Miss Lulie Andrews, we are torn between a desire to protect her age and still tell about her wonderful service to Barium Springs. We'll just have to break down and say that she did come here in 1925, fresh out of the Assembly's training school. She came, she saw, she conquered not only a troublesome set of books and a bank account that would sometimes get entirely too weak for its duties, but in addition she took on in such a masterful way the leadership of the Young People's Work that today can be looked on as one of the very foundation stones of our religious life at Barium.

A large part of the credit for this Young People's work goes to "Miss Lulie"; a large part of the credit for the present setup of the handling of our finances goes to her. She has to know a lot about so many things that she is probably the best informed person at Barium Springs about its multiple activities. Certainly she can tell you more quickly which pays and which does not pay—

We delight to do her honor in our paper and to present her to our friends wherever this Messenger goes.

Many of you would recognize her signature; comparatively few have met her face to face. Here she is:

Donny Bolton, who is in Italy, has been also wounded, and we are glad to know that his brother, Worth, is right there with him. Worth wrote us that Donny was not wounded too badly, and he should be as good as new in a few more weeks.

Vance Smith, who has been wounded several times, is now at Stark General Hospital in Charleston. A wire came from him saying he is feeling fine and sending us here at Barium greetings. We are so glad to have that boy home!

Resume of Football Doings At Barium

BARIUM 22, ALBEMARLE 18.

Sept. 22.—Barium has played her second game, and it was a thriller. It was played on Sloan Field on a beautiful day before a nice crowd of friendly fans, many of them from Albemarle.

During the game our old friend and neighbor, Bill Kirkman, came in with his Monroe boys, they being en route to Statesville to play a game that night.

We won't attempt to give you all the details of this Albemarle-Barium game; there were thrills aplenty. There was a blocked punt ending in a touchdown; there were two touchdowns from passes; there was a safety; there was some grand forward passing work on both teams. The blocked punt was recovered by Baldwin; the next touchdown Barium made was a pass - Baldwin to Adams; the last one - a pass from Baldwin to Horace Smith. There were other passes - Cole to Baldwin for a beautiful one. There was some nice running, Adams making the longest gain from scrimmage. There was some extra nice punting, Fred Cole engineering those things.

It was a grand game with both teams determined, alert, and playing good ball. We can stand a lot of games like that, and we feel all the better for having seen it and participated in it.

BARIUM 27, THOMASVILLE 0.

Sept. 29.—Barium's last September game was fine - all except the weather! It rained the entire day, all but the two hours in which the game was played. It didn't rain then, and Sloan Field was just as good as though it hadn't rained (Continued On Page Two)

Former Barium Girl Writes of Her Appreciation of This Home

The following article was written by Pearl Bostian (now Mrs. Frank Galyon), a member of the class of '33. After graduating from Barium, she worked for a time in Statesville, then High Point, then out on the Pacific Coast, and she has lived most of the time since then on the Coast. Right now she is taking a business course, in addition to her other duties, in Olympia, Washington while her husband is in the service. Pearl said she was practicing on her typewriter and decided to write an article about Barium. We think it is good enough to publish.

We appreciate the credit Pearl gives to Barium Springs, and we love her for saying these nice things about the old Home. We appreciate all the more the fact that when Pearl was at Barium, she didn't always have smooth sailing. She had her ups and downs, and there were times when she didn't like Barium Springs, just as it happens in the lives of so many of the youngsters here now.

She is seeing Barium as it looks when you look back on it after having seen a good deal of the world.

In a small place which isn't even on the map unless you find a very big map is a place called "HOME" for many children, some who today have grown to manhood and womanhood. This HOME in the heart of North Carolina is BARIUM SPRINGS' Orphanage.

All children, being children, do not realize how much this home means to them. It is later that they look back with pride upon this home of their childhood.

I have lived in quite a few towns from North Carolina to California. Eventually in each town the occasion arises for some one to ask, "Where is your home?" When I tell them I was raised in an orphanage in North Carolina, they get a sad look on their face and always say, "you poor kid." You should see how quickly I say, "Oh, you don't understand about orphanages. I was fortunate." No, I don't mean it is nice to have given up my Mom and Dad and all the little things that go with an individual home. Some of us don't remember that home except by the pictures we have of our parents. Don't fool yourself we would have liked to have had the pleasure of really knowing mother and dad. We would have enjoyed a home with them. When the best of life isn't possible we hope for next best. I am grateful that my mother requested I go to live at Barium if she should pass on while I was still very young.

Of course there are many children who would also like to enter this home but unfortunately there isn't room. You see most of us, including myself, get so busy with our own problems and needs we forget to think that a few dollars we could have spared would help insure the youth of tomorrow.

These small children of Barium soon grow up and after finishing school go to make a place for themselves. Since I was at Barium 14 years, these several hundred children all seem like my brothers and sisters. It sounds like a big family, doesn't it? Yet I knew each of them by name when I was there. I can still close my eyes and picture each as she or he looked then. I often wonder how they look since they have grown up. Most of the boys now wear some kind of Uncle Sam's uniforms and are scattered all over the States and Europe. Many of the girls are nurses, WAC's and WAVE's. I can assure you that wherever they are they are doing their duty well.

There is a sad part to our story, too. Some of our boys have been wounded and one killed. We all are in deepest sympathy with Mr. Lowrance, our assistant superintendent, whose younger son Fred was killed by the Japs. I am sure many a Barium person found it hard to hold back the tears at this sad news for all of us feel as he was our own brother.

I could write on and on of the men and women of today who are playing their part in helping preserve the things we have found worth fighting for.

So many people have asked me about an orphanage. It seems many think that orphanages are to be mentioned quietly or not at all. We cannot blame them for they do not understand what an orphanage is like. I am not alone in my gratitude. (Continued On Page Two) at all, but the crowd was mighty slim, and that's a pity, because they missed seeing a grand game.

Thomasville this year is a combination of Thomasville High and the Mills Home teams, and they have plenty of good, heavy material. By Barium's good luck, they hadn't gotten together too well when they played us, and we beat them 27-0 with each member of the backfield making a touchdown and completing three of the points afterwards.

We really felt good after that game. We were a little bit ashamed of our defeat at the hands of Harding and had a suspicion that it was our luck more than our skill in winning from Albemarle, but there is no doubt about our being superior to Thomasville.

BARIUM 14, ASHEVILLE 33

Oct. 6.—"A whole lot of 'Hip' and a little hipper dipper" was too much for Barium when they went to Asheville. There is a boy on the Asheville team named Hipp; he is the nephew of our Miss Laura Gray Greene, our music teacher. She told us to look out for him when we went up there. Well, we did, but we didn't look after him soon enough, because he took the ball on the first play after the kickoff and ran sixty five yards for a touchdown and almost broke our hearts. All during the game he was in "our hair" and over the goal line a good many times. He was responsible directly for three of the touchdowns, and it was because we watched him so closely that the other touchdowns were made possible.

Be that as it may, if we can just forget that first half, we didn't look so bad. The second half was 14-7 in our favor with Bennett Baldwin making both the touchdowns but with John Ammons' long arms having a lot to do with both. Earl Adams, with his ball carrying and Fred Cole with his kicking also contributed a lot.

The next time we go to Asheville we are going to start playing the game five minutes earlier, and maybe we can change the complexion of things. Both this year and last year Asheville has started playing the game just a few minutes before we got into it, and that accounts for a good part of the scoring against us.

THE MIDGETS

Our 85's and 100's journeyed to Winston-Salem on September 30th and played a couple of games with the Children's Home. Our 85-pounders lost 13-0; the 100-pounders tied 0-0.

On Saturday night, October 7th, our mixture of heav 85's and the light 100-pounders played a game with a similar team at Landis, and they ended up with a 6-6 score, the Landis team coming from behind and scoring in the last few minutes of the game to save themselves from a defeat.

Former Barium Girl Writes of

fulness of being raised at Barium Springs. This point is proven by the many letters received by Mr. Johnston. I only wish every child who doesn't have parents could go there. There are many orphan-ages all over North Carolina and the rest of the United States which are probably as nice as Barium. We always hold dear the home of our childhood.

Let me tell you a few things about the orphanage as I remember it. I was five years old when I entered Barium. I am now thirty years old and many things have happened since leaving there. When I was there we arose at six o'clock in the morning by the ringing of a big bell. At six-thirty we all went to Rumble Hall for breakfast. Rumble Hall was the cottage where the girls who waited on tables lived. The entire first floor of this building was the dining room and kitchen. Each table had a matron or senior girl to sit at the head. At seven breakfast was over. We had our own school which started at eight. School was from eight until twelve for the high school students. The grammar grades went to school from one until five. The other half of the day we did the work to be done. The smaller children at Howard Cottage helped keep their cottage tidy. Then there were the girls of Rumble Hall who waited tables and washed the dishes with the aid of a dish washing machine. The older girls at the Woman's Building did quite a few different jobs. For a few months some girls worked in the laundry, others in the kitchen and the Infirmary. A few worked in different cottages to mend clothes and other little things the smaller children couldn't do. Each cottage had a matron. We would rotate jobs so as to do every thing. When you became a senior you worked in the sewing room learning to sew. Each child received a clothing box twice a year, summer and winter. Quite a few churches and friends clothed some of the children.

In the summer we all had a vacation. Some spent two weeks with relatives and others with friends who liked to take Barium boys and girls into their home for two weeks. All who did not go to either went on a camping trip to Lake Waccamaw, Camp Fellowship or elsewhere. We were glad of the vacation but always happy to get back to Barium.

Our B team played the same night with the Landis Varsity, losing 14-0. In their game they evidently caught a habit from the Varsity's playing in the Asheville game and allowed Landis to score a touchdown in the opening kickoff; another touchdown in the quarter from a forward pass. After that, our boys did most of the ball carrying and advanced the ball many more yards than Landis did in the entire game, but none of it happened to be across the goal line, so the score ended Landis 14, Barium B, 0.

We also had a good football, basketball and track team. There wasn't a town in North Carolina that didn't know about Barium's football team. While living in Bend, Oregon, near Camp Abbot, I met a Sergeant in my husband's company from North Carolina. I asked him the name of his home town and found it to be Mt. Airy. I asked if he had heard of Barium Springs? He answered promptly, "sure, I played football against them and they had some team." He then mentioned Lester King, who happened to be a schoolmate of mine.

Our health was watched closely. We were weighed quite often and had all kinds of shots to prevent typhoid and scarlet fever and other diseases. Our meals were wholesome and we had plenty of rest and exercise. We had our own orchards, dairy, hogs and vegetables including watermelons and canteloupes.

There is so much good that could be told of Barium but that would take pages and pages of paper and even then it would be hard to express my gratitude and thankfulness for the privilege I had of being at Barium for 14 years. I shall always be proud to say I was raised at Barium Springs orphanage to any person and in any state.

Newcomers

From Mecklenburg - Jimmy Wetmore, top, Leroy Norman, next. This is the first Wetmore ever to be at Barium; it isn't the first Norman, but the other family of Norman's came in larger quantities than this; there were six of them, and there is just one of this one. Neil and Shirley Shaw from Wilmington - that's good old Presbyterian stock, in case you are interested.

In the bottom picture are the Shepherds from the Hills. We had one large family of Shepherds from down Laurinburg way; these are from right up in the mountains, (Continued On Page Three)

A FEW FACTS

2,175 children have made Barium their HOME.
200 of these are now in the uniform of our country.
The average family of this HOME is 300.
About half are boys and half girls.
296 boys and girls are now in this HOME.

Increased cost of operation has not skipped this Home.

$125,000.00 from Presbyterians on the home front will be needed this year to operate the HOME.

The boys are taught while in this HOME:

Truck farming - general farming - poultry raising - care of livestock - dairying - printing - production of grapes and fruit - painting - carpentry - plumbing and electrical repair - canning - shoe repair.

The girls are taught while in the HOME:

Preparation of food for cooking - cooking - canning - sewing - laundrying - elementary nursing - serving tables - care of young children - other domestic services - library work.

Both boys and girls attend school regularly, attend Sunday School and Church services regularly. A Christian atmosphere is thrown around them at all times. All matrons and overseers are Christian people who are active in church work, principally in Little Joe's Church.

Health Clinics are held regularly.

With an average family in this HOME of 300 children there has been but one death in the past 16 years. No serious illness or polio occurred this past year.

If you are a Presbyterian you have an interest in this HOME, coupled with this interest is a share of the responsibility for its operation.

Some Thanksgiving Customs of Hebrews

All three of the great feasts of the Hebrews had some significance as a harvest festival and some features of Thanksgiving. The three great feasts of the Hebrews were the Passover also known as the feast of unleavened bread, the feast of Pentecost also known as the Feast of Weeks and the feast of Tabernacle also known as the Feast of Ingatherings.

Preacher Paragraphs

By Rev. T. C. Cook

Pray Without Ceasing

Archibald Rutledge was once talking with an old negro about prayer. Among other things, the old darkey said: "less'n a man is in trouble, his prayers just ain't got no suction." He meant, I suppose, that men don't really pray until they get in trouble. There is altogether too much truth in the old darkey's statement.

I used to read a little magazine called "Your Faith" that carried each month a series of articles written by men and women who had prayed and whose prayers had been answered. Following are some of the titles of the articles: "When Death Came Close, I Prayed"; "I Prayed When I Was Drowning"; "The Ship Was On Fire and I Prayed"; "I Was On The Chain Gang and I Prayed." These people, all, did well to pray. They were in deep distress, and God has told us to call upon Him in the day of trouble, promising to hear and answer us, but all of them indicated very clearly in their articles that they had not been in the habit of praying. It had taken a time of grave crisis to drive them to their knees. One does well to pray in times of crisis. Our Lord Jesus Christ prayed during great crises in His life, and He lived a life that was characterized by daily communion with His Father. (Continued On Page Three)

"Spiritual Life" At Barium Springs

In attempting to get material, historical and otherwise, for this paper, I am embarrassed by the volume of it.

The problem is not getting material to write about but in deciding which parts to leave out, because the spiritual life of Barium permeates everything that is done here and everything that has been done here to such a degree that to discuss it to its fullest extent would be to discuss progress of each development at Barium.

From the time back in the fall of 1891 when Dr. Boyd gathered all the people at Barium to pray, following the destruction of the one building in which the orphanage family was housed until the last huddle before the last athletic conference, prayer enters into everything that we do.

Whether it is a formal church gathering or pep meeting, whether it is in preparation for some great undertaking or whether it is a group of boys and girls about to enter an athletic contest - none of these is entered into without tying it up with the Almighty in prayer.

For the first years of the orphanage Dr. Boyd and his devoted family provided religious instruction and religious leadership for the entire family at Barium. They attended the church at Troutman. You all are familiar with the outgrowth of that condition. A little (Continued On Page Two)

Mr. H. L. Thomas

This month we do honor to another old timer - Mr. H. L. Thomas, the man who touches our lives in more different ways than any other person at Barium. He is Postmaster, and it doesn't take much thinking to realize how very important that job is. The very life of the orphanage is, in a large measure, dependent on what comes in and what goes out in the mail. Everybody at Barium has associated Mr. Thomas with this most important part of our lives for so long that we really have begun to think that Mr. Thomas looks like Uncle Sam.

Then there is the fruit: without the constant efforts and farseeing planning of Mr. Thomas, it is doubtful if there would be very much fruit at Barium, and we know that we are particularly fortunate in this respect. We do not know of any other orphanage in this area certainly that is blessed with such a bountiful and pleasant supply of fruit.

Then the cannery: how he does it, we don't know, but Mr. Thomas has a knack of putting more different things in tin cans and making them taste good when they come out than any person we know - from canned corn to canned chicken with special emphasis on peaches and apple sauce. We live in the winter on the surplus of the summer, and does it taste good!

Ordinarily we let chickens stay in their own skins until they are transferred to ours, but this year, due to an unusual set of circumstances, Mr. Thomas has done some chicken canning with the usual marked success of our cannery.

Mr. Thomas has been at Barium a long time. He is just about the oldest settler here; he has made himself such a part of our life that it would take a lot of readjustments to replace Mr. Thomas in any part of our living. He is just a big part of Barium Springs.

Recently Mr. Elliott has come to assist him in his post office duties, and he will probably take over the entire duties of that office soon, which will mean that the fruit and the canning will just get that much more attention from that always busy, always efficient Mr. Thomas. We delight to honor this faithful, conscientious servant. At least fifteen hundred Barium boys and girls, men and women, remember him most affectionately.

(Continued From Page One) boy who was crippled and could not go provided the impetus that resulted in a church being built on our campus. The first pastor of that church was Rev. John Wakefield, who for a short time was Superintendent of the orphanage, also. He early realized that it was impossible to fulfill adequately the position of superintendent and pastor as well, so he took steps, together with the Board, to secure a pastor for Little Joe's Church. Rev. W. T. Walker was the man secured, but by the time he actually came, Mr. Wakefield had died, and for a time Mr. Walker was both pastor and superintendent.

Soon after this Rev. W. M. Walsh was called to the pastorate of Little Joe's Church, followed in 1915 by Rev. H. M. Parker, D. D. Both of these men were pastors of Front Street Church as well as Little Joe's Church. This meant that the preaching service was in the afternoon on Sunday, sometimes Sunday School being held in the morning and sometimes in the afternoon.

This arrangement was not too satisfactory, and we rejoiced when in 1924 we secured a full time pastor, Rev. W. C. Brown, and in just a short time thereafter, a manse was provided for him on our campus. Since that time we have enjoyed the services of a fulltime pastor, and we believe that it has paid big dividends in the religious life of the campus and community.

Mr. Brown served until 1938; since then Rev. T. C. Cook has been our pastor.

Of course in speaking of the religious life of the place, we emphasize the work of the church. There is where the work shows up, and there is where we receive members, but it is not the only religious organization.

There is the Young People's League; the Senior Young People's League was organized in 1924, and Miss Alice Alexander started out with the first organization. A year later Miss Lulie Andrews took over, and she has continued until the present time as the efficient and loyal head of the Senior Young People's work.

In the Intermediate and Junior groups Miss Mildred Moseley was the first to take a hand, and she has been followed by numbers of loyal, consecrated women. At the present time the organization is: Miss Lulie Andrews, head of the Senior group, Miss Sarah McNeill the Intermediates, and Mrs. R. S. Arrowood the Juniors.

Of equal importance with the Young People's Society is the Sunday School. Mr. S. A. Grier has been the superintendent for twenty five years. For the last fifteen years the Sunday School has been divided, and Mr. Lowrance has been the superintendent of the Intermediate and Primary Departments. This particular department has its classroom work in the Primary school building. All of the rest of the Sunday School, except the Boy's Bible Class, meets in the high school, and the entire Sunday School meets in the church for the closing exercises and church worship.

The formal religious exercises are the Sunday School and church service Sunday morning, Young People's meeting Sunday afternoon, Prayer Meeting Wednesday night. During the summer when the Young People's Leagues are not operating, there is a Sunday night service under the sponsorship of the Senior Young People's group otherwise conducted by the pastor.

In addition to these there are cottage prayers, and for a number of years there was a chapel program in the mornings following breakfast. This last mentioned program has been discontinued for several years due to the fact that breakfast has become such a haphazard and poorly attended meal. It is really one of the prices we have paid for the changeover to the state school system.

In lieu of that, there is a devotional period in the school each day, and on Sunday morning the superintendent conducts a devotional in the dining room following breakfast, which is a little more prolonged than the ordinary chapel program.

Most of the religious programs are compulsory. Membership and attendance in the Young People's leagues are not compulsory, and this gives us an indication as to the popularity of religion in the lives of the children here at Barium.

There is one matter that we have to be extremely careful about: it is so easy to assume that the observance of Christian habits and "going through the motions" of being a good church member is the same thing as a sincere, heartfelt religious conviction.

We have made mistakes along that line at Barium, and we have had some rather shocking things to happen. For instance, we had one time a president of one of the young people's groups who apparently led a very devout life; he would lead in prayer; he would devote much time to the programs, and on the surface he seemed to be a perfect leader. At the same time he was systematically stealing from anybody who accidentally left his valuables where he could get his hands on them. When confronted with this, he did not see the inconsistency of his position. He had the idea that his religious activities would in some way offset his moral delinquency.

At another time a child who led all the others in recitation of Scripture, in learning the shorter catechism, being the first to answer a Biblical question whether that question was made in Sunday School or church, was at the same time the most profane and vulgar in his ordinary conversation.

In both of these instances, the person somewhat got the idea that his religious life was entirely separate from the rest of his living, that if he behaved in church and did the things he was required to do, that that made up for everything else he might do otherwise without his even being penitent for these other things.

We have endeavored in all departments to correct this particular thinking, and this has caused us to lay less strength on the mechanics of religion and more on individual responsibility. At times this has resulted in a less perfect ritual, but we believe a much more sincere approach.

It is so easy in dealing with children to attempt to satisfy our desire for perfection by forcing the children to do certain things.

When we have visitors, for instance, it is so nice to see every child come into the church and sit down, fold his hands in his lap; then when they ask for the shorter catechism for each one to recite it perfectly, to go through the whole day's procedure in a perfect manner. The praises of the visitors are very sweet in our ears, but the situation on Monday may not be quite so happy. Anyone who knows children knows that such perfect behavior is the case only by the fear of punishment and the prompt administration of such punishment by any failure to observe these correct conventions.

In our religious life we have tried to put the responsibility on the child himself. In my own contacts with them in the class that I teach in Sunday School, attendance is voluntary. There are times when many are absent. I feel maybe I am not making the lesson interesting enough and that it is my fault more than it is theirs. I don't like to think that they would come to the class just for fear of punishment. As a rule very few of them stay away habitually, and we do have very gratifying evidences of the sincerity of their desire to attend.

Children come into the orphanage at the rate of 50 to 60 a year. In five years the turnover is usually complete; an entire new generation of children is here. At all times at least a fifth of our young people are in their first year here. Some of them have never attended church. It is interesting to watch the reactions of a child sitting through his first religious worship, to watch the expressions on the faces of many when they witness their first communion. We don't want to frighten these newcomers by the severity of our requirements, and yet we do want to endue them with reverence and at the same time with a love for things spiritual.

Sometimes a child goes for several years without getting much of this. Sometimes they go through their entire life at Barium without any apparent "inoculation" of the religion that we try so hard to teach, and yet we have evidence of the Truth that if you "bring up a child in the way he should go, when he is old, he will not depart from it."

During the past three years we have received more mail from the boys and girls who have left Barium than ever before. These are boys and girls in the service. They have spoken more of spiritual things than ever before. Some of the letters were written in the face of death, nearly all are written from faraway places in strange circumstances. In these letters these young people bared their souls in a way that they probably never would have done otherwise. We get a glimpse of just what the religious life at Barium Springs has meant to them.

I received a letter just ten days ago following a rather noisy prayer meeting. The children at this prayer meeting service were particularly boisterous. They came into the church laughing and talking, and they couldn't seem to settle down, and until the service started, it sounded more like children gathering in a place of amusement than in a church. Many of us were distressed over this levity. We felt that we weren't getting anything across to this group of children.

The next morning I received this letter; it was from a girl who twenty years ago belonged to this talkative age group. I remember the hopelessness with which I used to observe her and wondered if it would ever be possible for her to close her mouth long enough for the other children to settle down in preparation for prayer meeting or a church service. Whether it was in a school room, church, kitchen, or sewing room, that child's clatter would rise above everything else.

Now she is a settled married woman living in a large city; she is my "anchor to windward" for all the girls who go to that city to work. I refer them to her. She takes them into her home until she can find them a good, safe boarding place. She mothers them, gets them started to church and has done more for the youngsters who have gone to that city than any other one person. She herself is a consistent, devout member of the church. Her children have grown up to be fine people. Somehow even though she apparently was a heedless, noisy child as a little thing, she "soaked up" something very precious that has developed in her later life and has paid big dividends.

Our boys have all been rated as being very courageous. Many have been decorated; not a one has ever been termed a coward or failed to do his duty in this great war. What is the secret of that? Surely many of them were timid little youngsters, afraid of their own shadows. How did they get to be heroes? I think a perusal of their letters will answer that question. There is something solid about their faith. They have a feeling that is sincere, that "though I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, Thy hand shall lead me and Thy right hand shall hold me".

I haven't burdened you with statistics. Little Joe's Church leads all churches in the Synod of North Carolina in professions of faith. Just nine days ago 32 stood before the altar and professed their faith in Christ and joined our church.

From the opening of the orphanage back in 1891 until the present time, 2,177 have entered Barium. Two hundred and ninety six of these children are here now. I do not know a single one over twelve years of age having left the orphanage without being a member of the church.

Were they all consistent members? No - there were a few who did just go through the motions. There are times when we think a large percentage would so classify, and then something happens to open our eyes to see how wrong we were. I believe that I can safely say that no child has ever entered the doors of this institution and stayed for a year or more without the religious life having made a definite and beneficent impression on that child's living.

As a final word in this matter, I want to mention something of our thinking in regard to the church. Back yonder thirty one years ago Little Joe's Church was built on this campus. At that time it was the best building on the campus. It dominated the other buildings here, and how the children and everyone here loved it! As time moved on, however, Barium Springs has built finer buildings, remodeled its old buildings, installed many conveniences, and now practically every building on our campus is a finer building than Little Joe's Church. As a result of this, it is difficult to keep religion on the plane that it should be here at times when our little church looks shabby and second rate. By inference some children get the idea that religion is a second rate thing in our lives. We are looking forward with keen anticipation to the day when our church building will again be the nicest, the finest and the dominating building on our campus, and we want to keep it so! We want to make sure that even though we build it just a little at a time, it is built to truly demonstrate the place that religion does occupy in our minds and hearts!

Some Thanksgiving

The second great feast was the feast of Pentecost and represented the offering of the first fruits of the wheat harvest. It was called Pentecost because it was fifty days, that is the day after seven times seven, after the waving of the offering of the first fruits of the barley harvest. The ceremonies were very similar. In fact the feast of Pentecost loaves were waved before the Lord and lambs and other offerings were sacrificed. Great crowds came to Jerusalem for all of these feasts and it was at the feast of Pentecost that under the preaching of the apostle Peter great numbers were converted and the harvest of souls in the New Testament church began.

However, the great Thanksgiving festival of the Hebrews was the feast of the Tabernacles, known as the Feasts of Ingatherings. This was a general harvest festival expressing gratitude for the harvest of the fields. It was also an anniversary of the beginning of wanderings of the children of Israel through the wilderness. There was, too, the perennial expression of gratitude for their escape from bondage in Egypt, their safe journey through the wilderness and arrival in the land of Palestine. This feast was held in early autumn late September or early October of our season; in the Jewish calendar it begin on the 14th day of Tishri. In a way it corresponds to our camp meetings in as much as every one was supposed to erect booths of brush (Continued On Page Three) and poles or pitch tents, during the eight days to camp out, in memory of their living in tents during the wilderness wanderings, so these little structures were erected all over Jerusalem and in the surrounding country. Jews came home from the whole known world of that time for this great thanksgiving harvest festival. We are told that larger crowds came to the feast of Tabernacle than to any other feast for the reason that the Passover occurred when the weather was still cold and the feast of Pentecost in the heat of summer so that the weather was better for the crowds in the early autumn.

The ceremonies of the feast originally consisted of meeting in the Temple, offerings upon the altar and the singing of psalms. But from time to time other features were added, so that this feast became the most colorful of the feasts at Jerusalem. The first of these was the illumination of the Temple throughout the night on the first night of the feast and at daybreak the following morning they blew a three-fold blast on the trumpet and still sounding the trumpets they marched through the court of women to the beautiful gates. Here turning around and facing toward the holy place, they repeated: "Our fathers who were in this place, they turned their backs on the sanctuary of Jerusalem, and they faced eastward for they worshiped the sun; but we, our eyes are toward Jehovah." This, of course, represented the worship of Jehovah as a light unto the world.

The water drawing festival was also an added feature. This was held every day, but we will describe the ceremonies on the last day of the feast which was the great day which included the water festival. All the people were expected to leave their booths at daybreak and as they came they each carried in their hands certain things, in the right what was known as the lulab. This consisted of palm branch and myrtle branch and a willow branch tied together. In the left hand what they carried was known as the ethrog a so called Paradise Apple or sometimes known as the forbidden fruit. It was species of citron. They carried these in obedience to Leviticus the 23rd chapter and 40th verse, "And ye shall take you on the first day the boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and boughs of thick trees, and the willows of the brook and ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God seven days." The multitude divided into three bands, one to make preparation in the Temple by going down below the Temple and getting green boughs, leaves and decorate the great altar and make a leafy canopy over it. Another group marched around Jerusalem in the same way as the children of Israel marched around Jericho. The other group engaged in the water festival. They followed a priest who carried a golden pitcher holding a little over a quart, they went through the beautiful gates down the stairs to the pool of Siloam. As they went they sang antiphonally some of the songs of Zion by singing Ho Everyone that Thirsteth Come Ye to the Waters. Another quotation from the 12th chapter of Isaiah, "with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation." At the pool of Siloam the priest dipped a pitcher of water and led the way returning through the water gate into the Temple. There they were greeted with a three-fold blast of trumpets. The priest poured the water on the great altar of sacrifice. After that they chanted the great hallel and then shaking off the leaves of the branches which they held in

More Football Doings At Barium Springs

In September and October Messengers we told you about our first four football games. They were Barium 0, Harding 13; Barium 22, Albemarle 18; Barium 27, Thomasville 0; Barium 14, Asheville 33. We will now continue from that and tell you about the following games.

Barium 0, Concord 7 - it was just too much Dorton that night and although the two teams played evenly through most of the game, on one drive Concord went practically the length of the field for a touchdown. Dorton was the sparkplug for this drive. Barium gained almost as much ground during the night as Concord, but it was mostly in the middle of the field and did not pay dividends.

Barium 19, Lexington 7 - this game was played at Barium, and it was a most interesting game. Both Barium and Lexington started the season rated as two of the weaker teams of the South Piedmont. It never pays to depend too much on such rating, however, and when those two teams get together, be they weak or strong, it is an interesting game. It was a wide open gain; Barium scored two touchdowns and was leading 12-0 when Lexington scored bringing the score up 12-7. Ordinarily it is good tactics when a team is leading by only five points to play safe and not try any passes, but not Barium. That old passing combination of Baldwin and Ammons went to work, and the final score was Barium 19, Lexington 7.

The next game was played at Davidson: Barium 7, Davidson

Freshmen 0. This was a game that Barium was supposed to lose. The Davidson Freshmen team is heavier and a little older, and they could push Barium about on the ground, but whenever they would approach pay dirt, Barium would stiffen and hold. It was late in the game before either team really had a scoring chance. It was near mid-field when Davidson attempted to pass; the pass was intercepted by Ammons who ran the ball back to the one-yard line. Two plays later he scored with a pass from Baldwin, and the extra point was made by the same route.

Barium 0, Children's Home 26 - the game was played at Winston-Salem at night in the Memorial Stadium there. The Children's Home was ripe; Barium, at times, was all thumbs. Things like that happen sometimes when one team can't do anything wrong; the other team can't do anything right. The running attack of the two Poole boys of Children's Home was too much for Barium. Four touchdowns was the margin. Remember that, everybody - we have to even things up with the Children's Home, and 1945 may be the year to do it.

November 10th, Homecoming Day with Salisbury as the opposition and many precedents were broken. Up to the playing of that particular game, Barium had won all of her home games this year, all of her daylight games, and from the time we began having Homecoming Days we had won every Homecoming event or tied it; we had not lost a Homecoming encounter. Well, Salisbury didn't know about this, and they came over and took us to the cleaners, 27-7. There was a good crowd of Homecomers here; we enjoyed the game and couldn't have lost to a nicer crowd of boys than that Salisbury bunch. An interesting thing about the team was an end playing on Salisbury named Dunham; he is the son of the official who works so many of our football and basketball games, Umpire Paul Dunham. When the game was over, we decided we had much rather have had the father here officiating than that son spoiling our offense and recovering every fumble that we made. The scoring of Barium was made Baldwin to Ammons.

Barium 28, Morganton 14 - the Barium-Morganton games are always interesting. Barium needed that game to even up a year's wins and losses, but when the game started it looked like Barium had picked the wrong team to even up with, because that big, powerful Morganton team just marched down the field as though they intended to run up a big score. Barium stopped them in time, however, and with Fred Cole's kicking and the Baldwin-Ammon passing, we managed to double the score.

And now only one more game before the end of the season - Thanksgiving Day game in Statesville.

A word or two about the Midgets - here is their record for the last two months: many of their games early in October were rained out, so there are not so many games to report as might have been. On October 31st at Barium our 85's played a tie game with Children's Home, 0-0. the 100-pounders lost to Children's Home, 0-12; on the following Monday our B team defeated Statesville's B team 2-0 by virtue of a safety. On the 4th our 100-pound team played Landis defeating them 27-7, and our B team defeated their Varsity 13-12. These games were played at Barium and were very interesting games. On the 11th everything below the B team went to Concord with the following results: the 85-pounders defeated Concord 20-0; the 85-pound reserves defeated Concord 14-0; the 100-pound team tied Concord 7-7. Then the B team in a return game with Statesville ended up in a 7-7 tie.

Smith-Linthicum

A marriage of interest to their many friends was that of Miss Janie Estelle Smith of Salisbury to Marine Thomas Linthicum who was just home from service in the Pacific. Miss Smith, who is an alumna of Presbyterian Orphans' Home was married to Marine Linthicum by her former pastor, Reverend Thomas C. Cook in the manse of Little Joe's Church. This interesting event took place after the homecoming day at Barium on November 10th, 1944.

A Wish

I'm still suffering, waiting, watching, and praying,
And oh, how happy I would be if I were a beautiful little poet,
And could lead the people, my God, to Thee, Yes, my God to Thee.
If God is my refuge and Jesus my salvation, and Heaven my future home,
Why should I stay in this wicked world to roam?
But if there is any good I can do,
Then, O God I'd like to stay
And lead some people in the Heavenly way.

Some Good Advice

Brother, sister, neighbor, stranger, friend,
Please give God your heart and hand,
Speak the truth what'er you do,
Pray to God, be humble, be true,
Don't rob, cheat, steal or lie,
If you want to go to Heaven when you die.

Newcomers

and the "littlest" one doesn't seem pleased about it at all, but the oldest, Orville, doesn't think it serious. Little Ruth thinks that Orville, just belongs to her, and maybe her unhappiness is because she has to share Orville with you in this picture. Cecil and Charles Shepherd are the other two members in this family. You can just see half of Cecil, but the other half looks just like the part that you see. It looks like both Charles and Cecil are philosophers.

Remember these newcomers! You'll be meeting them some of these days.

The final windup of the Midget schedule took place at Barium Saturday the 18th in which four games were played. The 85-pound team defeated Concord 20-0; the 85 reserves, 12-0; the 100-pound team 0-0; the Bteam 7, Concord 21. The individual stars of these Midget teams are plentiful, and they encourage us to believe that we'll have plenty of material for the Varsity in days to come - Donald Mitchell, James Reid on the 85; Jack Mangum, Max Dellinger, Jimmy Williams on the 100; Dallas Ammons, Gene Bounous, Jack Clark and many others on the 125.

A Prayer to the Holy Spirit
By C. A. Haithecox, Troutman, N. C.
Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove, Be with us from Heaven above, Lead us in the straight and narrow way,
That will take us home to Heaven some bright, beautiful and glorious day,
We humbly pray—Amen.

A Prayer To Jesus
Lord Jesus, be with us through the day,
Help us to watch, work and pray,
And walk in the straight and narrow way,
Bless us with more love and greater faith,
With a little better health and a little more strength,
And a little better eyesight, I humbly pray,
If it is God's Holy will and his righteous way—Amen.

A Benediction
May God's richest blessings and forgiving love,
Be with you from Heaven above,
And if on this earth we meet no more,
May we meet on that beautiful shore,
Where parting will be no more.

Preacher Paragraphs By Rev. T. C. Cook.

I WILL

When David wrote the 116th psalm, he must have been facing the coming of another year, for in that psalm he makes five splendid resolves. As we stand upon the threshold of another year, we may well consider these five resolves of the psalmist of old.

In the second verse, and again in verses 13 and 17, David says that he will call upon the name of the Lord. God is going to be his refuge and strength. He is not going to trust the arm of flesh. He is not going to depend upon human agencies. When he prays, it will be to God. David says that he will call upon God as long as he lives. He will pray, not only when faced with difficulty, trial, temptation, danger, suffering, but prayer will become with him a daily experience. Morning, noon, and night he will pray, every day, as long as he lives. What a fine resolve for each of us as we face a new year. Let each of us during 1945 call upon our God, in sickness and in health, in prosperity and in adversity, in sorrow and in joy.

In verse nine, David makes a second splendid resolve. "I will walk," he says, "before the Lord in the land of the living." David resolves to do more than pray to the Lord. He is going to walk before the Lord. He is going to do that so many of us need to do very badly these days: practice his religion. To put it another way, he is going to practice the presence of God. He is going to live from day to day just as he would live if God were with him in bodily form. Brother Lawrence, one of the greatest saints of all time, became so by simply practicing day in and day out the presence of God. Notice that David says he is going to do this, not when he gets to heaven, not just when he goes to the house of God, but "in the land of the living." In his home, in his daily life, wherever he happens to be, among flesh and blood people, he is going to live a consistent Christian life. Is that not what the world needs just now as badly as any other one thing?

In the 13th verse, David resolves to "take the cup of salvation." There have been several interpretations of this expression, the "cup of salvation", one of which is that David is determined to more fully appropriate whatever God has for him as he seeks to experience His goodness. As David drank of the cup, he found it sometimes very bitter, but even though it was bitter, as he drank of it, he experienced growth in grace and in the knowledge of God. Again as he drank of the cup of salvation, he found it sweet and running over. It will mean much to us this coming year.

Season's Greetings

We Thank You!

The Thanksgiving season seems to be a very appropriate time to say "Thank you" to some of the people to whom we owe a lot of gratitude for what they have done and said and given to Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

We appreciate the interest and efforts of the Board of Regents whose names are carried in each copy of The Messenger, especially Mr. J. A. Cannon who for years was chairman of our permanent committee and conducted our Thanksgiving campaigns. In large measure the present sound financial status of the home is the result of his inspiring leadership.

We are grateful to his successor in the office of chairman, Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham, whose knowledge of publicity and organizing ability and effective work have done much to make the Thanksgiving appeal a success this year.

Mr. Hicks' efforts were ably abetted by the other members of the Permanent Committee on Orphanage work, Mr. Colon W. McLean, Washington, N. C., Albemarle Presbytery; Mr. William A. Sherrill, Salisbury, N. C., Concord Presbytery; Mr. H. M. McKeithan, Fayetteville, N. C., Fayetteville Presbytery; Mr. R. W. Bruin, Henderson, N. C., Granville Presbytery; Mr. Hugh Query, Gastonia, N. C., Kings Mountain Presbytery; Mr. Rufus A. Grier, Charlotte, N. C., Mecklenburg Presbytery; Mr. M. E. Yount, Graham, N. C., Orange Presbytery; Mr. J. B. Huntington, Wilmington, N. C., Wilmington Presbytery; Mr. R. S. Haltiwanger, Winston-Salem, N. C., Winston-Salem Presbytery. We give them our thanks.

In turn these committee members have enlisted the aid of orphanage chairmen in local churches who have been invaluable in presenting the Orphanage work. Their efforts, along with thousands of others who love Presbyterian Orphans' Home are resulting in a very fine response to the orphanage ap-

PRINT SHOP

Upon request for information on the Print Shop, I am writing you "first hand", being a member of the Print Shop crew myself.

Our Print Shop is in one of the newest buildings at Barium Springs. The building was built in 1941 for $7,000.00 by Mr. Franklin A. Sherrill of Statesville, North Carolina, in memory of his wife. The Print Shop is used only in connection with the orphanage needs; we do not do advertising from a business standpoint.

Our equipment consists of a 25 x 38 Babcock press with automatic feed, capable of approximately (Continued On Page Two) peal which bids fair to surpass even the high mark of last year. For this we are deeply grateful.

We owe a debt of gratitude also to the Sunday School superintendents who month after month, have presented the cause of the Home and received the offerings which means much to us, especially during the slack summer season. We thank, too, the faithful treasurers who regularly and carefully send in the offerings from time to time.

We remember with much gratitude the Orphanage Secretaries and members of the Woman's Auxiliaries who send substantial aid and do many thoughtful and generous things to make our children well clothed and happy and our home more home like.

To the ministers of our church we extend our many thanks that in the multitude of appeals that come from so many worthy causes they still keep their ears and hearts open to the need and appeal of the orphan child and, with all their fine consecrated influence and sacrificial giving, have supported the home since its beginning.

To all whose gifts and love and prayers are our constant joy, uplift, and inspiration—we thank you!

MISS KATE TAYLOR

Soldiers, sailors, marines, or what-have-you! The lady whom we delight to honor in this month's Messenger is well known to all of you. If there are any of our men in the service who do not know Miss Kate Taylor, it is a sign that he has been away from Barium a good many years. Not only do most of you know her, but she has had a big hand in bringing you up, and the part she has done has been well done!

Miss Kate Taylor has presided over the destiny of Synod Cottage for a good many years. Synod Cottage is the place in which from 25 to 40 boys, six to ten years old, live and move and hatch out their problems, and when we say "move" we mean "move", and when we say "hatch out" problems we are meaning a large daily output from the hatchery.

In spite of it all, Miss Taylor has retained her youthful enthusiasm and hopeful outlook. You can't be a pessimist and live near her. Miss Taylor is the only "foreigner" on our staff; she is a Scotch lady who has been in this country long enough to accept with affection and be accepted - all things American, and she still retains that Scotch sturdiness and honesty that endear her to us all. No one can ever replace Miss Taylor in our hearts!

You men in the service are better men because of her, and if you weren't so far away, we could hear your "Aye, aye, Sir" to everything we have said. We delight to honor this fine member of the Barium staff.

And Miss Taylor is a young woman!

Funeral Expenses

Dr. Byron Clark of Salisbury, has a wonderful store of anecdotes which he told in an inimitable way. He told me this one which I consider unique. As it was an actual experience I am changing names.

In Dr. Clark's early ministry, prior to the time he came to Salisbury, he called one evening at the home of a wealthy elder of his church, a business man, by the name of Mr. Fletcher. When Mr. Fletcher answered his ring he said Come in Clark, I have had a very peculiar experience."

They entered the library and Mr. Fletcher went on with his story. "This afternoon I was about to close my desk when a young man spoke to me and asked if I was Mr. Fletcher. When I told him I was he said, 'And did you have a friend named Worth Middleton?' I said 'Yes, he was the friend of my youth, the best I ever had. He left here years ago and I have not heard from him in many years.' 'Well,' said the young man, 'he has recently returned to this city. He is my father and has had business reverses. Today he died penniless and unless I can get help he will have to be buried by the city and lie in potter's field.

Mr. Fletcher went on to say "I closed my desk and went with the young man. He took me out to a poor tenement. We went up the creaking stairs into a hall and in a room to the right the body lay. The face was emaciated lined with wrinkles which marked the passing of years and the ravages of a sickness but I recognized in it the features of my old friend. I gave the young man a hundred dollar and went back to my home.

When I arrived home, and as dinner was being put on the table, I paced up and down the house. My wife said, 'Mr. Fletcher, what is the matter with you? Why don't you sit down and rest after your day's work?' I told her of my experience of the afternoon and she said 'Mr. Fletcher aren't you ashamed of yourself? Last year the Lord blessed you with an income of $150,000.00 and now the son of the friend of your youth comes in dire distress not having funds to bury his father and you give him one hundred dollars'. 'Yes, I said, 'That is what is making me so restless and after dinner I am going out there and fix them up right'. So I got my dinner and my son and I got in the car and went out to the place. We knocked and received no answer. We pushed open the door. The door of the room on the right was open but no corpse was on the bed. No one else was in sight. Presently we heard a noise toward the back of the house. We went back to investigate. When we opened the dining room door there was the sounds of revelry from a large company seated about a table loaded with food and drink. And there sat the alleged corpse eating and drinking as heartily as anyone else.

two thousand impressions an hour; a Vandercook Ball Bearing proof press; a ten by fifteen Chandler and Pricot job press; a metal saw, which cuts type metal as if it were wood; an electrically powered cutter, capable of cutting a stack of paper four inches high and thirty inches wide in two with one fall of the blade; an Aldrich automatic feed folder, capable of folding four thousand papers in a sixteen page booklet in one hour; one intertype, with forty-two em molds, and ten magazines of matrices ranging from six points to thirty-six points, and one linotype, with a thirty em mold and a six point and eight point magazines of matrices. Most of this machinery is very complicated and very expensive.

Our work consists of many jobs of different quality and quantity. Our annual jobs are few but large. The Thanksgiving leaflets are the most important. We print 75,000 of them each year. Another job comes monthly; it is the printing of The Barium Messenger, our Orphanage news paper. We have large cabinets containing the names of 26-thousand people who receive our news paper. Weekly we print the Church Bulletin. Besides our regular jobs we do odd jobs for many different purposes, as posters advertising our games, schedules, tickets for our sports, booklets, pamphlets, etc., for the purpose of getting people interested in our Home.

This work is very interesting, and we have had many boys to leave Barium Springs prepared to go to work at a good job because of the training they received in our Print Shop.

I hope that this information is adequate.

Yours truly,
Paul Reid.

SPORTS

About a week ago your pastor wrote to Mr. Johnston, our superintendent, asking him to have a series of letters written by the older boys and girls here at Barium, telling about the different activities here on the campus. Well, I have been picked to write to you about the sports we now have at Barium. We play football, basketball, and soft ball. Most of the boys take part in one or more sports, and everybody enjoys them all whether they are watching or playing.

Since this is football season, I shall tell you a little about our football teams here at Barium. Our varsity, one hundred and twenty-five pound-team, one hundred pound team, and eighty-five pound team are the teams we have at Barium. Our varsity team's schedule started seven weeks ago and will continue for four more weeks, while our smaller teams play whenever they can get a game with some other school's team. The varsity and smaller teams each practice two times a week.

Now a little about basketball, which comes around after Christmas, and lasts about three months.

Cottage News

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Since you heard from us last, lots of things have happened. We have had our football banquet, and started basketball.

We are going Christmas shopping today and we are so excited we just can't wait. Each one of us that doesn't have money gets 75 cents and the others get to take a dollar.

It won't be long before old Santa will come around, so all you girls and boys had better be good so he will bring you what you want.

Anne Wilcox, Ray Powell, Patty Inman, Peggy Collins and Edna Ellis have had visits from their people. They really did enjoy them.

Miss Ruth Andrews has moved over to our cottage and she surely is sweet to us. Sometimes she stays with us for Mrs. Clendenin and we really enjoy having her.

We have two new girls in our cottage, Dorothy and Marjorie Seales. Welcome to our cottage, and we hope you like your new home as well as we do.

We had a nice snow Monday, however the ground was wet and it didn't last long. We enjoyed it while it lasted though.

We played Cool Springs on our home court Tuesday, the 12th and won both games. We think we have two grand teams this year. So you boys and girls keep up the good work.

We will see you next month, so until then, Merry Christmas and a most joyous New Year.

—The Bean Stringers.

LEES COTTAGE

The Lees boys are so happy, we are going Christmas shopping tomorrow. We will have a good time playing with our toys.

The truck farm boys at Lees are shelling beans, so we can plant them next year. The orchard boys are canning apple sauce for the winter.

James Garner went home the 9th and we miss him.

Mr. Ervin came to see us and gave us some things to use in our rooms.

We are having lots of fun with our games at the house.

We all went to the football banquet and enjoyed it. One of our boys got a football letter, Bobby Morgan.

Cromer Curtis and Jerry Williams went to the birthday dinner in December.

We had fun playing in the snow. Bye now.

—Lees Cottage Boys.

We have both girl's and boys' basketball. Our schedule usually calls for about fifteen games with other schools around us. We also play among ourselves.

Toward the last of the regular basketball season we hold a big tournament and invite around 32 teams. The tournament lasts four days, and the money we make we use to buy equipment.

What seems to be a lot of fun among a lot of the students is playing softball in the spring of the year. We choose up and play just like the big leagues do. Girls as well as boys may take part in the sport.

Well, I have tried to give you some idea of how we play and enjoy sports, and I hope the information is satisfactory for what you will use it for. You are very welcome to call upon us for any information or help we can give in acquainting people with our fine Home here at Barium.

Respectfully yours,
Paul Burney.

DEATHS.

We were so distressed to hear

Barium Defeated Statesville 13-7 In Final Grid Game

The last Messenger carried our football season right up to the last game, but that last game to most of you readers is the most important one of the whole season. It was with Statesville.

The game was played at Statesville on Thanksgiving afternoon. It was a beautiful day, there was a good crowd present, and the teams were evenly matched. As a matter of fact, looking at the teams before the game started, it looked like Statesville had the edge on us by a big margin. They were heavier, and they looked good. The whole first half would continue to give you that impression. Statesville drove down the field for a touchdown, making the point after, and in all departments they looked stronger than Barium.

Shortly after that touchdown we started passing that ball around. Ammons threw a pass to Jerry Young, who picked up those feet of his and just ran faster than he ever knew he could run and got down to the one-yard line. From there the ball was carried over, but we failed to make the extra point, so the half ended 7-6.

We missed another chance to score in that half in the last few minutes of the half. Ammons intercepted a pass and got the ball to the one-yard line, and at that point a substitute was sent in and since we had already had three time outs, that put us back to the six-yard line. We carried the ball to the one-yard line where it went over on downs.

In the second half the touchdown was made on the ground with Ammons finally carrying over. In this whole game while Adams' name didn't appear in the scoring, he carried the ball more times than any other person and showed up well in all of his assignments. Fred Cole, playing his last game, did his usual consistent kicking and scored the first touchdown.

The final score was Barium 13, Statesville 7, and that ended the season, all but the eating.

of the death of Corris Smith. He was killed in action in Italy on November 16th.

All of us were saddened over the death of Charles Langley Purdy, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purdy of Walled Lake, Mich.

Football Banquet Held At Barium 7th of December

The Barium Springs' football banquet was held on the night of December 7th, Pearl Harbor Day by the way, and to keep our mind on the war, the dining room ma-tron had arranged the tables in the shape of a B-29 with the speaker on the tail with the rest of the guests and players seated at the long table, representing the wing and the four short tables, the engine.

"Captain" Jackins was the toast master, and he handled the job splendidly. The only trouble was no one got a chance to brag on the coaches as much as they would like with one of the coaches being toastmaster.

The season's total showed six wins, five losses with the home games being the ones we like to talk about the most. They were all victories except one; that loss was with Salisbury.

The boys who were honored by their classmates were Herman Blue the best blocker; Earl Allen, the best tackler; John Ammons, the most valuable player. Herman Blue was honored by being elected Captain for 1944.

year to drink willingly and often of the cup of salvation. And whether we find its contents bitter or sweet in the drinking of it we shall more fully experience the abundant life that comes through Him Who found the cup very bitter that night in Gethsemane, but Who nevertheless drank it, and by doing so won the victory.

In the 14th verse, and again in verse 18, David resolves to "pay unto the Lord" his vows. What a fine resolve that is. If it be true as David so clearly stated in Psalm 51, that we sin only against God then is it not equally true that when we take any worthy vow, we take it as unto God? What a marvelous transformation would take place during 1495 in all walks of life if we should all of us resolve to pay unto the Lord all of the vows we have made. There are the vows we made when we were received into the church; the vows we made when we stood before the marriage altar; the vows we made when we brought our little one for baptism; the vows we have made in our dealings with one another day after day in our respective places of business. Such a vow made and kept would usher in the kingdom.

David's last resolve in this psalm is in the 17th verse. David says he will offer to God the sacrifice of thanksgiving. He is going to be more grateful during the coming year. How badly do we all need to make such a resolve as that, one of mankind's greatest sins is that of ingratitude. Daily God showers His rich blessings upon us, and day after day we go about our selfish ways, just as though there were no God "from whom cometh down every good and perfect gift." Instead of counting our own blessings, we count the blessings of those about us. All around us are our fellow-beings, hungry for a word of thanks. God, too, is yearning for our gratitude. And unless we exercise more gratitude we shall fail to enjoy to the fullest the manifold blessings that God pours into our lives each day. As we contemplate the new year, let us meditate upon these words: resolves of the psalmist. Let us make the same resolves, and by God's grace, let us keep them.

Thanksgiving Offering Greatest In History

Mr. J. W. Ervin

The most oft repeated question at Barium Springs is not about the weather - it is, "Where is Mr. Ervin?" and the person who gets the most fan mail at Barium is Mr. John Wesley Ervin. His fan mail consists of matters like these: "Please fix the door on the dining room." "Please fix the screen on my bedroom window." "Please put in some window glass, etc."

You've guessed it - Mr. Ervin is the main repair man, and he has something to do every day for almost everybody at Barium. In addition to that, he has charge of the big repairs, and there isn't a building at Barium Springs that doesn't show evidence of his handiwork. His last and biggest job was complete renovation of the Lottie Walker Building, and you would have to have seen that building before and afterwards to appreciate the magnitude of that job. Rumpel Hall, the Infirmary, the Baby Cottage, the school building have had their "faces lifted" under Mr. Ervin's supervision.

He can "start right from scratch" and build you a building, too. About the most complicated example of this is the new mill house; there are so many gadgets and special arrangements in that mill that a

The Agnes Myers Memorial Offering

In looking over the Thanksgiving offerings from the hundreds of Churches, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries of the Synod of North Carolina there are many that are notable and outstanding. Perhaps the casual reader would scarcely pause at the names of two churches in Wilmington Presbytery, Delgado which gave $165.33 and Topsail which gave $126.65 for the 1944 Thanksgiving offering, yet for those particular churches those amounts represent as liberal an offering as any received in this most generous year.

If we look back 19 years ago Delgado gave $17.00 for Thanksgiving. Topsail gave $24.40. That level of giving was maintained more or

Life At Barium Through the Eyes of the Children

For several months we have been carrying a series of letters written by members of last years Senior Class in answer to questions sent in by members of a young people's organization. The letters herewith on Discipline and Health are the last of the series.

DISCIPLINE

It is my purpose in this letter to answer questions concerning discipline here at the institution.

In high school we are punished by having to come back to school on Saturday afternoon from two to four o'clock. The reason for this is that every person has a special job to do after school until supper and if he is kept in after school, it really lets him out of some other work. The teacher who is punishing sets the amount of time the pupils are to stay but it can't be over two hours. Whoever comes back on Saturdays cannot expect to get a good grade on deportment. The grammar school pupils are punished by staying extra time in the afternoons, writing compositions, or any number of things the teacher may choose.

Preacher Paragraphs

GOD'S OTHER SHEEP

Jesus, the Good Shepherd, one day spoke words that should forever put us straight concerning the proper attitude to take regarding the great Foreign Mission task of the Church. Said Jesus, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold, them also I must bring." We cannot take seriously these words of our Lord and not believe in Foreign Missions. Many (all too many within the Church) have either never heard Christ's words, or having heard, have never considered them seriously.

From ten to thirty per cent of our people (Church members) hold to an attitude of complete indifference. A large proportion accept Missions along with everything else as a matter of course manifesting no zeal. A third group exercises an attitude of uncertainty, finding it difficult to make up their minds. A fourth group is very frankly opposed to Foreign Missions. They are like the man who wrote across the back of every check he placed in the collection plate the words: "Not one cent for Foreign Missions." Finally, there are those, and I believe they are in the majority, who not only believe in

Bond Funds For Church Still Climbing

In the January, 1944, issue of The Messenger, Mr. Milton wrote, "On January 17th, the maturity value of bonds in the possession for a proposed church and educational building of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home was $26,100.00 and $68.55 of cash on hand."

In the year since those words were written the Memorial Funds have had a phenomenal growth. Today we can report that the maturity value of our Memorial Bonds is $44,675.00, being an increase in maturity value in one years time of $18,575.00. The actual value of our Memorial Bonds is $33,279.95.

The increase in this fund was greatly accelerated by two very generous memorials placed here

Concord Presbytery Met In Little Joe's Church In January

Concord Presbytery held its mid-winter meeting in Little Joe's Church here at Barium Springs on January 16th, 1945. The opening sermon was preached by the moderator, Dr. Carl R. Pritchett and the subject of his sermon was "The Patience of Faith." He took his text from Hebrews, the tenth chap-

Churches Have Already Passed Peak of $64,838.34 Which Was Given In 1943

Again this year the Presbyterians of North Carolina have surpasses the great offering of the previous year. The offering of the 1943 Thanksgiving was an all time high for this institution. Already that fine record has been broken. Last year on April 17th when the books were closed the Thanksgiving Offering from the churches stood at $64,838.34. As we go to press the amount received to date on the 1944 Thanksgiving Offering is $66,572.11, this is

First Consideration

We probably, some of us at least, need to recall that a weakness among us these days is to build fine, well-equipped houses and make things very showy and attractive while we are not giving sufficient attention to child psychology and all the things that go with its study. We do not make the charge that it is the weakness of our day, but we will boldly say that it is a weakness. There is a great temptation to put emphasis upon numbers. There is also the temptation of counting buildings and talking about the physical

We had so many things in last month's Messenger that the football picture was crowded. Here it is - take a good look at these boys' pictures. They did manful work for Barium last fall, and they enabled us to walk around with our chins a little higher and our shoulders a little further back than would otherwise have been the case. They earned some remarkable victories and all in all made a season's record not to be ashamed of.

Boys from this same group are carrying on into basketball, and up to the present time they have lost only two games. They have won victories; their record is just a trifle better than the girls'.

Without attempting to write about the individual games, the basketball scores are as follows:

Girls

Barium 32, Cool Springs 31.
Barium 34, Scotts 36.
Barium 32, Scotts 25.

Barium 45, Mooresville 27.
Barium 27, Statesville 25.
Barium 43, Kannapolis 48.

At this writing both boys and girls have lost two games in conference play. They might still come back and land on top; it has been done!

plant. So much is said about the receipts—that they are larger this year than last and that last year they were larger than the year before.

Then we are inclined to run about the country and flit from place to place seeking publicity and, in this way, pushing the work. Many things come in to take time and strength while the great problem of giving the child better training is pushed off for a more favorable opportunity. Few of us are giving the time that we should to conferences in which the children and their difficulties are discussed. It would be interesting to know how many of our Orphanages are having weekly, or even monthly, meetings in which the staff gathers together to give joint discussion to problems of the children. But ought the child be put off for anything? Ought not we to be making constant effort to understand each child and especially the difficult child so that we may be worth more to him? How many a little fellow is discouraged and needs encouragement? How many lack the personal touch and the vital, living friendship of an older person? The child is the main thing. A building is a small thing. Every building is erected for the good of the child and for his service. The child comes first. The institution is organized for his benefit. It is for him that we solicit funds.

Let us examine our hearts and ask whether we are giving the child first place. If we are neglecting him or pushing him off for any cause, we might as well admit that our efforts are vain. The study of the individual child should stir our united efforts. What is good for the child? What was the institution built for? What is all our income meant to do? Let's get down to the fact in the case. The child is the first consideration—The Connie Maxwell.

Cottage discipline is very different from that of school. Children from ages two to eleven are sent to bed early, spanked, made to sit or stand in the corner, and do extra work. Ages twelve to eighteen are given extra work to do, kept from the show or town, and if they do something very against the rules several times like going to town or riding without permission they are sent away from the institution.

Although there is not much need for discipline, especially among the high school pupils, when we are punished we usually see the need of it.

Thank you for your interest in the orphanage, and hope that I have answered all the questions you wanted to know.

Yours respectfully,

Mary Alice Stevens.

HEALTH

I am going to try to give you the general facts about the health of our Barium family.

When the children are sick, they are taken to the infirmary, where they are cared for until they are well again. Our nurse, Mrs. McNatt, is a graduate nurse. Our doctor does not live on the campus, but in Statesville which is five miles from Barium. Dr. Herman is considered as our doctor and can be had at a very short notice if needed. All our operations are performed at Davis Hospital.

Each child is examined every year by Dr. Herman, and also his teeth are checked by the dentist who comes to our campus and remains several days. At certain times during the year we are vaccinated for typhoid and given the test for tuberculosis.

To keep us from having so many colds, during the winter, Mr. Johnston has placed on each table in the dining room cod liver oil vitamin pills, which may be taken three times a day.

The general health of our family is excellent; seldom do we have any absence from school. Very few of the alumni of our home have been rejected on account of health by the medical staff of the U. S. Army.

There are five girls at the infirmary who help with the cleaning up. Food for the patients is cooked in the building.

I have enjoyed writing you this information. We hope you can visit our home here sometime.

Respectfully yours,

Martha Price.

during the Thanksgiving season.

One for $1,500.00 by Mr. Jack Wagner and Mrs. A. W. Barringer in memory of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Turner. Another from Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Barringer in amount of $500.00 was given in memory of Mr. W. M. Barringer.

As this fund steadily grows it brings nearer to realization the dream of a worshipful, beautiful church here that will put the Church back where it belongs in the position of the most beautiful and the best appointed building on the campus of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

The Agnes Myers

less until the Thanksgiving of 1943 when Delgado which had given $13.00 in 1942 gave $137.00 in 1943, and Topsail that had given $83.00 in 1942, gave $125.00 in 1943.

We have been informed that this wonderful development was the result of the work of the pastor's wife, Mrs. C. C. Myers. Mrs. Myers began in her class of boys the keeping of a little bank. This was done in each church. The banks were little dime store banks. During the year the banks were on hand each Sunday. They were opened the last Sunday before Christmas, and great was the interest and enthusiasm of the boys of the class when at last the banks were opened and the money counted. Such enthusiasm is contagious. The other classes of the Sunday School adopted the same method with the phenomenal results mentioned above. Now we are told all the members of the Sunday School eagerly await the opening of the banks on the last Sunday before Christmas.

Mrs. Myers has passed on. At the request of the Sunday School this offering is called the Agnes Myers Memorial Thanksgiving Offering.

$1,733.77 more than the total last year.

In this time when all services for the children are at a higher price than before the emergency, it is indeed gratifying that our people have recognized the increased needs and so generously have provided for them.

Mr. J. W. Ervin

grain of wheat hardly realizes when it ceases to be wheat and becomes part of a tasty sackful of cow feed.

Mr. Ervin knows where to get every article that is needed in keeping up the property at Barium. He knows where to locate the men with the special skills to do the work that has to be done - be he painter, tinsmith, millwright, or what-have-you.

One of the constant jobs which peeks up on rainy days is keeping furniture in condition, and Mr. Ervin's shop does a mighty good job in this line. We have added a new tool here and there until his shop has developed into quite an enterprise, although architecturally it doesn't look like anything at all. It has just "grew up", so to speak.

Mr. Ervin looks after the lawns, which means keeping up two power mowing machines, and keeping these machines operating with boys who insist on each one finding out what makes these machines run. You can guess how these investigations often turn out. These and the other headaches to which a trouble shooter is heir have not caused Mr. Ervin's hair to turn gray, but it has caused a good deal of it to leave him. The expression on his face, however, hasn't suffered. He can still laugh and is pretty good company.

One of Mr. Ervin's special charges is the football field, and somehow, through his ministrations, it gets more beautiful every year.

Mr. Ervin hasn't been connected with Barium so long as some of the real old timers, but he has been here long enough to become part of the institution, and the place is better because of Mr. Ervin.

We have hopes that, no matter how good he is now, he will get better during the years because he has a father living with him who has seen many more summers than Mr. Ervin; in fact, his birthdays are so numerous that he can now brag about them, but he still retains his zest in living and is the most consistent and constant football and basketball fan in the neighborhood.

The more young Mr. Ervin grows like his father, the more we like him, and we like him a lot already!

Concord Presbytery

ter the thirty sixth verse through the eleventh chapter and first verse. As Dr. Pritchett was the retiring moderator his successor who was chosen by acclamation was Reverend Thomas H. Spence who is the curator of the Presbyterian Foundation at Montreat.

The Presbytery was delighted to receive at this time Dr. Roy E. Hoke from Davidson College; also Reverend Robert Turner who comes to us as the new Executive Secretary was received from Mecklenburg Presbytery where he has been the very popular pastor of the Monroe Church. Mr. Turner is familiarly known to the young people of our Presbytery as "Pop" Turner as he had charge of our young people's work and our conferences for some years while he was pastor of the Bethpage Church. We are glad for him to return to our Presbytery. The other new comer in our Presbytery is Reverend John H. McKinnon who comes from Maxton Church to be the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Concord.

We were sorry to lose our veteran presbyter who at one time was superintendent of Home Missions in the Presbytery, Dr. J. E. Flow. Dr. Flow, who is now supplying churches in Abingdon Presbytery asked for a certificate of transfer to that Presbytery and this certificate was granted with much reluctance.

Dr. W. C. McLaughlin, now serving a church in Burlington, N. C., spoke at Presbytery in connection with the Foreign Mission report and his topic was "The Place of The Church In The World of Today." Dr. McLaughlin, from his long experience as a minister in China was well qualified to give us a very illuminating study of the mission and opportunity of the church in the world crisis and in the days to come. Another item which always elicits much interest is the election of the Commissioners of the General Assembly. The next meeting of the General Assembly will be in Montreat, North Carolina on the 24th day of May, 1945 at 7:30 P. M.

Our Commissioners for this Assembly were elected as follows: Principals: Ministers, N. E. Oplinger, W. L. Lingle, W. B. Heyward, C. H. McLeod—Elders, Wilson Warlick, J. T. Pritchett, J. C. Query, J. W. Taylor—Alternates: Ministers, J. K. Parker, J. T. Barham, George M. Wilcox, B. B. Shankel—Elders, C. F. Thomason, J. H. Shuford, Walter Bobbitt, W. F. Ramseur, Reverend J. T. Barham, the successful pastor of the Poplar Tent Church was nominated as moderator for the meeting of the Presbytery which will be held at the Concord Church, Lora, N. C. on April 10th. Members of Presbytery enjoyed a very delightful dinner served by the folks here at Barium. As the meal was being concluded, Presbytery adopted the following resolution of thanks which was read by Dr. A. A. McLean, "Concord Presbytery, hereby expresses its appreciation of the privilege of meeting in the Barium Springs community. It is always a help and inspiration to be here, to have a meal in the dining room, and to associate with the boys and girls. We thank you most heartily for the entertainment."

There were 32 ministers and 32 elders representing churches present. Altogether it was a most delightful occasion.

Preacher Paragraphs

Foreign Missions, but who are enthusiastic about it, and who not only pray for, but support, and oftentimes, either go themselves, or send their sons and daughters.

Christ has forever put us right on the Foreign Mission question. He would have us know that the "field is the world"; that all men everywhere need to be told the good tidings of Jesus and His love. You will notice Jesus said, "them also I must bring." Why did He put it that way? If we can find a satisfactory answer to that question, we shall have found a way out of any indifference or opposition we may have acquired regarding Foreign Missions.

Jesus, to begin with, had a full realization of the urgency of Missions. Statistics show that Christianity is not gaining upon heathenism, but that heathenism is gaining upon Christianity. The earth's population now is about 2,000,000,000. More than a billion of these are heathen, and according to the experts, they are increasing faster by natural propagation than the Church by spiritual regeneration. We must remember also that the heathen are not only fast coming into the world, but that they are fast going out. Since Christ was here, about 65 generations of the earth's inhabitants including countless numbers of heathen, have passed away. In China alone over 12 million heathen die every year. In the world at large fully 35 millions of those who have never heard of Christ pass out yearly into eternity. In the light of these facts is it any wonder that Christ realized the urgency of Missions? Do we need to wonder that Paul cried, "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel?"

Jesus also realized the necessity of Missions. Jesus believed that the world needed Him and what He through His Church could give. He knew man's need for God, for freedom from guilt and the power of sin; assurance of future existence. Jesus knew that there was "none other name given under heaven among men whereby men might be saved." Jesus knew there could be no compromise with the other religions; that one could not take the best the non-Christian religions had to offer, patch them up, and let them serve as a substitute for His Gospel. And history's verdict has shown Christ to have been eternally right.

Furthermore, Christ's honor was at stake. He had predicted one fold and one shepherd. To keep His word, He had to bring those other sheep into His fold.

So firmly did Jesus believe in the ultimate success of the Missionary enterprise, He gave His life. His followers through the ages, since He died have also believed, and have also died.

The list is too long to be printed. One must however mention a few. There were His immediate disciples. There were early Church fathers, many of whom suffered torture and martyrdom. Standing out in the long procession of faithful soldiers of the cross are men like Paton, Judson, Martyn, Borden, Keith-Falconer, Livingstone, the Stams, and our own Vinson.

Present conditions make it difficult to believe in the ultimate triumph of Missions: More than a billion still out of Christ; millions here at home not members of any church; crime on the increase; the war and all the dozens of other evils that raise their ugly heads on every side.

But we can believe. Christ says "yes." We have the assurance of prophecy; the assurance of the Christian conviction; and the assurance of history.

God help us all to realize as did Christ the urgency, the need, the uniqueness of Missions. God give us bright hope. God help us to pray, to give, to go. God hasten that glad day when we can sing, not Jesus shall reign, but rather doth reign where'er the sun does his successive journeys run.

An American "soldier" now in Northern Ireland is said to have written home:

"Dear Dad: Gue$$ what I need most of all. That's right. $end it along. Be$$ wi$he$. Your $on, Tom."

The father replied: "Dear Tom: NOthing ever happens here. Write us aNOther letter aNOw. NOW we have to say good-bye."

Annual Health Clinic Held Here In January

As usual, we held our health clinic during the Christmas holidays and early in January. Every child was weighed up and measured just prior to Christmas. The Count Health Department made the tubercular test for all new children that had come in since January 1, 1944.

Of this number there were a very small percentage of re-actors. They and the re-actors of former years were further checked over by Dr. Skeen and for the first time in a number of years we were given a completely clean bill of health. Not a single child has even the mildest of childhood type of tuberculosis.

We just have to stop and moralize a little bit. Back yonder in 1926 when we started these clinics there were nearly one hundred re-actors and thirty-nine active cases of tuberculosis. Five were so ill that they had to spend some time in the Sanatorium.

The second week in January we really got down to business. Dr. Herman and Dr. Skeen together finished the job in short order. They discovered seventeen folks needing tonsilectomy - there was about an equal number of minor operations, all in all a smaller number than we usually have. Only one serious physical condition was located. One little girl was found to have a heart somewhat damaged from rheumatic fever. The doctors shake their heads over this, but our experience in the past has been that a prolonged rest in bed and careful attention results in good recovery. This particular child is such a good patient that we feel that she will make a good recovery.

Fifteen of the seventeen operations for bad tonsils have been performed. The clear weather in January was a Godsend in this particular.

You know, we have begun to expect something unusual happening when these tonsil operations commence. One year we were right in the midst of it when a flue epidemic hit the country so hard that we were afraid to continue.

As it turned out we did not have a single case of flue here, but the air was so full of it that the doctors [Continued On Page Two]

Mrs. Mary McNatt

In past issues of The Messenger we have paid tribute to Mr. Grier and to Mr. Ervin. If anything gets wrong here with your light, water or heat you send for Mr. Grier. If a window gets knocked out, or a door out of fix, or a gutter stopped up, we send for Mr. Ervin.

Now, if anything gets wrong with you, if you run a temperature, stump your toe, have the toothache, you run to Mrs. McNatt. She is the trouble shooter for bodily ills and ailments at Barium, and does she know her stuff! Mrs. McNatt came to Barium about nine years ago. At first she was substitute at Annie Louise Cottage for Miss McGoogan who was ill, and after Miss McGoogan's death she was matron there for a year. Then she succeeded Miss Una Moore as nurse in the Infirmary, and the full responsibility for the health of the Barium family was placed in her hands.

And she has carried on most acceptably during the years since then. A daily procession goes to the infirmary. Real pains and imaginary pains. Symptoms that seem dangerous and are not. Symptoms that seem commonplace and are dangerous. All come under her attention. She has a most amazing faculty of being able to distinguish the serious from the trivial, and to take the necessary steps. So well has she managed that during the years of her stay at our [Continued On Page Two]

Preacher Paragraphs

By Rev. T. C. Cook

ARE YOU A DETACHED CHRISTIAN?

Read carefully the printed matter on the little folder that contains your gas ration coupons, and you will find a list of important suggestions. Suggestion number three says: "Detached coupons are void." That simply means, "Not good if detached." That is a truth of wide application. It is true of inanimate things.

Men used to wear old-fashioned, detachable collars that were no good whatever when detached. Coat buttons, no matter how beautiful, are no good if detached. An automobile wheel is no good if detached. This truth applies to people also.

A soldier, no matter how brave he is, is no good to his outfit, if detached. A detached teacher, no matter how many degrees and certificates she holds, is no good to her school. A detached quarterback, no matter if he is All-American, is no good to his team. One could go on indefinitely.

Let us consider for a moment the "detached Christian." In two general ways, he is no good. To begin with, he is no good to his Church. His Church may be ever so well organized. Its minister; its choir; its leaders; its teachers; its building - everything may be of the very best, but if he remains [Continued On Page Two]

Alumni News

Julian West has accepted a position as Business Manager of the Mary Elizabeth Hospital in Raleigh. He held this same position in the City Hospital in Goldsboro.

Mrs. Chesley V. Pate (Nancy Safford) and little son, Chesley, Jr. of Winston-Salem, N. C., spent a few days at Barium this week. Her husband is overseas.

Frank Purdy has changed his address from Walled City, Michigan to 1260 Desiax, Route 5, Pontiac, Michigan.

Martha Price spent the weekend at Barium. Martha is working for the Southern Bell Telephone Company in Charlotte.

Marion McCall has given up her work in Charlotte and has accepted work in Los Angeles, California. On the way out she visited Jack and they had a trip to Mexico.

Killed In Action

EUGENE THOMAS WHITENER

Our community at Barium is made up of one big family and a lot of little families. The big family is the children that are in the Orphanage; the little families all grow up together and there is no difference in their affections for each other. "Little" Gene Thomas Whitener, the grandson of our orchard man and postmaster, grew up at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Dick Whitener and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, and all over Barium Springs. Everyone knew him, and everyone loved him. He had a smile for everybody and a willingness to help in anything which endeared him to all who knew him. He did not go to the Barium schools, but went with his younger sisters to Troutman. The rest of the day when he was not in school, he was usually following his grandfather around, or playing tennis, or something else. Suddenly Gene grew up. One day he was a little fat smiling boy, the next day he was a graduate of the High School and almost old enough to be inducted into the Army. He worked for a time in Charlotte and then at Uncle Sam's call entered the service. His training was in a Tank Destroyer company and he was quickly sent overseas, first to England and then in to Belgium. He was probably seeing his first active duty when he was killed.

His family received a message that he was missing in action and then a few days later the dread telegram came saying that he was dead. This was one of the many casualties caused by Von Runsted's break-through which was so disastrous for our Army. Gene's death makes the fourth of those from the little families at Barium.

It is hard to become reconciled to the thought that this young man, facing life in such a wholesome, hopeful manner should have been cut down so early. He has four sisters and a little brother. They with his parents and grandparents mourn his passing.

Pvt. Whitener was a graduate of Troutman High school in 1942. He was a former employee of the Air Reduction Company in Charlotte and entered service December 31, 1943. He took his basic training in Camp Hood, Texas, and was later transferred to Camp Bowie for more training. Pfc. Whitener went overseas in October 1944.

Resume of Barium Basketball Season

From the number of inquiries that we get there are still a lot of people interested in Barium basketball. Here's what has happened since the last issue of The Messenger.

On January 16, our teams journeyed to Winston-Salem and lost two games to the Children's Home in what was a rather unhappy night for both teams. The trouble was no referee showed up and after three-quarters of an hour wait, Mr. Clary volunteered to referee the girls' game. It ended 37-20 in favor of Children's Home. Then after another three quarter of an hour wait the boys' game took place with the Children's Home winning 32-26. Neither team played their best, but the Children's Home teams were certainly superior that night. Then on January 19 we went to Concord. Their Girls, undefeated in the conference, defeated us 30-17. We defeated the boys 41-28. On the 23rd Thomasville played at Barium - our girls won 24-14; our boys 48-34. On the 26th, we took a breather, playing outside of the conference. Our girls defeated Harmony 28-19; our boys were defeated 36-32. On the 30th, Concord here defeated our girls 27-24; our boys defeated Concord 45-21. On Thursday night, February 1st, Children's Home here defeated our girls 40-29, but our boys defeated them 41-28. The next night we journeyed to Lexington. Now Lexington did not have a girls' team at the beginning of the season but they do have one [Continued On Page Three]

Annual Tournament Growing Each Year

The 1945 Mid-Piedmont Tournament took place according to schedule on February 15th and ended up February 19th. We had to turn down more teams than usual this year - some thirteen - and some of those were our neighbors who hadn't missed a tournament in years. It looks like somebody is going to have to build us a Gymnasium so that we can take care of these extra teams that want to get in.

The games started off in high gear with the girls division resulting as follows: Stanley beat Davidson; Troutman beat Long Creek; China Grove beat Harmony; Sherrill's Ford beat Cool Springs; Scotts beat Mount Ulla; Union Grove beat Huntersville and Catawba beat Cornelius. In the boys division China Grove beat Long Creek; Landis beat Cornelius; Stanley beat Ball's Creek; Union Grove beat Huntersville; Harmony beat Davidson; Catawba beat Cool Springs; Scotts beat West Yadkin; Sherrill's Ford beat Mount Ulla.

We won't attempt to give you all of the details. The games on the second day were very close. Strange to say, the semi-finals on Saturday were not so close, but when it got to the finals on Monday night it was anybody's game up to the last minute. In the girls game Union Grove coached by Mr. Homer Keever tangled with Sherrill's Ford and the score at the end of the fourth period was 39-39. In the extra period of three min- [Continued On Page Three]

INFIRMARY

We have sent up all our tonsil patients and now we have three baby boys and a older girl visiting us.

Lucile Smith, one of our girls, has made the honor roll for the last two months and seems to be keeping up the good work.

Mrs. McNatt, the nurse was sick for a few days and her daughter, Mrs. Smith, took care of our patients for us while she was sick. We are glad to report that she seems better now.

Our former principal, Mr. Calhoun, was here one day last week and it looks as if the army still agrees with him.

Mary Belle Reid, one of our girls, had a visit from a sailor and of course every one knew who he was. She seems to be mighty happy over something.

Well we will have to sign off now and go to school.

Bye and good luck until next time.

—The Little Nurses, and Buddy (the baby).

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello, folks!

This is the Howard Cottage news of the month.

It snowed and we made a snow man and put some clothes on him and we had a good time fixing him too.

We had four games yesterday and won all of them.

We are going to have a tournament next week and hope we have a big crowd.

One of our girls have been at the Infirmary for a good while. We hope she will soon come up. Six of our girls had their tonsils removed and we sure did miss them.

Nancy Stafford Pate came to see us. She brought her little boy and we sure did enjoy playing with him.

Jackie Porterfield's aunt came to us and gave Jackie a birthday party, and we all had ice cream and cake.

We sure do thank Mr. Sams for the show tickets. We have been to some real good shows.

This is all for this time. Will see you next month.

—Helen and Sylvia.

BABY COTTAGE

It has been a long time since we've chatted with our friends and we are so glad to see you again.

Some of our people have been to see us since then and we will try to spell their names - we get the letters all jumbled up.

When Donnie Privette saw his daddy coming his heels made you think of the tigers turning so fast they all went to butter.

Billy Harrison is all in a wad, but so sweet—when he tries to run he falls over himself, and says "I falled down," and starts off again, he always gets there.

When Jimmie Harrison's mother came he made one little leap and

REVEREND WILLIAM CARSON BROWN 1867—1944

Our community was saddened to learn of the death on December 6th, 1944, of our friend and former pastor, Reverend W. C. Brown. Mr. Brown had been in failing health since he left here in 1937 and made his home in Raeford, North Carolina until the time of his death.

Mr. Brown was born in Carthage, North Carolina, March 8, 1867. He is a graduate of Davidson College, class of '93 and took his B. D. degree from Union Theological Seminary in 1896. His first pastorate was in Concord Presbytery when he came to the work at Concord and New Salem Church. Also during his pastorate there he supplied Front Street Church in Statesville and Clo Church for a time. In 1907 he left Concord Presbytery and went to Raeford, N. C. as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Raeford. He remained there from 1907 through 1924 as their beloved pastor.

In 1924 he came to Barium Springs as the first full time pastor of Little Joe's Presbyterian Church. He brought his broad charity and wide experience and mature study to the work here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home. His benign and fatherly presence were great blessings and benediction to the Home until he was forced to retire from ill health in 1937.

His wife preceded him in death as she passed away in 1942 on June 28th. Mr. Brown is survived by a son, Mr. Lamont Brown of Alexandria, Virginia, by a daughter, Mrs. Lewis Reagans of Kingsport, Tennessee; by a step-son, Dr. John Adams; and also a step-daughter, Mrs. Robert A. Collier of Statesville, N. C.

she caught him right in her arms, but she was close by. You know his legs are not very long yet.

Little Ruth Shepherd's little blue eyes were like stars when her folks came.

Every one wants a curl from Ruby Truelove's pretty brown ones, but she shakes her little head "No."

We have four babies now, and one more pretty little one to come from the Infirmary soon.

When little Donnie Harrison came up from the Infirmary where he went to leave his cold with Mrs. McNatt, he said, "Mommie, I've turned back home."

"Where did you come from, baby dear?"

"Out of the every where into here."

We have seven little girls and twelve little boys.

"I took a piece of living clay,

And gently formed it day by day,

And molded with my power and art

A young child's soft and yielding heart,

I came again when years were gone,

It was a man I looked upon,

He still that early impress bore,

And I could change him never more.

Mr. Johnston came one day and took us to ride in his car and gave us all some ice cream. He always has room in that car for one more.

Mrs. John White Moore came from Mooresville last Sunday and brought us some pretty valentine cakes - all heart shaped and sprinkled with pretty red - looked like sugar and tasted like it too. And some little animal cakes and candy in little valentine napkins tied up with little red bows - and a little paper saucer inside - we almost ate that, too. Circle No. 8 and No. 2 from Mooresville First church sent them. Thank you so very much for them. We went to walk after rest hour and ate them.

So many of our friends thought of us at Christmas time and all times, we wish to thank you now.

—The babies.

FARM NEWS

We believe that this Messenger goes into the hands of many people who live on the farm. Some of you are old timers who used to have to get up early in the morning and push your team hard to get anything like two acres of land ploughed in a day. Well, that's the way the writer was raised. Back in the days when I was a farmer boy, we were nervous in the summer time until we got all the wheat land broken, and then we were nervous in the winter until all the plowing for corn was done - if we didn't get this red land broken in time to have a few freezes on it we were destined to wrestle with clods all summer long.

Well, we had trouble here this year - the ground got too wet around about Thanksgiving Day and we couldn't get all of our wheat sowed. The first time the land was dry enough to plow was Monday, the twenty-ninth of January, getting late, and we had a little more than 150 acres to break - just figure out how many teams that would take. I am writing this article on the second day of February, just five days after that first dry day, and all of the land is broken. Three tractors and four teams did the job, and it is done better than in the old days when we had to depend on a plodding team for this work. The weather man has been good to us, giving us clear weather all week, and it has been cold enough at night to freeze those clods so they won't bother us this summer.

MUSIC CLUB

The Barium Springs Music Club held its last meeting December the eighth at which all members were present.

The following took part: Hannah Price, Jackie Porterfield, Shirley Thomas, Jimmy Hayes, Lavana Morrison, Miss Greene, Shirley Inman, Louise Campbell, Patty Inman, Ernestine Baldwin, Anne Pope, Sadie Grey Buie, Peggy Neel, Myrtle Rushing, Dixie Lee Buie and a reading by Dewey Belle Buie.

Mrs. George Neel was the invited guest at this meeting and we were all delighted to have her.

At the close of the program the pupils presented to Miss Greene a selected box of stationery as a token of our love for her and appreciation of her fine work with us.

Refreshments of candy and oranges were served after which we ended our program by singing Christmas carols.

The officers of the club are: Dewey Belle Buie, president; Helen Hawley, vice president and Myrtle Rushing, secretary.

VIRGINIA HALL CIRCLE

The Virginia Hall Circle meets once a month and is a part of the Woman's Auxiliary. It is composed of the girls of the eleventh and twelfth grades. This year the members are Dixie Lee and Dewey Bell Buie, Leona Hall, Blanche Feimster, Ruth May, Lucy Johnson, Nina Berryhill, Lucille Smith, Patricia Hooten, Gilda and Gloria Whitefield. Miss Carpenter is chairman of the circle.

We had our February meeting on the twelfth and following the Circle programs. We made Valentine favors for the trays at Davis Hospital.

The attendance at the Auxiliary form our Circle is very good.

infirmary not one appendix has escaped her notice to the point where the patient was in a critical state. Pneumonia, that wolf at the door, of all institutions has been kept away: we believe it is due largely to Mrs. McNatt's skill and perseverance that this excellent report can be made. She recognizes a dangerous symptom in time to prevent a critical situation. Mrs. McNatt is very much on our mind during the winter months - that is when we have our tonsil operations and other operations. It is also the time when so many diseases might get in their deadly work. We have more colds during the winter and somehow earache and toothache assume more alarming proportions when the wind is howling and the temperature is low. Mrs. McNatt has raised a wonderful family of her own - a preacher, a soldier, a businessman, and four daughters, two of them nurses. Occasionally Mrs. McNatt gets sick herself - not often - whenever she does there is one of her efficient daughters at hand to help her and to take over. Isn't that fine? It is nice to have a person in charge of an important department that you can feel about as we do about the infirmary and Mrs. McNatt. We do not need to wake up in the middle of the night and wonder if that job is being taken care of. We know it is. We delight to do honor to this fine member of our staff.

tors advised the stopping of all operations except emergency ones. Then last year we were right in the midst of these operations when a measles germ poked up its head at Barium and before he was through with his visit - he and his family - we had ninety cases of measles. Then one time the weather turned so bad that we were just afraid to continue. Well, this year there was no flu in sight, no measles in the neighborhood, and the weather was pretty and we thought everything was going to be lovely, and here on the second day when we had eleven patients fresh from the hospital and four more to come, Mrs. McNatt turned up sick - imagine that calamity!

But Mrs. McNatt has raised a fine family of her own and in that family are a couple of nurses and one of those nurses was on hand before we had a chance to worry much - not only taking care of her mother but looking after her patients also. This frightened us. We think of Mrs. McNatt every time we get sick and when she gets sick we feel mighty helpless.

All in all, our health examination showed a commendable growth and improvement with only five children in the entire family failing to gain in weight. These were without exception girls who had the idea of streamlining themselves and it was not an evidence of bad health. The average gain in weight was nine pounds, with the girls outgrowing the boys by a small fraction - theirs was 9.2, the boys 9 pounds even.

A boy and girl tied for the top gain - 29 pounds.

A great improvement was noticed in the condition of teeth. A greater portion of the fillings was necessary for the forty-two new children who entered during the year. It appears that eating several apples a day helps.

For those of you who are not familiar with the set-up at Barium we have been raising enough apples so that every child has plenty all during the winter - they usually last up until April or May. They are distributed at high school and given out at recess, or as the classes change in the High School building. Some of the girls in the High School go from the High school building to the Lottie Walker building to attend domestic science classes. That is a good time to eat an apple, as they go from one building to another. They do this so unanimously and enthusiastically that we might paraphrase the old battle song "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp the boys are marching" to "Chomp, Chomp, Chomp, the girls are marching."

We think it adds a polish to those already gleaming teeth.

We believe that the good health of the children has been reflected in their disposition and maybe in their attentiveness. Three times in the last thirty days the writer of this article has made requests of all of the children - all three of those requests had to do with their behaviour at basketball games. They responded so satisfactorily that we have been delightfully amazed. If an apple a day had anything to do with that we recommend it to everybody raising children. Maybe ice cream once a week has something to do with it too.

detached, never participating in any way, he will forever be no good to his Church.

In the second place, and this is far more serious for the individual, the detached Christian is no good to himself. In union there is strength, and the detached Christian fails to share that strength that is experienced by those who are united in the work of the Church. A terrific storm struck one day in the midst of a lovely grove of pines. People living nearby, who had come to love those pines feared they would all be uprooted. Not so. To be sure, the gale caught some of the tallest limbs, injuring them to some extent, but the trees themselves, were not uprooted as they would have been had they been standing alone. They were protected by the presence of the other trees. It is that way in the Church.

A minister once witnessed the amputation of an arm that had been badly mangled in a wreck. Having detached the arm, the surgeon casually told his attendant, "throw it away!" When the minister expressed horror, the surgeon said, "Why not? It is no good, detached."

Roger Babson says that five per cent of the Christians in America can't be found. Intentionally, or non-intentionally, they have become "detached." When they moved into a new community, they fully intended (some of them) moving their Church membership with them. But they just didn't. The years have come and gone, and they remain "detached." Their membership is either back home on their old Church's inactive roll, or they did not get their Church letter, but it is still in their trunk. As a result, they are no good to the old home Church, and no good to the Church nearby. Most tragic of all, they are starving to death, spiritually; receiving only the backwash of the Church, when they could, and should be experiencing its flood-tide.

Dwight L. Moody once visited a member of his church who had not only been detached for a long time, but had also fallen into grievous sin. The man received Mr.

now but the games do not count in the official standing. Our girls defeated Lexington 25-20; our boys won 46-38. On February 6th our game with Mooresville resulted in two victories for us, our girls 34-22; our boys 48-25: February 9th we entertained Statesville at Barium, and that was a rousing occasion - our girls nosed out Statesville 20-19.; our boys 30-24. You will want to know a little more about these games. Well, in the girls' game Statesville got away to an eight point lead in the beginning, then our girls began to climb up and when the last minute started the score was 19-19. A lot of things happened in that minute. Marion Coffee was fouled, she had one shot. Marion has been missing a good many foul shots but she took time out this time and we suppose thought about everything but basketball for about a half a minute, and then she got up and shot the goal. That gave Statesville the ball and they worked it down to one of their girls right under the basket, absolutely in the clear and she shot what should have been an easy crip, but the ball rolled around awhile and then fell out and then the whistle blew. This was Statesville's first loss and it disappointed them very much. Since that time the Statesville girls have lost twice to Children's Home, and that puts them in about third place - they are still a mighty good team and will show up well in the tournament.

We took the week of February 13th as a vacation while we staged our tournament here, then on February 20th we took on Lexington and the scores were as follows: Barium girls 47-31; Barium boys 41-27. Our Junior team played and defeated Lexington 33-23, and that brings the score almost up to date, it is a foregone conclusion that the Children's Home boys will win the Conference Championship, and the girls' championship will be a tie between Children's Home and Concord.

Immediately after the Conference schedule there will be a tournament and our boys and girls stand a good show of winning out in this tournament. In addition to the Varsity games, we have had some Midget games, playing Statesville and playing a small team of girls from China Grove. Then our Varsity had two games with Bobby Whittle's team from Charlotte - the J. O. Jones team. In all of these games our teams were victorious.

Moody most cordially and asked him to be seated in front of a beautiful, grate fire. Thinking Mr. Moody had come to reprimand him for his laxity as a Christian, he said, "Well, Mr. Moody, I've got it coming to me - go to it." Mr. Moody said nothing. Taking hold of a pair of tongs, he removed from the glowing grate one of the bright, red coals and laid it upon the hearth. Together, he and his host watched it. In just a few moments, what had been a hot, read coal, now that it was detached from its fellow-coals, was only a blackened cinder. Mr. Moody remained silent. His host looked up with the words, "I see what you mean, Mr. Moody."

Smith: "What do you care so long as he's healthy?"

Mr. Cohen: "Say, Mr. Banker, look up a month ago. How did I stand? I'll hold the phone."

Banker (returning): "You had a balance of $400."

Mr. Cohen: "Vell, did I call you up?"

The manager and the chief clerk were discussing the new typist.

"What do you think of her?" asked the manager. "How is she doing her work?"

The chief clerk looked a little doubtful. "Well, I don't know," he said, "but she spells atrociously."

"Really," said the manager. "She must be pretty good, then. I couldn't spell it."

Doctor: "I'm sorry, Mrs. Brown, but I have to tell you that your husband will never be able to work again."

Mrs. Brown: "I'll go and tell 'im. It'll chcer him up."

Annual Tournament

utes Sherrill's Ford went ahead 43-40. The boys' finals were not quite so close. Stanley defeated Scotts by about five points.

In the foul shooting Miss Stroup from Stanley won with a score of 19. In the boys' four tied up with a score of 21; and in the play-off McNeill of Scotts won with 22.

The crowds were bigger, in a better humor, the refreshment stands were kept busier, and everything passed off in good shape. We are now all set for the Midget Tournament the 15th of March. Look for its results in the next issue of The Messenger.

CHAPTER ONE

Sam Smith read the night letter summoning him home from his post-graduate course at the University for the twentieth time. His wealthy father had very mysteriously disappeared and he, Sam, had been hurriedly summoned home by his father's attorney.

Sam, called Sampson, for short, by his friends at college, had taken only a nominal interest in his father's business. Feeling that the making of money was a minor consideration he still enjoyed college life and the place he had won for himself there by his athletic powers, rather than starting out to make his living.

Sam was twenty-four, six feet two, weighed one hundred and eighty pounds. His curly red hair was good to look upon. At the time our story opens his face wore a troubled look, not one of grief but rather bewilderment. He was now speeding on a fast train in response to the summons above

Barium Teams Wind Up Successful Season

Taking up the continued story of the basketball season, our last report ended with our twin victories over Statesville. That was about the last of the good news attending our Varsity doings. Following our tournament here which was most enthusiastically patronized both by teams and spectators, we got back into the playing. Our first game was with Lexington at Barium, our girls won 47-37; our boys 41-47, and then on the following Friday, February 23rd, we went to Kannapolis. Our girls won 29-16, but the boys lost 32-30. In that game Barium was very much superior in the first, second and fourth quarters, but in the third quarter Kannapolis scored 19 points to our 4, and that was enough to win the ball game. On Tuesday, February 27th, we had somewhat of a repetition of these doings. Our girls defeated Thomasville 24-19; our boys lost to Thomasville 38-31, scoring by a big margin against Thomasville in the first, second and third quarters, but in the fourth quarter the score was almost identical with the Kannapolis third quarter. That wound up the Conference schedule and left our boys in the third place and the girls in fifth place. Then we entered the tournament in Salisbury. We were paired with the strongest girls' team - the only undefeated and untied team in the Conference, Concord, and we went down in defeat on the first go-round on Wednesday. The score was 40-23. Then on Thursday our boys went up against Thomasville and Thomasville gained a four point lead in the first quarter, we gained 1 point in the last quarter, the final score being 31-28 in Thomasville's favor.

By the way, Statesville looked mighty good in that tournament. The Statesville girls bumped off

Mr. R. E. Jackins

Back in 1918, a little brown-eyed boy with wide ears and teeth came to Barium Springs. Nobody knew how long he was going to stay here. He probably liked the place some days and some days he didn't. Ten years later he graduated, and by that time he had developed such an affection for Barium and had made himself so useful that he was retained as a kind of all-round help man. He helped the dairyman; he helped the farm boys; he helped the coach; and rapidly became one of the busiest folks at Barium. Several years later this young man was promoted from assistant dairy boss to dairy boss, and he never has gotten out of that job although he has acquired a good many others since. The man we are talking about is the one whose name is at

Preacher Paragraphs

By Rev. T. C. Cook

I WOULD LIKE TO SEE!

Facing a new church year, I am thinking about certain things that I, as a minister, would like to see accomplished in my Church. They are as follows:

I would like to see a genuine deepening of the "Prayer Life" of each member, for without that, there is little that we can do that will really last. "Men ought always to pray and not to faint."

I would like to see every member cultivating the habit of spending some time each day in a prayerful reading of God's Word, with the intention of doing whatever God's Spirit leads him to do. "Search the Scriptures, for they are they which testify of Me."

I would like to see every member taking seriously the matter of attendance upon whatever services are held each week - that means "Prayer Meeting." "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together."

I would like to see everyone taking a deeper interest in the Church School. All too many members of the Church seem to think that there is no benefit to be derived from a weekly study of God's Word.

CAPTAIN LEONARD FORT

Back in 1924 a family of children entered Barium Springs from Oxford, North Carolina. There were twin boys, Ben and Charles, and there were two little girls near enough the same size to be sometimes mistaken for twins, Irene and Sarah. Then, in between was a boy that didn't receive so much attention as either his older twin brothers or his little sisters. He grew up without being in the limelight near as much as either end of the family. In due course of time he graduated at Barium, and when we began to sum up his accomplishments we found that instead of being just another Fort he was a very distinctive and talented young man in his own right. He was quite an athlete; he was

Literary "Lunatic Legacy" Begins in This Issue of The Messenger

Way back yonder twenty years ago when the Barium Messenger was just a fledgling, when there was no war to write about, and no athletics to speak of, it was sometimes a problem to fill up a column for The Messenger.

One time a serial story was run. It was a kind of community affair. The editor wrote the first and last chapters, without consultation with anybody. Of course, he wrote the first chapter first and the last chapter after the other chapters had been turned in. He just wrote that first chapter and turned it over to a member if the High School faculty and asked her to write the next chapter, another teacher wrote the third chapter and so on until five or six chapters had been written, then the editor pulled it in and wrote the final chapter.

Several days ago, we re-read that literary gem and became so interested that we actually got our mind off of the war, and we have been wondering if our readers could stand a reprint of that. You

Gives Advice On Care Social Security Cards

During July, August, and September 1944, more than 574,000 youngsters between the ages of 15 and 19 obtained social security cards. In all, over 1,300,000 security account numbers were issued by field offices of the Social Security Board throughout the United States during the third quarter of 1944.

Now that these workers have obtained social security cards, there are certain steps which they must take in order to get full credit, on the records of the Social Security Board, for all the wages they earn from now on. This statement was made today by Louis H. Clement, Manager of the Salisbury, N. C., office of the Social Security Board. Here is the information which he says every wage earner should have.

1. After you have obtained your social security account number,

Killed In Action

[Continued From Page One] quite a student; he was quite a leader. Later on at Davidson he exhibited those same qualities, and while there in addition to classroom and athletic honors, he was elected to the Scabbard and Blade and to the O D K honorary fraternity, and was in his senior year, president of the D Club.

Both of Leonard's brothers had graduated at Davidson before that, and it was easily possible for him to have been known as just another Fort, but he carved out a career of his own which stands high.

After graduation, Leonard continued his Army training. He became a pilot of a bomber and was sent to Italy, and was a part of that Fifteenth Air Force based on Foggia, Italy, that did so much damage to the entire German setup. On July 16th, 1944, he was on a mission, his plane was shot down, and he was reported missing. His wife who lives in Statesville and has her membership in Little Joe's Church at Barium would not give up hope. We all thought that Leonard would show up, either in a prison camp or through the underground of the enemy country, but on Sunday, March 11th, his wife received that dreaded telegram announcing that Leonard had been killed on July 16th. Along with the announcement of his death came the news from other sources of just how he died. Some of the members of his crew were saved: the assumption is that Leonard could have saved himself if he had abandoned members of his crew and taken to his parachute. The fact that he refused to do this, but made a desperate attempt to land his burning plane for the benefit of those other members of his crew who were wounded and could not get out is in keeping with the lad's character. He always had the makings of a hero in him, this was displayed in his death. We at Barium mourn his passing. It seems that each month we hear of some other Barium boy making the supreme sacrifice. In each one of them there is an element of heroism. If they had been just a little less brave, a little less heroic, their lives might not have been taken, but we could not wish for them life if it meant cheapening in any way the noble aspirations which these young men have had. We at Barium, as well as the country at large, are paying for this war with the finest of our sons. Surely God will honor our peace purchased at such a price.

Lunatic Legacy

[Continued From Page One] mentioned. It was hard for him to think of his father in trouble of any kind. All his memories of the strong gray haired man were of his energy, his masterfulness, his readiness to help others, never had he seen his father gloomy, or helpless or apparently in need of help or sympathy. He was always the perfect provider.

This accounted for Sams indifference to money, these seemed no need for him to make any particular effort to provide for himself, with this efficient and affectionate father whose delight seemed to be to anticipate his sons wants. True at times his father had asked him rather queer questions about himself, as to his future, his aims and ambitions, but at Sam's rather joking answers had changed the subject always with a sort of an embarrassed laugh as if he touched something that needed an apology.

As the train neared the foot of the mountains, Sam remembered some of the things he had heard about his father, some his father had told him himself. How he had been raised in these very mountains, how as a young mountain lad with only the beginning of a country school education, he had gone to work for a lumber company. How his knowledge of the mountains, the timber and the people, had made him very valuable to the lumber company, then by several shrewed deals he had acquired a share in the company and then control. How this lead to other things until the "Old man" had grown to be the most powerful man in this mountain section. For years they had made their home in Asheville, going there first with his bride of a year. It was there that Sam the only child had been born, and it was there that his mother had been buried while he was yet just a twelve year old boy.

The father had never remarried but had spent his energies in providing for this boys wants. Sam remembered with a warm feeling of affection his father's intense interest in his school progress, in his friends and his other activities. When the time came for college and during his years there the old man seemed to grow less interested in his progress, seldom visiting him although his business called him often within a few miles of Chapel Hill.

As Sam thought of these things he wondered if his father had troubles that were never told him, if his seeming indifference was only preoccupation over matters that might be causing him sleepless nights.. Sam remembered with a pang that even though this might have been the case how always his father had been jolly and cheerful with him to meet his wishes and even go beyond any request his son might make.

Sam looking out the windows watched without interest the tall column of Andrews geyser that his train was now passing. For the next twenty minutes he was mildly amused by the passengers remarks. Many who were making the trip for the first time imagined that there were several geysers due to seeing the same one from different sides of the train.

As the train climbed the mountains and plunged into tunnel after tunnel he remembered how his father used to watch everything about this as if he were seeing it for the first time. He had lived here before the railroad came and the wonders man had brought here had never ceased to interest him.

Soon the summit was reached, and the long train dropped the big pusher engine and commenced the long glide to Asheville. In a short time Sam was sitting in the office of Mr. Peabody listening to a most amazing account, of the things that had brought him home.

Just two days before Mr. John Smith had called Mr. Peabody in and gave him a few documents for delivery to Sam, he had stated that he was going to leave town, and that the papers that were to be delivered to his son were of vital importance. "This letter is to be handed you first and then this document under seal. As to the contents of either I am in total ignorance", said Mr. Peabody.

Sam hastily tore open the letter and read.

Dear Sam: Contrary to general belief, I have been a failure for the last few years in the most important affairs in which I have been engaged. Not wanting to endanger your prospects or cause you worry in your start in life, I have decided to eliminate myself. No, not suicide, I am simply disappearing, but the disappearance is as complete and final as if it were suicide, and any effort on your part to locate me will be time lost and needless notoriety raised.

All my affairs are wound up, and all debts paid, I simply start life anew and have no fear but that it still holds many joy for me yet. The papers will publish my going abroad and I will just delay my return until I am forgotten.

While paying all obligations, even your personal bills at Chapel Hill there is nothing left unless you wish to take up the clue that may be found in a further paper left in your hands.

This seems a coldblooded goodbye, but it seems to me best, your future is in your hands, when the time arrived when I could no longer help, I didn't want to stay to hinder.

Believing that you will win for yourself a place worthy of your mother's hopes and hoping that no cloud of regret will be left from this enforced action of mine, I remain,

Your devoted Father.

Sam looked up at Mr. Peabody. "Have you any idea?" he began. Silently Peabody handed him the days paper. There with small heading was the account of Mr. John Smith sailing for Europe, to look after Business interests. "But he didn't go, he simply vanished," said the lawyer. "You can imagine the difficulty of tracing a man named John Smith, but even without that handicap, your father has done a thorough job of covering his tracks." "My advice to you is to follow absolutely his advice, for I never knew him to fail in anything he attempted." Then what does he mean by this?" asked Sam handing over the letter. and what important affairs has he recently failed in?"

The lawyer read the letter. "I don't know," he said, "I never knew much of your father's affairs, but at his request and for your information I have secured a complete statement of his affairs for you. As he says here there is not a debt nor a dollar left. He has liquidated, and gone. Evidently he had less than a hundred dollars himself when he left, but I am willing to bet that he won't suffer where ever he goes. But how about you?"

Sam flushed, the lawyer didn't mean to draw comparisons but his assurance that a John Smith in his late fifties, could make good anywhere while his son, a vigorous man of twenty four with all the training his state university could give him was rather helpless.

What he could do for himself had not occupied his thoughts much, it would take some time for his habit of thinking to change. Heretofor when he needed or wanted anything the only thing necessary was a proper approach to his father. For the first time he began to look into his own capabilities for his needs.

Sam had a fine mind without being brilliant, his studies had interested him, and in some he had made exceptional marks. Math was easy for him, and yet he had only taken the pure mathematics, the necessary field work of applied math interfered with some of the other activities. The same with chemistry, he loved it but laboratory work interfered with something else he wanted to do. The only real sacrifice he had made for a study was geology. He became so interested in the structure of old mother earth that he even gave up a tennis tournament to take the full course. His post-graduate work was in that but he remembered now with regret none of his course had been taken with a view to earning money with it, rather for the entertainment he got from them.

Really the only jobs he was equipped to hold down were clerkships, or maybe that of lumberjack, or examiner. These two last thoughts gave him somewhat of a thrill, his father had started out as one, why not he? As to mining that would give him a chance to see with his own eyes the things that had held him fascinated in college.

Sam looked up at the lawyer and said, "I have twenty dollars, and I suppose that is just twenty more than Dad had when he started out from the log school house. If I'm worth raising maybe I can make it on that."

Taking his hat, Sam started out and was just closing the door when he remembered the other paper. "I believe I will read this later," as he took the sealed envelope from the lawyer's hand.

Out in the bracing sunshine and mountain air of that glorious mountain city his spirits rose, the world was not so bad, it was time he was going to work anyhow, he would go get some dinner and hop to it. He headed for his usual eating place, and proceeded to order with disregard for price. Just as he had finished his order two girls in tennis flannels came in and rushed up to Sam with a most effusive welcome. It ended by their eating with Sam and on Sam, and when he again stood in the sparkling sunshine, his twenty dollars was just a ten and some change

He sought a quiet chair in a hotel and proceeded to open the envelope left by his father.

He first drew out a heavy paper which proved to be absolutely blank, and when it unfolded a slip of paper fell out. Sam was so busy searching the large piece for some sign that he did not look at this slip for a few minutes. When finally convinced that the slip was the only thing with any writing or printing on it he read what was written on it. Then in amazement he turned it over, but nothing on that side. His expression must have been so utterly bewildered that it attracted attention. He was aroused by a laugh. A young lady a few chairs away was openly laughing at him. "Pardon me," she said, "but you looked too funny, did somebody play a trick on you? Of course you don't remember me, I am Jenny Priest that used to admire your football from a distance, and met you two years ago." Still puzzled, Sam held out the slip of paper to her and they both read:

If doubtful but daring, get your inspiration where the creek does a toe dance and the water runs uphill. Feed your imagination where the hills juggle the juggernaut, and find your information at the eighteenth hole.

P. S. This may not be pretty, but for purposes of identification nothing beats a snaggle tooth. Don't wear your heart on your sleeve, but wear me next to your heart, till a mate is found. (To be continued next month.)

LUNATIC LEGACY

By Different Folks

CHAPTER TWO

Jenny Priest looked almost as bewildered as Sam after reading the tiny jagged slip of paper. Laughing again she looked at Sam and said, "I am a shark when it comes to working out cross word puzzles but this makes me feel rather insignificant."

Sam dismissed the subject with a laugh too, not wishing to explain its source. They sat and chatted for sometime, discussing the recent ball games. At length Jenny excused herself and Sam was left to his own thoughts.

He took out the envelope which contained the slip of paper and read it again. Had his father intended to be so mystifying? What could he mean by such a jumble of words. Were the words to be taken literally or was he to interpret into them something not there. Surely no one this side of Morganton could expect the words to be taken literally. With a frown on his forehead, he seized his hat and without stopping to think where he was going he started down the hotel steps.

He walked hurriedly for sometime in the waning afternoon sunlight, and at length realized that it had been quiet a while since he had heard the street cars or much traffic. Looking up he found himself on the road that leads up behind Grove Park Inn. He continued up this road and finally found an inviting seat, overlooking a part of Asheville and giving a splendid side view of Grove Park Inn. A-

MISS LORENA CLARK

Take a good look at this picture. The article is a sort of three-pronged affair. We have been each month honoring some member of the staff for their fine work at Barium. Miss Clark comes in that category. Whenever some former student of Barium has done some outstanding thing, that deserves an article. Well Miss Clark comes in on that. And whenever there is a wedding in prospect, the persons involved are due a write-up. Miss Clark comes in that. So here goes. Way back yonder in 1924 a flock of four little boys and one little girl came to Barium. The boys all later distinguished themselves by holding down the same position on our foot ball team - right guard. It got so sports writers would just put down that name on our team without consulting anybody. The one girl, and this is the heroine of this article, distinguished herself in other ways. She was valedictorian of the class of 1931 and went to Flora Macdonald College where she made

Killed On Iwo Jima

DICK PARRISH

Back in 1927 two little red-headed boys entered Barium Springs from Red Springs. The youngest was little Dick Parrish. Not a very strong little boy, he had to be nursed along for several years until he began to live up to the vivid color of his hair. He lived at the Baby Cottage, at Synod's, at Lee's, at Jennie Gilmer, and in the Quads. He took his turn at all the jobs which the boys have to do at Barium, with this invariable result: every matron that had to do with him, every foreman, and every teacher, learned to love the boy for his willingness to do, his eagerness to please, and his all-around unselfishness.

It never seemed to occur to Dick that he was ever called on to do anything hard. He accepted every task and every duty as though he were being done a favor by being allowed to have his share in whatever was being done. He became quite an athlete - the wrestling team and the football team - and somehow the teams that he played on were always good. Dick would be the last to claim that it was his being on the team that made it good, but we who watch these things know that Dick had a lot to do with it. He was Center on our Championship Team of 1941 and made the last touchdown of the season which rounded out a perfect career. He graduated in 1942, entered Davidson that fall and was able to complete one year, and a most satisfactory year, and it was his hope and our hope that when he had served his term in the Armed Services he would come back and complete his college career.

Such, however, was not to be. He was killed on Iwo Jima on the fourth of March, and while we do not have the particulars as yet, we know that Dick was there doing his full duty and maybe a little more, and making the company, the squad, or the battalion which he was in just a little better for his being a member of it.

We here at Barium find it hard to believe that this fine, loyal, eager lad is no more. All of us who knew Dick will be better men and women for having known him.

an enviable record. She made a record in more ways than her studies. As everyone knows it costs a good deal of money to go to college. Back in those days our fund for helping college students was very meager, and that meant that the students accumulated a pretty sizable debt. Lorena made a record in getting hers cleared up after graduating. She taught school for several years and then came back to Barium in 1940 to take over about the most

By Rev. T. C. Cook

WHY GO TO CHURCH?

"Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together."

A church succeeds in proportion to the loyalty of its members. This being true, one should go to Church, first of all, because the Church needs him! Cooperation brings the same results in a Church as it does in any other organization. Church-going is not Christianity, but it is an essential means of promoting Christianity, and an investigation will reveal that the most consistent Christians are those who attend Church most regularly.

The same thing is true of the best givers, the best prayers, and the best workers. The person who has quit giving, praying, witnessing, and working, is the person whose interest has begun to lag; and lack of interest can almost always be traced to carelessness in Church attendance. Those who are the backbone of the Church, its spiritual strength, its pillars of faithfulness, are, with few exceptions, those who regularly attend its services.

But there is a second reason why one should go to Church, and that is the fact that man needs the Church. In fact, the Church can get along without the individual much better than the individual can get along without the Church.

All great men have recognized this fact. Oliver Wendell Holmes said that there was a little plant in the corner of his soul called reverence that needed watering at least once a week.

St. Augustine said: "Our souls

Rev. Thomas C. Cook Accepts Call To the First Presbyterian Church of Laurens, S. C.

Seven years ago, Reverend Tom Cook and family came to Barium. The family then, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Cook, were two little boys. Now they are leaving us to go to Laurens, South Carolina, and the family, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Cook, are one big boy, one middle-sized boy, and one little boy.

During the years that this delightful family has been a part of the Barium Springs community we have learned to love not only them, but the members of their families that have for a time so-journed with them. Mr. Cook's father; Mrs. Cook's father and mother; besides younger members of both families. Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Cook's mother, has lived with us so much that if we could we would insist that the Cooks leave her as a peace offering for their leaving.

During the years that Mr. Cook has been Pastor of Barium he has lent a helping hand to the neighboring churches many times, and he will be missed in Concord Presbytery as well as at Little Joe's Church.

During the last year Mr. Cook has been Scoutmaster, a most worthy work and one that has meant much to the boys as well as the grown-ups at Barium. He has twice been the official host for Synod, and in all of these things he has performed well.

The community will miss Mr. Cook, not only in his regular duties as Pastor, but in his conduct of the Vespers at our camps, and in many other ways. The good wishes and prayers of the Barium community go with this family to their new home. Mr. Cook will take up his new duties in his new pastorate the first of June.

From the Statesville Daily

Rev. Thomas C. Cook, pastor of Little Joe's Presbyterian church at Barium Springs, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Laurens, S. C., and will take up his work there the first of June. Rev. Mr. Cook presented his resignation to the Barium Springs congregation on Sunday, April 8, and at a congregational meeting in connection with the morning service yesterday the congregation voted to concur with him in a request to Concord Presbytery for the dissolution of the pastoral relation, effective June first.

Mr. Cook came to the pastorate of Little Joe's church in 1938 from the Second Presbyterian church of Salisbury, where he had been pastor since 1930 when he was graduated from Union Theological Seminary at Richmond, Va. A na-

(FORM OF BEQUEST)

"I give and bequeath to the REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME OF THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated Under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (HERE NAME THE BEQUEST)

CHARLES EDWARD RAYNAL

Charles Edward Raynal was born in Savannah, Georgia, on March 17, 1877, the son of Pierre Napoleon Raynal and Rebecca Ann (Girardeau) Raynal. His father, an architect and designer, was born at Ste Marie aux Mines in the Vosges mountains of Alsace, France, and came with his parents in childhood to America. His mother was a descendant of the French Huguenots who on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes fled from France to South Carolina. When Dr. Raynal was eight years of age his family moved to Thomasville, Georgia. Three years later they moved to Birmingham, Alabama. Here, the young Charles Raynal attended private schools. In 1896, while his family was residing in Bessemer, Alabama, Dr. Raynal entered Southwestern University at Clarksville, Tennessee, from which institution he graduated in 1903. He next attended Princeton University and Princeton Seminary, receiving from these two schools the A. B. and B. D. degrees. He was licenced to preach in 1903 and ordained in 1904 by the Presbytery of Northern Alabama.

Dr. Raynal began his ministerial life as assistant pastor in the 1st Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, Alabama, where he served from 1904 until 1907. His next pastorate was at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, N. C., where he served until 1909 when he accepted a call to the 1st Presbyterian Church of Statesville, N. C., which pastorate he held until last October when, due to failing health, he tendered his resignation. Following his resignation, his congregation elected him pastor emeritus. Despite his physical limitations, he continued to serve his people, but finally, realizing that he was growing weaker, he entered Long's hospital. His condition became steadily worse, and on the morning of December 1, 1944, after some two weeks in the hospital, he was called to his eternal reward.

Davidson College in 1941 awarded Dr. Raynal the degree of Doctor of Divinity, an honor well deserved, for Dr. Raynal was first of all a minister of the Gospel, bringing to his preaching, mature scholarship, rare wit and humor, pathos and beauty of expression. He was devoted to his Church and his pastorate in Statesville was marked by the construction of the handsome $200,000 place of worship that was completed in 1934, in every step of the erection of which he took an active interest, making with his own hands much of the woodwork that adorned its walls. A first class botanist, he planned with care the planning of the church grounds, selecting rare and beautiful trees and shrubbery.

Dr. Raynal did not confine his interest to his Church. He made a distinctive contribution to his community. For 35 years he gave unsparingly of his ability and leadership of the civic, educational, cultural and spiritual life of Statesville. He was a trustee of the Statesville Public Library, a trustee of Mitchell College, and a member of the N. C. Interracial committee. He held membership in several scientific societies, and was the author of several pamphlets, contributing from time to time to various magazines, among them, the North Carolina Review.

Dr. Raynal had a number of hobbies that called for skilled hands. His book binding, cabinet making, and wood carving were not to be surpassed. He was an excellent gardener and landscape artist, and he could cast a rod with the best of them.

Dr. Raynal's first marriage was to Miss Mary Graham Morrison, of Charlotte, N. C., who died two years later. In 1914 he married Miss Margaret Mayo Scott, a former member of the faculty of Mitchell College, of which her father was the president. He is survived by his wife, three sons and a daughter: Lt. C. E. Raynal, Jr., chaplain U. S. Navy; Capt John Scott Raynal, U. S. Army, in service overseas; Henry Middleton Raynal, student at Davidson College; and Miss Margaret Isabel Raynal, student at Salem College.

Concord Presbytery will miss Dr. Raynal very sorely. The younger men coming into the Presbytery always found in him an understanding friend. Almost always when a candidate had finished a sermon for licensure, Dr. Raynal was the first to reach him and give words of encouragement.

Dr. Raynal once said: "It is wonderful to be living today and looking ahead to tomorrow. It would take five or six lifetimes to do all I want to do. I will die still interested in this beautiful world."

We who mourn his passing, rejoice that we have known this great soul. We rejoice that he is now a citizen of that world that is more beautiful than anything envisioned here, and in which he will have all eternity to fulfill his desires.

During the First World War he served overseas with the 146th field artillery, was in France for six months and in Germany for the same period of time with the army of occupation. He is a member of Hurst Turner Post of the American Legion, this city, and chaplain of the post.

As pastor of the church at Barium, Rev. Mr. Cook was known for his friendly contacts with the Barium Orphanage family, contacts that he has maintained during the war with regular letters to the men in service. He has also been a leader in activities of the Boy Scout organization, and Scoutmaster of the Troop at Barium.

He has a wide circle of friends in the local community who regret his leaving. He had many contacts in Statesville, where he was in touch with civic and church groups and Mitchell College. He was known for his inspiring messages to civic organizations and gifted and versatile, was much sought-as an entertainer.

During the interim following the resignation of Dr. Charles E. Raynal as pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Statesville last October, Rev. Mr. Cook served the church as supply, preaching at the evening services and also serving the congregation as pastor, in so far as he could do so in connection with his own work as pastor of the Barium church.

During the seven years of his pastorate at Barium, Mr. Cook has had ten calls to other pastorates. Last summer he rejected a call to the pastorate of the Montreat church. The call to the Laurens church is the first that he had been led to accept.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook and three young sons plan to leave around the first of June for Laurens. Mrs. Cook, who underwent an operation in a Richmond, Va. hospital several weeks ago, is still under treatment there, though improving steadily. The operation has necessitated her remaining in a cast for a number of weeks. Mr. Cook plans to go to Richmond next week to bring her home.

Preacher Paragraphs

[Continued From Page One] are made for Thee, O God, and are restless until they find themselves in Thee." Holmes and Augustine both recognized that they were sons of God as well as Adam - Deity as well as dust, and that their souls needed nourishment as well as their bodies.

The late John Wanamaker, sensing this same need, traveled nearly 1,000,000 miles during his tenure of office as Postmaster General under the Harrison Administration in order that he might be present each Sunday at his own Church. It is no wonder he was such a great soul and that God so richly difficult job that a woman has at blessed him.

The best fathers and mothers, husbands and wives, sons and daughters, teachers, merchants, lawyers, doctors, citizens and neighbors, are those who regularly feed their souls in His Sanctuary.

Why Go To Church? The Church Needs You! You Need The Church!

difficult job that a woman has at Barium - Head Matron. She has had direct charge of all the high school girls, and the immediate supervision of the Lottie Walker Building. She has had the general oversight of all the other girls' departments and cottages, and some supervision of the Boys' Dormitories - quite a job! And Miss Clark, in spite of her youth, has handled it magnificently. She is one person whom we had hoped would not let her light so shine before men that it could be seen of all. We had hoped to keep her as our own little private treasure for years to come, but such was not to be. At least one man saw her good works and has robbed us of our treasure, and by the time you read this Lorena will no longer be Miss Clark - she will be Mrs. Piner.

We know that wherever she goes there will be people who will love her, that she will make other people happy, and that the home in which she presides will be truly a Christian home. All who know her, and that means a pretty large section of the Barium family both here and of our graduates, will wish her well and will be proud for having served with her at Barium Springs.

Lunatic Legacy

gain he read this enigma which his father had left him. In his letter he had said he left him nothing unless it was a clue that he would find in a further paper. A clue to what? And was this insignificant looking piece of paper the clue he spoke of? Evidently so. It was the only scratch he found in the envelope.

Sam sat on the rock, studying the slip word by word. "If doubtful but daring"—apparently there was to be adventure, everything was not to come too easy. "Get your inspiration where the creek does the toe dance and the water runs uphill." So his father recognized the fact that it would take an inspiration to make him wake up. But where was he to ever get an inspiration? "Where the creek does a toe dance and the water runs uphill!"—wasn't that a definite and sensible answer? "Toe dance", "uphill." Maybe his father's worries had been too much for him. But no, he couldn't think of that. Evidently he was not getting an inspiration here. He must seek it elsewhere. He would go back and sleep over it.

That night Sam sought a theater to help pass the time away. He couldn't get his mind started to work in any systematic way, not even to concentrate on his puzzle. So as means of relaxation, he found what he thought would be a good picture. He went in and tried to enjoy it but his mind would turn to the slip of paper again and again. Nevertheless he managed to stay through the picture, thinking that after a rest, he would be able to go to sleep and then wake up and solve that mystery that had caused him so much unrest.

He returned to his room and made hasty preparations for bed and rolled in. After tossing and tumbling for an hour he finally began to drift off into a very light sleep. He seemed to be on a train, coming up the mountains with his father, the first time he and his father had made the trip together when he was a boy. His father seemed to be pointing out different things to him and about each one he had something interesting to tell, just as if he knew every crook and turn on the road and seemed to impress Sam now in his dreams was the way in which his father talked. His eyes seemed to sparkle and gleam as he spoke of a certain mountain in the distance.

At length they reached Andrews Geyser and then his father's whole face seemed to glow. But now in reality it was Sam's turn to glow! Didn't he hear his father saying something about dancing? In an instant Sam was wide awake. What was it his father was talking about when he heard him say "dancing?" All else seemed to have escaped him but the word "dancing." Then he remembered that it was in connection with Andrews' Geyser. To be sure! What is it that Andrews' Geyser does if not a toe-dance. What is it that Andrews' Geyser does if it does not do more than run up hill? It shoots straight up! At last he now had a clue. It was to Andrews' Geyser he must go to get his inspiration. So far so good! But this was only a beginning. He must find where the hills juggle the juggernaut and the eighteenth hole and last of all the mate to this little slip of paper. This last must be the most important.

Sitting on the edge of the bed, picturing in his mind the dancing water of Andrews' Geyser, Sam realized there was no more sleep for him. What could he do? He couldn't be still nor could he pace the floor all night. It would never do to go pacing the streets at 12:30 at night. As he, thinking, it occurred to him that now was the time to get that inspiration.

Sam jumped at the thought and he got ready to start on his uncertain expedition about as hastily as he had gotten ready for bed. Thinking it most suitable for such an escapade he adorned himself in his golf suit, plus a light weight overcoat. In his pockets were his few dollars, a few cigarettes and a match box.

He rushed down to the station only to find that the next train was a through one carrying only pullmans and it was not due for several hours. What should a man with only a few dollars do? Just at that moment he noticed a long freight train slowly moving in the direction he wished to go. With a sudden impulse, he swung on to a car whose door was open as it slowly passed. Crawling inside, he sat down and leaned up against the side of the car, just beside the door. As he sat there thinking of the unusualness of his situation, he gradually became conscious of a tiny glow in one end of the car. He focused his attention on the small light for some time and with the aid of his imagination it was first one thing and then another. Looking at one time, it seemed to be one single glowing eye glaring at him, while looking at it again it seemed to be only a spark of fire. At length he got a faint whiff of cigarette smoke and decided that it was a cigarette. But this was more alarming than ever, because a burning cigarette was usually held by somebody. Peculiar sensations raced up and down his spine, at this conclusion. He had been riding a good while already and surely it wouldn't be very long until he would be in the vicinity of his destination. If only this stranger for surely that must be what it was, would keep still until then, all would be well. But if----?

The dim glow gradually grew fainter and fainter and then went [Continued On Page Three] completely out. Sam sat still listening to the rumbling of the freight cars and straining at every suspicious sound. The suspense, the wondering about the light was getting the best of Sam when quite suddenly out of the pitchy darkness flashed a light into his face, so bright that it completely blinded him. Almost simultaneous to the flash of a light he felt a sharp crack on his cranium and so far as Sam was concerned, this business of living seemed about over with, for he crumpled up into a heap at the side of the door.

What this unknown passenger saw when he flashed the light on Sam was a very nice looking young man, well dressed and the kind of fellow that usually carries something more than matches in his pockets. Being prepared for what ever he might see, this tramp had been favorably impressed with his victim. Hurriedly he had searched Sam's pockets only to find those few dollar bills that remained.

What could be more disgusting? After going to the trouble of breaking a man's head it was more than disgusting not to find anything but a few dollar bills.

But now that this bird of evil had ended Sam's miseries for the time being, what was to be done with him? If he could be left there, he would come to in a short while so he must act at once, and he did.

At this point Sam stirred just a little and in a flash of the eye he felt himself rolled over and then another jolt which seemed not only to jolt his brain but to jolt his whole frame because this time it was several hours before he stirred again. He had been rolled out of the car.

However, after a long time, Sam slowly raised himself to a sitting position. He blinked his eyes several times but all for naught, for it was inky black. He remembered that bright flash of light and then darkness and it was still dark. Where could he be? He felt that he was surrounded by something, but what? He then began to feel around him and found on one side the railroad track, while on the other was what seemed a huge rock wall. He sat back down. This had been an unusually long night because it was still dark.

Then unconsciously he put his hand in his pocket and drew out a cigarette. That made him remember that he had had more than a few cigarettes there but all else was gone. He also remembered of having put his little jagged slip of paper carefully in his shirt pocket. With much difficulty he found it still there. After searching his pockets he found one match. He lighted his cigarette with his one match and as he threw it aside he glimpsed out of the corner of his eye, by the faint light of the match, a tiny jagged slip of paper, just like the one in his pocket. His heart jumped but all was dark again and that was his last match. (To be continued next month).

VALEDICTORY!

Mr. Kyles, our most efficient printer here at Barium, has just reminded me that another month has rolled around, and that it is time again for another column for the Barium Messenger.

What I shall write this month is sort of Valedictory, for it is the last contribution I shall have the privilege of making to the Messenger. It has been a real pleasure, doing this little stint each month, and I want to thank those of you who have been good enough to write me regarding my poor offering. I wish I could type in this final column, all that is in my heart, and I wish I could use words that would adequately express to you the thoughts that are now crowding my mind.

I am thinking mostly of the more than three hundred boys and girls here in this home; this home made possible through the generous gifts of the Presbyterians of the Synod of North Carolina. During my ministry in the midst of the Barium boys and girls, I have learned to love them, almost as my very own, and while I am looking forward eagerly to my new work, I am saddened at the thought of leaving them behind. I must confess that it is with genuine reluctance that I make my departure. I had hoped when I came to Barium, and that hope has grown with the years, that I might spend all my days ministering to these boys and girls, but God has ordered otherwise. I desire, therefore, in this last message to you to make a plea for them.

Don't forget them! Continue praying for them each day; for their matrons, teachers, workers, and all those here who are charged

Cottage News
LEES COTTAGE

School will soon be out and will we be glad?

We have a new boy in our cottage, his name is Charles Skipper. He came from Wilmington. He is in the fourth grade.

We will be glad when summer is here and we can go swimming.

We have just come in from work because it's raining and we can play the rest of the day. We work on the truck farm.

We went to the show not long ago to see "Tarzan".

We have been playing softball and we sure do have a good time.

The seniors gave a play last night and it was grand.

It won't be long till some of the boys move to another cottage and smaller boys will move to our cottage.

—Jerry Innis.

INFIRMARY

Here at the Infirmary we have been having several cases of "Pink Eyes" but except for that we have had very little sickness.

Our matron, Mrs. McNatt, had a visit from her daughter, Miss Rachel McNatt, and we enjoyed having her, the few days that she spent with us.

Miss Frances O'Kelly has been sick and has gone away for a few weeks rest. We hope she will soon be back with us.

Two of our girls made the honor roll this month. They were Lucile Smith and Jean McDonald.

We only have a few more weeks of school and we are eagerly waiting on the end.

Recently we have taken in several new children. They are Therman Andrews, Gene Jimmy, Margaret and Carolyn Hucks, Edward, Jeanette and Tommy Lane, Charles and Edith Skipper, Carl Spices, and Edsel Jerry and Richard McArthur.

Good-by until next month.

—The Infirmary Girls.

HOWARD COTTAGE

We forgot to write you last month, but we are back now with lots of things to tell you.

All of the Grammar grades have given a play for the past five weeks. We enjoyed them very much. Last night we went to the Senior play, "Aunt Letty's Niece." It was really a good play and we surely enjoyed it.

It won't be long until school will be out and then we can start going barefooted and going in swimming.

One of our girls, Peggy Ann Collins, who was at the Infirmary with three broken toes, has come back to our cottage. It is nice to have her back. We hope Betty Ann Andrews will soon come home. She has been down there in bed for a long time and would love for all of you to go down and see her.

We haven't had much warm weather, and it is almost the middle of May. Maybe it will soon turn warm - we hope so.

Well, it won't be long until the beans will start coming in. We don't so much like to string them, but we surely can eat them in a hurry.

That's all the news for this time but we'll see you again next month.

—The Bean Stringers.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

We are looking forward to vacation which is not so far off now. We are planning to have great times this summer.

The Board of Regents are visiting us this week and we are glad to have them as our guests. We are to have the birthday table today in their honor.

Carol Jean Andrews recited the Catechism this month.

Last week some people from Mooresville sent us some cookies and we had a nice party.

We are making improvements in our cottage each day.

Some of our members will leave this summer and go to Howard, others will take their places. We will miss these old friends, but it is also nice to welcome the new ones.

Many of us will take part in the Chapel program at school Friday morning. This is the last one of the year and we hope everyone will enjoy it. The play is The Wedding of Jack and Jill.

BABY COTTAGE

Won't you please sit down and play with us? We're all sitting on the nice warm green grass and we're playing "Three Bears". Guess who the bears are? Well, they're sitting on a bench close by - "Mommie" (Mrs. Massey, 'cause she's the Big Bear, Miss Mc'um (Miss Whitener, 'cause she's middle size) and "Yiddie" (Miss Bryant) 'cause she's the little bear.

Every time we're naughty a bear growls, and some times all three at one time. If you'll listen close you might hear them. Our big sisters are here too - Myrtle Rushing, Virginia Presnell, Helen Morgan and Dorothy Plummer, and twenty four little girls and boys. Don't you think we're a big family?

Now we may not get all the little pig tails turned up and down at the right time and place every time, but we are not even in the first grade, so maybe you won't mind.

"My Daddy just won't write to me", said Susie Truelove, and Loretta Katen consoles her. "Don't you know why? He's in Germany, and they don't have pencils, paper and nothin'."

"I know its summer now, 'cause bugs, snakes and worms are crawling", chimes in Mary Rose Privette.

Donnie Harris: "Div me back my little yellow car, now I say!" Chas. Bowles hands it to him, "you're 'elfish". "I'se not 'elfish eifer, my Daddy dived it to me," so they both filled it with sand and the bears didn't growl.

with the tremendous responsibility of creating a home here that will afford each boy and girl committed to its care an opportunity to grow as did Jesus, "in wisdom, and in stature, and in favor with God and man." The creation of such a home means, not only your daily prayers, but continuation of your generosity that has been so magnificent through the years.

One last thought. Up until now, your memorial gifts, now being invested in war bonds and to be used when war restrictions have been lifted for the building of a new Church, have reached the grand total of $34,000.00. This fact gladdens my heart more than words can tell. I have prayed for and dreamed of this proposed new Church almost every moment of my ministry here. I know so well how badly such a structure is needed. Not only do we need a new Church, but we need, and we need it very, very much, adequate facilities for Christian Educational work. Only those who are trying to carry on our religious program at Barium know the handicaps under which we work. All of our Sunday Schools work has to be carried on in our day-school class rooms, with the exception of the older boys Bible class that meets in Little Joe's Church. I plead with you to keep sending in your memorial gifts. Hasten that day when through your continued generosity, the children here can receive all that a well equipped church plant can offer. Let us have enough funds to build a Church that will be not just a pile of bricks, but a structure so beautiful that if our children never hear a word spoken within its walls, they shall be given as they enter it an awareness of God. Help make my dream come true.

Thank you again for your loyal support of Barium - your prayers - your letters, your interest shown in so many ways. Pray for me in my new work, and know that I shall be remembering you and your great Home at Barium each day before His throne of grace.

Donnie Privette: "Myrtle I don't love you any more, I like wild onions".

It is so nice and warm that Adrian Cochran, Billy Harrison, Jimmie Harris and Tommie Lane are rolling over and over on the grass. Ruby Truelove and Ruth Shepherd just will not sit still a minute.

You should see Walter Plyler, Cecil and Charles Shepherd, George Truelove, Jerry and Richy McArthur in their pretty new suits - they stand up and then march and act just like Gen. McArthur was looking right at them.

Little Tommie Lane ate so much birthday dinner - ice cream 'n things till he just went right to bed and asleep, saying: "I'se a dood little boy", and he is a dood little boy.

Charles Andrews is the big boy in his room and helps dress a baby. They keep him busy tying shoe strings. Charles likes to help.

Ralph Huddleston is growing so fast he will soon be a big boy.

Clyde Andrews is our little wig-gler, but can he smile!

Marie McNeill is "little mother" and most dependable for a tot.

Patsy Dean likes to play with her doll, and little Jeanette Lane likes everything and everyone of us like chewing gum and candy.

Do hope we can soon go barefooted and wiggle our toes in the sand.

There's a little red bird flying 'round out here, and it tells on us too, 'specially if we're naughty and it tells the three bears, but it sings for us and we love it, and wouldn't hurt it for anything.

We're happy and it is getting time for bed, so goodnight!

—The Babies.

CHAPTER THREE

was rushing down upon him out of the darkness. By almost super-human effort he managed to roll over to one side just as the through express train swept through the tunnel leaving him trembling with fright and exhaustion. It was several minutes before he could scramble to his feet but the cold water that was running over him from a fissure in the rock served to bring him back to a realization of where he was. By this time his eyes were accustomed to the darkness so that it was possible to see the blurred outline of objects. By grasping a jutting rock he was able to pull himself out of the ditch and ice cold water. There beside his hand was the piece of paper he had seen by the light of his match only a few minutes before, although it seemed like an age. That is was the same paper he recognized by its jagged outline. Of course he was all eagerness to read it but unfortunately he had used his last match.

What would he do? He would have to get out of the tunnel in order to get light. His foot, now that he was moving about, was paining him considerably and this tended to sober him and plan his exit more carefully than would otherwise have happened. By looking first in one direction and then in the other, he could see a faint glow in one direction but inky blackness in the other. Realizing this glow must be the nearer end of the tunnel he started in that direction, walking as best he could in the darkness and with a lame foot. Fortunately there was a fairly smooth footpath between the track and the wall of the tunnel and with exercise his foot began to feel better so that he made fairly good progress. Suddenly a deafening roar was heard behind him, and laying flat against the wall escaped injury from the long freight train that was rushing through the valleys below. After this interruption he pushed on and in a short time came suddenly into the bright sunlight, for the sun was rising over the hills in the east.

Sam was now eager to see the slip of paper which he had in his pocket, but he was sore and his foot and bruises pained him so that he was thankful for a seat on the boulder in the warm sunshine. Now that he could read the paper he was afraid to read to find his fate, fearful of what it might or might not tell. Carefully drawing it from his pocket he saw that it roughly matched the paper in his shirt pocket, and was certain the one he had first seen in the tunnel. But the first quick glance showed him his fate was not to be revealed by it. It was merely a scrap of paper hurled from a train that had found lodgment in a crevice there to be picked up by him. On it was a date two or three years previous to this time which conclusively showed it had nothing to do with him.

This was a blow to Sam. As he sat on the stone he began, for the first time, to think seriously of what he was doing and he began to realize how foolishly he had been acting. His conduct was worthy of the most untutored mind. Essentially he had been governed by the idea of luck, of fate, in fact, the chief motive was very near superstition. The action of his father, he began to realize, was that of an unbalanced mind, or else it was designed to wake him out of himself to a realization of how unprofitable his life was becoming—how vain his ambitions. His first thought was to try to get back to Asheville which was some thirty miles away but feeling that he would like to be alone for a time he decided against that.

With his mind made up to think out his problem like a man, he set off down the railroad track. He was sore and bruised and his foot

$100.00 S. S. Club

During the regime of Mr. Milton as treasurer of Presbyterian Orphan's Home he promoted the giving of the Sunday School by organizing club of different amounts which represented the giving of each Sunday School regularly to the Orphanage. The rules of these clubs excluded the Thanksgiving offerings and included the regular month by month checks of the Sunday School to the Home. This created a great deal of interest among the Sunday Schools who met the challenge of Mr. Milton and the last year Mr. Milton stayed at Presbyterian Orphans' Home showed the largest number of members of the club who had given a minimum of $100.00 on that year. The number that year was ninety members. This year the number has increased one and this year is ninety-one members. The highest club is the $600.00 club and the clubs range on down to the $100.00 Club.

I notice that several of those have advanced in their standings this year, however, Belmont and Rocky Mount First have advanced from the $400. to $500 club, Burlington First and Kings Mountain First from the $300. to the $400. The following have advanced from $100 to $200: Fayetteville First, Olney, Lincolnton First, Red Springs, Sunnyside, Elizabethtown, Laurinburg and Westminster (M). Seven churches dropped out of the $100. Club and eight new ones were added. The ones that have been added to the $100. LUNATIC LEGACY hurt but he began to feel better as he trodged along—better both mentally and physically. He soon came to another tunnel which he recalled was a short one and ended near Andrews' Geyser. Being fond of nature he wanted to see the geyser again because of its sheer beauty and so decided to make that his objective. In less than an hours time he was enjoying the beauty of this wonder of nature. The day was clear and cool and the sunlight in the spray made an ever changing rainbow. Seeing this he remembered the old saying that a pot of gold was at the end of a rainbow and how he had attempted to find it. He reflected that his action for the past 12 hours had not been much more sensible.

Now, however, he was beginning to feel the pangs of hunger and began to wonder how he was to get his breakfast. Near the geyser several of the native mountaineers had enlarged their reede cabins in order to accomodate guests who wanted to get away from the city and society and have a vacation close to nature. There was excellent refreshments for those who wanted it and mountain climbing and beautiful scenery. Sam, therefore, thought he would see what he could do in the way of a breakfast for it was still early.
He took no time in reaching a cottage, the only one in sight of the geyser and in answer to his knock the man of the house came to the door and in accordance with the hospitality of the section asked him to have some breakfast as they were just sitting down to the table when he knocked.
In addition to the father, mother and two children there was a fifth person at the table, evidently a man on a vacation whose conversation was delightful. Sam felt he must have seen him somewhere at some time but he was unable to place him. Sam was charmed by the peace of this environment that he decided to stay for several days and pay for his bread and room by check for he still had a small sum on deposits in the Chapel Hill Bank.

LUNATIC LEGACY

By Different Folks

CHAPTER FOUR

But while Sam was in doubt whether to remain where he was or move forward the weather decided it for him. Then came a rain, a regular deluge and Sam began to wonder if he must build a boat and wander around awhile or what. His late experience in the tunnel made him resolve that he would confine himself strictly to places on the earth. He wanted no more under the earth or in bowels of the earth, "Terra Firma," was good enough for him, he thought as some man suggested there were adventures he could seek "in the air" if he wanted variety in his experience. Besides his money was getting low and how was he to make anymore. A job was just at hand, the rain had done so much damage and then ever so many washouts, there was an immediate demand for his help to repair Nature's damage. Should he pick-axe and shovel and come and help us out. Sam thought such a job was much beneath his dignity, but he had to have something to pay for his daily bread. He felt sorry for himself that he didn't have a father to whom he could turn for wherewithall to spend. Perhaps it was good for him now he had to meet single handed all such emergencies. His athletic experience had toughened him a little for this hard work, but whether bitter or sweet he never complained.

The gentleman who was boarding at the house still interested him very much. He proved to be a very literary man representing a New York periodical, attracted by the world renowned reputation of Asheville as a summer resort, and while he was down here he said he was going to make a close study of the mountain people. He used to re-verse at the supper table every night the fruits of works and words among them, said he was charmed with them, their integrity, their sincerity and their naivete. He used to invite Sam to attend with him some of their social functions, but Sam was too tired every night after his hard days work for social life. But all Mr. Blank said about mountain people, Sam took to himself, or was not he a mountaineer once, his father had been one of them and look how his father had risen to a position of honor and wealth, and for the first time in his life he realized he was proud of his father even if he hadn't left him any legacy except that curious puzzle. It occurred to him that perhaps his father wouldn't be proud of him if he could see him at his present job, but necessity was laid upon him in this case. The road had to be repaired and he had to have some money to get away. But before he got away there was another question he had to settle, there was a teacher wanted for a mountain school and they had asked him to qualify. He was a university graduate and would he bury his talent in that style? He would be ashamed of any of his former friends to see him hear him doing such an insignificant job. Oh well he didn't have any purpose in life, and since they begged him so hard he consented to try it a few months.

A sneaking idea crept up in the back part of his brain any how that he ought to be willing to do a little for his own people and so like Miwber while he was waiting for the next thing to turn up, he started a school for his mountain brothers and sisters. He only thought he could endure the job for a few months and to his utmost surprise he found himself getting interested in his job. Away in the dim past, he had heard some Y. M. C. A. secretary talk about investing your life where it would bring the largest returns and that thought kept bobbing up in his mind now. He was helping those mountain boys and girls wonderfully, developing them physically, socially and mentally but that was as far as he could carry the fourfold life development recommended by the Y. M. C. A. Sam went into their home and he was in despair over the bread they made and put on the table before him. But courtesy forbids him saying anything. It made him think of a verse he read once in the [Continued On Page Four]

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JUNE 1945

No. 9

Mr. J. F. Stinson

The farm at Barium Springs is one of our big enterprises. It is a man-sized job to keep everything on it co-ordinated, to get crops in the ground, to get them properly harvested. Alfalfa has a habit of sneaking up on a wheat harvest and crab grass just sneaks up on you any time. Mr. Stinson has been the farm boss for several years. He has been a most faithful employee of the orphanage for many years before that. The farm has prospered under his management, and the yields of grain, hay and other crops have been consistently good.

A lot of things have to be kept going smoothly for this department to pay off. There are two tractors, two trucks, nine mules, about eighty sheep, and some twenty-five boys. Stir all that up and you can get a lot of headaches if they don't mix right.

Mr. Stinson manages to keep all of this moving along so smoothly that many of us have gotten in the habit when our own headaches pile up on us to take a trip around the farm and relax. Somewhere on the farm we will see something to revive our enthusiasm.

We delight to do our honor to this man who finds something to do 365 days in the year, and a lot of the nights.

Sipes Orchard Home Has House-Warming

The Sipes Orchard Home had a house-warming on Sunday, June 10th. Now the weather was such that a house could warm up with very little effort on that particular day, and the crowd of friendly, cordial people who gathered to look through this new institution would warm anybody's heart.

It was our good fortune to go with a group from Barium Springs to look through the initial building of this enterprise. The location is perfect - right near a Church and not too far from a school. The building would make an orphanage man just a little envious. It is built so sturdily, and yet with an eye to comfort and beauty. It will soon, no doubt, be the home of twenty-two boys and we all wish for them the splendid career that this opening seems to predict. Reverend L. C. Pretty is the superintendent. He has made many visits to Barium. He is a kindly man and enthusiastic for his work. We believe he is equipped to absorb the headaches and irritations that work with children sometimes develops; that he can face these things without turning sour, that he can retain his sense of proportion and be looked upon as a true father to the boys who will come under his care. As a neighbor in the same line of work, we at Barium wish him and his associates well, and we hope there may be many pleasant contacts between these institutions.

See Page Three For Honor Roll Of Boys And Girls In Service

The senior class of 1945 contributed money for a Display Cabinet giving the names of all the boys and girls in the service from Barium Springs and this immediate vicinity.

A copy of this roll is being displayed on the third page of the Messenger. There are two hundred and twelve names on it. Those with a star in front of their names have lost their lives in the service. This Roll is not exactly a Church Roll, it is not exactly an Orphanage Roll, nor a School Roll, but all of the names here belong to our community. They either grew up in the Orphanage, were members of our Church, or attended our school, or were members of our staff. They truly belonged to our family.

We have not indicated where they are serving nor what rank the various individuals have attained. We do have the addresses of most of these members of our family and send them a letter at least every two weeks.

In a letter to Wilma he wrote, "I became a free man on the 24th of April. Was liberated by the Russians. Am thinking of getting back and having a big time. Hope it's soon. So much has happened in the past three months that I am unable to write it down. The Germans left a bunch of us who were on a sick party behind and what has happened is what I was really hoping for. Of course you will let all my friends know. Nothing serious is really wrong with me."

Pvt. Mott Price was accidentally shot in his hand and is in a hospital in Paris.

Annual Meeting of Board of Regents Held Here In May

The annual meeting of the Board of Regents was held at Barium on May 15th. It was a record breaker in a number of ways. All committees except one met on the afternoon and night of the 14th, and many of these committees had a full attendance. On the day of the meeting only one man member was absent and two of the women. Seventeen of the twenty being in attendance. Two of the absentees had attended an Executive Committee meeting just the week before so they might be credited with an attendance at this meeting.

At the spring meeting a lot of attention is usually given to the finances, and the financial report this year was good, but more time was spent in looking into the real work of the orphanage and a review was made of the various entries since way back in 1931. There was one child in the graduating class who entered that year - fourteen years ago. The review took up each year's list of entrants and a brief study was made of what had been done in a physical and educational way for each of them, where they had gone, and what they are doing now.

Three members of the Board were attending their last meeting. The limitation for length of service on the Board being set by Synod at two terms. The retiring members are J. S. McKnight of Shelby who has been chairman of the Finance Committee for many years. Mr. McKnight's faithfulness in attendance and his close attention to the details of the duties of his committee have made him a most valuable member of the Board. Mrs. J. M. Walker of Charlotte has for several years been chairman of the Case Work Committee which each year reviews the intake and the outgo and the general run of applications that come to the Orphanage. Her committee, reviews the real work of the institution and her interest and enthusiasm for the work of that committee has certainly put more enthusiasm into our work here.

Mr. S. Parks Alexander of Durham is the third member to retire this year. He has been on several committees, most of his work being on the Finance Committee. The successors to these three members will be elected at the Fall meeting of the Synod.

Along about the middle of each month, there is a Birthday Dinner and the Birthday Dinner in May came so near to the Regent's meeting that it was moved up one day so that the Regents could be guests. [Continued On Page Four]

BABY COTTAGE

Here are the babies again since we last wrote you we've been real busy moving around dodging our newly painted floors and beds.

Mrs. Massey, Miss Whitner, and Miss Bryant went home for a rest and we sure do miss them. Our new matrons are Miss Taylor and Nina Berryhill. We have three new house girls, the Coffey twins and Mary Morgan. At first we couldn't understand how one girl could be around all the time but now we catch on. There are two of them just alike.

Donnie Privett had company last week and so did Tommy Lane and Buddy Cochran.

We went on a walk after supper yesterday and stopped by the swimming pool. The pool was being filled so we went wading while it fit us instead of the big boys and girls. While trying to keep us from falling Katherine Arrowood gave a big splash and boy did she get wet! Here comes Myrtle with the wash rag so we had better run.

SYNOD COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

School is out and we are all having a swell time.

We have had quite a change in our family. Jimmy Freeman, Jimmy Harrison, Donnie Campbell, Billy Ennis, Frankie Smith and Gene Thomas have moved to Lee's Cottage. Jerry McArthur, Walter Plyler and Charles Andrews have come from Baby Cottage to live with us. We also have a new boy, his name is John Lewis Nunn.

We are really having a good time in the swimming pool. We get to go in every morning and boy, does that water feel good!

Vacations are the talk of the campus now. Four of our boys are away at the present. We all are looking forward to our week at "Camp Fellowship" especially those of us who can't go on vacations.

—The Wigglers.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks,

This is the new Infirmary girls bringing you the latest news of the month.

We have four new girls down here this time, they are Vivian Jacumin, Betsy Dishman, Annie Marie Andrews and Edna Thomas. Katherine Stevens has been here a year. But she is still one of us.

We have three patients down here now, they are Betty Ann Andrews, Louise Sures and Tommy Lain. The infirmary boy is Bobby McMannan.

We are all so glad it is coming Summer time so we can go swimming. The swimming pool looks so good and cool to us when we are hot.

We are all looking forward to having a good time tonight, we are going to get our new shoes.

The black berries are already getting ripe. We went black berry picking yesterday and when we got back Miss Hattie made us a pie. Boy was it good!

We have taken in two new children this week, they are Mary Lou and John Louis Nunn and we are glad to have them with us.

We are looking forward to going to camp this year and on vacations. Mr. Johnston sure is a good man to do all those good things for us.

The campus is beginning to look so much better for the boys are cutting the grass and trimming the shrubs, and everything is so pretty and green.

Well this is the infirmary girls saying so long until next month. The Little Nurses.

PRINTING OFFICE

As of to-day June 12, 1945. The printing office of Barium Springs, named after Franklin Ayery Sherill in a loving memorial to his wife, Jenny White Sherill, is approximately four years, three days, and a matter of hours old.

It has served us faithfully, keeping out stormy weather, rough winds, and blistering heat.

There are four hundred and forty five windows in the printing office and out of four years of service three have been broken.

The printing office consists of five boys growing in wisdom of the art of printing everyday. We shall start at the bottom and discuss these learners. Our two printers devils are Edward Theodore Walker, and Thomas Dwight Reid. Then our printers out of the fundamental stage are Dewey Donald Mitchell, known by fellow workers as "Don", James Lafayette Reid, classified as "Pee Wee" by his mates. Then we come to myself Earle Franklin Allen known by the crowd as "Dirty".

Mr. Edwin Kenneth Kyles professor of printing, doctor of broken machines is known and respected, and a good example for his students.

Mr. James Ephram Martin, mender of soles, plays an important part in the organization. He is the shoe man. His office is the basement of our printing office. Mr. Martin has been in the shoe shop the greater part of his life and we feel safe when we put our shoes into his hands.

The printing office consists of eight power driven machines, and one proof press. All in running order kept that way by our doctor of motors. There are three stones and four tables scattered about the place, and in a corner built for it stands our metal melting pot. Many a blister has come from there.

Three cases of type stand ready for use in the various corners of the shop.

The stones are laden with type for we are almost ready for press.

As one of the printers speaking for the rest we hope you have enjoyed your column.

— Earle Allen

RUMPLE HALL

School is out and we are beginning to have vacations.

The swimming pool is open and we are having a lot of fun in it.

We have changed girls in our cottage and we also have a new girl. Her name is Mary Lou Nunn. She came from Kinston.

We have two different matrons. Upstairs Miss Duke and downstairs Miss Sarah Parcell.

Two of our girls are going on a conference at our camp next week, they are Shirley Inman and Louies Campbell.

So long until next month.

—The Rumble Hall Girls

JENNIE GILMER

Hello Folks

Here we are again bringing you our monthly news. Since we wrote you last ten boys have moved into our building and ten have moved out. The new boys seem to like their new home. The new boys are Mac Wicker, Dwight Reid, Jerry Ennis Billy Manus, Alfred and Jerry Williams, Bobby McMannan, John Junius Wicker, Richard Huddleston, and Robert Lee Hall.

It is not long before camp starts and all of us are looking forward to it. Vacations have started and some of our boys have already left.

The boys who do not get a vacation get two weeks at our camp

The summer seems to be flying by bringing school ever nearer.

So long until next month.

FARM

During the winter months our employees have carried on the work faithfully, but now that school is out we are pitching in very enthusiastically with our work and have already started getting good sun tans working in the fields.

Bob Temp, who is our oldest employee of the farm, has had bad health but who is still is wanting to work was transferred to the kitchen to help our girls get out the meals. Bob certainly hated to leave the farm but in a way he still feels that he is working with them getting the meals to the hungry boys when they come in.

When our former farm boss left us, Mr. Stinson who was one of our farm employees stepped in and has been running the farm ever since, and he is doing a grand job of it. Mr. Stinson is a very remarkable man as he is always a day ahead of the weather.

Eb Young who is now our oldest farm employee is still going strong and can follow the fastest mule we have. Claude Stinson and Eb are cultivating partners and they seem to enjoy each others company very much as every time you look their way they are laughing at something. The boys call Claude "Ooga Looga", because he calls the pigs so well.

Horace Whelman and Mr. Troutman are our tractor-men and they are having a busy time hauling hay, harvesting wheat, oats and barley by the use of the combine. They keep all our machines in good working order and well oiled. They are still arguing who is the biggest grease-monkey.

Otis Sherrill who has been with us a little more than a year is Mr. Stinson right-hand man with the crops and with us boys. The boys have played the hands several baseball games with the employees of Barium and we were very surprised to see Otis' curves which very few of the boys could hit.

There has been alot of changing about since school closed and we have only five of our former farm boys left with us. They are Tommy Hudgins, Earl Adams, Jack Clark, John Denton, Amos Hardy, Donald Pettus, John Meroney, Jack Mangum, and Bob Whiting who is our faithful water-boy (we hope).

Mr. Stinson gave the three farm boys who graduate this year, Fred Cole, Gene Bounous and Mac Rogers, a big supper which will account for their sudden increase of weight. Mr. and Mrs. Stinson give this supper annually to the farm boys who graduate and we are certainly looking forward to it.

With a neigh from the horse a grunt from the pig, a baa from the sheep, and a good-bye from the boys, you will be hearing from us next month.

— Amos Hardy

SEWING ROOM

Hello Folks,

This is the S. S. S. (Sit, Sew, Sweat, and Spread) girls bringing you the months highlight of the Sewing room.

We have all been working hard and according to our motto "As we sew so shall we rip". We never have a spare moment.

Now for some news about our girls:

Lucille Smith has her mind on a certain guy far away. Mary Frances Isenhour keeps our morale up by talking about a chocolate cake (which she hopes her daddy will send her). Adelia Knight sleeps all the time and snores so loud that Miss Mona Clark gets her and the machine mixed up.

Elenor Pope is still talking about going to Catawba College in 1941 (if a certain guy is still there.)

"Bush Fiemster has been selling eggs to get enough money to go see the "general". I think she has 88 cents so far. Keep up the good work, "Bush".

Maggie Katen doesn't say much during work hours.

Helen Hawley is on her vacation and we wish her a good time.

Hannah Price, with the glowing red hair, still has a gleam in her eye for a certain cadet.

Miss Mona Clark, our sewing room matron, keeps us all happy by keeping us busy.

Until next month, bye.

The sewing room girls and Miss Mona Clark.

LEES COTTAGE

School is out and the teachers have gone home. We miss them, but we are glad school is out. No more studying for a while.

Swimming time is here and you ought to be at the swimming pool around five o'clock and see the heads bobbing up and down.

Seven boys moved to our cottage from Synods and we are breaking them in on the truck farm.

Ten of our boys moved to Jennie Gilmer and we know they are having a good time working with Ralph.

We are all thinking of vacations now. Some of the boys are going this week.

We went to the show the other week to see "God is My Co-Pilot." It was a grand picture.

We are looking forward to a happy time this summer.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Well since school is out all we have been "studying" about is vacations. That is our main topic around the campus.

We had six little girls to move in with us and about ten to leave us. Two of our girls have gone home to live with their parents. We miss them but we are glad that they could go.

Hannah Price and Sadie Grey Buie (the girls who help Miss Jackson) have moved out also. Margaret Bullard and Anne Pope were sent in their place.

We all got pretty new bathing suits and we just can't wait to make use of them. We are waiting

At the May Birthday Dinner the graduating class is always invited and there were fourteen of them - almost one apiece for the Regents. They acted as special hosts for the Regents, and that made quite an occasion and some of the little newcomers who are always invited to the Birthday table looked with awe and admiration on this gathering of men and women whom they knew had a lot to do with the Orphanage, but they didn't know just how. In later years they will, no doubt, have something to say about their impressions.

You see, all of the new children who come in from the middle of one month to the middle of the next are invited to the Birthday Dinner; and then, of course, they come in on the regular month on which their birthday falls. This means there are a lot of wide-eyed, little newcomers that are guests at this big dinner. It happened that we took in a large number of new children between the middle of April and the middle of May.

The weatherman co-operated beautifully for the Regent's meeting. So often it rains. This time the weather was clear and sunny but cool enough so that the trip over the fields to view the crops was entirely pleasant, and the crops looked mighty good too.

All of these combined to make the Board meeting a most pleasant one. We feel sure that if they could all be like this the Board would insist on having four meetings a year instead of two, and we here at Barium would heartily second that idea.

Lunatic Legacy

"County Life Reader" used in the Moonlight School of the South; "God made man and woman makes bread.

It takes the bread that woman makes

To sustain the man that God made. But the bread some women make Would not sustain any man that God ever made."

And Sam reasoned within himself, he thought with his knowledge at the sciences, and do it tactfully too, and so he did. He hardly realized himself, how he brought about the better situaion but he did.

And now Sam has allowed five years of his life go by and he wasn't getting anywhere at all. There under his instruction, they all seemed to have a purpose and ambition in life. What was his? just to ferret out the puzzeling legacy his father had left. He wasn't a step nearer the solution of it than he was the day his father left it to him. And he felt he hadn't settled upon any paticular life-work when suddenly something occurred which woke him up, revolutionized his whole view of life and purpose of living. (To be continued)

LUNATIC LEGACY

By Different Folks

CHAPTER FIVE

One morning, as Sam walked to school, he overtook one of his little pupils, Mary McNair, who was loitering along the way ahead, evidently waiting for him. She seemed bursting with information and could hardly wait for him to question her.

"There is a lady stay'in at our house," she said, "She come yestiddy and told Mammy she wanted to stay a month if she would board her."

"Is that so?" replied Sam, "What is her name?"

"Her name is Miss Jenny, and she come from Asheville. She is pretty as a picture, too."

"Miss Jenny." Immediately Sam thought of a certain day when he had been in the hotel in Asheville and Jenny Priest had read the crazy words on a slip of paper taken from the letter his father had left with Mr. Peabody. He wondered if it could really be Jenny Priest. The picture of her fresh young face and sparkling eyes had come before him recently with a persistency that he could not down. Was he in love with Jenny Priest? He assured himself that he was not. Then why had she been in his thoughts so constantly of late? He remembered her as she was when he had seen her occasionally while at home from college. He had danced with her once or twice the first summer and had taken her to ride, but she was not as fast as the other members of his set, so she had soon been dropped. He remembered now that someone had said that she was going into some kind of charitable work but had not been sufficiently interested to inquire just what it was.

As he went on to school, he kept pondering over this and from thinking of this, his mind naturally reverted to his father and a sudden regret and loneliness swept over him. How he longed to see his father again! He was somewhat surprised at this feeling, for heretofore, if his thoughts had turned to the subject at all, it had been to conjecture as to the mystery connected with the crazy words on the slip of paper and the possibility of really finding his father's fortune. He had long since given up hope of finding anything else and had not thought of the matter for several days.

He reached the little school-house and, after answering some of the children's questions, he rang the bell for school to begin. But it seemed that he could not keep his thoughts on his work. Try as hard as he might—still they would wander—first to the girl in the hotel and then to his father as he saw him last.

At last, the day's work was over and he dismissed his pupils, unmindful, as they, sensing the let-up of his customary strick discipline, rushed noisily from the schoolhouse, shouting and pushing and upsetting little Mary McNair who thereupon rolled screaming down the doorsteps.

Sam, hearing her screams, rush-out and found the pupils disappearing down the road and Mary still lying on the ground her primer lying on one side of her and her dinnerbasket on the other, open, out of which a piece of apple pie had fallen and was lying on the ground.

While he was assisting Mary to her feet, a dog ran up and, seeing the pie gulped it down at one swallow.

The Good Old Summertime — Time of Rest And Relaxation — Oh Yeah?

By JOS. B. JOHNSTON.

Long before school closes its doors in the springs, it seems that every child is counting the days and hours until school is out; we grown-ups find ourselves doing the same thing and looking forward to that magic time when school books can be laid away and the tasks and duties of the school term temporarily forgotten. Each of us thinks of the happy days ahead, and then the last day - diplomas are given, good-byes are said, teachers scurry off to summer school or to summertime work, and we begin to heave a sigh with the thought, "Well, that is over".

Then we take a stroll over the campus. The swimming pool is just opened and there's a clamor around the neighborhood of the pool, but there is a much louder clamor in the neighborhood of every cottage - it is a chorus - "When am I going on my vacation?" is the burden of that song. It is pronounced differently - in the case of the older children it may be, "When am I going to see Aunt Minnie?" grand-daddy or something like that. Down in the smaller cottages it is just "Vacation", and in the Baby Cottage it is "Batation" a magic word that some of the little ones do not even know the meaning of.

As we journeyed around during the early days of the summer, a little boy, the son of one of the matrons here, walked up to us and in a very indignant manner wanted to know when his vacation was going to start. Of course, he did not know where, or when or what it was, but since the others were asking for it he wanted it too.

Well, just a word about vacations. Before they could start we had to get a few little summertime duties out of the way such as typhoid inoculations, catching up on vaccinations giving the younger children shots for diphtheria, and then to further complicate matters, a few little youngsters showed up with the whooping cough. It usually takes a week or ten days to get these summertime chores out of the way and then the procession starts. This year the middle of the week was the time set for going and coming and every Wednesday and Thursday quite a delegation started out. Some were so little that they had their railroad tickets pinned to their shirt fronts; others were large enough to walk up and negotiate their own tickets, but all of them had that same gleam in the eyes that made them impatient at even a minute's delay of the train or bus they were going to travel on. And then, after a couple of weeks they commenced to come back. We are always a little bit apprehensive of a youngster's humor when he comes back. This year it was one of the pleasant things of the summer to see the smiles that greeted us from returning vacationers. They seemed glad to get back to Barium. We like to think it is because they love us here, but there was a little bit of suspicion in our minds that our ration points might have been more numerous than they found at home. Anyway, we were mighty glad to see them back and mingled with these returning vacationers was a sizable sprinkling of new children coming in. It seems like for the most part this summer they run to blondes, with a leaning toward the boys - as a result our Baby Cottage is almost a Boy's Cottage, - only three little girls to temper a round dozen boys.

Now, as this is written vacations are pretty well over and the theme song has changed from "When am I going on my vacation?" to "When are the camps going to start?" and that will be just ten days from now on July 30th, and there will be three weeks of it with each child at Barium getting one week at our delightful place on the Catawba River known as Camp Fellowship. There the lid will be taken off as regards to appetites and each child will have his own conscience as his guide as to how much he may eat. It is amazing to see what happens - a few do get sick, but not many, and the total volume of lamb chops, ham, chicken, weinies, hamburgers, melons, peaches, watermelons, and so on, that they consume during their five days at camp is purely amazing. We could easily be led to believe that that five days at camp is the time when they put on most of their yearly growth.

Of course, camp time is the time when those usual summertime complaints are multiplied - stubbed toes, bee stings, poison ivy, stomach aches of various kinds, sunburns, and mosquitoes. Anybody who has to look after children knows that in spite of the most

Reflections of A Wayward Man

1945 EDITION — By JOS. B. JOHNSTON

At a recent meeting of the Board of Regents, a plan was discussed for as many of the Regents as could to take a trip around to the various institutions in North and South Carolina to see how they are working out their problems with the idea that we would bring home to Barium many things that might improve our work here.

This plan was enthusiastically endorsed and sometime later a date was set for the trip and all the members of the Board were notified of the route, and the heads of the institutions that we planned to visit were informed; and then time marched on until that date arrived.

You know how vacation time is; many unexpected things come up and many half-forgotten commitments come to light - first one and then another member of the Board found that they could not join us, and when the day finally arrived only one, Dr. W. Z. Bradford of Charlotte, was able to start on the trip. He and the writer of this article started out from Charlotte, first visiting the Children's Home at Lexington, the Junior Order Orphanage so ably administered by Mr. Robert Bruton. We looked through their commodious buildings, their splendid auditorium, their gymnasium, inspected their busses and discussed many things. It was interesting to note the different ways that this institution is working out some of the problems that are peculiar to it and that are not quite so acute with the others. Having children from widely separated sections of the country is one of these things. Children who have had their early years at an institution in another state. The thing we would like to have brought home most of all from this institution was the quiet, courageous way in which Mr. Bruton is meeting his difficulties and overcoming them.

The next stop was at Mills Home in Thomasville where we were met by Miss Lucille Johnston, another member of our Board who lives in High Point. We looked over some of the buildings, the printing office, parts of the farm, and some of the living quarters, and had a most delightful meal in one of the cottages for larger girls. Much of the time was spent in the office, discussing policies not only in the handling of applications of children, finances, and the upkeep of the plant but many other items that are dear to the heart of every man who loves his work. Where do we go from here? Meaning future plans and future developments. Mr. Grier and his whole staff treated us so royally that it was mighty hard to get away from that splendid institution.

We left Mills Home in mid-afternoon and went on to the Children's Home at Winston-Salem. Miss Johnston was not able to accompany us on this part of the trip. Mr. Woosley, the Children's Home superintendent, was away - (he had told us that he would be away on that date) but we were so ably directed about the place by Mr. Cleary, school principal, and Mrs. Bellew, the supervising matron, that we spent a most pleasant and profitable afternoon at this wonderful institution. We saw their new buildings and their old buildings, their recreational lay-out and something of their future plans. Incidentally, we saw the swimming pool in full vigorous operation. It is awfully hard for an orphanage man to keep from breaking the 10th commandment when he sees this splendid institution and its up to date equipment.

It was getting late when we left the children's Home - that is late by daylight savings time, but not late by the sun time. We didn't stop at Barium Springs, but went on to Charlotte: at Dr. Bradford's suggestion we did drive through the grounds so that he could see if the impression of the three institutions he had visited would over-shadow the impressions of Barium.

We were a little bit concerned about Dr. Bradford's reactions in this respect. We knew that he careful precaution there will be accidents. Most of the accidents are of a minor character but occasionally there are serious accidents. We have heard a number of parents state that looking back over their families' growing years they found that each child averaged one serious accident a year. Well, with something over 300 children that would mean a serious accident pretty near every day. We don't have that many but we act as though we expected that many and we take double precautions to keep them from happening. Somehow we expect these things to happen during the summer, and since there are so many dare-devil things to do at camp, we expect them to happen at camp. So far we haven't had a single serious accident at camp. A broken ankle is the sum total of our casualties there in all the years that we have been maintaining the camp, but this year we had a serious accident in connection with the camp. It happened one Monday morning when everybody was supposed to be starting into their week's work cautiously and carefully, but a truck load of boys had to go out to the camp on an errand. They went out before breakfast and were coming back and the boy who was driving the truck just had an uncontrollable desire to press down with his right big toe, (you drivers know that that is the toe that steps on the gas,) as a result the truck went too fast to negotiate a curve and turned several summersaults, finally landing upside down with boys pretty well scattered over the highway and an adjoining cow pasture. There were something like ten boys on the truck - all were more or less shaken up and one was seriously hurt. His head was cut in so many places that it took the doctor two hours and a half to do his stitching - we don't know whether each stitch saved nine but they were taken in time - and resulted in a marvelous recovery for that boy. If you look closely you may observe the scars but they are not disfiguring. Nevertheless for a few days after this accident all of us were extremely uneasy about the lad's welfare. We hope that this will be our one and only serious accident for the year.

The children are not the only ones who are crazy about vacations - the grownups are too, and there is never a week during the whole summer when a full staff of regular workers are here. This summer Barium is very fortunate in having a splendid crew of substitute workers. Miss Duke who worked with us last summer is here, Miss Brown from Red Springs, Miss Myatt, Miss Cullom, Miss Privette, and Miss Moose. And then members of our own family - Miss Irene McDade one of the teachers; and Nina Berry-hill and Dixie Buie, recent graduates who will be going to college this fall; Sarah Parcell who is one of our students at WCUNC. Mrs. Purdy is back - she came back as a substitute but we are hoping that she will continue as a regular for at least another year. Mrs. Purdy has a magic touch about her that makes the dining-room just look like home, and everybody at Barium was most enthusiastic over her return.

In spite of the fact that these substitute matrons are doing such an excellent job there are times when embarrassing things happen. Here's one. Early this summer a little boy entered the orphanage - he is about three years old, a healthy-looking, plump little boy. He had a knot right in the middle of his little fat stomach just as though he had swallowed a thimble and it had worked up near the surface. Well, he was taken to the doctor and he did not think it was anything serious - the regular nurse was told this and we went ahead not worrying, but about a week ago this lad waked up one morning with a pain in his stomach and the substitute matron, seeing that knot on his stomach, came to the conclusion that there was something serious the matter with him. It happened that our nurse was away, Miss Carpenter was away, and everyone was away who had any knowledge of the original examination, so we had to hustle the child into the hospital for a complete examination. He is back at Barium now none the worse for wear but he had a lot of needles in his arm during the forty-eight hours he was under observation in the hospital. Now we all know that the little knot in his stomach which seems to be disappearing is nothing serious and in the future he won't have to undergo those painful punctures.

In passing we will say that his stay at the hospital was not without profit to this boy. They were so crowded that they made a place for him in the hall on the floor where many nurses, doctors and patients pass. He wasn't completely happy but was ready to return a smile to everyone who passed him and greeted him. As a result, he collected an amazing amount of toys and things. There was just about all one person could carry, of toys, funny picture books and fruit, and in his bed we gathered up money - two quarters, four dimes, fifteen nickels, thirty-five pennies, and a big English penny - that was the result of a forty-eight hour stay in the hospital. Who was it said that doctors and nurses were too busy to pay any attention to a little kid, or that patients were too wrapped up in their own miseries that they could not see anybody else in trouble?

What about crops and such? The summertime is when we do our big farming, as you know; it is also the time when we have a lot of weather. There is the alfalfa to cut, wheat, oats and barley to harvest, corn to plant and to cultivate, something to do to vegetables every hour of the day or night, fruit trees to be sprayed and pruned and the fruit gathered. It has to be dry for making hay; it has to rain to make the corn grow; storms play havoc with everything. The business of diversified farming is something not intended for a pessimist to indulge in - there is something going wrong all the time. It rains on the hay, it is too dry for the corn. The wind blows the fruit off the trees and blows the wheat down - something is going wrong all the time. On the other hand, an optimist can flourish like the green bay tree; no matter what happens, unless it is a bad storm, it is good for something. He may have a lot of hay down and a rain will come up and spoil that hay but he can shrug it off by saying that the rain did the corn lots more good than it hurt the hay; or, if there should be a week or two of dry weather, that's just fine for harvest and for doing the spraying and such, and although the corn may wilt and look sick, the optimist can comfort himself by saying that he is getting so much work done in the other crops that maybe the corn can stand a little dry weather anyhow.

Oh, yes, we were about to forget - insects - summer is their time too. Flies all seem to know when the dinner bell rings and ride joyfully into the dining-room on the backs of the children - they, just like company. The mosquitoes seem to know where every slight hole is in every screen. Don't tell us that mosquitoes can't talk. But these are mild little pests compared to the vegetable-eating kind, potato bugs, bean beetles, Curculia flies whose children are those cute little worms that you bite into when you think you are eating a peach. Then there is plant lice, and we could go on like this for hours and it seems that each one of them has a little different poison to make them desist. It means that a man who runs an orchard or a truck farm has to pretty nearly take a Ph. D. in Chemistry to know exactly what poison to use on what date and what crop, but that is better than the days when a boy's afternoon work consisted in a pretty good-sized bottle of potato bugs gathered by his own shrinking fingers. Why in the world there isn't a bird that likes potato bugs we wouldn't know! But, there are watermelons, canteloupes, peaches and grapes, all to make us forget the bugs, and we can add up each day, or each week, or each month and put the headaches on one side and the delights on the other and we just have to admit that it is a pretty good old summertime.

Nevertheless, along toward the shank of summer on those hot August days and nights when we don't need a blanket, when the grownfolks are all hurrying away to get those last vacations finished, we can't help but listen eagerly for the first twinkle of the school bell that calls us back to those delightful books and those beautiful days when everybody is on the job and we can take a vacation from vacations!

Reflections of A Wayfaring would be too polite to say anything disloyal or in any way derogatory about Barium, but we did want to see the expression on his face, we were relieved to see a smile which we interpreted as being one of self-satisfaction after going through our grounds and seeing the children gathering for the Wednesday evening Prayer Meeting.

After a not-so-happy trip to Charlotte (there was a blow-out on the way) we spent the night at Dr. Bradford's home. Maybe we ought to stop right here and put in a paragraph of praise for this worthy gentleman. You know, maybe it is just ordinary hospitality that will induce a man to invite a friend to spend the night in his home and to furnish him a delayed supper, and maybe a person isn't to be commended too highly for giving up two days of a very busy practice to devote it entirely for the benefit of an orphanage, but when a man volunteers to use his car for a trip of some 350 miles with the wear and tear on tires and the burning up of precious gasoline, that stamps him as one of the true nobility. Well, that's the class that Dr. Bradford belongs in. We were afraid to risk our car with its damaged tires on the trip to South Carolina and Dr. Bradford used his.

We made a rather early start, Mr. Archie Cannon meeting us in Charlotte, picking up Mrs. Coit Robinson at Lowell, and Mrs. George Patterson at Gastonia. We went down through Spartanburg where we could smell the peaches as they were gathered and offered for sale. It took much restraint to keep our minds on the job at hand, namely, to get on to Thornwell where we could look over that wonderful institution and have the mid-day meal with them. We arrived there and were greeted most cordially by their new superintendent, Reverend Malcolm Macdonald, and by many, many old friends there: Mrs. Copeland, Mr. Stutts, to mention just two. It was good to be in this splendid Presbyterian institution to refresh our memories of the wonderful work that this institution has done in the past and the enthusiasm with which the present head faces the future. We went through a number of buildings there - too many in fact - and some of our party began to be conscious that their feet were doing an unusual day's work, and most of us began to be conscious of our birthdays - we had too many for that many stairs to climb and places to see.

By mid-afternoon we started out for the last place on the schedule - Connie Maxwell Orphanage at Greenwood, South Carolina. This is an institution which is spread over so much ground that you can get in the middle of it before you realize that you are in an institution. We located the office and were met in the yard in the front of the office by Dr. Jamison who called each one of us by name and made us feel so much at home and so welcome that we just wanted to take off our coats and hats and spend the rest of the summer with him. You know some of us who have been in orphanage work for twenty-three years or thereabout are inclined to think of ourselves as veterans, and at times get off into a corner and heap a lot of self-praise on ourselves for enduring so long. Well, we asked Dr. Jamison how long he had been the head of Connie Maxwell Orphanage - he nonchalantly said forty six years," and he is still an up and coming man, ready to take on any new policy or program that appears to be sound and progressive. Somehow in the presence of Dr. Jamison we feel immature and childish, and the things that we might congratulate ourselves on having accomplished shrink to rather small proportions in the light of his accomplishments. We took a bird's eye view of Connie Maxwell Orphanage, and went into several buildings - the gymnasium, the Church - but we did not begin to see enough. Our party was tired and we were a long way from home and our visit there was all but too short. You just hate to leave Dr. Jamison ever; he wanted us to stay and have supper with them and every time we think of that there's a longing in our hearts, not only for the good things that we would have had to eat, but for the pleasant contacts we would have made with the other members of the Connie Maxwell staff.

We journeyed on home, picking up some luscious peaches on the way - peaches that Mr. Cannon, our president, insisted on paying for. We were riding on gas that Dr. Bradford insisted on paying for, and we found ourselves at home finally with most of the money still intact that we had provided for the trip.

Now, what are the conclusions? Well, we found all of these institutions are up and coming affairs. They have been doing things some times where we have just talked about them. You know Barium Springs rather prides itself on being the institution that paved the way in inter-school athletics; the kind that caused the youngsters to lift up their chins and know that they could do anything that anybody else could. Well, we found the other institutions that had followed along in this respect have much nearer complete equipment than Barium. The Junior Order Home and Connie Maxwell Orphanage have splendid gymnasiums. The Children's Home and Thornwell have the money in sight to build fine gymnasiums at both places. The Mills Home is just trying to decide where to locate theirs and Barium's gymnasium is still in those Castles in the Air.

Barium is very far behind in the ways of transporting children. It is the only institution that doesn't have some bus transportation - that is the only one outside of Thornwell; Thornwell being right in the town of Clinton does not need a bus as some of the other institution do.

All of the institutions have the same program in keeping buildings in repair. Somehow where children are housed paint will wear off; window glass will occasionally be broken; plaster will break; and houses will leak. Balls and such things will fall on a roof and will sometimes break the slate. Barium at times has had to reach pretty deep into the bank account to keep its equipment ship shape. Just a year ago our repair bill was $23,000.00. It made us feel better when we found several institutions exceeding this amount and one, more than doubling it in one year's repair bill.

We all came back home feeling much better about a lot of things, and we believe that the main cause of that feeling was meeting these other orphanage folks. We challenge anybody to attempt to disprove that statement. If you will make a trip to the five orphanages that we visited, meet their superintendent and staff, you will just come away thinking better of humanity and the world in general. If you happen to get a chance to meet the kids just as man to man, you will come away enthusiastic about the world in general. This reminds us of something: While we were at Mills Home we were surrounded at one time by a bunch of little boys from five to ten years old - they were getting ready to go in swimming. One of us mentioned something about teeth and they were all intent on showing us how clean their teeth were. One of them had a slightly crooked front tooth; it was due to a baby tooth that had stayed in too long. We casually mentioned this.

Lunatic Legacy

low. When Mary saw this she broke forth again with louder lamentations than before, but Sam finally succeeded in curbing sobs into sniffling, and closing the schoolhouse, and taking her hand, he walked down the road on his way to his boarding house.

Coming to the path leading to the McNair cabin, he yielded to her pleas that he should walk home with her, possibly in the hope that he might satisfy himself who the boarder really was.

As they rounded a bend in the path, he saw ahead of him, a young lady but could not recognize her at that distance. Mary, seeing the lady also, let go of his hand and ran forward, calling at the top of her voice, "Miss Jenny, Miss Jenny, Mr. Sam has come home with me." Then, as he came nearer the waiting girl, he realized with a start, that he really did love Jenny Priest who stood before him and that he loved her as he had never loved another girl. He could not define this feeling, yet it seemed to shake his very being and he could only stammer and stutter instead of speaking.

"Why, Mr. Smith! What in the world are you doing here! I never thought of you as a mountaineer school teacher!" exclaimed Jenny. Explanations followed and he found that Jenny was doing welfare work among the mountain people.

"These are really my people," she said, "My mother was a native mountaineer."

"So was my father" said Sam and I like them now that I realize their rough exteriors really hide hearts of gold."

Seating themselves on a log by the side of the pathway, they talked for quite awhile and finally Jenny asked Sam what he had learned about the mysterious writing she had read in the hotel at Asheville. He told her of his experiences and added that he had given up all hope.

"I knew your father well," she said, and although some people said he did some mighty crazy things, I found there was a method in all of apparent madness. I believe that your father had special reasons for doing this crazy stunt and, although I can't imagine they should be, I am sure they are strong ones and I don't think we should give up yet."

"I don't care a rap for the money," cried Sam, "but I would give anything to see Dad once more or just to know that he is safe and well."

"What makes you think that he is not safe and well," said Jenny.

"Where in the world could he be then," Sam replied.

"Didn't you say that he was a mountain boy?" "What better place could he find to disappear than right here among the mountains?" was the reply.

"I am almost tempted to try again," said Sam. "Tomorrow is Saturday and I will not have to teach school."

So arrangements were made to begin the following day and, after eating supper, they sat on the porch far into the night, discussing the matter and wondering where to begin.

"If doubtful but daring get your inspiration where the creek does a toe dance and water runs up hill, feed your imagination where the hills juggle the juggernaut. Find your information at the 18th hole," quoted Sam "I know the answer to the first part of the riddle—Andrew's Guyser," he added, and the second part surely must refer to the hills and huge trains running around and through them, said Jenny, "but the reference to the eighteenth hole, I don't understand. If your father ever played golf, I never heard of it."

"He never did," said Sam, "He despised it, and always said he never had time for such sissy games. So he couldn't have meant anything connected with golf."

Just then a shrill blast from the engine of a freight train, rushing down the track a few miles away, came to their ears, but was suddenly hushed as the train entered a tunnel.

"The Eighteenth tunnel," exclaimed Jenny, "Why didn't we think of it before?"

In her excitement, she grasped both his hands and whirled him round and round in a kind of improvised dance. At the touch of her fingers a thrill shot through Sam and it was all he could do to refrain from crushing her to him, covering her lips with kisses, pouring out his love for her and beseeching her to be his wife.

But he reflected in time. What assurance had he that she cared for him or, even if she did, what prospects did he have to get married on? Only a few dollars of a meagre salary he had earned since he had been teaching here. So he turned away saying goodnight and going within the cabin he climbed to the loft where he was to share the bed with one of the grown boys of the McNair family and Jenny went to her room and prepared to retire for the night.

The next morning he awakened early and, dressing hurriedly, climbed down the ladder from the loft, only to find that all of the family were before him and even Jenny had made her appearance. Breakfast was then served, consisting of fried chicken, hoe cake, gravy and blackberry jam and butter, served because of the double honor conferred on the family by the presence of the boarder from the city and the school teacher.

After breakfast a lunch was prepared by Mrs. McNair and Sam and Jenny set off across the woods tramping towards the eighteenth tunnel, which was only a few miles from the McNair cabin. Arriving near the tunnel they stopped beside a spring of sparkling water and ate their lunch.

Just as they reached the entrance, a train roared by and they shrunk back from the rush of air that followed it. They then entered the tunnel and began to search between the rails and beside the track for any scrap of paper. They had the least bearing on their quest. Returning to the east entrance, they sat beside the track dejectedly, but, after they had rested, they began again and this time made a more thorough search, going over the ground inch by inch. Several times they had to run from the tunnel to escape trains, rushing through, on their way down the mountains; for the tunnel was too narrow to permit their remaining inside while the train passed through, without being crushed against the wall. Time passed swiftly and, by the time they had finished their second search, it was beginning to be dark outside the tunnel. They returned again to the east entrance and seated themselves on the embankment beside the track to rest.

"What was the postscript on the note?" asked Jenny.

"THIS MAY BE PRETTY, BUT FOR PURPOSE OF IDENTIFICATION, NOTHING BEATS A SNAGGLE TOOTH" replied Sam.

Just then, a train rounded the curve and the light from the engine shown in the tunnel, lighting it up as bright as day.

"Look, Look!" cried Sam.

"Did you see it?" He exclaimed when the noise had sufficiently diminished to enable him to make himself heard.

"Yes," answered Jenny, "Just like a huge mouth with one single tooth."

Indeed, it had looked that way; for, near the roof about the middle of the left-hand side of the tunnel, was a peculiar rock formation left by the blasting of the tunnel—a crevice resembling a huge grinning human mouth with a single tooth extending upward from the center of the lower jaw.

Sam rushed in and ran to the place underneath the fissure but, try as he may he could not reach it. He tried to climb the side of the tunnel but could find no place for his feet; for the sides of the tunnel were smother near the lower part. He tried to jump up and grasp the rock with his fingers, but could not quite reach it. Jenny had rushed in behind him and now she, also tried to scale the walls in fevered excitement but there were no projections on which even her small feet could find support. Sam was in despair.

"Lift me up, and let me get it," said Jenny. Grasping her by the knees Sam swung her up and holding the wall with one hand and thrusting her hand in the crevice she pulled out an envelope.

Just then a roar filled the tunnel and looking up they were both horrified to see the light of an approaching train. Jenny stood as if petrified, but Sam clasping her in his arms, rushed towards the entrance to the tunnel.

Would he reach it! Must they both be killed in the moment of success? Just as the train was on him, he reached the entrance of the tunnel, but his foot slipped and as he fell he threw Jenny from him with all his force but noted that she rolled from the track and disappeared down the embankment. Then an excruciating pain shot through his leg and he knew no more.

to the lad with the tooth, and he just as casually said, "Well, pull it out then," and we proceeded to pull it out. The tooth wasn't very loose, it took a pretty good effort on our part to loosen it and the gore following the pulling was somewhat excessive for a lad of that size, but it didn't spoil his grin for a moment. He strutted around, spitting blood, and bragging to the other kids by his very expression, and they all followed him very admiringly down to the swimming pool for their afternoon's frolic. Some day you will see that boy making a touchdown in football and handing the ball to the referee with the same expression on his face that he had when he stuck his tongue in the place where that tooth used to be.

Well, the day was finally over and about eleven o'clock we found ourselves at home, in bed and checking up on the two days' experience. You know we had personally visited all of these institutions before - it was the first visit for most of the members of the Board who made the trip. As a result our thoughts dwelt more on the members of our Board who had so generously given of their time to make this trip. It gave us a warm feeling. We felt more secure in our thoughts about our wonderful institution here than we had ever felt before. We felt that we could follow the guidance of people who were intent on knowing about the work, and that we need not be afraid that they would lead us into paths that might be hurtful to the future in his field to which this work is dedicated. We hope that the contacts made with these other institutions will be kept fresh and

The Football Season Is Open

Hurricane Stay Away From My Door

Barium football season opened on Friday, September 14th. The game was with Mooresville and it was a good game, but before we start telling you about that, let's talk about the weather.

When you read this you may have forgotten, but September 14 was hurricane weather. It started to rain on Thursday and it looked like the bottom had dropped out. It rained all Thursday night and all Friday morning and part of Friday afternoon. When we held our pep meeting Friday noon, we couldn't think much about the game for thinking of the weather, but about an hour before game time it stopped raining. During the game the sun came out and the conditions were delightful for that game, and it was a grand game. The weather stopped a good many people from coming which was a pity but even at that there was a good crowd present.

Now about the game. Mooresville kicked off, Barium received and on three trials failed to gain, so Barium kicked. The boy doing the kicking was Roscoe Smith, playing his first game as a backfield man - last year he was center on our team. Well, he got off a pretty good kick and then Mooresville took over and after making a first down they kicked and then on about the third down Barium kicked and this was some kick - it carried over the safety man's head and rolled down to about the twenty-yard line in Mooresville territory.

The second play after this Mooresville fumbled, Barium recovered and from that point Barium marched for their first touchdown with Roscoe Smith carrying over for the score - the try for point after touchdown failed. This score was made early in the second quarter and the game stayed just that until the third quarter, then with the ball deep in Mooresville territory Mooresville attempted to kick, the kick was blocked, Barium recovered and from that point she marched to the second touchdown with Jack Clark carrying over. Again the try for point failed. Earl Allen was the boy who blocked that kick and Jerry Young recovered.

It looked like this was going to be the final score but in the last two minutes of play Barium opened up a passing attack with it ending up in another touchdown with Earl Adams scoring this time. The point after was good by a pass Adams to Clark and that was about the prettiest play of the game. Clark and the man defending him both caught the ball - they held on to it so tight that it locked for a time as though the ball would have to be sawed in two, but after the referee declared the point good they finally gave up the ball.

Mooresville has a good team and by the time you read this they will probably have proved it in other games. Barium was fortunate to win the victory by so large a score.

Maybe the excellence of Barium's play can be explained by the crowd. It wasn't Home-Coming Day, but there were so many old timers present that it must have

The Message of the Pulpit

By REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Habakkuk 2:20 "The Lord is in His holy temple, let all the earth keep silence before him."

There is a time when silence is awful. When there is no voice from heaven. When there is no voice within us. Nothing but darkness and silence and loneliness. I have experienced that. So perhaps have you. There is a time when silence is sin. "When I kept silence my bones waxed old through their roaring all the day long." But, when the Lord is in His holy temple, let all the earth keep silence before Him.

There is healing in silence. There is reverence in silence. We enter the portals of His great temple of nature. The draperies of night have been let down and in the velvet dome, the candelabra of heaven are lighted.

"Silently, one by one, in the infinite meadows of Heaven blossom the lovely stars, the forget-me-nots of the angels."

Perhaps we go some bright morning and sit down by some rippling water fall in a quiet valley. The walls of verdure clad mountains. The carpet of grass and flowers with the deep blue sky for a ceiling.

"Not a sound uttered—but deep And solemn harmony pervades The hollow vale from steep to steep,

And penetrates the glades. And a still small voice whispers, "The Lord is in His Holy Temple, let all the earth keep silent before Him."

There, too, should be quiet, silent worship in the Church, His earthly temple. The world is so noisy.

A Real Need

A real need at Presbyterian Orphans' Home is a movie projector for the use of our schools.

In these days when visual education is coming more and more into prominence the use of educational films is becoming increasingly useful. The methods used in army training have demonstrated the effectiveness of this type of instrument. Many excellent films may be gotten free and many others for a nominal charge.

This machine also will be needed when we are ready to show pictures of the Home in the churches of our Synod. Owing to the unsettled conditions and the scarcity of supplies no plans have been developed as yet. But we hope before many months that we can begin work on this project.

We are sure that the showing by Mr. Ernest Milton of the movies of the Home taken some years ago did much to acquaint the people of the state with our needs here and to give many of our friends a better idea of the work of the Orphanage. Mr. Milton's equipment was developed before the use of sound in movies. Also color photography has added much to the attractiveness of movies. We believe that new equipment will not only add much to the teaching power of our schools but will also be most helpful in the presentation of our Orphanage work.

Thanksgiving Offering For Past Twenty Years

For twenty years now we have each year kept the record of the Thanksgiving Offering separate from the regular offerings of the churches.

It is interesting to trace the development of the offerings during these twenty years. A study of them will reveal not only the ebb and flow of prosperity in our state but also the value of various crops for certain crop years. For instance 1925 was a great tobacco crop year and the gifts of that year in some sections has never been surpassed. Also, of course, they reveal the interest and ability of the local church to give to the Home. We are glad that this interest and ability continues to grow.

See pages three and four of this issue of The Messenger for the Thanksgiving tabulation.

The machinery, the horns, the whistles, the bells, the brakes, the raucous voices. There is a clash of noise against noise, a confusion of sound.

Its din is ever in our ears. Its impact batters upon our nervous systems beating and bruising them. Oh the blessing then of a quiet hour in the house of God when, silence, like a poultice comes to heal the blows of sound.

Silence is comely in God's house because it is the attitude of listening. One reason I think God does not speak to us is because He would have to interrupt us in order to speak.

And then when we withdraw into the sanctuaries of our own soul, silence is most healing and helpful. Amiel in his journal has said, "Reverie, like the rain of night, restores color and force to the thoughts which have been blanched and wearied by the heat of the day."

After all, worship is a personal thing. If we cannot find God, if we cannot hear Him in the chapel of our own hearts we cannot expect to be blessed.

A GOLDEN SOUL

(From The Lutheran)

By Dr. Oscar Blackwelder

One of Washington's finest and best closed his ministry last week. He was 94 years of age and preached his final sermon June 10. He had served his congregation

There has been more mention of Home-Coming Day this year than in any other recent year.

It doesn't seem to matter just when it is held just so it is held. There are more people just hungry for a chance to see each other and to see Barium Springs again than ever before.

Ever since we have had Home Coming Day we have had it late in November and somehow the weather is more often bad than good along that time of year, so this year we are trying an experiment - Home Coming Day will be the nineteenth of October, a month earlier than we usually have it. We believe that the weather will be better, it won't be mixed up with any other holiday, and we hope that more people can concentrate on this day than one nearer Thanksgiving.

The football game will be with Lexington that day and Lexington always produces a good game. By the way, our games with Lexington is the longest continuous series that we have. It started in 1928 and there has been a game every year and the list of victories is about Even-Stephen -- You will see a good game.

If the game with Mooresville is any indication we should have one of the biggest crowds of returned servicemen ever. There were at least twenty-five Barium alumni, men and women, back for our Mooresville game, there should be two hundred and fifty at Home Coming Day.

It won't be long 'til this day comes around so make your plans, get your ducks in a row and notify the Secretary, Mrs. Ed Flowers, Statesville, N. C., if you want to - if not, just come on anyhow. We will try to cook up enough vittles so that you won't go away hungry.

for 63 consecutive years. He was 14 years of age when Lincoln's Proclamation made him free. He recently turned down an honorary degree from a certain university. That same institution had given him the same degree so long ago that everybody had forgotten. His name was Dr. Walter H. Brooks, negro pastor of the Nineteenth Street Baptist Church. There was no more trusted, beloved and respected citizen in Washington by all classes, all creeds, all colors. He had a tremendous ministry.

pect to meet Him anywhere else. But He will be found of us if we seek Him with the whole heart.

Truly blest are those who have that peace and calmness which only comes to those who know the secret, "Be still and know that I am God." Who when the Lord is in the temple of the soul are hushed to stillness before Him. Then, though storm may beat above, there is calmness of the heart.

We are told that there was once a Hindoo woman, troubled, confused, burdened by the discordant voices which surrounded her. But one day she heard a voice which said "Peace I give unto you. Let not your heart be troubled. Come unto me all ye that labor and I will give you rest." She came, she found that peace." So Ellen Laksme Goreh has written:

"In the secret of His presence how my soul delights to hide! Oh, how precious are the lessons which I learn at Jesus' side! Earthly cares can never vex me, neither trials lay me low; for when Satan comes to tempt me, to the secret place I go.

"Would you like to know the sweetness of the secret of the Lord? Go and hide beneath his shadow: this shall then be your reward; and when e'er you leave the silence of that happy meeting place, you must mind and bear the image of the Master in your face."

inspired the boys there was Eli Morris, from way back yonder when Barium first began to play football; there was Ed Flowers and Charlie Gallyon, two moderately old timers; then there was Buck Brigrance, Roy Wilson, Carson Wood, Arthur Roach, Ed Cole, just to name the football players. It was a good game and the fact that the weather cleared up just for the game made us all feel good. We are looking forward to clear weather for all the rest of the games.

PRESBYTERIANS BEGIN DRIVE FOR FIVE HUNDRED NEW SUNDAY SCHOOLS

(Greensboro News)

Five hundred new Sunday schools throughout the Southern Presbyterian church before the 86th general assembly meets at Montreat next May is the goal of the denomination's department of country church and Sunday school extension, following the designation of this year as "Chapel Year," according to Henry W. McLaughlin director.

Taking the recent assembly at its word in calling for a great advance in this field, Dr. McLaughlin, supported by the entire staff of religious education forces, has projected a plan with a ration of one new Sunday School for each 1,000 members. This would mean 65 new Sunday Schools in North Carolina.

Replying to the possible criticism that the goal may be too large, Dr. McLaughlin declares, "It is not if we are willing to pray, plan and work for it. If one little church of only 28 members at Williamston, N. C., could organize 5 outpost schools, what can 1,000 members do?" Emphasizing the effect of such missionary effort upon the church initiating it, McLaughlin pointed to the fact that the Williamston church had grown from a membership of 28 to 274 in 10 years, the Sunday School increasing during the same period from 30 to 341.

Meetings are being held this month at Montreat to plan the strategy for this advance move-

WOMAN'S BUILDING

"School Days, School Days, Dear Old Golden Rule Days." So goes our theme song for September. We were just as happy to start back to school as we were for it to end in May. The nine months of school will pass quickly and before we know it we'll be getting ready for vacations again, but we want to enjoy each moment as it flies by.

Speaking of enjoying things, we had our first football game Friday, September 14, and did we have fun? We yelled so much that many of us could hardly talk the next day. Our boys really put up a good fight, and we were so proud of them for winning the first game.

My, how good it seemed to have Toni DeLancey in front of our cheering section again. She went home for three months, but she came back a week ago. We practically raised the roof we were so glad to see her.

We started school with many good resolutions this year. All the girls in our building voted to have quiet for study, for an hour and a half each night, Monday through Friday. We hope it makes a difference in our report cards.

Now that gas is no longer rationed Mr. Johnston has promised that we may see a few football games away from Barium this year. We'll do our best to help cheer our boys to victory!

SYNOD'S

Hi Folks, School has started and we are all as happy as we can be. We have two fourth graders, Billy Burke and David Thomas. We just can't wait until we get big and can bring a "Geography" book home too.

Mr. Johnston has resumed talking to us in the dining room every Sunday morning after breakfast. We certainly have missed his talks and are so glad that he has started back. We often wonder if there is anything Mr. Johnston doesn't know about.

We have two new play mates. They are George Moore and James Woodall. We like them lots.

We saw our boys win our first football game Friday. We are so proud of our boys and we want to be just like them when we get big. As soon as we get a football, we are going to play some games too. So long until next time.

—The Wigglers.

LEE'S COTTAGE

It is time to say hello again. They have been painting our house and it sure does look nice. We will have to keep our hands clean or we will get the wall dirty. We like to go to school and you might see some of our names on the honor roll.

We had our first football game Friday afternoon and won. We enjoy seeing the games.

It has been raining since Thursday and we have to stay inside. We will be glad to see the sun shine again.

—Lee's Boys.

BOY'S ESSAY ON A GOOSE—OR WAS IT A DUCK?

"The goose is a low heavy set bird, composed mostly of meat and feathers. His head sets on one end and he sets on the other. He cannot sing much on account of the dampness in the moisture in which he lives. There ain't no space between his toes and he carries a balloon in his stomach to keep from sinking. A goose has two legs on his running gear but they came pretty near missing his body. Some geese when they get big are called ganders. Ganders don't have to set or hatch, but jest loaf, eat and go swimming. If I was a

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello folks, You should see our cottage now, it really looks like new. Our floors are so pretty you can almost see your self in them. We are going to get new beds also and then we will really be fixed up. Some ladies from Mooresville are going to send us some pictures and things for our walls and rooms. We want every one to come and look at it when we get straightened out.

We had our first football game Friday with Mooresville. Our boys played a swell game and as you know we beat them three touchdowns. We enjoyed it so much and are really looking forward to our next game at home.

The leaves will soon be turning and that's when our campus is really the prettiest. We think the prettiest trees on the campus are right here in our front yard. Won't we have a nice time sweeping leaves thought.

—The Bean Stringers.

The Synod Was Well Attended At Davidson

The Synod of North Carolina met this year at Davidson. Of course, Mr. Arrowood attended all the sessions Mr. Lowrance was Church. Others of us attended different sessions of the Synod and were greeted most affectionately by the members of Synod who were entertained at Barium last year. They asked if we had any more steak, lamb chops, or apples, everybody asked about the apples. we had to tell them that the apple trees did such a wonderful job last year that they seemed to be taking a holiday this year and we have a very, very light crop, so light that we will have all of our apples eaten by Thanksgiving.

The program of the Orphanage before Synod this year was conducted by Mr. J. Archie Cannon, the president of the Board, who made his report. Speaking on the report was our neighbor and good friend, Mr. Zeb Turlington. Mr. Turlington has been a member of the Board of Regents, served a term as president, and Mrs. Turlington was also a member for at least eight years. Mr. Turlington has done a lot of legal work for (Continued On Page Two)

Concord Presbytery Observed Its One Hundred And Fiftieth Birthday Oct. 16

Bethpage Presbyterian Church, on the 16th day of October, was the scene if a most interesting meeting of Concord Presbytery. On that day the Presbytery observed the sesquicentennial of the organization of the Presbytery on December 24th, 1775. Concord Presbytery was cut off from Orange Presbytery which had been organized twenty-five years before. The Yadkin river was made the dividing line and all west of that line became Concord Presbytery.

The special anniversary program was planned by a program committee. Dr. C. M. Richards was chairman and the other members were Rev. R. S. Carson and Elder J. E. Ramsay. The retiring Moderator, Dr. W.

L. Lingle made the opening address on the subject: Presbyterianism and Human Freedom.

Dr. J. H. Spence made the Historical address on the subject, Four Eras of Concord History. Presbytery rose in appreciation to these five addresses and directed that they be printed. Greetings were brought from the mother Presbytery, Orange, by the Moderator, Rev. N. N. Fleming, who is also a son of Concord Presbytery.

Dr. C. M. Richards was elected Moderator of the meeting. Dr. Richards has been a member of this Presbytery for forty-five years and this is the third time he has been Moderator.

C. Spears Hicks Heads Thanksgiving Drive For Barium Springs

The Offering for the Presbyterian Orphans' Home has been steadily increasing for several years. This is the result of very careful planning and much hard work by a great many people.

This is the second year that the planning and work for this seasonal effort has been under the direction of Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham. Mr. Hicks is the Chairman of Synod's Committee on the Orphans' Home. Last year he was pressed into service rather late in the year succeeding Mr. J. Archie Cannon of Concord, whose fine work as head of this Committee had led to his elevation as President of the Board of Regents.

The Message of the Pulpit

By REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Mark 10:13-14. And they brought young children to him, that he should touch them; and his disciples rebuked those that brought them. But when Jesus saw it he was much displeased and said to them suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

There were no moving pictures in Jesus' time, but this is a scene just like a moving picture. The characters in the scene. There was Jesus Christ we may picture him walking along the banks of the Jordan. With him are his twelve disciples, Peter and John and James and Matthew, Phillip, Nathaniel, Andrew and the rest. And there are some other people too. As they walk along they ask Jesus questions and he answers them. Now Jesus and his disciples were on their last journey to Jerusalem. Jesus knew he was going to (Continued On Page Two)

Mecklenburg Presbytery Met At Matthews

Mecklenburg Presbytery had a place on the program of their fall meeting for the Orphanage and the writer of this article was invited to speak there during this meeting. We believe that this was the largest attendance of any Presbytery we have ever spoken to. The meeting was held at Matthews. The church is such a beautiful one and so comfortable that this may have had something to do with all the members of Presbytery being in the church. It was an inspiring occasion for the speaker.

THANKSGIVING AND BARIUM

Children From the Baby Cottage at Barium Springs

What That Day Means To This Home

Since the early days of the Home a special Offering has been given for the children of the home at Thanksgiving. This is a very appropriate time as it is the time when harvests are being gathered, crops are being sent to market and money is available throughout the state of North Carolina.

Those of us whose memory goes back thirty or forty years can recall that wagons used to go throughout many country churches Thanksgiving week collecting canned goods, cured meats, Irish and sweet potatoes, and fruits as well as quilts and other things. When the offering in kind had been collected, often a wagon would haul it to Barium, driving twenty or thirty miles. Money was not plentiful in those days but then as now a large expense at the home was incurred for food. Often too, the driver of the wagon would bring very carefully the offering of money for the home. So from the beginning the Home has depended on the Thanksgiving offering for its existence.

In fact the Synod of North Carolina sets up a budget which assumes that the larger part of the income of Presbyterian Orphans' Home will come from special gifts over and above the regular percentage apportioned to the churches. For instance, the Synod put the Orphanage in the proposed budget for 1945-1946 for 8.5%, which is supposed to yield $62,105.00. On top of that several Presbyteries yielded to pressure from other causes and reduced that percentage still further. Some to as low as 6%. This makes it imperative that we get over two thirds of our income from other sources which are principally the Thanksgiving Offering and the special offerings of the Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries. Answering the question then what does the Thanksgiving Offering mean to the Orphanage? It means every thing. Without it the children could not be fed and clothed nor the workers paid. Last year the Presbyterians and friends of the Synod of North Carolina gave in a Thanksgiving (Continued On Page Two)

Barium Has Played 5 Games - 7 More to Go Won 1, Tied 1, Lost 3

The football season rolls along. Following our opening game with Mooresville, which was played during a two-hour interval of dry weather during the hurricane, we moved on to Charlotte for our annual game with Harding High. This year Harding was just too good for us and defeated us 13-0. Barium made one threat early in the game, driving down to within the ten yard line but a fifteen yard penalty destroyed that chance, and they did not again threaten until late in the last quarter when a forward pass might have scored. Harding had too much power on the field and on the bench, and Barium was just worn out before the game was over. (Continued On Page Three)

Jerusalem to die. It was a long walk he had to make; it would take him several days. So when they came to a little village they stopped at some friends house to take dinner and rest in the heat of the day. And I think the people of the village began to tell around "Jesus is here; he says he will be delivered to the chief priests, and that he will be crucified; and on the third day he will rise again. And one mother said, "I would like my little Isaac to be good like he is; I am going to ask him to put his hands on him and pray for him." And another mother said, "I am going to ask him to bless my little Mary." And so they started to the house where Jesus was. And as they went others asked, "Where are you going here in the heat of the day?" And they said, "To take the children to be blessed by that Holy man Jesus", and the others said, "Wait, we'll call the children and go with you." And so they came to this house where Jesus was. Now the scene shifts to the house and we see Jesus surrounded by his disciples; and they are asking him to explain some things he had said that day, when suddenly there was a commotion at the door; and the man of the house said: "Here are some women and children who wish to see the master." Peter and Andrew and some more of them said to the women: "Don't trouble the master; he has walked a long way today, and is very tired, we haven't long to rest and must be on our way. Besides he was discussing with us some very vital matters which should not be interrupted."

But Jesus spoke sharply to them as he said, "suffer the little children to come unto Me." Now when we say "suffer" we think of pain. But that is not what this means. We would say permit or allow or let. Doesn't it mean more to you if I give it the words as they are in Moffatt's New Testament. "Let the children come to me, do not stop them, the realm of God belongs to such as these." We look at Peter now; he has stepped back and hangs his head and the rest look ashamed or angry, rebuked by the words of Jesus. We look at the children as they go up to Jesus and rest against his knees or stroke his soft beard with their hands. We look at the women, we see them kneeling before him looking up into his face with joy and adoration, and follow their gaze to the Master and see him reach out his sinewy hands so tenderly. And he lifted little Isaac up upon his breast and then little Mary and he put his hands upon their heads and lifted his eyes to the heavenly Father he prayed for a blessing upon them. Then he let them down and took up others untill every one had been prayed for and blessed.

With the children around him, Jesus gave this solemn teaching to his disciples, "Verily, that is truly, "I say unto you whosoever shall not receive the Kingdom of God as a little child he shall not enter there in. Peter you have got to have a childlike attitude; John, you have to be like a child." Now that doesn't mean perfection - children are often selfish and inconsiderate and cruel. But you know children do not have low and evil thoughts; they are dependent and realize it; they are trustful and they are straightforward, no put on; they are full of humility, and simplicity; and they are capable of growth and development. They are not dead either physically, mentally, or spiritually.

In these days we take the children to George Washington or Lincoln or Socrates or David or Solomon or Isaiah or Paul or Peter. But forget not to take them to Jesus Christ. George Washington was the father of his country but Jesus taught us to pray, "Our Father". Abraham Lincoln freed the slaves in the south; but Jesus is the Savior of the world. Yes wonderful was the reverence of David, but Jesus reveals God. Great was the wisdom of Solomon, but a greater wisdom Solomon is here, made unto us wisdom and righteousness and sanctification and redemption; deeper is his calm than that of Socrates: more eloquent than Isaiah; more zealous than Peter; more fervent than Paul.

I think when I read that sweet story of old, When Jesus was here among men, How He called little children as lambs to His fold I should like to have been with them then.

I wish that His hands had been placed on my head, That his arm had been thrown around me And that I might have seen His kind look when He said, "Let the little ones come unto me."

Yet still to His footstool in prayer I may go, And ask for a share of his love And if I thus earnestly seek Him below I shall see Him and hear Him above.

Cho.— But thousands and thousands who wander and fall Never heard of that heavenly home

I wish they could know there is room for them all, And that Jesus has bid them to come.

the Orphanage and is about as well equipped as anyone could be to speak in its behalf.

The Synod was well attended and Davidson College seems to have outdone itself in serving the food and other things to make Synod's stay there comfortable.

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Folks,

First of all we would like to thank our good friends of Mooresville for the pretty pictures which they gave to us. Our house really looks good now so we want you to come up and see us.

We have been getting our clothing boxes and we would also like to thank our friends for them. We all look like new dolls now and we look forward to the days when we can get dressed up and parade in front of every one else.

We got our report cards last week and only four of our girls made the honor roll but we plan to have at least twenty next time.

Louise Bradshaw recited the child's Catechism today. She will receive a gift from Mr. Belk and also a New Testament with her name on it.

Friday is Home-Coming and we expect quite a number of our folks back. Most of the boys who are out of the service hope to be with us. We just can't wait until Friday. We should win over Lexington with all of our boys back to help us cheer our team to victory.

The trees are turning and they look like someone has sent them clothing boxes, or that a painter has splattered paint on them. We believe though they are mostly getting pretty for President Truman. As you know he is to speak in Statesville November, 2nd, and we are going to go down to the road and get a good look at our favorite friend.

We'll be seeing you,
— The Annie Louise Girls

SEWING ROOM

Hello Folks,

There are eight of us in the sewing room now. We did not make the honor roll. Only one subject kept them off. We sure are proud of them. Miss Mona hugged all our necks.

We have made all of us some new winter pajamas. They are not only warm, but very pretty. We ought to have a pajama party now.

Did you say, "Out with the Gospel?" Well, here goes.

Adelia Knight certainly doesn't look like she's going to be an old maid. Who's that guy that fills that frame on her dresser?

Maggie Katen, who's "sleepy" now? Seems like a Freshman from State is waking up and writing pretty often now.

"Red" Price seems to be spending more time with the smaller children than she does with us. Say, Red, have you "Ben" getting into practice for later life?

Lee "Jackie" Vinson is our new member who took Lucile Smith's place when Lee went back to her old job as nursing. Lee's learning fast. Wonder why? Do you think it's because a guy she knows has just come "wading" back from overseas and she wants to impress him.

"Bush" Feimster said tell everyone hello and not to worry about her. She's doing okay, eh, Charlie!

"Cherry" Pope is still hanging around, doing what bit she knows how. She thinks the "West" is okay, but it's pretty cold now. Say, Cherry we know what we're talking about, don't we?

Helen Hawley seems pretty happy these days. All you have to do is to "Leavy" her alone. It isn't the furniture business she's interested in now. "Wonder when he's coming home?"

Say, Mary Frances, how goes that good-looking sailor you go goo-goo over?

Folks, we wish to take time out to welcome back all the old-timers on Home-Coming Day. It's swell to see you. Hope we win our game with Lexington.

Drop in and see us any old day between the hours of three and five. We'll certainly welcome you. We love visitors.

INFIRMARY

Dear Friends,

Our epidemic of whooping cough is over except for one baby, three years old who just keeps whooping.

Our only other patient, Betty Ann Andrews, is still going to school but still lives with us at the Infirmary.

We will be getting our first report cards near the end of this week. We hope there will be good grades for all and maybe a few on the honor roll from our small group.

We now have two of our older girls back at the Infirmary, Lucile Smith and Jean McDonald. We knew we couldn't get along without them.

The cold weather seems to have caught up with us and we are having plenty of it. It would be nice if we had a small radio to help pass away those long winter evenings, after we have finished our studying, of course.

Annie Marie Andrews, one of our girls had a visit from her father recently.

—The Infirmary Girls.

LEE'S COTTAGE

Now is the time for football games and we always enjoy them. We played Concord last Friday and they beat us.

We are looking forward to Halloween, we will have fun with our false faces.

We have been picking up potatoes and putting them up for the winter.

Dean Upton and Frankie Smith went to the birthday dinner this month.

We got our report cards last week and Tommy Scott made the honor roll. The leaves are turning red, yellow and brown and they are pretty.

Home-Coming is the 19th and we hope to see a lot of the old boys and girls.

In a letter from Walter Motte he told us of escorting President Truman to and from the Potsdam Conference. His letter was written from Newport, R. I.

Cpl. William Billings has been to see Dick Parrish's grave at Iwo. He said that there were hundreds if not carved memorials at the foot of the flag pole that had been carved by their buddies. He wants to put one there for Dick.

At our football game in Albemarle we were glad to see Doris Smith Coots. She lives at Stanfield. Helen Moore Fours, Wilma Jessup and an old timer, Charlie Prichard.

Pleas Norman, Rdm 2-c is staying here. He will be sent to Newport, R. I. He has seen nearly all the games that have been played in the Orange Bowl.

We are looking forward to seeing a large number of you at Home-Coming and we will have a grand time together. Come help us win that game from Lexington.

John E. Lee is in a hospital in Chelsea near Boston, and Ed Burney is in a hospital at Camp Blanding, Fla.

The Second Graders

Barium Has Played

The following week at Albemarle Barium was defeated 13-6. Barium had several chances to score but did not have a touchdown play to cash in on. The field was wet, but that didn't seem to bother the forward passing of either team - it just seemed to be Albemarle's year to win.

On October 5th our team journeyed to Asheville and it rained all that day and most of the night. The field was wet and muddy and Barium did not attempt a single pass. There were times during the game when Barium seemed to have the stronger ground attack but neither team got near enough to really threaten and the final score was 0-0. Late in the last quarter Asheville did some passing that almost paid off - maybe if both teams had started passing sooner there might have been some scoring done.

Here's an interesting thing; there were only three fumbles in that whole game and only one of these was recovered by the opponent. One time Asheville lost the ball through the fumble. The following week at Barium, Barium rium lost to Concord on a perfectly clear, dry afternoon, and it was a fumble which set up Concord's first touchdown, so you just never can tell, fumbles do not always come with wet weather. A little more about the Concord game. Barium and Concord have been playing football for a long time; in fact, Concord helped us dedicate Sloan Field and then four years later Concord did the first scoring against a Barium team on Sloan Field. In spite of all this long history their victory over Barium this year was the first victory they had ever had on Sloan Field, but it was a decisive victory at that - 18-0. Concord is one of the most improved teams in the South Piedmont Conference. They started out rather slow this year but have gotten better with each game and they looked like that State Champion team of many years back when they went through the season undefeated.

This brings us right up to Home-Coming Day - the game will be with Lexington. Lexington is always a tough team. There have been 17 games played with Lexington - 8 of them have been won by Lexington and 8 by Barium and one game was a tie.

While the Varsity was having these games there were other games on the schedule too. The Conover Grammar Grades came over and played Barium's eighth grade. Barium won 34-7. The members of the team belong to the eighth grade and down and they weigh almost as much as the varsity. If we can just be patient for a couple of years until these boys commence to get on the varsity maybe they will stop pushing our varsity around. Boys like Max Dellinger, Mason Traywick, Herman Smith, Pinky Hilliard, all of those will be entertaining us one of these days.

Then the B team played Landis and defeated them 26-0, and all 26 points were made in the 2nd quarter. The boys playing for Barium were all but the first string varsity, and there was some right nifty playing. Dwight Spencer did some very neat pass receiving which resulted in at least two of the touchdowns.

And then the Midget have had a game. The Children's Home 85-pounders and 100-pounders visited Barium. Their 85-pounders defeated Barium 7-0, and our 100-pounders defeated theirs 7-0. The score made by the 85-pounders was on an intercepted pass and the Children's Home boy who caught that pass kept running faster and faster until he crossed the goal line. Barium almost had a chance to tie the score but the boy who had the ball just couldn't get up the necessary speed and was tackled before he got across. Barium's 100-pound team looked much superior to that of the Children's Home, but they couldn't seem to get across that goal line but once. For a time it looked as if they would not get across at all. There is much promise in that team and they will be feeding some good players to the varsity before long.

There will be many games to report in the next issue of the Messenger.

Mr. Hicks has had valuable experience in organizing and promoting business enterprises and he is using all of his energy and skill in planning for the reception of the Thanksgiving Offering. He has been at work ever since last Thanksgiving studying the work of the Church and the response of the Churches of the different Presbyteries. He has prepared blanks, forms and plans for each Committeeman which will be of great assistance both to them and to the Treasurer of the Home.

The task of putting on the Thanksgiving appeal and receiving the Offering is a very large one. There are five hundred and fifty-nine Churches in the Synod. There are over four hundred Auxiliaries. There are five hundred and eight-one Sunday Schools. These organizations are composed of 98,073 members of the Presbyterian Church and their children. It is the purpose of Synods Committee to contact and to present an opportunity to give to each one of those ninety-eight thousand and seventy-three Presbyterians.

In the pre-war years the Committee met at the Home and took time to work out the plans together in detail. Travel conditions have been such that such a meeting has been left off for several years. However, Mr. Hicks has spent much of his time in going about contacting the Committeemen and discussing plans with them.

Naturally under conditions under which we work there have been many disappointments and delays in getting out the Thanksgiving supplies. We had hoped they would be in your hands before this. But we are making progress. Requisitions for supplies are coming in. We hope that very soon after you read this, full supplies for each Church will be in your hands.

Mr. Hicks and the members of Synod's Committee are not working for the praise of men. They are anxious to serve the children of our Home and Him who said, "Suffer the little children and forbid them not to come unto me." But I am sure we will want to show our appreciation of the splendid and unselfish work they are doing by cooperating fully with them in their efforts.

We are grateful here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home for the wide distribution of our supporting organizations. We are thankful for the large gifts of the large churches and for the small gifts of the small churches.

We are sensible that often a gift that may look small if reckoned in dollars, is a large gift when the sacrifice is taken into account. The Master said of the poor widow who dropped in the pennies, "She gave more than they all." For such sacrifices of Thanksgiving we render thanks.

It is with this idea in mind that we are asking that a local chairman be appointed in each Church to receive the supplies and present the work of the Home to the local Church. No Church is too small to have a part. No individual but that can make an offering.

The Presbytery's Committeemen are busy perfecting their organizations and getting information out to the churches. We bespeak for them your help and approval.

ed by certificate from Kings Mountain Presbytery. He will be installed pastor of Waldensian Church October 28th. Rev. Thos. B. Ruff was called as pastor of Cleveland Church. He will be installed pastor on November 2nd. Rev. Ira H. Rawles who has just been given his discharge as a Naval Chaplain accepted the call of the Bethpage church. He will be installed as pastor on November 11th.

Rev. Al S. Burdette who was licensed to preach the Gospel at the spring meeting of Presbytery was called as stated supply of the Bayless Memorial Church. He signified his acceptance of the work and Presbytery ordained him as an Evangelist. He will assume his work at Bayless at an early date.

Two of the sons of Bethpage who are honored ministers were present, Rev. J. E. L. Winecoff and Rev. W. E. Furr.

Two former pastors were present, Rev. F. A. Barnes and Rev. Robert Turner.

A delightful feature of the occasion was the most delicious and bountiful dinner served under the trees in the church yard. The crowning glory of the feast was the beautiful big birthday cake which was served to the hundreds of guests.

Elder John E. Ramsay was elected as the Moderator nominee for the next meeting of Presbytery which will be held at First Church, Kannapolis, January 15, 1945.

Summary of Recent Football Games

We have reported on our football games in former issues of the Messenger right up to Homecoming Day, and you would just have to have an eye-witness account of that game with gestures to get the full picture. Lexington and Barium games have always been interesting. This year was no exception. It started out with Lexington looking like much the superior team. They drove Barium down and finally scored, mainly by main strength; a Barium fumble had something to do with it, but the team was certainly one touchdown better than Barium all during the first half. The second half was something else. Jack Clark, playing his first game at tailback, really went to town in that half and his passing and running was not to be denied. It only yielded one touchdown but it might just as well have yielded three because we missed those other two by such a small margin that the Lexington people are still shivering about it. The final score was Barium 6 - Lexington 6.

The following week our Varsity journeyed to Davidson, and the Davidson Freshmen bumped us off 18-0. This is the third year we have played Davidson, and their first victory. This victory was a convincing one, although all the scoring was done in the first half. In the second half the two teams played on even terms with Clark again being the boy Davidson had to stop.

On Nov. 1st, the Children's Home came to Barium and this was just one of those years we don't like to think about too much. Children's Home was so much stronger than Barium that it was not much of a contest. They beat Barium 48-12 and they used their second-string boys in a good part of the game. Barium's scores were from passes Clark to Young - the two touchdowns being very much alike.

The lightweight teams have had a full schedule. On October 17th our eighth grade team played a second game with Conover, defeating them 21-0. This was a very

The Barium Messenger Has Its 22nd Birthday

The Barium Messenger Speaking ---- Take a look at me. I am twenty-two years old today. All dressed up with a face wash and no five o'clock shadow, and raring to go. I am reprinting the editorial that announced my existence to the quivering public twenty-two years ago. I have tried to live up

THE BARIUM MESSENGER

As soon as we found that our printing shop was assured and that the orphanage was again to have a paper, the question of a name had to be decided. In order to get the very best name for the infant sheet, a prize was offered to the person suggesting the most acceptable title.

Of the great number suggested, the name BARIUM MESSENGER, was selected and Mary Lee Earnheart was the fortunate winner of the prize for suggesting this name.

Now, just a word about this name and what we hope this paper to be.

First of all, we want this Messenger to be welcome. It will contain just commonplace news that may not always be interesting to people who do not know us. Then if you see a news item that Billy Harrell bumped his nose and scraped off six freckles, you will know that this is only a minor injury if the freckle count was correct. The Messenger will contain some editorials, and while we will not attempt to settle the affairs of the League of Nations, the Pan-American Alliances, or even the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S., nor answer all the criticisms of the tariff and the income tax. Still we may at times raise our voice in praise or condemnation of some of the present day practices that effect our immediate family.

The Messenger will contain a list of receipts both in money and in kind, and if in any issue the space reserved for this department is not filled up the space unused will be used in talking about it.

The departments will all be heard from, not just for the purpose of making appeals but that our friends everywhere will know what is being done.

Every cottage will have a news editor and the news of that cottage written out by that boy or girl, as the case may be, and published "as is". Then, too we want a real live alumni news column. Any person who has at any time been in the Home may have items about themselves in this column and we hope many will send news in themselves.

Then lest our reading matter become too heavy especially in the days we seem to be forgotten, we will have a joke column, that will publish both new and secondhand wheezes.

Finally, we hope our Messenger will always be a cheerful one. We hope to only have good news to tell you.

When you see it in the mail we want you to have a feeling of pleasure that you are to read of the daily life of this large family of yours, and its achievements, its hopes, and sometimes of its disappointments, and may it never be the messenger of evil tidings that tell of wasted opportunities or curtailed usefulness from lack of support.

to those aspirations in that editorial. I have made mistakes and I haven't always been as cheerful as I might have been. For a time I did not dress up as I should have done to be a guest in your home - in fact, I got to coming in dressed in overalls. I had hoped it would only be for a short period of time. The paper that I was printed on was not very good - it did not hold its color very well - and it didn't show up the pictures which I want

When the Days Talk Together

Psalm 19:2. Day unto day uttereth speech.

1. Yesterday speaks of:
Experience

"O there are voices of the past,
Links of a broken chain,
Wings that will bear me back to
Times which cannot come again;
Yet God forbid that I should lose
The echoes that remain."

The Value of Time
"In time take time while time doth last,
For time is no time when time is past."

All Things Pass
"Once in Persia reigned a king
Who upon his signet ring
Graved a maxim true and wise
Which if held before the eyes
Gave him counsel at a glance
Fit for every change and chance.
Solemn words and these are they;
Even this shall pass away."

Forgetfulness
"O death! O change! O time!
Without you, O the unsuffer-

Feast Days At Barium

You know the business of eating gets to be a pretty common place affair. You can fill a youngster up and in just a few hours he is empty and ravenous again - the old stand-bys of grits and gravy, beans and corn bread, cereal and milk, are all for foundations, but they have to be topped off occasionally with something else. The alfalfa fields have done so well the last few years that they have provided the wherewithal for an occasional ice cream treat, which is a treat indeed in these days of scarce sugar. And then there is the meat question - pork is awfully good but after awhile we get tired of pork; beef is mighty good but it is possible to even get tired of that; so we really rejoice when something happens to give us a brand new meat meal. We had had several Sunday dinners of lamb and chicken and were just about to settle down to our winter diet of sausage and such, when along came a gift of venison - believe it or not! Mr. Ray Morrow and Mr. Cameron

Three Barium Boys Were In Death March

Three years ago when we were listening to the news broadcast of the gradual destruction of our Army in the Philippines we were much concerned over the fate of three Barium boys; J. D. Beshears, Robert Wilkes, and Ben Morrow. These three boys were captured either on Bataan or Corregidor and it was not until the end of the war that we heard the details of what happened to them.

Ben Morrow died in a prison camp in May, 1942. J. D. Beshears and Robert Wilkes were released at the end of the war, but Robert died in California on the way home. He had evidently been terribly abused and was too weakened by his experiences to survive. J. D. Beshears, apparently in good shape, has landed in the United States and we hope will soon be around Barium to pay us a visit. We do not know of any of the particulars of the experiences of these three young men, but we hope to give it to you in a later issue.

Fall Meeting of the Board of Regents

The Board of Regents of the Orphanage met on Tuesday, Nov. 6th, the latest Fall meeting in twenty years. Usually this meeting occurs during the last of Sept. or early in Oct., but since the Synod met so late this year this had something to do with the postponement of the Regents meeting.

There were ten members present, including two brand new members, Mrs. R. A. Young of Central Steele Creek, Charlotte, and Mr. Thomson of Kings Mountain. There was one other new member who did not get here. Mr. R. W. Bruin from Henderson, North Carolina.

One of the main pieces of business of the Board was to pass on some insurance matters which means a re-vamping of the values on all of our insured property.

The meeting was saddened by the news of the death of Mr. Sam A. Robinson of Gastonia. Mrs. Robinson was a member of the Board of Regents for a number of years; in fact every member if the Board knew Mr. Robinson intimately, and to know him at all was to count him as a friend. We were all saddened by his sudden death.

The October High School Club meeting was held October 30th. A number of high school pupils took part and two numbers were given by members of the grammar grade club. A duet by Shirley Thomas and a solo by Hazel Creech. These being pupils selected as ones playing best in their club. A contest was given, and refreshments were served during the social hour. The guests were Misses Thompson, Brandon and Mrs. Crawley.

SEWING ROOM

We couldn't let another month slip by without letting you know how we are getting along in the sewing department.

We have been real busy making dresses for the smaller girls. We are almost through now, so if you have time, come up and see them.

One of our sewing machines has been silenced as one of our members, Mary F. Isenhour, is in the hospital for an appendicitis operation. We miss you Mary Frances, so hurry home.

Now for some gossip: Lee Vinson has been getting mail from New York. Was it a "Bill"?

Blanche Fienster was down by the railroad track laying her pecans on the track and waiting for the "June Bug" to come by and crack them. Lazy Ting!

Helen Hawley was walking on clouds last week-end when the fleet came in. When you see Helen look on her left hand, third finger.

Maggie Katen said "hay" and that she is "sleepy".

We have started basket-ball practice and we have the prospects for a good team.

We are giving a party for our boys Sat. night. Wish you all could come.

Until next time.

Bye, Bye.

Sewing Room Girls.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

We have really been having a swell time playing football! Every afternoon when we get home from school, we choose up and play until we are so tired we can't stand up. It is usually supper time by then.

Neill Shaw and Donald Dean have recited the "Child's Catechism" and we are real proud of them. Some more of us have been studying it, but haven't quite learned it all.

We all got to go over to the pecan orchard and pick up a big bucket of pecans. So we have some pecans to eat every day after school.

Our big girls have a good reason to be happy now - Jerry McArthur has finally learned which feet his shoes fit into - We hope by the next time we write, he will know how to lace them up.

Neill Shaw, Jerry Ellis, and Charles Andrews got show tickets for good work in school.

Bobby Ray Bailey had a birthday November 9. His daddy brought him a big birthday cake with candles on it. We all had a peice of it and boy was it good! Thank you, Mr. Bailey.

We all had our teeth fixed and we are going to keep them as clean as we can. We want to thank Dr. Martin for doing such a fine job.

Now, that the gas rationing is over, come to see us sometime.

So Long,

The Synod Boys.

ANNIE LOUISE

Here we are again bringing you the latest news from Anne Louise.

The pretty leaves, which we said so much about last month are falling now and we have been having fun gathering them up and putting them in bags. We are working and playing and getting paid for doing it. We plan to get some candy and fruit and have a party with the money we make.

Four of our little girls are going to Charlotte today to sing some songs for our good friends there. They have been talking about it the last week so we are glad for them that today has finally arrived.

Lois Dellinger and Linda Inman have recited the Child's Catechism. We are planning to have at least ten little girls recite it before Christmas.

We have an assistant matron living here in our cottage with us, Mrs. Crawley. We certainly enjoy having her here and boy, can she play the piano.

So long until next month.

—The Annie Louise Girls.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Here we are back again with you, bringing you the news. Our cottage is already fixed and we really like it.

The dentist came down to see our teeth and we had some of our teeth pulled.

The basketball court is cleaned up and the big girls have started practicing.

We got some new games but we are not going to play with them until we get our sitting room fixed up.

Lethia Walker recited the child's catechism and we hope some more will.

We got some new books and pictures and we think they will look swell on our walls. Mrs. Hal Johnston sent them to us from Mooresville.

I guess this will be all for this time.

The Howard Girls.

INFIRMARY

Here is a little news we are sure you all will be interested in.

Mr. Johnston has a grandson, David Walter Morris. His mother is, Mrs. Annie Faysoux Johnston Morris.

Some of Mrs. McNatt's relatives spent an enjoyable weekend with us. We hope it will be possible for them to come again sometime, because we all like to have a visit from friends.

We expect to get our report cards again next week. Here's hoping our grades have improved since last month.

Paul Reid, who has just been discharged from the Air Corps, is back on the campus. We are glad to see that familiar face again. (One of our girls keeps smiling.) We will be glad when all of our boys can return to the campus.

We have little Jimmy Harris with us now. It is a joy to have the little fellow around. Lee Vinson is nursing a hurt foot. Mary Frances Isenhour has made a wonderful recovery from an appendectomy. She will be in the class room Monday.

PATTERSON DOES IT AGAIN

The Patterson Church in Concord Presbytery is few in number but for many years it's Thanksgiving contribution to the Home has been outstanding - Already this year this church of eighteen members has sent in a Thanksgiving Offering from the Church and Sunday School of $91.00. This is written one week before Thanksgiving day.

BE THANKFUL

For sunlit hours and visions clear,
For all remembered faces dear,
For comrades of a single day,
Who sent us stronger on our way,
For friends who shared the year's long road,
And bore with us the common load,
For hours that levied heavy tolls,
But brought us nearer to our goals,
For insights won through toil and tears,
We thank the Keeper of our years.

—Clyde McGee.

THE PRESIDENT'S

PROCLAMATION

"In this year of our victory, absolute and final, over German Fascism and Japanese militarism; in this time of peace so long awaited, which we are determined with all the United Nations to make permanent; on this day of our abundance, strength, and achievement; let us give thanks to Almighty Providence for these exceeding blessings.

"We have won them with the courage and the blood of our soldiers, sailors, and airmen. We have won them by the sweet and ingenuity of our workers, farmers, engineers, and industrialists. We have won them with the devotion of our women and children. We have bought them with the treasure of our rich land. But above all we have won them because we cherish freedom beyond riches and even more than life itself.

"We give thanks with the humility of free men, each knowing it was the might of no army but of all together by which we were saved. Liberty knows no race, creed, or class in our country or in the world. In unity we found our first weapon, for without it, both and abroad we were doomed. None have known this better than our very gallant dead, none better than their comrade, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Our Thanksgiving has the humility of our deep mourning for them, our vast gratitude for them.

"Triumph over the enemy has not dispelled every difficulty. Many vital and far-reaching decisions await us as we strive for a just and enduring peace. We will not fail if we preserve, in our land and throughout the world, that same devotion to the essential freedoms and rights of mankind which sustained us throughout the war and brought us final victory.

"Now, therefore, I, Harry S. Truman, President of the United States of America, in consonance with the joint resolution of Congress approved December 26, 1941, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 22, 1945, as a day of national Thanksgiving. May we on that, in our homes and in our places of worship, individually and as groups, express our humble thanks to Almighty God for the abundance of our blessings and may we on that occasion rededicate ourselves to those high principles of citizenship for which so many splendid Americans have recently given all.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington this twelfth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred forty five and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and seventieth."

HARRY S. TRUMAN.

Morrison are responsible for it. The deer have prospered and multiplied on the Morrison farm to such an extent that they gave us enough deer to make a whopping big meal, and while that happened several days ago the kids are still smaking their lips over it. We feel like sending Mr. Morrison and Mr. Morrow a rousing vote of thanks and also many happy returns. If all the deer we could eat would taste as good as that of last Sunday it would take us a long time to get tired of it.

Of course our kitchen folks had a lot to do with making it turn out so well. Now Thanksgiving is right around the corner and we will be having a big meal again. For the last twenty years this meal has been largely furnished, as far as the meat is concerned, from Steele Creek Church.

They tell us that after they gather up the chickens to send to us every year that the chickens in that neighborhood are as wild as partridges for weeks afterwards. And then cakes come into us from Laurinburg, Hickory, Durham, to mention just a few of the places that sent these delectable additions to our diet.

Don't be afraid of overdoing it as we have very few fat folks at Barium, but what lovely appetites we do have along about this time of year.

One of the things that is making it hard on us this year is the fact that turkeys are being raised for the market right near us - over at the fair grounds - and in the still of the morning when we are getting ready for breakfast we hear those thousands of gobblers yelling for their breakfast - it is tempting and tantalizing.

The Message of the terdays."

Memory

Memory gives escape from an unhappy present.

"Backward, flow backward O full tide of years!

I am so weary of toil and of tears,

Toil without recompense - tears all in vain,

Take them and give me my childhood again.

I have grown weary of dust and decay,

Weary of flinging my heart's wealth away,

Weary of sowing for others to reap;

Rock me to sleep mother, rock me to sleep."

Right Perspective

"O time beautifier of the dead, Adorners of the ruin, comforter And only healer when the heart hath bled-

Time! the corrector where our judgements err,

The test of truth, love, sole philosopher.

From all besides are sophists, from thy thrift

Which never loses, though it doth defer -

Time the Avenger! unto thee I lift

My hands, and eyes, and heart, and crave of thee a gift."

II. Today speaks of:

Fresh Opportunity

"Today is ours; what do we fear?"

Today is ours; we have it here. Let's treat it kindly, that it may Wish at least for us to stay.

Today will ensure tomorrow.

"Happy the man, and happy he alone,

He, who can call today his own: He who, secure within can say, Tomorrow do thy worst, for I have lived today."

Work For The Night Is Coming

"Rise for the night is passing, And you lie dreaming on;

The others have buckled their armour,

And forth to fight have gone: A place in the ranks awaits you,

Each man has some part to play, The past and the future are nothing -

Serene and lovely Tomorrow ing

In the face of the stern today."

III. Tomorrow speaks of:

Hope

"A shining isle in a stormy sea, We seek it ever with smiles and sighs

Today is sad - in the land to-be, lies.

Resolutions For Better Living

In The Spirit of;

"One who never turned his back but marched breast forward Never doubted clouds would break

Never dreamed though right were worsted, wrong would triumph

Held we fall to risk, are baffled to fight better, sleep to wake."

Being Confident of Our Future

In God's Hands

"God's tomorrow, God's tomorrow, Every cloud will pass away

At the dawning of the day;

God's tomorrow, no more sorrow, For I know that God's tomorrow

Will be better than today."

The Alumni Association, represented by approximately fifty members met in the Rumble Hall living room, October 19, just after dinner. President Edward Flowers called the meeting to order and those present introduced themselves stating the year of graduation or departure. Years represented ranged from 1899 to 1945. The '30 - '39's, and of course, the '40's had quite a jolly reunion, but we of the '20's and before were entirely too few.

New officers were elected as follows: president, Irene McDade; vice-president, Maude Inman; secretary-treasurer, Walter Beattie; treasurer of Memorial Fund, Reid Brown.

After some discussion as to the form our Memorial should take, and the amount needed to finance it and the manner of obtaining that amount, it was voted that a letter be sent out soon containing suggestions from Mr. Johnston, and asking that each member make a contribution within the next twelve months. It is hoped that we shall have a considerable sum in hand and be ready to decide the matter by vote at our next annual meeting. It was voted also that alumni dues be raised to $1.00 per year and that all who have not paid this year be urged to do so. This money is needed for the expense of mailing correspondence to the members.

The annual Thanksgiving offering taken at the meeting amounted to $103.10.

We noted the following at the game and during the day: Bernice Stone Thompson, Joy Stone Sommers, Nellie Johnson Summers, John Ammons, Wilma Campbell, Wilma Jessup, Rachel Kyles, Hattie Michael Painter, Annie Bell William Dawson, Tom Clark, Doris Gant, Capt. John Lee, Major A. J. Clendenin.

Paul Horne has been discharged and will work at Barium until he enters Davidson the second semester.

We were saddened over the death of Robert Wilkes. He had been a POW in Japan for the past 40 months and landed in Oakland, California when he passed away in a Naval Hospital. His body was brought to Charlotte for service and then buried in Spring Hill Cemetery in Scotland County.

Our hearts were made glad when J. D. Beshears made us a visit this week. J. D. was a POW for 40 months, making the death march from Bataan. He had four battle stars and the Presidential citation with 2 oak leaf clusters. He landed at Seattle and Howard met him there. He will have a 90 day furlough and then report at Moore General Hospital for examination. He said that there were 1600 prisoners in his Camp. He was freed by the Russians in Manchuria. He worked in a textile plant weaving canvas. His menu was mush for breakfast and maize and beans for dinner and supper. He received 8 or 10 Red Cross packages. We all thought that he looked fine.

Arnim East is in Kannapolis with Guy, after having been overseas for some time.

Paul Cornette is working in Statesville.

Lacy Beshears has been discharged from the Navy.

Born to Sgt. and Mrs. D. W. Morris (Anne Fayssoux Johnston) on November 11 a son, David Walter, III.

ed to show you from time to time. I did this because money was so scarce back during the depression, you remember? And then I got into the habit of coming into your homes in these overalls and the first thing you know the war came along and just froze me in those clothes and all during the war I had to continue that way.

Now, as one of the happenings since the war is over the folks in the big office have gotten some better paper to print me on and this is the first issue, and I feel like celebrating. In fact, you can stick me in your pocket now and take me out at your club, or in your dressed-up part of the house and not be ashamed of me. I am going to stay dressed up if I can, and I am going to decorate too. I hope there will be at least one nice-looking picture of some of your children on this front page every month. It used to be that way, and I hope you like it. Just three more years and I will be a quarter of a century old: I don't feel that old, and if they will just put enough pictures of young people in me every time I won't seem old to you. Miss Andrews has a complete file of all 264 copies of me, and there are lots of interesting things in those files. There are going to be interesting things in the issues from now on. I just dare you to read everything in me.

good game. Conover is a grammar grade school and Barium selected players from the same grade as those on the Conover team.

On October 20th all the boys in Concord it seemed, came over to Barium. There was an 85-pound game which Concord won 13-12. There was a 100-pound game which Barium won 7-0. There was a B-team game which Barium won 13-0. On October 28th, the 100-pound team played Morganton at Morganton winning 26-0. The 125-pound team defeated Morganton 13-0. On the 29th the B-team played Statesville at Barium and the score was Barium 13 - Statesville 6. On Saturday, November 3rd, our Midget teams journeyed to Winston-Salem where the Children's Home 85-pound team defeated Barium 21-0. The 100-pound team game resulted in a tie 6-6. On the night of November 6th, our B-team played the Landis Varsity and the game ended 6-6. Landis scored early in the game and it was in the final quarter that Barium scored.

The Varsity has four game yet to play - the Midgets about an equal number. They will make good reading in the December issue.

Speaking of football, here's an item. A number of years ago the folks at Barium set us up to a trip to the Sugar Bowl and got us into the habit of going. They did not need to do anything but start us on our way. Well, for the last few years all the Bowl games have been out as far as we are concerned, but one of our boys is a cadet at West Point right now and he wrote us several days ago that he thought we needed a rest after the strenuous Thanksgiving doings and that if we could use those three tickets he would send them to us. - So if anybody is looking for the editor of this sheet on the afternoon of December 1st, he can probably be found somewhere in the Army section of the Stadium at Philadelphia watching the Army-Navy game.

Army-Navy Game And Other Things

By JOS. B. JOHNSTON

The whole thing began back in November. I received a letter from Joe Long who is now a Cadet at West Point. And the boy said he had three tickets to the Army - Navy game that he was going to send to me, and right then and there I began to have notions.

Just forty-five years ago and just two days after I played my last college football game, I went to Philadelphia to see the Army and Navy play. It was tops in football intertainment then and I knew it would be tops in intertainment now, so as soon as this letter came from Joe Long I made plans.

Of course, I excepted to take Mrs. Johnston and to go in a very dignified mannan on the train, and we were to pick up Leila in Washington for the third member of the party, but as the time drew near we found that there wasn't any such thing as getting a reservation on any train from any direction going toward Philadelphia around that time, so it settled down to making the trip by car.

On Friday morning at 9:30 we two Johnstons set sail. We had to miss the final Barium football game and that was a disappointment indeed, but we found that the team and the coaches forgave us for that, seeing that it took that to get to this other game. Everybody around Barium seemed to be intent on getting us off and making the trip a pleasant one. Some of the ladies gave me a couple of ties to flash on the unsuspecting Philadelphia public. We armed ourselves with everything from overshoes to hot water bottles so that no matter what weather came we would be ready for it.

We landed in Washington Friday night and found that that very efficient daughter of ours had located a hotel room for us in the crowded city and also located what was even more scarce, a good meal.

On Saturday morning at 7:30 we left Washington for Philadelphia, feeling that three hours leisurely drive would put us at our destination. What a thought! It is 140 miles from Washington to Philadelphia and they are the most crowded miles in the United States or they were that Saturday morning. When we drove into Baltimore we stopped to get some gas. I asked the man at the filling station if the traffic was any heavier that morning. His reply was, "Man I never saw anything like it in my life. I wouldn't be caught in that for a hundred dollars an hour." That was not too encouraging, but we lit out in that traffic. It took us a solid hour to get through the twelve miles of Baltimore, and even in the open country the traffic was almost bumper to bumper. The only thing that seemed to keep going was our watches, and time was running out on us. How we wished we had Joshua for a few moments to have the sun to stand still for an hour at least, but of course we didn't. When we landed in Philadelphia we found that extra good precautions had been made for the crowd. Certain streets had been left as one-way streets and we picked up a little time getting to the stadium. There was ample parking space and in a very short time we found ourselves in the sta-

A Birthday Party for Jesus Christ Very Soon

Very soon the world will be giving a birthday party.

Now all of you like to have birthday parties and you like to go to birthlay parties. What do you have at your birthday parties? Well you have a birthday cake with candles on it, one for each year old you are. Then you have games and favors for your guests. You receive presents from parents and friends. And then we like to invite a lot of our best friends. Why is that? Why don't we just have a nice meal and birthday cake and have a good time all by ourselves. I'll tell you, happiness is something that the more we share it the more we have. A birthday is a lot more fun if we have our friends sharing it with us.

Years ago I was alone in a great city. I had just gotten out of the hospital so I thought I'd celebrate. So I went to a famous dining place and ordered a fine dinner. But it was no fun. I would have had more pleasure if I had picked up a bum on Water Street and given him a bowl of soup and a cup of coffee. So we like to have a big party the bigger the better.

Now the birthday of Jesus we call Christmas. Can we imagine what a big party the birthday party for Jesus Christ is. If we invited all the people in a city to a party that would be a great party. But think if we had all the people in Charlotte and Greensboro and New York what a great big party that would be. But the birthday party goes all round this big world. Millions of people rejoice in the birthday of Jesus our Lord.

One of the joys of birthday is the giving and receiving of gifts. The gifts to Jesus on his first birthday were given by the wise men. They were rich and lovely gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. But now Jesus no longer walks among us as a man. How can we give to Jesus now? Well though Jesus does not walk on earth as a man, his spirit is here and he loves us so much that if we would give to him we must help the poor and needy and we cannot help them without giving to Jesus. He has said "I was hungry and you gave me something to eat, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and ye took me in, naked and ye clothed me, sick and ye visited me." And his disciples say Lord when saw ye thee hungry or thirsty or naked or sick and ministered unto thee and he shall answer inasmuch as ye have done unto the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me.

Now when we have a birthday our parents or whoever gives us a birthday party or dinner try to do the thing that will give us most happiness. They have the friends invited we like best, they prepare refreshments of which we are most fond, they try to give the

The Last of the Mohicans Meaning Voluntary 12th Graders

DUIE BELLE BUIE

For a number of years Barium has allowed students who were young enough and ambitious enough to take a twelfth grade even though they could have graduated at the end of the eleventh grade. Now, since the state system of twelve grades is in full effect, this will be the last year for the voluntary twelfth.

EARL ALLEN

Here's how a football player looks on Sunday. Earl Allen is his name. He plays guard - voted by his teammates the most valuable player for 1945, also the best tackler. He is Barium's contribution to the South Piedmont all conference team for 1945.

Heart Attack Fatal To Mr. James E. Martin

On Dec. 3rd there passed from this world a kindly man who will be greatly missed here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home. James E. Martin died suddenly from a heart attack at his home in Troutman, N. C.

Mr. Martin was born June 25, 1878 near East Monbo. He was the son of William and Julia Ann Martin. He had been living in Troutman for five years.

In July 1944 he was married to Miss Nellie E. Sherrill who sur-

Final Account of Football Games

On November 9th our somewhat battered Varsity team journeyed to Salisbury to help them celebrate Homecoming Day. There was a crowd that would have done honor to a college game, and Salisbury pulled off a program that made you think you were in one of the famous Bowls. Barium staged a come-back from her poor showing against Children's Home and defeated Salisbury 12-0. The first touchdown was made the hard way after recovering a fumble deep in Salisbury's territory. The second touchdown was one that has become Barium's specialty - a long pass Clark to Young.

The following week at Morganton it was another story altogether. We ran into another Homecoming Day up there in Burke County. The Morganton team has been good all year - they were inspired the night we played them. The score was 33-0 in favor of Morganton. Morganton scored on us almost every kind of way and seemed to enjoy doing it. They were, no doubt, remembering those lopsided victories in which Barium used to defeat Morganton when Morganton was champion of the Western Conference.

Then came Thanksgiving Day, and the game of the year when Barium and Statesville tangled on Sloan Field for the Iredell County Championship. Thanksgiving Day was beautiful - the sun was out and while it was a little chilly for the spectators it was dium - that was 12:30, an hour 'til game time. We thought of course, that we could look around and locate some friends and kinder get our bearings before the game started - that's what we thought until we came out into the stadium looking for our seats and there we found that enormous place absolutely packed. We knew there had to be some vacant seats yet because people were still streaming in but you couldn't locate them just by looking.

Army-Navy Game

This was a friendly crowd - a different crowd from any that I have ever seen at a football game. You know, when you go to the Rose Bowl or any of those big games you usually run into a lot of flashy people blowing their money around and displaying it in other ways, but this crowd at Philadelphia was just a crowd of homefolks. Out of 100,000 people possibly 80,000 were there as guest of some boy or soldier or sailor. We couldn't see anybody trying to make a display of their possessions or their personality, it was just a nice, homefolksy, picked crowd of 100,000 people and it somehow made your blood run a little warmer to be sitting there in that crowd and feeling like you were part of it.

We had taken some field glasses along with us and we found that almost everybody sitting near us wanted to borrow them because there was a boy either in the West Point crowd of Cadets or among the Midshipmen that they were interested in and during the parade immediately before the game they wanted to pick him out.

You know those boys in these two schools came from all over the United States and the people who were their guests at the game also came from all over the United States. We have a big time in this state and other states going to see the state universities play ball. Well, this occasion was seeing the university of the United States having a game between its two divisions - the Army and the Navy, and that gave you a thrill. As we looked around we could see up in the press box that it was absolutely jammed, and we knew, with the top flight news reporters of the nation. We could count seven newsreel cameras in position to catch every play of the game. Up above that was the public address system giving more or less accurate information as the game went on.

We were sitting just above the end zone on the Army side in the closed end of the stadium and five of the seven touchdowns made in that game were made right out in front of us - so close that we could almost hear the boys breathing as they went over the final white line.

There is no more for me to describe about these magnificent teams, but I will give you some impressions. If you looked at the crowd in the stadium you could not help but be impressed with its big-ness. The Philadelphia newspapers got up some statistics on the various things - how many miles of hot dogs - 80 I think it was. How many thousands of gallons of coffee, and so on, served there at the stadium. And yet when you looked down toward the field you realized that the football field was just the same size as the one at Sloan Field here at Barium or in any of the towns where they have football fields. The goal posts were just the same size, and placed at the same places. There were 22 boys out there playing and four officials seeing that they played it right, just as we have here at Barium Springs or in any of the towns that we visit. The grass on the field was no greener, and the lines with which the field was lined up smeared one of the boy's breeches - Blanchard it was - just like it sometimes happens at Barium, and all of that made us feel at home even though we were in a mighty big place.

The President was there. He sat on the Army side during the first half and at the intermission went across and sat on the Navy side. There was a row of policemen that marched in - one on the Army side and one on the Navy side - and they formed a lane across the middle of the field - while they were doing that some little fellow piped out, "Go on Harry, nobody is going to hurt you," and that brought a laugh from a good many people. The policemen were simply a guard of honor - not there for his physical protection because I don't think anybody in that crowd of 102,000 would have lifted their hands to hurt the President or any of those of our nation who have authority. It was just a good, jolly, friendly crowd.

A lot of field glasses were turned in the direction of the President and he was a right important person during the intermission, but for the rest of the time he didn't rate with a twenty-year old boy named Blanchard and another one about the same age named Davis, and one named Scott, and one named Douden, and 17 or 18 other boys almost as important. It was a grand game and it illustrated something. Maybe it explains why we won a victory over two powerful combinations of nations.

Everybody recognized, that is everybody who knew football, recognized that Navy didn't have a chance in this ball game. Army with one of the greatest teams of any college at any time was just too much, and in the first quarter they piled up a score of 20 points, think of it - a regular Pearl Harbor as far as the Navy was concerned. They were hopelessly behind. Well, did they quit? Emphatically not. It wasn't due to any pep talk by a coach or anybody else, because this happened between quarters, not between halves. From the beginning of the second quarter until the end of the game Navy had the edge on the Army. The whole of the second quarter was scoreless until the last fifteen seconds, Navy had the ball about the center of the field,

A pass was thrown to Scott and all Scott had to do was to outrun Glenn Davis for 40 yards for a touchdown. Well, Davis is considered about the fastest football player in the United States, and he lacked just a half a step of outrunning that Scott. If he had tackled him anywhere before the end zone it would not have been a score and time would have run out, but that Scott boy did about like the Navy did in the battle of Midway. He put on that extra pound of pressure that put him into the end zone with a touchdown. The second half was almost even-Steven, with the final score being Army 32, Navy 13. The score after the first quarter being Navy 13, Army 12, and that was the ball game.

You might think that when this game was over that that was all there was to it, but wait a minute. Over the public address system the crowd was requested to wait a few minutes before leaving the stadium.

There was some ceremony taking place in the middle of the field which nobody seemed to pay much attention to, and then the National Anthem and everybody snapped to attention.

The Army band played and since we were on the Army side, we could barely hear it - just a few high notes, more like an echo, so to us it appeared that 100,000 people were standing in absolute silence with the thousands in uniform at salute and all the other men with their heads bared and a look on their faces that gripped you. In spite of ourselves there was a lump in our throats and we got a thrill that was greater even than the thrills that brought us to our feet during that magnificent ball game. I do not think there was a person in that hundred thousand who did not feel the impact of that moment.

Then the crowd melted. It did not leave, it just shuffled around. The blue block on the Navy side and the Gray block on the Army side where the Cadets were seated simply disappeared into the crowd. Each boy had somebody in that crowd he wanted to see, and in a few moments the mixture was complete and then the crowd commenced to leave. There is not much more to tell.

Getting out of Philadelphia was quite a job and fighting traffic all the way home was quite a job. Mrs. Johnston and I sat on the front seat. Leila and a young Navy Lieutenant sat on the back seat. They amused themselves counting the red lights that I ran through on the way home. I believe they got up to 20, which sounds bad but when you think of the number that I hit right the percentage wasn't so bad after all. We picked up a few dirty looks from other car drivers and an angry whistle or two from traffic cops, but all in all, our memory of the trip is one of pleasant people, kind people, tolerant people. If there ever was a sample of the cross-section of this United States it was in that stadium at Philadelphia last Saturday, and it is good to be a part of it. We could forget the wrangles that seem to be in the air about our foreign policy, the continued turmoil of strikes over our nation and for a time revel in the glory of America. To see the thousands of Midshipmen and Cadets that are our guarantee of some sort of protection in time of peace, and our strong right arm in time of war - to see these magnificent young men in their enthusiasm and loyalty to their institutions and to their country is a heartening thing. Someone has said that the Army-Navy game ought to be played in different parts of the country each year. Brother, I have got a better idea than that, let them take the road and play this game at a different place every week. Our nation could stand a lot more of it.

There is one thing that happened on the way home that we will have to tell you about. It was in Washington - we stayed in Washington long enough to go to church Sunday morning, and it was a big city church - the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. Now, you know that in a big city church you are apt to see a couple of preachers - one giving out the hymns and conducting the services and the other doing the preaching and sometimes you will find some empty seats. Well, this one was different. This preacher has been preaching the kind of sermons people are hungry to hear and this church has been crowded. They have been turning them away, so what does he do? Of course, they have tried to build a bigger church, but while they are waiting this man preaches the same sermon twice. We went to the nine o'clock service - the church was full, and that preacher certainly did not hold back. He put his whole soul into the message to that congregation. As we left the church at 10 o'clock, other worshippers were lining up for the 11 o'clock service, at which time he would preach the same sermon again to another overflow crowd. Somehow that made us feel good. We see so much and hear so much about people trying to get more and do less, and here was this man of God willing to do double duty that his message might reach more people.

It has been 45 years since I saw that other game between Army and Navy. I am not going to wait another 45, because this trip beats vitamins, daily dozens, or any of Bernarr McFadyen's recipes for bringing back a man's youth.

vives him. He is also survived two brothers Mr. William Martin of Cornelius and Mr. G. D. Martin of Troutman, and his sisters Mrs. William Moore and Mrs. W. A. Clodfelder.

Mr. Martin was a very active and loyal member of the Troutmans Baptist Church. A large gathering of friends at his funeral attested the esteem with which he was regarded.

Mr. Martin was a valued member of the force here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home. For over four years he has been the shoe repair man and assisted in the printing department. His were the hands that wrapped the Thanksgiving supplies this year and sent them out to the churches. He usually folded the Messenger and assisted in getting them into the mail. Always Mr. Martin was friendly and cheerful and ready to do his work. He will be greatly missed from among us.

just perfect for the players. A large crowd came down from Statesville and everybody had a big time for all but one minute of the game - the last one. In that brief space of time Jimmy Hayes threw a pass to Jerry Young which was good for a touchdown for Barium and the ball game. Barium had a chance to enjoy this storybook finish for a whole week and then they journeyed to Thomasville on November 30th and had the same thing done to them that they did to Statesville. Barium was leading Thomasville 7-6 up to the last minute of the game and then Thomasville scored a touchdown defeating Barium 12-7, and that wound up the long, hard season - twelve games.

While the big boys were doing all this the Midgets were busy, too. Over in Concord our 85-pound team defeated Concord 6-0. The 100-pound team defeated Concord 20-0. The B Team lost to Concord 7-0. And then Morganton visited us on the 17th and our 85-pound team defeated Morganton 21-0; the 125-pound team defeated Morganton 49-0.

The Message of the presents we most want. Now Christmas is Jesus' birthday party. Don't you think Jesus is one we should try to make happy?

I am sure Jesus wants us all to be happy on his birthday. Such is the greatness of the heart of Jesus that every blessing he has he shares with those he loves. And he knows that the greatest joy we have is in giving not getting. Did you know Jesus left directions how to give a successful party in Luke 14:12,13. He says don't invite those that will invite you or give presents just to get them back, but invite the poor and the maimed and the lame and the blind: And thou shalt be blessed.

Jesus himself was the world's first and greatest Christmas gift. He gave himself to the world to bless and save us. He did not do that in order that he might receive anything from us. So if we have the true spirit of Christmas which is the spirit of Christ we will be thinking less of what we may get and more of what we may give.

And surely we would not want to do anything on our Lord's birthday that would hurt the heart of Jesus. We would not be greedy or selfish. We would not be mean or ill tempered or fail to be considerate of others. Many people work hard many extra hours to serve us at Christmas. I think especially of sales people and men and women in the P. O. Dept. The ones who get up Christmas programs and decorate for the holidays. I think we ought to show our appreciation by being just as considerate of them as we can and helping them in every way possible.

I think we ought to be a little more thoughtful, a little more loving, a little kinder now than at any other time of year, that is the Christmas spirit, that is the way Jesus would want us to be on his birthday.

I have heard of a little boy who had just had a very happy birthday, and that night as he knelt by his bed and prayed he thanked the Heavenly Father for the blessings of the day and he closed his prayer this way; And, Dear Lord Jesus, I hope you have a happy birthday too". Christmas is our Lord's birthday lets make it a happy one for Him.

Clothing Outfits

THANKS! FRIENDS!!

Having received clothing outfits almost 100% at this time, we feel you should have this published commendation so that your good works may be known throughout the Synod. This is a great help and takes quite a load off us in providing the clothing for so many children. May each one of you receive the blessing you so richly deserve.

THE MILLS FAMILY

Hello America!

Take a good look at this picture - the rather proud looking sailor is Robert Mills. The serious looking but very youthful mother is Marie Smith Mills. The front row from left to right are, Patricia, Gurney, Jerry Wayne, and Robert L., Jr. The parents have been out of Barium Springs a surprisingly short time considering the size of their family. Robert was the oldest of a family of six raised at Barium. Marie is the oldest of a family of five. They are now the head of a family of four of their own, and seem to be making a pretty good go of it. That ought to prove something. They were sweethearts before they left Barium; they were married in a very short time after leaving. They may have had tough going during the first few years of their married life but they have conquered whatever obstacles came in their way and, as you can see, they are now a settled, happy family. A going concern, the hope of America! We are delighted to give you this picture of this family of Barium children and grandchildren. We are proud to claim them and to let you see how they look. The father, Robert, is back home now and this fine family live in Salisbury.

"The Lamb of God."

Two days later Peter and John were sent to attend to final matters in the preparation of the Passover. Judas was not sent, though he was treasurer, because Our Lord did not want him to know the place of meeting. Iest they be disturbed. They saw the room, that it was a commodious upper with all the necessary furnishings, cups, platter, copper basin, water, table, triclinia covered with cushions. They saw to the preparation of the elements which were unleavened bread, wine, sauce bitter herbs, and the paschal lamb. This lamb which had been purchased by Judas and inspected

Barium Mourns the Loss of Dr. Chas. B. Herman and Ardrey Barringer

The Barium Springs community was shocked and saddened last Saturday when we received the news of the death of our good friend, Dr. Herman. For over ten years Dr. Herman has been the guardian of our health. He examined all of the children who entered Barium Springs. He conducted our health examinations. He was our consultant about every human ailment that would hit our big family, and he was our physician of call.

Christmas Doings Something New Has Been Added

The write-up of our doings every Christmas has had a sort of sameness about it. The adjectives just grew larger as the generosity of our friends increased.

We can hardly remember the time (although there was a time) when we had to scout around to find enough people to play Santa Claus to each member of our family. Not so, now. As a matter of fact, we run out of children long before Christmas comes.

You see, all of the children write their Christmas letters and these letters are sent out to people who ask for them. During the last two years more people have asked for letters than there were letters to go out. That's what we mean when we say we ran out of children long before Christmas.

It has been difficult to buy toys and gifts, and yet somehow the friends of Barium have gotten the most delightful and enjoyable presents to send to the children here, so that our Christmases have been an increasing delight, and were this a usual Christmas we would just end up by saying that it was the best ever in the way of gifts, but there was something added.

For a number of years many of us have felt that our Christmases were just a little bit one-sided - there was too much getting and not enough opportunity for giving. One small group - (a cottage of small boys) several years ago started out being the Christmas man for a family of colored people who live on the place. The Christmas letters from this home came to these boys, and they, out of their own earnings bought the Christmas things for this family and they got such a whale of a kick out of it that they were rather envied by some of the others on the campus.

This year in our search for something we hit upon an idea that was discussed at a recent meeting in Chapel Hill. This idea, by the way, came from Mr. Fred Behrends, of the Greer School in (Continued On Page Two)

He was the one person outside of Barium Springs who knew every child here, and his ministrations were so kindly and sympathetic that no child was ever afraid of him.

We all loved Dr. Herman. We had the utmost confidence in his skill as a doctor and his understanding of our ailments. We mourn his loss because he was one of us. We feel that we have lost a member of our family.

Dr. Herman's companion in death was Ardrey Barringer - a young man not many years in business - but a young man who had already displayed such generous habits and willingness to share whatever prosperity he may have had that Barium feels that in his death we have lost a friend.

Many kind things can be traced back to this fine young man. Barium feels doubly bereaved in this tragedy.

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the news for this month.

We are very happy to have Miss Jackson from Annie Louise cottage to be our matron since Mrs. Clendenin left. We are making improvements in our cottage each day and it is really beginning to look nice.

Patty Inman and Shirley Thomas were the only girls in our cottage that made the honor roll and we are very proud of them. We hope to have a lot more next month. Everyone has been having such a nice time playing with our games and toys that we didn't want to do our lessons.

Santa was very good to us this Christmas. Most everyone got everything they asked for in their letters to Santa Claus.

We want to thank the circle from Morganton for the nice gifts they sent to each child in our cottage. (Continued On Page Two)

(FORM OF BEQUEST)

"I give and bequeath to the REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME OF THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated Under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (HERE NAME THE BEQUEST)

MESSAGE OF THE PULPIT

by the priests, they took to the temple. At one-thirty they stood without the temple gate and heard the silver trumpets blow two blasts and the gates opened. Again the trumpets sound, and the great choral choir sang the Eighty-first Psalm.

"Sing aloud unto God Our strength: make a joyful noise unto the God of Jacob. Take a psalm, and bring hither the timbrel, the pleasant harp with the psaltery. blow up the trumpet in the full moon, in the time appointed, on our solemn feast day.

Hear, O my people, and I will testify unto thee: O Israel, if thou wilt hearken unto me. There shall no strange god be in thee; neither shalt thou worship any strange god. I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt: open they mouth wide, and I will fill it."

Then Peter and John together with the other worshippers killed the lamb in their hands with a knife. The 24 courses of priests were drawn up in long rows. They caught the blood in golden basins and passed it to the altar where part was sprinkled on the altar and the rest was poured at the foot and carried by sewers out to the brook kedron. During this ceremony, the Hallel was sung, the worshippers joining with the choir in the singing of certain of the choruses. These same Psalms which are called the Hallel are used during the Passover feast proper as we shall presently see.

The lambs were dressed. Certain fatty parts were burned on the altar. Then they were trussed up with pomgranite wood, wrapped again in their skins and carried home to be roasted.

At sunset our Lord and his disciples met in their appointed place. When three stars appeared the priests at the temple sound the trumpets and the time for the solemn ceremonial has come.

They stand about the table as the first cup consisting of half a tumbler of water mixed with wine is before them, they repeat, "Praise unto Thee, O Lord our God, King of the world, who hast brought forth from the earth its fruits."

Jesus said, "With desire, I have desired to eat this passover." After the cup had been drunk, they began to seek the places and each pushed for the places of most importance near the head of the table. Jesus rebuked them sharply yet tenderly saying I am among you as he that serveth." I think it was then at the time of the usual washing of hands that he took the copper basin and washed their feet and said I have given you an example. It would seem that John had the place on the right of Christ, Judas the place on the left, and Peter with his impulsive nature had at Christ's rebuke taken the lowest seat directly opposite John. In his temporary humility he said, "Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus said, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no place in me. And Peter having one of his quick conversations said "Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head."

Then the Paschal dishes were brought in; The Paschal lamb roasted whole, two or three round cakes of unleaven bread, a dish of bitter herbs, like a salad, (bitter to typify the bitterness of bondage in Egypt.) Charoseth, a sauce made of almonds, dates, figs, raisins and vinegar. As they were bringing on the meal Christ was troubled in spirit and said, "One of you will betray me." They began to say, "Lord, Who is it?" Jesus replied, "It was the one to whom he would give the sop. And woe unto that man by whom the Son of Man shall be betrayed. It were better for that man if he had never been born." Judas said, "Teacher, is it I." And Jesus replied so low that the rest could not hear, "Thou has said." He then took the bitter herbs and dipping them into the sauce he handed it to Judas saying, "This is the bread of affliction which our fathers ate in Egypt." Judas took it and went out.

Again they washed their hands after which followed the second cup with this benediction, "We are bound to give thanks to praise, to laud, to glorify, and to extoll Him that hath done for our fathers and for us these wonders; Who hath brought us from bondage to freedom, from sorrow to rejoicing, from mourning to a good day, from darkness to a great light, from affliction to redemption; therefore must we say before Him Hallelujah, Praise ye the Lord. Then were sung the first part of the Great Hallel Psalms 113-114.

Then the Passover proper was partaken. Christ took of the lamb, bitter herbs, and bread, and dipped it into the sauce and passed it to another. Then the youngest person present asked, "What is the meaning of this supper?" He replied, "This is the passover which we eat because the Lord passed over the houses of our fathers in Egypt; All hungry ones come and eat; all needy ones come and keep this passover." The Paschal supper being ended Our Lord instituted that supper which has among Christians since that time been celebrated. Though even at this time the feast of the passover is observed by the Jews.

It was at the third cup called, the Cup of Blessing that the Lord's Supper was instituted. Our Lord took of the broken peice of unleaven bread and broke it anew and said, "This is my body." And he took the cup and gave thanks and said, "This is my blood shed for many for the remission of sins, this do as oft as you drink it in remembrance of me."

And when they had sung an hymn; the section of the Hallel parts of Psalms 115-118 for the conclusion, they went out. Would that we might catch some echo of the song that comforted the heart of Christ and fortified Him for the Garden of Gethsemane, Pilate's Hall Golgotha.

CHRISTMAS DOINGS

New York, and the idea was to have a Christmas tree sometime during the holidays in which we would give to rather than get things from. We debated during the fall as to just what cause or people we would give to. It was finally decided to make a Christmas present to the children of the colored Orphanage at Oxford, N. C.

There was no particular campaign made about this, no pressure put on it, but it culminated in a most happy night for us. We will try to describe that night. It was December 19th, Wednesday night before Christmas. We did not have a regular supper that night, but all the tables in the dining room were heaped up with fruit and nuts and paper plates with sandwiches. All of the children and all the neighborhood gathered in the dining room. It did not take long to dispose of the sandwiches. Then the music started. Mr. Arrowood, our Treasurer, is quite a hand when it comes to getting groups to sing. He is full of music himself and has a way of coaxing it out of folks. Miss Green at the piano just makes everybody want to sing anyhow. So we sang Christmas Carols just for fun.

There was a Christmas tree right in the middle of the dining room with no decorations or gifts on it at all. At a table right near this Christmas tree there were two girls. They had a quantity of cardboard decorations with strings in them. These decorations had been made by our own print shop; there was also a bowl to hold money. Any person who came up to make a contribution got a decoration - then this person would go and hang it on the tree. Now, in the dining room there were something over 400 people. To keep it from being too confusing, several of the cottages of the smaller children had received their decorations beforehand so they could come up in groups, and if they needed any help in tying on their decorations there was a flock of boys there to help. It happened that during Christmas time a number of our service boys came in. There was one from the Air Corps there was one from a Submarine, there was one from a destroyer, and there was one from Boot Camp, and they took great delight in helping the little ones arrange their decorations tastefully.

There was a lot of confusion - just enough to make the whole occasion a happy one. Nobody tried to be quiet and yet the noise was not the kind that would get on anyone's nerves. We sang Christmas Carols right along during all of the confusion and in a very short time - all too short, in fact - in less than an hour every person in that big dining room had placed a decoration on the tree and in the bowl there was a surprisingly generous contribution. There was $112.65, which went the next morning in a check to the colored orphanage of North Carolina at Oxford. That morning the money continued to come in - the colored folks on the place had heard about it and they sent in $3.50 and all of this went on to the same place.

On Sunday morning we received a letter from the superintendent of this Orphanage at Oxford which was a beautiful letter. We doubt if we have ever received a more appreciative letter from anybody about anything. The gift was a complete surprise to them, but we are sure that the pleasure which they got from the use of that gift could not exceed the pleasure that the Barium family got out of making it.

We feel sure that this business of giving will become a regular habit at Barium. We will probably choose a different object for our gift each year. It will be discussed and decided on by vote well before next Christmas. We are glad that we chose the colored Orphanage as the recipient of our first gift.

At first we had some misgivings about telling the general public about it they might get the notion that any set of children who could dig up over one hundred dollars to give away before Christmas did not need very much in the way of gifts themselves. Let us disabuse your mind of any idea like that. A lot of this money was out of savings from work. One whole cottage very diligently gathered leaves all last fall - they were paid so much a bag for them. Their mouths at times watered over the thought of what they were going to do with that money which was slowly accumulating in the office for them. They were going to have a big splurge, but as Christmas approached that cottage unanimously voted to give all of their money received for gathering leaves to this fund.

The Baby Cottage crowd - that's the place where nickels look awfully big - most of their money handling comes in pennies. Every one in that Baby Cottage made a contribution. It wasn't much in the lump - but to see those little tykes march up and take their decorations would make you think that they were responsible for the success of the whole business, and maybe they were not so far wrong at that.

The weatherman was a little rough on us Christmas. We did not have any lights - we didn't have much of a way to cook and very little heat, and before they got the lines repaired we had very little water, but it might have been a lot worse. With all of the sleet and snow it didn't get very cold, and the gifts that each person received somehow helped keep our bodies warm. And we got through the day with out anybody being much the worse for wear.

We can't help but think that maybe our blood ran just a little warmer and we were just a little stronger due to the fact that we had all joined in doing a kind deed before we accepted the many kind deeds of our friends. Thanks to Mr. Fred Behrends for the idea, thanks to the folks at the Colored Orphanage for being so appreciative in their thanks, and thanks to everybody at Barium - wait a minute, it looks like everybody is getting thanked for this thing. Isn't it a pity that there could not be more events in our lives like that - maybe after all we should just let it go and thank God for the period when we celebrate the gift of His Son to the world - the greatest gift of all.

tage. It helped to make our Christmas a happier one.

Well, I guess that is all for this month so good-bye till next month.

SYNODS COTTAGE

Well folks Christmas has come and gone. We had such a good time playing with our toys. Everybody was so good to us. We are always so happy at Christmas, that we want to have a part in making other people happy too. So we played Santa Claus to Willie Barber's children. Willie is a colored man who works on the campus. He has four children. It was more fun going shopping for the things they had asked for. Then we all helped tie them up with bright red ribbons. We also had a part in the Christmas gift tree, but I expect somebody else will tell you about that.

We want to wish all of you a very happy new year.

—The Wiggless.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks,

We have several down here with Chicken Pox, but they are doing just fine.

We had a very merry Christmas and want to thank all of our kind friends for the beautiful presents.

From our cottage this month Vivian Jacumin, Betsy Dishman, Lucille Smith, and Jean McDonald were on the honor roll.

There has been some new children to come in. David Reid from Lillington and three Terry children whose mother is kitchen matron. She certainly can cook some wonderful meals.

Betsy Dishman had a visit from her sister and some friends from Mooresville. Vivian Jacumin is expecting a visit from her sister and brother-in-law who has just returned from Germany.

Paul Reid who has been here on the campus has now a permanent position in Alabama. That's a long way Lucille, but there is still a future.

Mrs. McNatt had a visit from her son Charles and his wife. Charles has just returned from Manila and is discharged from the Army.

We'll say so long 'til next month.

Barium's Chief Worrier

MR. HARRY E. BARKLEY

This is a picture of Mr. Harry Barkley. In addition to being the principal of the grammar grades he is the coach of both boys and girls in basketball. There are times during the year when he looks terribly imposed upon, and then you occasionally catch the expression which is on his face in this picture. This is the way he looked in the last moment of the Barium-Kannapolis game. Here's how come: the Barium teams had been going through a hectic two weeks. They had been having trouble with teams that were 'way below them in the standings - the girls had barely won from Lexington. They had lost to the Children's Home by a scant three-point margin. They had tied Statesville after being in the lead with less than 15 seconds to go. His boys come from behind in one game to win by one point, in another game by two points, and then finally to lose to Statesville by two points after leading Statesville. So when we went to play Kannapolis on their court, Kannapolis being 'way out in front, the only undefeated and un-scared team of the conference, most of us really just expected to hold the score down to something respectable. Well, our boys took the lead at the beginning of the game and never relinquished it - it ran from two points to six points, and the game ended with four points. The above expression on Mr. Barkley's face was caught just as Earl Adams scored an amazing shot in the last thirty seconds to really sew up the game. It appears that friend Barkley is beginning to realize that the world is a fairly decent place to live in after all - this dawning realization can be observed in his expression - maybe mixed with it is the thought that Barium still has a chance to come out on top in the conference, although a mighty slim chance.

News From Some of the Cottages

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends,

Here are the dish washers again bringing you our news. We have so much news we don't know where to begin.

We have two new matrons now. Mrs. Wood from Greenville, S. C., is our dining room matron. Our upstairs matron is Eleanor Pope. We like them both very much.

We can hardly wait until our new preacher arrives.

We went to the show Saturday and sure had a grand time. A man by the name of Robert Stowe is very good in supplying us with candy, and is also a good friend of ours.

The weather is warm and sunny and we enjoy playing basketball out of doors.

We have two girls sick in the infirmary, we hope they will soon be back with us.

We had better close and say son college spent Sunday at Barium.

so long for this month, we will be thinking about you all.

So long friends,

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the latest news from our cottage. We have scraped around in our cottage to get some news but I think we have just about run out.

We have quite a few girls in the Infirmary and it certainly seems lonesome without them. Hurry up girls.

February 20th is the birthday of one of our teachers who lives in this cottage and we would like to say Happy Birthday, Miss Blakeney and everyone else who has a birthday in February. Some of her friends sent her a big cake in the shape of a drum and we had a party. Boy I wish birthdays came more often. We played games and then we had lemonade and cake.

Winter Sports

The basketball season is little more than half over and the Barium teams have acquitted themselves well. There have been some hair-raising one-point victories, and just the same sort of defeats.

In the warm-ups before the conference season started we lost a couple of games to Union Grove. Union Grove was the Mid-Piedmont champion of 1945 in the girls' division, and most of their team is back this year. It was Barium's first game and we lost both of them. Then our B teams went to Troutman just for a warm-up for their varsity teams that are beginning to function again. Barium won both of those games. Against China Grove our girls won, our boys lost. Then with Scotts that one-point business started. Our girls won 30-29; our boys more than doubled the score.

Then the conference games started. Our first game was with Concord. The Concord girls were co-champions for 1945; our girls defeated them 35-26, and our boys took them over for 33-21. Then Lexington visited us. We did not expect to find a very strong girl's team but we had a good deal of difficulty in beating them - the score was 31-28; the boys' game was 43-26 in our favor. Then we (Continued On Page Two)

SCHOOL NOTES

The Stronghold Bible Class of Caldwell Memorial Presbyterian Church of Charlotte recently sponsored an essay contest in our school. The subject used, was, "Why I Should Put God First in My Life." Eight high school students participated in the contest. An age limit caused those taking part to come largely from the ninth and tenth grades. First prize, a twenty five dollar bond, went to Bradley Jean Manus of the tenth grade. Second prize, a beautiful picture of Christ was received by Mary Dickson Arrowood of the ninth grade. The others who wrote essays were Charles Barrett, Ernestine Baldwin, Dorothy Shepherd, Peggy Coffey, Betty Coffey, and Virginia Presnell. Each of these participants received a small picture of Christ.

Friday, February 8th, the High School Glee Club gave a program at Mitchell College at their Chapel Hour. Three numbers were sung by the entire Glee Club, and one by a double quartet. There are thirty-one members of the Glee Club. Mrs. J. P. Johnston, the director, is planning to have our school take part in the State Music Contest in April.

A few weeks ago the school acquired a very valuable piece of equipment: a 16 MM sound, movie projector. Three or four educational pictures are shown each week.

Several of the teachers have been on the sick list during recent weeks. One teacher was lost by marriage just before Christmas, Miss Frances Hildebrand of Troutman. Fortunately, we were able to secure Mr. R. E. Sigman to take her place.

This school was not affected by the bad weather, and bad roads; so the seven members of the senior class expect to receive their diplomas on schedule, Monday May 13th.

THE GLORY OF THE COMMONPLACE

II Cor. 4:7—We have this treasure in earthen vessels.

Dr. J. R. Miller tells us that a number of years ago some Americans were in Cairo for a journey across the desert. They went out to buy some vessels to carry their supply of water for the journey. And they bought in accordance with their pleasure. Some bought brass vessels beautifully engraved, others bought porcelain delicately ornamented, others bought plain earthen ware vessels. The brass vessels heated and the water became tainted, the porcelain cracked and the water was lost; so the old earthen ware vessel was found to be the most useful as it preserved the water and kept it cool. Therefore, in its usefulness, the earthen vessel shone more brightly than brass and was more beautiful than porcelain for the treasure was safe in the earthen vessel.

The life, death, and teachings of Jesus have been eloquent of the beauties and glories of the earthen vessel.

We are near to Lincoln's birthday and much will be said of the home-spun hero of the little log cabin home, of the splitting of rails, etc. But think of how Christ changed a stable into a shrine and made of a manger a cradle venerated throughout time. It may be that on the night that Christ was born, Caesar Augustus had a great reception in Rome. There, as they reclined about sumptuous repasts with vessels of gold and silver and the rich viands from all over the world, suppose someone had the gift of prophecy to say, "Tonight your imperial highness, there is born in a stable in the province of Judea of peasant blood, One Who shall establish the greatest kingdom ever known, Who will be known and loved when you are forgotten and even the time of your illustrious reign will be dated from his birth." How that would have amused Caesar. But the stable at Bethlehem today is the object of teeming millions of pilgrims to who Augustus Caesar is unknown and his palace forgotten.

The same might be said of the little town of Nazareth which was a by-word in those days, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" But now we sing in our hymns of Nazareth and Bethlehem glorified by the presence of Christ.

I suppose if Jesus had seen fit, He could have selected as His birth-place the finest palace in Jerusalem. I suppose He could have gone to the greatest universities and schools in the world, but He chose for His college, a carpenter's shop. And I think He did that because He knew that some day He would stand and say, "Come unto me all ye that labor," and He did not want anyone to say, "What does He know about me, or the way I have to live, or the work I have to do." Jesus took homes and scenes more humble, more crude, more austere, and more uncomfortable than we can know or imagine and made a halo of glory to shine about them.

I suppose He could have select- (Continued On Page 5)

ed as His friends and familiars on earth the most prominent people, the richest families in the land, but He chose the fisher folk of the Sea of Galilee, and I think He did that because when He says, "I have called you friends," He does not want anyone to feel that Jesus was above them. The church is made up of all sorts of folks and I know of no church that does not extend it's heartiest welcome to everybody of whatever station. But there are those who rightly or wrongly feel that the Church feels above them. They can never lay that charge against Christ or a true follower of His. Herod was doubtless riding in a pleasure boat of silken sails all aflutter with flags and pennants. The Emperor Tiberias doubtless sailed about the Mediteranean with trireme driven by scores of galley slaves. But Jesus elected to go about in the boats of fishermen odoruous with the smell of fish. And the friendships he formed and cemented there were the beginning of life time ocmpanionships. His thorough fellowship on the Galilian Lake lead His friends into a higher service, "Fishers of Men." Yes, the presence of Jesus with the fishermen of Galilee have surrounded that Lake with a halo of glory.

Jesus found treasures in earthen vessels in His teachings. Doubtless Jesus loved the mountains, He spent a great deal of time there. I am sure he observed sunsets. He may have stood on some rocky promontory and watched the waves roll in from the Mediteranean Sea. But you find in Christ's teaching no high flown rhapsodies on these marvelous works of nature. His hearers might not have had imagination enough to follow that. But when he picked up a little dead bird and said, "Are not two sparrows sold for a cent, but this one did not fall to the ground without my Father", they understood that. Or a bit of an earthen ware lamp placed on something to give light, or the sower sowing seed; or the shepherd seeking a lost sheep. The world has the profound thoughts of Socrates and Plato and Aristotle and is the richer for them. But who can estimate what it has meant to have a Savior who has surrounded in His teaching the ordinary things of life with a hal of glory.

Jesus in His parables spoke of many classes of men, kings, lords, princess, judges, farmers, tax gatherers, fishermen, merchantmen, but I want you to especially observe His glorifying the profession of the shepherd. Our conception of the shepherd of Palestine is high and noble. It was not so regarded as a whole in Palestine. It did not require any degree of education, intelligence, or industry to be a shepherd. It was a lazy man's job and shepherds generally were not held in such high esteem. But Jesus seizing upon the heroic elements, the romantic features of a rather unheroic and unromantic occupation and drawing from them beautiful lessons has made for us compelling figure, has given to the shepherds of today a standard toward which to aspire and has surrounded the shepherd and his flock with a halo of glory.

The same may be said of childhood. We speak now of them, "Trailing clouds of glory, From God Who is their Home." They were not so considered before Christ. And no one else ever spoke of children as He did. They might want the children to be saints, but they never commanded the saints to be children. None other so tenderly took them up with words of kindness and blessed them. The encircling arms of Christ has ever surrounded childhood with a halo of glory.

I wish you to notice to the monument by which He wishes to be remembered. When Mausolus, King of Carea, prepared for death, he prepared a vault upon a base 250 feet high, on which stood a chamber surrounded by an inoic colonade of 36 columns, and upon this was a pyramid of 24 steps. Upon the truncated apex of this pryamid was a marble four horse chariot and in the chariot colossal statues of Mausolus and his wife, Artimisia. When cheaps wanted to build a monument, he got great blocks of stone averaging 40 cubic feet and drew them from the hills across the Nile and built an edifice covering 13 acres; containing 3,057,000 cubic yards; a weight of no less than 6,848,000 tons; rising to a height of 482 feet. But when the King of Kings was erecting His Memorial, He took the earthen vessel containing some unleaven bread and he took weakened sour wine and He blessed and broke it and gave it and said, "This do in remembrance of me." The Mausoleum of Hili-carnassus has long since fallen into ruins, and while the Pyramids still stand in solitary grandeur, they have little place in the thoughts of the world; but memories, the sweetest and tenderest today surrounds the Savior, His eleven followers, and the simple repast, with the shekinah glory.

The gallows has strangled the breath of many a noble spirit; the guilloteen has let the life blood from many a noble heart, but neither one of them is revered today.

Crucifixion was the most shameful of deaths. The old song is true— "On a hill far away stood an old rugged Cross, the emblem of suffering and shame." The Romans reserved crucifixion for the punishment of the foulest criminals of the foreigners. No Roman was crucified. But Jesus dies on the Cross and now the Cross is transformed. Well has Alfred Noyes written: "Whence came this prentice Carpenter, Whose voice hath shaken kingdoms down, whose menial gibbit rises triumphant o'r the wreck of empires and stretches out its arms amongst the Stars."

The Cross reconciled God and man. The Cross saves from sin. "So we love that old Cross for the dearest and best, for a world of lost sinners was slain."

No doubt in this day of careless thought, the Cross is often carelessly sacrelegiously used to ornament an arch or to enhance decoletee beauty, but to those who believe it is the power of God, so that Christians of every tongue sing: "In the Cross of Christ I glory, Towering o'r the wrecks of time, All the light of sacred story, Gathers round his head sublime."

Paul tells us in another place that there are all sorts of vessels, some of honor and some of dishonor, but we have this treasure in earthen vessels, the power of God. Jesus said, "The glory that thou hast given me, I've given them." What poor specimens of humanity we find in a world without Christ, but how Christ can transform them by His presence even as He transformed the son of Thunder, and Simon called Peter, and Thomas, the Doubter.

How Bigbee has shown us in his "Twice Born Men", old Born Drunk and the rest of them, Jerry McAuley, Billy Sunday, Tim Ranney, Tom Farmer, and scores of others transformed by the re-newing of their mind.

We wonder at the sunset glories and we wonder the more when we learn that those colors are not reflected by air, for air is perfectly transparent. They are reflected by minute particles of dust; dust glorified by light reflected. I wonder if that is not the picture of a Christian and I wonder if there would be as much glory of Christ on earth if there was no Christians, "earthly though they be, to reflect Him.

We all with unveiled face beholding as in a mirror the glory of the Lord are transformed into the same image from glory to glory even as from the Lord, the Spirit."

made a trip over to the Children's Home at Winston-Salem. Our girls lost their first conference game 35-23; our boys won 24-22 — a two point margin. We then went to Concord where we had it rather easy, defeating their girls 21-16, and their boys 24-15. Then we went to Monroe where our girls won 50-22; our boys won 40-34 but Monroe was leading in the last quarter. Then at Mooresville our girls won 35-18, but our boys tied up at the end of the regular game and oame through with three points to win in the extra period 36-33. Mooresville led during most of the fourth quarter.

Then to Lexington — our girls barely won 22-20; our boys won in the last fifteen seconds 32-31, with Lexington leading all of the fourth quarter but the last fifteen seconds.

Then the Children's Home again they defeated our girls 21-18, although we led for a brief moment before the end of the game. Our boys lost 35-20. And then Statesville, and when the final whistle blew our girls had tied Statesville 25-25 and our boys lost 25-23.

The junior teams at this writing, have only had one game each, our ninth grade girls losing to Statesville 15-10; the 125lb. boys losing to Statesville 29-7.

Here is what we have yet to play: Kannapolis, their boys' team is leadaing the conference so far undefeated; then a game with Union Grove, not a conference game; then with Mornroe, Mooresville, and return games with Kannapolis and Statesville, and then the tournament. We will probably enter the Landis tournament and the Salisbury tournament. Our junior teams will enter the tournament at Barium about the middle of March. When that's all over there will be some tired referee's whistles or tired ears fom hearing those whistles, and maybe some tired basketballs, the players won't seem tired a bit.

FOUL-WEATHER FRIENDS
Tim Burton had no faith in human nature. He formulated the idea at an early age that a man had to fight for everything he got, and that the other fellow was not to be considered—unless one could afford to do so. But Tim learned also that society was dependent on itself for its existence. He therefore determined to like people, despite his disbelief in them.

Tim developed a pleasing personality. People liked him because he pretended to like them. He was ambitious and successful. Before he reached the age of twenty-one he had overcome the handicap of poverty-stricken parents. At twenty-five, Tim Burton was near a millionaire. Before he was thirty, he had doubled his first million. Then he quit; he reasoned he had enough money. Now he determined to spend it in a manner to suit himself. His habit of liking people caused him to enter upon some unique experiments. He decided to search out young people who were trying to get a foothold in their chosen professions, and give them a boost.

He found young doctors, lawyers, writers, singers, engineers, and actors, young businessmen and bewildered youths. He traveled the length and breadth of the country, and whenever he located someone who was working hard and not getting ahead, he would present a sizeable voucher, consistently refusing collateral.

Tim acquired a reputation. He became known as "Liberal Tim." People flocked to him, and he never turned a deaf ear to an honest request. He had no illusions. He did not decieve himself into believing that if something happened to him, and he needed help, these selfsame people would rush and fight to pay the debt. He did not believe that things worked out that way in the scheme of life. People would fight to get, but not to give. That was natural human instinct. The friends he had made were fair-weather friends—and that was all right with him. Some men bought ocean cruisers, or fine houses, or furs and jewels. He chose to buy the vision of hope in the eyes of a despairing young singer. There was no difference, as he saw it.

Tim Burton's reputation spread far and wide. His friends began to wonder if there was no end to his wealth. Tim did not worry about this; he was too shrewd, he figured, to lose all his money. But something did happen. A bank failed. An oil well ran dry. A prospecting expedition failed. One day Tim Burton found himself a bankrupt. He grinned, and disappeared. He wanted to spare his friends the pain of refusing to return the favor. He thought they would want to forget what he had done, and would avoid him.

For two years Tim roamed the world under an assumed name, trying to recoup his fortune. One day in New York he came face to face with Frank Stone, an old friend. He pretended not to know Stone, and endeavored to pass, but Stone exclaimed, "For the life of me—Tim Burton!"

Tim was caught. He merely said, "Hello, Frank."

"I am in a terrible rush, Tim," continued Stone; "where are you living?"

"Oh, at the Wise Bard quarters," answered Tim, and regretted the answer the next moment. Stone shook his hand vigorously and disappeared. "Well," said Tim under his breath, "it's what I asked for, and I can take it."

Four nights later five men called at the Wise Bard to see "Tim Burton." They were informed there was no such man registered. But after a minute description of the man sought, the host produced "John Sampson."

"Tim," exclaimed the men, "we know you; you will have to come with us."

Tim endeavored to withdraw, but the spokesman took his arm gently, and he walked away with them. Fearing that he might be suspected as a fugitive, he asked the men to explain, but they pushed him into a waiting cab.

In a few minutes the cab stopped in front of a great building. There were crowds of people in front, cheering and shouting. Tim thought he could hear his name called. The men rushed him through the crowd into a great room in the building. The room was filled with people—thousands of them, it seemed to Tim. The men led him to the rostrum, and gave him a seat. Confused and bewildered, he endeavored to speak to the men, but the cheers drowned his words.

One of the five men stood up to speak. Tim now saw it was Frank Stone. He talked glowingly of some man's honor. Tim was too excited to comprehend the meaning of what was happening. Finally Stone stepped up to Tim, and said affectionately, "Folks, here's the fellow I mean."

Two men lifted Tim to his feet. The cheering was tumultuous. Tim began to see a new light in human nature. He looked at the audience and recognized many of the old faces—the faces of those he had assisted with his money. Someone was elbowing his way to the front. Then he thrust a slip of paper into Tim's hand. A tiny note was attached, which read: "Just a little token of appreciation from the folks you befriended." The slip was a voucher for a large sum of money.

"Frank—" Tim turned to his old friend, "Frank, tell these foul-weather friends of mine—" But the tumult of cheers made further speech impossible. Tim's eyes were drenched, and in his throat was a something that would not down.

Richard Hill Wilkinson.

RULES FOR GRAMMAR

Three little words you often see are articles a, an, and the.

A noun's the name of anything, as school, or garden, hoop or swing.

Adjectives tell the kind of noun, as great, small, pretty, white, or brown.

Instead of nouns, the pronouns stand: her head, his face, your arms, my hand.

Verbs tell of something to be done: to read, count, sing, laugh, jump, or run.

How things are done, the adverbs tell, as slowly, quickly, ill, or well.

Conjunctions join the words together, as men and women, wind or weather.

The preposition stands before a noun, as in or through a door.

The interjection shows surprise, as O! how pretty; O! how wise.

The whole are called nine parts of speech, which reading, writing, speaking teach.

Reminiscences of Little Joe

East Gastonia, N. C.
March 10, 1946

Mr. Joseph B. Johnston,
Dear Mr. Johnston:

The literature on Barium you sent me reached me safely, and I found it to be very interesting, especially the pamphlet on Little Joe's Church. This brought to my mind things I have not thought of for many years.

I must say that it is true Joe's favorite song was "When the roll is called up yonder," although I had not thought of that in many years.

Joe could be crying and we could say, "Laugh Joe, Laugh," and he could start laughing with the tears still rolling down his cheeks. Once we were singing songs in the chapel and we sang "Old Black Joe," and Joe began crying. Miss Celeste Boyd said, "Joe, we are not singing about you, we are singing about a black man named Joe." Then Joe began laughing with tears still rolling down his cheeks. We also sang "Hail Columbia, Call the Muster Roll, All true men are with you heart and soul, Wave Old Glory, let the eagle scream. Truth and right and justice are supreme." Joe thought the words of the last line were "truth and right and just a saucer of cream."

The Pastor's Paragraph

By REV. F. B. BENTON

"A Light in a Dark World"

The world in which we live is a place of beauty and goodness in which God has made bountiful provision for all the needs of his creatures. But evil long ago made its entrance into God's world and the trail of the serpent which is everywhere evident has time and again threatened to obscure the handiwork of the Creator. The day in which we live is dark with problems brought on by hate and greed and fear. Men yearn for something that will lighten the darkness and give them assurance that good will prevail.

God in his wisdom and love has provided an unfailing light for all who will use it. The Psalmist, facing the evil and darkness of his own day, knew of this light and exclaimed, "Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." And Peter, writing centuries later in another period of darkness, echoes, "We have the word of prophecy made more sure, whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a lamp that shineth in a dark place."

The scripture makes a definite claim to throw light upon the areas of greatest human need. Throughout the Old Testament a beacon is focused upon the coming Christ who shall win the victory over evil for all men. The New Testament presents the claim of Jesus of Nazareth to be this deliverer and King and offers the promise of His unfailing care to all His followers. To those sunk in sin it says that "He that believeth is not condemned". To those confronted by death it says that "he that believeth hath everlasting life." To those who are worried (and there is cause for worry today if ever) it declares, "Be careful for nothing but — let your requests be made known unto God, and the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." No matter

Death Notice

"Mrs. Prayer Meeting died recently at the First Neglected Church, on Worldly Avenue." Born many years ago in the midst of great revivals, she was a strong healthy child, fed largely on testimony and scriptural holiness, soon growing into world-wide prominence, and was one of the most influential members of the famous church family.

For the past several years Sister Prayer Meeting has been in failing health, gradually wasting away until rendered helpless by stiffness of knees, coldness of heart, inactivity, and weakness of purpose and willpower. At the last she was but a shadow of her former self. Her last whispered words were inquiries concerning the strange absence of her loved ones, now absent from her presence, busy in the marts of trade and places of worldly amusement. Her older brother, Brother Classmeeting, has been dead for many years.

"Experts, including Dr. Works, Dr. Reform and Dr. Joiner, disagreed as to the cause of her fatal illness, administering large doses

Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Benton and Elizabeth

The entire community at Barium is overjoyed at the coming of the new pastor and his family to Little Joe's Church. You will see the three reasons why just above. The whole family of three has already endeared themselves to everyone.

Rev. Francis B. Benton is a native of Alabama. He graduated from Southwestern University at Memphis in 1936, with the degree of B. A. After teaching two years at McCallie School in Chattanooga he took his Seminary training at Columba Seminary, Decatur, Ga. where he graduated in 1941 with the degree of B. D.

Mr. Benton was licensed and ordained by the Presbytery of Knoxville, May 11, 1941.

Before coming to Barium Mr. Benton had served in two very successful pastorates in Etowah and Dyersburg, Tenn.

In January 1944, Mr. Benton was married to Miss Mildred Thomas of Charlotte. Mrs. Benton is a graduate of the Assembly's Training School in Richmond, Va.

The third and most interesting member of the family group is Elizabeth Louise better known as Betty.

We heartily and happily welcome this family to Presbyterian Orphans' Home. We cordially invite the members of our Messenger Family to attend worship with us and hear Mr. Benton preach. We are sure you will agree with us that we are very fortunate in securing this man who has accepted the unanimous call of Little Joe's Church.

Barium Teams Wind Up Successful Season

Last month's Messenger brought the story of our 1946 Basketball up through February 5th, then on February 8th the most exciting games of the whole year were played at Kannapolis. Our girls defeated Kannapolis 24-13, but did not have too easy a time doing it. Our boys pulled an upset, winning 29-25. This was the first defeat administered to the Kannapo-

Finally, And In Conclusion

For several months since the departure of Rev Thos. C. Cook and the coming of the new pastor, Rev Francis B. Benton, I have been privileged to write a sermon each month for the Messenger.

I wish to express my thanks for the letters received and the kind words spoken about my efforts.

I am sure we may all look forward with pleasure and profit to the fine things which will come from Mr. Benton's pen.

R. S. ARROWOOD.

Library Notes

Our library here at Barium is one of the things we are very proud of. Perhaps no other school in Iredell County system has so well equipped library as ours.

We use the library page system whereby students under the general supervision of Miss Ruth Troutman, English and French teacher, take charge of the library during the periods when the students go there for reference work, reading or studying. Mary Morgan has charge of the over-due notices; Jeane Steppe, of the stock room; Miriam Huddleston keeps the two big rooms neat and attractive, looking after our plants, bulletin board and the general appearance; Blanche Feimster takes the responsibility of seeing that the magazines and periodicals are properly stamped and put in place. Other student librarians who "keep the desk" and aid pupils in finding materials are: Dewie Belle Buie, Lucy Gray Johnson, Lavona Morrison, Dorothy Shepherd, Janie Hall, Helen Vinson and Margaret Katen.

We use the card catalogue sys-

Memorial Fund Cashes To Grow

The Memorial Fund for the new church of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home continues to grow steadily. It has attained the wonderful total of $43,364.23 which is the actual value of the bonds and cash on hand. For the past two years this fund has grown on the average of one thousand dollars per month.

If building conditions were normal we would begin at once on the first unit of our building as we estimate that in normal times we could build either the auditorium or the Educational Building for $50,000. But owing to abnormal building conditions the Committee on Buildings and Grounds do not plan at this time to begin any major building program. They hope that by waiting, to get much better value for the funds contributed as memorials.

While no final plans have been approved by the regents it is thought that the Auditorium and the Educational Building can be erected for $100,000. We are happy that we have made such fine progress toward reaching that goal.

Attends Convention In Winston-Salem

On March 8th and 9th in Winston-Salem at the Robert E. Lee hotel, the annual State Beta Club Convention was held. Four of us members - W. A. Johnson, Maggie Katen, Lucile Smith, and Dewie Belle Buie were chosen to represent our local chapter. We were very fortunate to be accommodated with nice living quarters at Children's Home. A talent show was staged by Beta members of various chapters on Friday night. The show lasted well into the night but none became restless, because skilled talent was displayed by every contestant. Saturday, we attended several business meetings which dealt chiefly with ways of promoting leadership and activity among the individual chapters. The election of state officers was held in the afternoon after which the meeting was adjourned. From 4:00 to 5:00, the girls were invited to an informal tea at Salem College. Following the tea, we scurried "home" and donned our formal for an exciting evening. The banquet coming first and then the ball. During the banquet, we had speeches from the newly-elected officers and from C. C. Ervin, superintendent of Rowan County schools. The ball began at 9:30 and lasted until mid-night. There was a very good orchestra, which made the dance much more enjoyable.

Suggestions to the Orphanage Secretaries

As many new orphanage Secretaries are now being installed in local Auxiliaries, we offer the following suggestions:

The Orphanage Secretary represents the Orphanage to her Auxiliary all during the year.

The Auxiliaries have supported the Orphanage in a wonderful way in the past, and we are very grateful for this support.

Local conditions will, of course, determine the activities of the Auxiliaries in relation to the Orphanage.

News From Some of the Cottages

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks,
Here we are bringing you the news for this month.
We have been having a grand time in the nice sunshine.
Edna Ellis and Pattie Inman had visitors last Sunday and they stayed most of the day.
We are practicing our play for the Kiwanis and we hope some of you can come to see it.
We got our report cards this month and just Pattie Inman made the honor roll, but everyone is going to try very hard and see how many can bring home the honor roll next time.
We went to the show Saturday and it was very good.
That is all for this month but you will hear from us again next time.
— The Howard Girls

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Folks,
This is the Annie Louise Girls bringing you the latest news from our cottage.
We got our report cards last week and very few were on the honor roll, but we hope to have twice as many next time.
Lois Dellinger, Linda Inman, Shirley Plyler, Shirley Shaw, Phebe Cochran, Martha Nell Hall, and Mary Bowles have recited the Catechism for young children. Most of the other girls in our cottage have recited it before.
Our basketball teams entered a tournament at Landis. Our boys lost out but our girls go to the finals tonight. We also enter a tournament at Catawba College this week. Our last game of the year was with Statesville and we won.
We are all enjoying these beautiful days. It seems as if King Winter, Jack Frost, and Queen Snow have returned home after wearing out their welcome.
We have a number of girls who are going to be in Kiwanis and we are looking forward to the time when we can preform for our dear friends.
— The Annie Louise Girls

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hello Folks,
This month you will call this more or less a gossip column since we are just catching up on all the gossip from this section of the campus.
Since we last called on you we have lost one of our matrons and picked up a swell one named Miss Coffey and we surely do enjoy her coming in and playig the piano for us. We like Miss Coffey a great deal and we appreciate the people from Steele Creek for sharing her with us. In our joy of having a new matron we also regret losing Mrs. Hoyle who was very good to us and meant a great deal to us, and her husband isn't bad at all. He is serving as a Chaplain in the Army and he is really some guy.
Now folks settle down and get comfortable for the gossip from our cottage.

Helen Morgan and Virginia Presnell are taking turns with Horace Denton during the basketball games, and you can see Virginia on one side of the gym smiling at him and Helen on the other side. They should be watching those wonderful games.
I wonder why Betty Joe, Lucille Stricklin and Ernestine are so excited about the big tournament coming up this week. It could be that Landis is entering. Hey, "Strick," quit turning flips.
Our "all star" player, Adelia Knight is a little on the blue side now. Could it be that she hasn't heard from the Navy in a good while? Is it that he is out of the service or on a leave?
We all wonder what Earl Adams was doing over at Howard playing dodge ball? He looks okay outside but how about inside, "Red" Price.
Mary Francis Isenhour doesn't seem so sad because Donald Pettus left. She seems to be doing better with Roscoe Smith.
This seems to be the first time we haven't caught Lee Vinson writing a service guy. Could it be that she has lost all interest in boys or is she looking for a better one?
We haven't much to say about Helen Hawley since she has already received a diamond. But the guy isn't bad at all.
This wedding that Willie went to two weeks ago. I bet he wishes that it were he and Miriam getting married. How about it Miriam?
Well that is about all for this time so we will say so long for awhile.

Pastor's Paragraphs

what our need may be the Scripture offers blanket coverage: "My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus."

Anyone can make claims, but the proof of the ability to fulfil them is more difficult. Peter can say, "We have this word of prophecy made more sure." He and the others who followed Jesus during His earthly ministry knew that of which they spoke. They had heard the divine voice at His baptism, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." They have seen this same Jesus glorified in the Transfiguration. And even more important, they had seen Him risen from the dead and ascended into heaven. It is on the basis of such witnesses that the claims of the Scripture were first given credence. Nineteen centuries have added such overwhelming proof in the lives of countless Christians that denial is no longer possible.

The Word of God is a never-failing light for those who will search the Scripture and lay it up in their hearts. It is the one lamp with power to lighten the darkness that is over the world today.

tem. Our accession book shows that we have catalogued 5,559 books 329 of these books were added this year. 177 of these books were sent to the elementary school. Sixty six of the books added this year were gifts. We are particularly pleased over a new set of Compton's Encyclopedias.

Our library has been newly painted this year and fluorescent lights have been installed. Posters by Adelia Knight and Earl Allen help to make it inviting.

Fifteen magazines and three newspapers come regularly to us; friends on the campus supplement this number by giving us their copies. These are all filed for reference.

An attractive display of our new books was made and shown at a teachers meeting last fall.

The pages are working on collecting and mounting pictures to have available to teachers who wish to use them in connection with their particular subjects.

Another of our projects was to make possible a small library at Rumble Hall for the girls that live there by putting in their living room juvenile books which were not regularly classified for high school students.

Most of the children at Barium like to read books. We like Wordsworth's quotations about books which we have on one of our posters:

Dream books are each a world;
and books we know
Are substantial world both pure and good.
Round these with tendrils, strong as flesh and blood,
Our pastimes and happiness will grow."

1. Make quilts, bureau scarfs, towels, etc., for the use of the Orphanage.
2. Check on the ones who are getting the Messenger, having us discontinue any duplicates and adding to the mailing list any names of families not now receiving it.
3. Follow the columns of the Messenger and give to the Auxiliary any new current interest.
4. Keep before your Auxiliary the suggestions of your Presbyterian or Synodical Officers with reference to the support funds and Home.
5. Look after any program the Auxiliary may have to clothe one or more children at Barium.

The doctor's little daughter had strayed into his surgery. Watching him as he tested the heart and lungs of a patient, she suddenly spoke: "Getting any new stations, Daddy?"

"Where were you born?"
"I was born in the United States, but I went to school in England."

Dinner Party Given For Mr. J. B. Johnston

To honor Mr. Johnston on his birthday the Virginia Hall Circle had a dinner party which we all enjoyed.

The long table had the birthday cake in the center and lovely baskets of jonquils and yellow candles were used.

The places were marked with attractive place cards.

Mr. Johnston was presented a subscription to "Life Magazine." Reminiscences

I doubt if he ever learned better.

In looking over the literature you sent me I failed to see any thing about dogs. When I was there some of the boys would set traps and catch rabbits alive. They would call the dogs to the front of Rumble Hall and let them see the rabbits. The rabbits would be turned loose while some one would hold the dogs until the rabbit got a little start, then all the dogs and most of the boys would run after them. Not many got away from old Joe, the best hound. I think old Joe died before the fire in Synod's Cottage after I left there

I think some dog or dogs went mad and a good many of the children had to take the treatment at Statesville. I would like to know if this is true, and if there are any dogs there now.

I hope I can visit Barium before Thanksgiving and look over some of the places I have never seen, such as the new horse barn.

Please have the Messenger sent to Mrs. Katherine L. Smith, 815 E. 2nd Ave. Gastonia, N. C. This lady is very interested in Barium, but her name has never been on your mailing list.

With best wishes I remain,
Yours very truly,
J. M. HAMILTON

Barium Teams Wind

his boys this season, and the fact that it was on their home court made the game all the greater a surprise.

Maybe our teams were on their toes a little more than usual because they were looking forward to a visit to Mrs. Ritchie, she used to be Miss Mary Turner and most of the boys had been under her care at sometime or other at Barium Springs. Anyhow, we all went out to her home, happy and hungry, and we left there still happy - not any longer hungry.

On Tuesday, February 12th, our teams journeyed way up to Union Grove for a non-conference game and lost both games. Those tall twins coached by Mr. Homer Keever were just too much for our girls and we lost 45-34. Our boys lost 28-18. On the 14th, Monroe came to Barium and we won both of those games by a comfortable margin.

The Juniors had a game on the same day (14th) with Statesville, losing both of them. On February 15th Mooresville came to Barium and Barium won both of those games, both of them being very hard fought. It is surprising how the Mooresville girls' team without winning a single victory managed to give all of the leading teams their toughest games. On Tuesday, the 19th, Kannapolis came to Barium, and while Barium won the girls' game, they couldn't manage the boys. They took us 35-29 and headed from right there on to the championship.

Then the Barium teams took a rest while we entertained the Mid-Piedmont schools for our annual tournament. There were 42 teams participating this year, and on Monday night, February 25th, the finals were played with the West Yadkin girls winning and the Stanley boys. The girls won over Scotts and the boys over Davidson high school. On Tuesday our return conference games with Statesville were played and this time Barium was victorious in both games, certainly an upset as far as the Statesville girls were concerned. The scores were 17-12 for the girls; 26-20 for the boys, and that wound up the conference season, the Barium girls being in second place and the Barium boys in third place. Our girls lost two games, won eleven, and tied one. Our boys won eleven and lost three.

Then our teams entered the Landis tournament, both teams winning on the first go-round, the girls defeating Lilesville, the boys defeating Berryhill. On the second go-round our boys lost to Mount Ulla by one point, our girls defeated Granite Quarry which put them in the finals. In the finals they lost to Scotts 23-21, and then just a few days later they entered the Salisbury tournament for the South Piedmont teams. Our teams were tired and they did not get very far in this tournament, both teams losing to schools over which they had been victorious twice in the season. The Barium boys lost to Lexington 29-28 in the first round; the girls lost to Concord 30-11 in the second round.

And now all the basketball that is ahead of us is the Junior Tournament, the results of which will be published elsewhere in this paper.

Barium has had two good teams. They certainly played up to their full ability during the season and have beaten teams that on paper should have walked away with them. As usual, both teams finished in the first division in the conference standing and are already making plans to be still higher in next year's standing. You never can tell - our teams can do almost everything they make up their minds to.

Finally, after a restful night at Children's Home, we accompanied Mrs. Brown from Children's Home to hear a very inspiring sermon by Dr. George Mauze of the First Presbyterian Church. We were

Customer: "I want to write a letter."

"Yes, if they come close enough together."

Question: "What did one candle say to the other candle?"
Answer: "Are you going out tonight?"

Paul: "What did the man at the garage say was wrong with your tires?"
Bill: "Well, for one thing he said the air was beginning to show through."

Mary: "Do you know what the patriotic worm did?"
Harry: "No, I don't! What?"
Mary: "He joined the Apple corps."

"And what is a pussycat clad in?" asked the teacher of the tinies. "What is it that protects her from cold? Does she wear a pinafore, or does she wear a little jacket?"

"But, teacher!" exclaimed an unimaginative little pupil, "aint you never seen a cat?"

"Could anyone come between us, Love?" he asked in accents tender. "Well," spoke the young brother from under the lounge, "they'd have to be mighty slender."

then Mrs. Brown's guest for lunch in town. After saying thank you and goodbyes to our friends at Children's Home, we returned home. We feel that we have really profited in securing helpful information at the convention and we hope that much of it will be of value to us in the future. Although our club is still in its infancy, we have hopes of climbing and if we are able to maintain our three Beta objectives - Achievement, Character and Leadership, then we can assume ourselves of being well on the road to success.

CHRIST'S APPEAL TO YOUTH

Youth is essentially the most religious period of life. Those two shining words go naturally together—youth and religion. Youth and Jesus are in harmony with one another.

For one thing youth has this in common with Jesus, that youth is in love with life. "Life is a long fatigue," was the wearied exclamation of Talleyrand, the French statesman. Normal youth has little sympathy with that state of mind. It is impressed rather with the wonder and the romance of life, and can echo the poet's exclamation,

Oh, the wild joys of living!
How good is man's life, the mere living! how fit to employ
All the heart and the soul and the sense forever in joy!

Now that is in full accord with the religion of Jesus.

Then youth has this also in common with Jesus, that youth is in love with adventure. Youth doesn't crave safety first at all. It prefers adventure. "For a desperate venture," said Rupert of the Rhine long ago, "for a desperate venture give me an army of boys." And how true that has been found in these recent years. Youth responds instinctively to the sentiment of the song of the builders of the Panama Canal:

Got any rivers they say are uncrossable,
Got any mountains you can't tunnel through?
We specialize in the wholly impossible,
Doing what nobody ever could do.

How that spirit fits into the religion of Jesus. Why, his religion is the adventure of adventures—biggest adventure this world has ever known. What a sublime, incredible adventure at the beginning! Here he comes—a young man of the peasant class setting out from an obscure town in a remote corner of the world to win everybody to his way of life. He gathers about him a handful of young men as lowly in station as himself, mostly rough fishermen from the little ports around the lake of Galilee.

The history of Christianity has been one long series of adventures. All down these centuries we see men and women in the name and the spirit of Jesus engaging in the wildest adventures, embarking on forlorn hopes, espousing lost causes; and the lost causes have in the end become victorious causes.

The truth is that if this world is to be saved it must be saved by the young people. If ever the kingdom of Christ is to be set up on the earth it must be set up by the young. They are the only ones who have life enough and are adventurous enough and can go mad enough to do it. We grown-ups are too old and blind and stiff to make a very good job of it. "We must be young to do great things," said Goethe.

What a grand thing it is to be a real Christian in such a time as this, and to have a real part in the colossal adventure of winning the world to the way of Christ. O young hearts, we need you, the church needs you, the nation needs you, the world needs you, Christ needs you, and you need him.

HENRY ALFORD Porter, in The Baptist Student.

SPRINGTIME

Now it is springtime,
The winter has gone.
The birds are returning;
The crops are all sown.
The flowers are waking,
From their long winter's sleep;
The frogs are coming up,
Out of the deep.
So it's off to the meadow
That I must now go;
To see God's flowers,
In spring's fashion show.

— Mary Morgan.

Death Notice

of organization, socials, contests and drives, but to no avail. A post-mortem showed that a deficiency of spiritual food, coupled with lack of fasting, faith, heartfelt religion, shameless desertion, and non-support, were contributing causes. Only a few were present at her death, sobbing over memories of her past beauty and power. Carefully selected pallbearers were urged to tenderly bear her remains away, but failed to appear. There were no flowers. Her favorite hymns, 'Amazing Grace' and 'Rock of Ages,' were not sung. Miss Ima Modern rendered 'Beautiful Isle of Somewhere,' but none had any idea where this fancied isle might be. The body rests in the beautiful cemetery of Bygone Glories, awaiting the summons from above.

"In honor of her going, the church doors will be closed on Wednesday nights, save on the third Wednesday of each month, when the Ladies, Pink Lemonade Society serves refreshments to the members of the Men's Handball Team."

Memorial Service for 15 Barium Boys Who Died In Service

Rev. Joe H. Carter to Deliver Com'encement Address at Barium

Commencement is just around the corner. It is amazing how things happen in the spring. One day we are shivering from the March winds and the next day all the leaves are out and we are talking about commencement. Already commencement doings are taking place. The seventh grade have put on their minstrel, and a most enjoyable occasion it was. As this is written the fourth graders have themselves all dolled up and are planning for their performance at the chapel hour today. There will be something from each class or each section of school until the big day - May 12th and 13th.

Reverend Cliff McLeod of the First Presbyterian Church in Mooresville will preach our baccalaureate sermon on the morning of May 12th. Mr. McLeod was a seminary classmate of our pastor, Reverend F. B. Benton.

On Monday night the final commencement exercises will be held, and our speaker for that occasion is Reverend Joe H. Carter, D. D., pastor of the Newton Presbyterian Church, lately moved back to North Carolina from Anderson, South Carolina.

The speaker for Sunday night has not been secured at this writing. The sermon on Sunday night is addressed to the members of the Young People's Societies, but the congregation is the same which hears the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning.

Our graduating class this year is the smallest in many years. In fact, this is the year when the high schools all over the State have very small graduating classes. Four years ago no one was promoted from the elementary schools to the high schools due to the fact that an extra grade was added to the elementary school. We have two boys and five girls. In next month's Messenger we will have their pictures and a brief write-up of each one and their address at that time.

Vacations

You can pretty well tell the time of year at Barium by listening to the conversation of the children. If it is the fall of the year for a time it is about Thanksgiving and football games, and then it is about Christmas. In the winter and spring by the time basketball has ceased to be a subject of conversation the question is, "when can I go on my vacation?" Well, this article attempts to answer that question. Our school will be out May 13th. There are many things to be done during May and we are going to have a daily vacation Bible school early in June, and this means that June 10th will be as early as vacations can commence. Vacations must be over by July 27th at the latest. Our camp on the river will start the following Monday and be over by August 17th. We will probably start school the following week, or early the week after that.

I hope matrons, children, relatives, and friends will clip this particular article and not make any arrangements for any vacations except between the dates mentioned. The maximum length of time for each vacation will be two weeks unless there is some extraordinary reason for a longer vacation.

Basketball Banquet Was Held April 12th

The Barium Springs Basketball banquet was held last night with just homefolks attending. This is the first time since these banquets were started many years ago that no outside guests were invited, but just the Barium Springs folks teachers, matrons, workers, and their families, and it was a large gathering about 160 being present.

Reverend R. S. Arrowood was toastmaster and handled the talking part of the occasion in such a happy and expeditious manner that the banquet was over at 8:30.

The letters for the Junior Girls' team were delivered by R. E. Jackins. Mr. Jackins has officiated in a good many games and had seen our Junior teams play. His comparison as to the spirit and sportsmanship of our teams was most gratifying to hear. The Junior Girls receiving letters are as follows: Dickie Arrowood, Annie Star Langly, Vivian Jacumin, Francis Stricklin, Nellie Isenhour, Ann Wicker, Lorena Hall, Margaret Bullard, Juanita Young, Elsie Vest, and Dorothy Shepherd.

Joe Ben Gibbs, a returned marine, delivered the letters to the 125 - lb Boys. Joe Ben was a member. (Continued On Page Two)

Short On Pictures This Month

We had hoped to have cuts in this Messenger of Miss Maggie Adams and Miss Mona Clark, and one of the pictures having to do with our memorial service, but we were unable to get any of these pictures. Next month the Messenger will be decorated with the pictures of our graduating class. Four years ago these pictures took the entire front page of the Messenger - there are not so many this year but you will be glad to look at them. We will be homesick for them when they leave us.

Speaking of pictures, there is one that remains in our mind and we wish we could reproduce it for you. The event took place on Easter Sunday morning - twenty-two young people joined Little Joe's Church, and twenty of them were baptized. There are many beautiful and solemn occasions in our little church here at Barium. Communion is always such an occasion to see this church full of small children perfectly quiet, and partaking of, without fully understanding, something of the spiritual blessings that come with a Communion Service. And then the occasions when a number join the church - it is not often that as many as twenty-two join at one time. The occasions are beautiful and we do not believe that they are forgotten by those participating in any way in these occasions. We wish we could picture to you the beauty and solemnity of this wonderful thing.

Gen. Manton S. Eddy Made Presentation

From The Statesville Daily
The memorial services held at Barium Springs Monday afternoon for fifteen boys from the Barium Home who lost their lives in the war were brief, simple and impressive. Spring flowers made a background for the speakers who were seated on the platform in the auditorium of the primary school building. Music was by a vested choir of boys and girls, Pleas Norman, Barium boy who is veteran of World War II, singing a solo part in "Lest

We Forget." Rev. Francis Benton, pastor of Little Joe's church was in general charge of the service and introduced others on the program who were General G. W. Smythe, Major General Manton Eddy, and Dr. Carl R. Prichett of Davidson, Dr. Prichett made the memorial address, pointing out the beauty of service, the nobility of sacrifice and the abiding hope of reunion through faith.

"USING OUR EASTER GIFT"

The joy of the Easter season is still fresh in our minds. Once more the beautiful music, the elaborate floral decoration, the reading of good tidings of the angels at the tomb, and the inspired preaching of the glorious Easter truths have thrilled our hearts, reminding us anew of the gift of life which the first Easter brought to us. As we turn back from this mountain top experience into the valley of everyday living, we need to be reminded that even eternal life is a worthless gift unless we are willing to receive it and use its power.

Some time ago I heard a story, whether true or not I do not know, of a small community back in the mountains near the North Carolina-Tennessee border. The advent of T. V. A. brought electricity to the people of this village who had known few of the conveniences of modern civilization. Some years before this a son had gone out into the outside world from one of the (Continued On Page Two)

High School Enters State Music Contest

The State High School Music Contest, which was discontinued during the war years, has been revived; and the Barium Springs High School entered it this year for the first time.

Before entering the statewide contest, the contestants have to take part in a district contest. Here, each contestant, or group, is given a rating. Only those receiving a rating of I are eligible to enter the state contest.

The district contest for this area was held in Charlotte April 6th. Barium Springs entered more events than any other school in the district. The events entered were: Mixed Chorus, Mixed Quartet, Girls Trio, Soprano Solo, Alto Solo, Tenor Solo, Baritone Solo, and Unchanged Voice Solo.

There are thirty members of the Glee Club. The mixed quartet was composed of Virginia Presnell, Peggy Coffey, Herbert Good, and John Whiting. The girls trio was composed of Frances Adams, Betty Jo Smith and Callie Dunn. The soloists were Dorothy Sheperd, Bradley Jean Manus, Ray Huddleston, W. A. Johnson, and Billy Lybrand.

Only one of these contestants received a rating of I. That was (Continued On Page Three)

The Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament

This is a story that should have gotten into the last issue of the Messenger. It is too important to leave out altogether because it records something of a miracle. There were 24 teams entered in our Junior Tournament this year - this means teams of girls from the ninth grade down, and boys with 125-lb. weight limit. During the season both of our teams were defeated repeatedly and very few people though we had any chance at all in the tournament. Here's the way things turned out in the tournament.

The first girl's team which we met was Celeste-Henkel, the one-time champions. The Barium team happened to be "hot" that afternoon and defeated Celeste-Henkel 27-8. In the second go-round our girls met Cleveland and that was one nip and tuck affair with Barium finally winning 20-19. This (Continued On Page Three)

Thanks Expressed to Synod's Committees Outstanding Thanksgiving Offering

As the final results are tabulated showing the total amounts given for the Thanksgiving Offering again there is evidence of very efficient service of the Synod's Committee on Orphanage work.

This year the outstanding sum of $80,073.08 was received as a Thanksgiving offering which was $10,000 more than the previous high year. This splendid increase reflects the planning and effort of the general chairman Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham and the fine men who assisted him: Mr. James G. Johnson of Goldsboro the chairman of Albemarle Presbytery, Mr. Richard E. Lackey of Hickory, the chairman of Concord Presbytery, Mr. H. M. McKethan of Fayetteville, the chairman of Fayetteville

Barium Community Saddened by Death of Two Workers

The Barium Springs community has been saddened by the death of two of its most faithful workers, Miss Margaret Adams and Miss Mona Clark.

Miss Adams was for many years matron of the larger girls and then head matron of the whole institution. During her stay at Barium at least a thousand girls were under her supervision and care. This many women living today have had their lives touched and to a certain extent moulded by the work of this consecrated woman. Miss Adams gave up her work at Barium in 1940 due to failing health. She has lived in nearby Statesville since that time with her sister, Miss Mattie Adams. There never has been a visit from returning Barium people who knew Miss Adams but that their first inquiry was "How is Miss Adams?" The news of her death as it will be spread over the country in this Messenger will bring sadness to many who knew Miss Adams and loved her. From far away Portland, Oregon, came a young woman with her family who counted on a reunion with Miss Adams as part of her visit to her old home state. She arrived too late.

Miss Mona Clark had been our sewing-room matron almost as long as Miss Adams had worked here. Just as Miss Adams had helped develop character, so did Miss Clark, not only character but personality and appearance. The well-dressed appearance of our girls was largely due to Miss Clark's efficient methods. For a number of years we had arranged it so that the vacation in the sewing-room would be during the months of January and February, at a time when the larger girls were so interested in basketball, and that the sewing-room would work right on through the summer when other people were having vacations. Miss Clark helped to work out this idea and managed her work most efficiently. As she was closing up the sewing room for this January and February vacation, she asked us if we could not brighten up the sewing-room with paint and with a few decorations. Sometime later when Miss Clark had become ill she was told that (Continued On Page Three) little mountain cabins of the village and had made a financial success in the work he undertook. Now he saw an opportunity to ease the last years of his aged mother. He had electric wires led into his old home, and as a crowning gift he had a beautiful new electric stove delivered there. It was the wonder of the community. His mother was so proud of it that she refused to have it installed inside the cabin, but left it instead on the porch so that all who passed that way might see it. She continued to cook on the old wood burning stove that she had used all her married life.

Too many of us are like the old mountain woman. We treasure the gift of life given to us by Christ, but we make no use of it. Instead we continue to live in the same manner as those who are still dead in sin and to bear all the age-old burdens of the human race that the gift was meant to remove.
Worry is one of these burdens. How many Christians there are who are chronic worriers! They live constantly in fear of what some tomorrow may bring. They fear for their own health or for that of other members of their family. They worry about their jobs or their futures or about any one of a thousand other things. And yea the gift of eternal life assures us that "all things work together for good to them that love God." We are reminded to "be careful for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God." Easter's gift is intended to give to us "the peace that passeth all understanding" in our hearts.

Pessimism is another burden that many Christians carry needlessly. It is true that the outlook for our world is dark today if we have no power beyond human strength and goodness upon which we can rely. But the Christian has a faith which can make him an optimist. "If Christ be not risen, your faith is vain", but Christ is risen and our faith in God's plan to redeem the world from sin and evil is a certainty. The resurrection is a token to us of God's love that overcomes every evil. Resting upon it, we can see the light that glows even in the darkest time and we can face the future with confidence.
Selfishness is a burden many Christians fail to recognize as such. It restricts one's interests and pleasures to the small world of himself and his own pleasures. The eternal life which Christ gives makes us members of the great family of God and opens for us worlds which cannot be known otherwise. It gives our lives a great purpose and a noble plan. We learn the pleasure of serving others and enjoy the privilege of sharing with God in the building of His Kingdom. David Livingston, when questioned about the sacrifices he had made going to Africa, showed that he had learned this truth. "Sacrifice!" he replied. "Why I have never made a sacrifice in my life." His work was not a burden he was bearing but a means of rolling away the burden of selfishness.
Consider your own life and you will doubtlessly find other burdens that you are bearing thus needlessly. The gift of life on that first Easter morning was meant to set us free. Christ is risen, and we can leave the load we are carrying in his empty tomb. Let us then live in the luxury of contentment, faith and service which are meant to be ours along with eternal life.

1. Gastone Alessandrini, Private, United States Army Air Corps. A member of our community here for eight years, he was serving on a B-29 bomber crew which had successfully completed 34 missions from Guam. On its 35th mission the crew failed to return, and Gastone was among those listed as missing in action.
2. Walter Archer, Master Sergeant, United States Army. Walter, who spent 15 years here at Barium Springs, was serving in the New Guinea theater of action at the time of his death. His outfit had completed a successful raid on a Japanese coastal position, and he had gotten back on the boat safely when he noticed his commanding officer left on the beach. Disregarding his own safety he returned to rescue the officer and was killed in the attempt.

Barium boys for 10 years and a graduate of Davidson College, Leonard was serving as a bomber pilot over Austria when he was shot down. Evidence from eye witnesses is that he could have parachuted to safety, but because he had a wounded man aboard, he elected to stay with the plane and bring it to a crash landing. This heroic effort cost him his life.
4. James D. Johnston, Lt. Colonel, United States Army. Jim, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston, and a graduate of Davidson College, was killed while on reconnaissance preparatory to the attack on Cherbourg, France.
5. Fred Lowrance, Lieutenant, United States Army. The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lowrance, Fred attended Davidson College before entering the army. He served in the Southwest Pacific theater of action. His unit was attacking a hill on New Georgia Island when the Japanese counterattacked in force. When last seen, Fred was wounded but still firing his pistol at the enemy.
6. J. C. McMasters, Private, United States Army. A member of our community for six years, he entered the army from here and was killed in Germany in February of last year. No details of his death are available.
7. Tom Morgan, a member of the United States Navy. After eight years at Barium, he entered the navy and was serving in the engine room of one of our ships during the early days of the war. His ship was torpedoed, and he was killed either by the explosion or by drowning when the engine room was shut off to keep the water out of the rest of the ship. He was the first Barium boy lost in the war.
8. Ben Morrow, Private, United States Army. Ben spent 12 years with us here at Barium Springs and was serving with the army in the Philippines when the war broke out. He was captured on Bataan, endured the infamous death march, and died in a Japanese prison camp.
9. T. L. O'Kelly, Lieutenant, United States Army Air Corps. He had completed one year at Mitchell College and one year at the Juilliard School of Music in New York before entering the army. While on maneuvers he flew his plane out over the Caribbean Sea and failed to return.
10. Dick Parrish, Private First Class, United States Marine Corps. A member of our community for fifteen years and a student at Davidson College at the time of his entering the service, Dick was killed in the attack on Iwo Jima.

11. Bruce Parcell, Lt. Col., U. S. Army Air Corps. After spending six years at Barium Springs, Bruce went on to Davidson College and graduated there. On a mission over Germany his objective was to blow up a bridge. In order to accomplish this objective he flew his plane so low that when he was hit he could not land and crashed to his death.
12. Paul Pittman, Captain, United States Army Air Corps. A Barium Springs boy for eight years. Paul graduated from Davidson College and entered the army before the outbreak of the war. He was serving as a test pilot and instructor when he became ill, and he died in a hospital in Dallas, Texas.
13. Corris Smith, Private, United States Army. He spent a year and a half at Barium Springs as a boy. After entering the army he became a member of the 88th Artillery and was killed by shrapnel while sleeping in a dugout in Italy.
14. Eugene Whitener, member of the United States Army. While serving with a Tank Destroyer Company, he was killed in Europe in the Battle of the Bulge.
15. Robert Wilkes, member of the United States Navy. He spent eight years at Barium Springs during his youth. Serving in the Philippines at the outbreak of the war, he was captured on Bataan and endured the infamous death march afterward. At the end of the war he was rescued from a Japanese prison camp, but died in San Francisco on his way home.
The address by Dr. Pritchett followed the In Memoriam and after that General Smythe was introduced who in turn presented General Eddy. General Eddy had a special mission, the presentation of the Legion of Merit to the mother of Lieutenant Colonel James Johnston. Colonel Johnston served under Major General Eddy and General Eddy paid tribute to him as comrade at arms, personal friend and a man of high courage, steadfast principals and devotion to duty. Major Wylie read the citation that accompanied the award and General Eddy then handed the medal to Mrs. Joseph B. Johnston, who stood, with her husband, to receive it. The citation is as follows:
Lieutenant Colonel James D. Johnston, as Commanding Officer, 2nd Battalion 47th Infantry Regiment, displayed exceptional leadership and ability from November, 1943 to June, 1944 while organizing, training and leading his outstanding combat unit into battle. His courage and relentless determination enabled his battalion to establish a highly enviable record in Tunisia, Sicily, and in the critical stages of the Normandy campaign, when it swept gallantly across the Cotentin Peninsula and insured against any possible escape of enemy troops contained therein. Until mortally wounded by an enemy shell he was a constant example to his command, a battalion which earned three Distinguished Unit Citations.

The services closed with singing of the national anthem and benediction. Representatives from the families of the boys who were memorialized were present, some coming from a distance, and there was a large group of interested friends present also for the service.

ber of the original 125-lb team gotten out by Barium Springs, the first team to win a championship in the Junior Tournament. He is still almost small enough to make this 125-lb team. He was discharged from the service and landed at Barium in time to see the Junior Tournament this year but very few of the Varsity games. His comments on the play of the Juniors was highly complimentary. Those receiving letters are as follows: Jimmy Williams, Rufus Clark, Donald Mitchell, Paul Barnes, James Reid, Fred Feimster, Ray Huddleston, Bert Atwood.
Mr. Barkley, coach, delivered the letters to the Varsity Girls. He spoke of the pleasure he had in coaching this team and the spirit which they had displayed all during the season. In spite of the fact that many of the games during the season were won or lost by one or two point margins, he did not lose very many of the remaining hairs on his head. Lee Vinson, Guard, was elected captain of the team for the year, and also voted the most valuable by her team-mates. Those receiving letters are as follows: Lee Vinson, Janie Hall, Helen Hawley, Tony DeLancy, Hannah Price, Lucille Stricklin, Adelia Knight, Helen Vinson.
The Varsity Boys' letters were delivered by Joseph B. Johnston who had a few remarks to make on the record of the team. The fact that Barium was the only team to defeat Kannapolis and Children's Home on their home courts was a matter that seemed worthy of comment. The girls team played all of the good teams in the conference and was the only team that did so, and in spite of this only lost two games. Boys winning letters are as follows: Earl Adams, Jerry Young, Benny Gregory, Charles Barrett, Jack Jones, Dwight Spencer, Earl Allen. The captain elected for the year was Earl Adams. The one voted most valuable by his team-mates, Jerry Young.
Attention was called to the trophies won during the year. The Varsity Girls winning a handsome trophy as runner-up in the Landis tournament; The Junior Boys won the championship trophy of the Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament and the Girls winning the championship for the same Tournament.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The Junior Senior Banquet

On April 19, at seven thirty the junior class of the Barium Springs High School gave a banquet, honoring the senior class, in the assembly room of Rumble Hall. Streamers of pastel - colored crepe paper decorated the room. Easter colors with emphasis on blue and white, senior class colors, were carried out in all decorations. The place cards, rabbits with funny faces, long ears, and high collars, were made from boiled eggs. The programs also carried out the "bunny" scheme. Blue candle in white holders (made and painted by the boys) furnished the light. Narcisus and blue iris were arranged in crystal bowls as table center pieces.

After the welcome song by the junior class, W. A. Johnson said grace. A five course dinner was served by Dickie Arrowood, Mildred Monroe, Elizabeth Johnson, Dorothy Plummer, Betty Sue Wolfe, Bradley Manus, and Kathleen Monroe. Kenneth Manus, Rufus Clark, Jimmy Williams, Kenneth Jackson, and Donald Moore assisted "back stage".

Dwight Spencer gave a toast to the seniors, to which Roscoe Smith responded. Margaret Katen gave the toast to Mr. T. Ward Guy (superintendent of Irell County Schools) and his wife. Lee Vinson toasted Mr. Wm. Hethcox, the principal. These toasts, written in rhyme, were done in collaboration with an English project on "Savoir Faire".

Group singing lead by Mary Ann Ryder was enjoyed between courses.

The guest speaker, Rev. Homer Keever of Union Grove, a former member of our high school faculty, was introduced by Benny Gregory.

Guest to the banquet included the members of the senior class, Adilia Knight, Lucy Johnson, Lucille Smith, Blanche Feimster, Dewie Belle Buie, Amos Hardy, and Roscoe Smith, and the mascot Bobby Arrowood, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston, Mr. R. E. Jackins, Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Benton, Miss Rebecca Carpenter, Miss Sara McNeil, Rev. and Mrs. R. S. Arrowood, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barkley, Mr. J. H. Lowrance, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ward Guy, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Keever and members of the high school faculty.

The juniors who were hosts were as follows: Earl Adams, Earl Allen, Mary Ann Ryder, Myrtle Rushing, Lee Vinson, Helen Hawley, Mary Frances Isenhour, Eleanor Pope, Miriam Huddleston, Margaret Katen, Jeanne McDonald, Benny Gregory, Dwight Spencer, W. A. Johnson, Toni Delancy, Buddy Lippard, and Hannah Price.

The banquet was under the capable direction of Miss Cloyce Moose, junior class sponsor.

brought us up to the finals and the team Barium faced in the finals was China Grove. Now: China Grove had defeated Scotts and Cool Springs, two good teams, and were the favorites to win in the finals. The first half was on rather easy terms, but in the second half Barium pulled away and won 24-18.

Now for the boys. The boys started out against Cleveland. Cleveland was a much weaker team and the score was lopsided-42-3. In the second go-round Barium met Celeste-Henkel and defeated that team 24-18. And then into the finals against the team that had beaten us badly twice during the season - Statesville. The Barium boys would just not be denied - the final score was Barium 28 - Statesville 20.

Just a word about this tournament. It started out about six years ago with 16 teams participating. Very few grown people came to see the youngsters play, but the tournament has grown in popularity and this year there were almost as many spectators as there were for some of our big tournaments. Plans are already on foot to expand it from 24 to 32 teams in 1947, making it cover as much ground as the big tournament. The fact that there is double elimination means many more games and much more fun, because sometimes after one of these teams lose a game they really enjoy playing the other games. Any team that wins two of the three games wins a trophy. The other teams that won trophies were the Statesville Girls, Mooresville Boys, Scotts Girls, West Yadin Boys, Catawba Girls, Troutman Boys, Cleveland Girls, and Celeste Henkel Boys. The runners-up were the China Grove Girls, and the Statesville Boys and they, of course, received trophies too.

this had been done, and she expressed great delight over the prospect of coming back to these brighter surroundings at the end of her vacation.

As we know now, she was not permitted to come back. Her illness became more severe and she passed away early in April.

It would be difficult to name two people whose lives were more filled with usefulness and who touched more other lives for good. We mourn their passing and their memory will continue to inspire us to ever try to make Barium a better place.

the alto soloist, Dorothy Shepherd. The Glee Club, mixed quartet, girls trio, soprano solo, all received ratings of II, which we feel is unusually good for the first year. As this is being written the state contest at Greensboro is still in the future. Our school will be represented by Dorothy Shepherd.

The Glee Club has been under the direction of Mrs. J. P. Johnston of Statesville. She is finding it necessary to give up the work here as soon as the contest is over, on account of her many duties elsewhere. We are hoping to find a capable music teacher to carry on this work next year.

WM. A. HETHCOX

During a lesson in grammar the teacher wrote on the blackboard: "I didn't have no fun at the seashore."

Then turning to the pupils, she asked:

"Roland, how should I correct that?"

And Roland answered: "Get a boy friend."

"This record," said the magistrate, "says that you have already been convicted seven times of stealing"

"I guess that's about right," said the prisoner apologetically. "Nobody's perfect."

Medals And Prizes Awarded At Exercises

One of the most pleasing parts of the Barium Springs commencement programs each year is the awarding of various medals and prizes to outstanding students by the Orphanage Superintendent, Mr. Johnston. Few people knew who the ones were who would receive prizes, and it was interesting to watch the expressions of pleasure, and sometimes, surprise, as the names were called.

Cash prizes for those in the grammar grades and high school who made the highest grades during the year went to Tommy Scott, Hazel Creech, Louise Campbell, Shirley Inman, Peggy Neel, Mary Morgan, Ernestine Baldwin, Hannah Price, Margaret Katen, and Dwight Spencer.

Mr. Fred Sherrill of Statesville each year gives forty dollars to be divided among the pupils who have shown the most improvement, not only in scholarship, but also in general attitude, conduct, and effort. This year, those who received awards from this fund were: James Jackson, Sarah Bradshaw, Bobby Johnson, Peggy Plyler, Elizabeth Johnson, Lorene Hall, Frances Adams, Margaret Bullard, Mildred Monroe, Bennie Gregory, Earl Adams, and Roscoe Smith.

Prizes were given to Mary Morgan and Jeanne Steppe by the librarian for service to the school through outstanding and consistent work in the library.

Certificates which were received at the District Music Contest in Charlotte some weeks ago were presented to Dorothy Shepherd and Bradley Jean Manus, Soloists, and to representatives of the girls' trio, mixed quartet, and mixed chorus.

Helen Hawley was given a prize by the piano teacher for consistent work in music.

Three medals are presented each year at the commencement program. These are the Bible Medal, Music Improvement Medal, and the Ace Medal. The Bible medal is given to the member of the graduating class who, in addition to doing excellent work in Bible study, has memorized a required number of Bible passages. This medal was won by Lucy Johnson. The Music Improvement Medal was presented to Charles Barrett, a member of the tenth grade. Perhaps the most coveted award of all is the Ace Medal. This medal is given each year to the member of the graduating class who has, according to a vote of the high school students and the teachers and other orphanage workers, made the most consistent effort to take advantage of the facilities offered for their betterment by the school and orphanage, during their stay at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home. This medal was won by Lucille Smith, and from the applause, this selection seemed to have met with popular approval.

It was announced at commencement last year, that beginning this year, two Ace Medals would be given; the second one to be presented to an alumnus of the school who has remained loyal to the institution and continually endeavored to live according to the principles received when a student here. A member of our high school faculty, Miss Irene McDade, was the popular recipient of this medal.

THE 1946 GRADUATING CLASS

Class President
ROSCOE SMITH - Nearly half of the graduating class entered Barium in 1937. Roscoe entered that year and is the last of the Smith connection from Pink Hill. Of the two families there were nine altogether. Roscoe is the biggest of the lot.

BOBBY ARROWOOD, Mascot

will be remembered by more boys than any other member of the graduating class. Don't get a wrong idea about this for Dewie has been playing matron to twenty-four Synod Cottage boys for the better part of a year - their ages are from 6 to 10. Dewie Belle is headed to Flora Macdonald College to join her older sister.

Top to Bottom:
LUCY JOHNSON - Entered in 1939 from Tarboro and she plans to live in Tarboro from right now on. Lucy is the second of a family of three girls and leaves a younger sister, Elizabeth, to carry on at Barium.

ADELIA KNIGHT - Entered in 1937 from Greensboro the oldest of two little white-haired girls. Adelia is still white haired, but is not very little. She plans to settle down in Greensboro. We will miss Adelia in many ways, particularly on that basketball team.

LUCILLE SMITH - Salutatorian, entered in 1936 from Glen Alpine. Just ten years a member of our family, ten years from now, we will not have begun to forget her.

Top to Bottom:
BLANCHE FEIMSTER - Entered in '39 from Taylorsville. She is the oldest of a family of three. She has been cheer leader and general booster-upper for the basketball team for a couple of years. We will all miss her.

AMOS HARDY - The old man of the class, not in point of years but in the number of years that he spent at Barium. He entered Barium in 1931 from Edgecombe County. He started in the Baby Cottage and has lived in Synod, Lees, Jennie Gilmer, and the Quads. He could write a pretty good history of Barium.

DEWIE BELLE BUIE - Is the middle member of five girls who entered Barium from Lemon Springs in 1937. Dewie Belle

Seven Graduate From Barium This Year

The 1945-46 school year for the Barium Springs School came to a close with the usual graduating exercises Monday night, May 13th. A small graduating class; Dewie Belle Buie, Blanche Feimster, Adelia Knight, Amos Hardy, Lucy Gray Johnston, Lucille Smith, and Roscoe Smith, received diplomas. The small number of graduates is accounted for by the addition of the twelfth grade.

Rev. R. S. Arrowood introduced the speaker of the occasion, Rev. Joe H. Carter, D. D. of Newton, N. C. Dr. Carter's address was (Continued On Page Two)

Barium Students Make Good Showing

A few weeks ago all of the pupils of the three upper grades of the Barium Springs High School were given a test on Recent Social and Scientific Developments. This test was prepared by the American Council on Education and consists of 116 questions. It has recently been given in many schools in all parts of the country. The results were received recently, and are very gratifying.

We find that our students did as well, or better, than fifty percent of all of those taking the test. The highest grade was made by (Continued On Page Two)

Sunday School Clubs Show Further Increase

Again this year we print the lists of Clubs in our Sunday Schools who have given more than one hundred dollars excluding the Thanksgiving offering during the past year.

It is noteworthy that last year we had nothing higher than the 600.00 Club. This year we jump up to the wonderful amount giving by the Myers Park S. S. in amount of $813.64 and Kings Mountain $733.10.

The impressive list of the Clubs follow:

News From Some of the Cottages At Barium

SEWING ROOM

Flash! Flash! Spring is here and our sewing machines are buzzing beautifully as if in tune to our happiness.

Mrs. Hudson of Statesville has come to be our matron and we all are very fond of her. She isn't just a sweet, considerate, and cheerful matron, but also a close friend to each of us.

Yesterday was Lee Vinson's birthday, and Mrs. Hudson baked a beautiful cake for her. We had a lovely birthday party and Yum! Yum! was it good!

Katherine, Mrs. Hudson's daughter, came up for her spring holiday from Meredith College and while here gave her full time helping us decorate our banquet room. We wish you could have seen it, such eloquent designing. Thank you so much, Kat.

Folks, come to see our matron if you're ever up this way. You can then get an idea of our work. The dresses will be out where you can see them, (on the girls soon though).

How's the present for some gossip?

Blanche Fiemster and Adelia Knight are leaving us shortly to take their places in this world. With them we send our best wishes. Mrs. Hudson says she is going to miss you two and to come back to see us all very soon.

"Red Top" Price is all smiles since her telephone call from her big brother, Mott, Sunday Morning. Welcome Home, Mott, Old Boy!

Esau Davis's ship has at last hit the States and it must have hit hard because Mary Frances is still shaking with tingling excitement.

Since our last news letter Toni De Lancey has come to work with us. You should see the beauty of her work.

Helen Hawley has had another visit from "the man," Leaver Allen Bennett and she has that certain "sparkle" and not only that of her third finger-left hand either.

How is State College getting along now day, Billy? Say, when are you coming to see us and especially Margaret Katen.

Two of our girls were chosen Marshalls because of scholastic work. They were Hannah and Margaret.

Lee Vinson says she wishes you all could have been here for her 18th birthday. Of course the cake is what she enjoyed most.

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks, We cannot say the same thing we said last month because we have been having quite a few tonsil patients lately.

Hazel Creech, Betty McMannen, and Elsie Vest are glad to be down at the Infirmary and also Vivian Jacumin and Annie Marie Andrews are staying another year and we are all very glad to be together.

School will soon be out and we will start talking about vacations and camp.

We will all miss the seniors but we know they are proud to be graduates of Barium Springs.

Mrs. McNatt our matron had a visit from her son and daughter-in-law.

We enjoy living close to the babies although they do make quite a bit of noise but we know that they have a good time playing in their sandboxes and the swings.

The other day we were reading a ten year old Barium Messenger and we payed special attention to the Infirmary news. We were thinking of the improvements which have been made since then.

This is all for this month, will be back with you next month.

— The Future Nurses.

PRINTING OFFICE

Today as the crew entered the shop, after winter activities. The machines made a different hum. Seeming to welcome us back for another summers work.

School is out. The end was welcomed, but we are looking forward to next year, wondering what joy, what surprises it will hold.

All the machines are running except the job press, which hums on with a never ending drone, printing letter heads for our pastor.

The Linotype has just started. It is setting a fraction of the three hundred inches of type, needed for publishing our "Barium Messenger".

This period now could be called, "the calm before the storm," because we are getting ready to publish the "Messenger", and one of our biggest jobs of the year, our annual, "The Spotlight".

We face the summer with eight members: Mr. Edwin Kyles, boss, Mr. Wallace Twombly, shoeman, and assistant printer, Earle Allen, James Reid, Donald Mitchell, Dwight Reid, Edward Walker, and Jimmy Williams.

We have an abundant supply of machines, paper, and working hands. We feel confident that our printing will reach no end.

— Earl Allen

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Friends,

School is out and we are having a wonderful time playing. We will be glad when Bible School starts too.

Some of the girls are moving and we will miss them very much.

Six girls made the honor-roll this month.

Betty Ann Andrews moved from the Infirmary and we are glad to have her with us again.

Edna Ellis and Sylvia Sue Buie had visitors over the week-end.

We are looking forward to vacation and camp.

Some of the girls got perfect attendance certificates.

— The Howard Girls

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Well, the day we have been waiting for has finally come. School is out and its time for fun and believe me we have already started having our fun. We did hate to see our seniors leave us but we hope they will come back to see us soon.

After school is out it is time to start moving up to another cottage. We have about six girls who will move to Howard this time and they are so happy about it we can't be sad because they are moving.

We would like to thank our nice friends in Mooresville for the nice box of cookies. They were just super after a hard day's play.

We'll be seeing you next month to let you know how many beans we've strung and also how many toes have been stumped.

— The Annie Louise Girls

LEES COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Here we are again to bring you the news from our cottage.

School is out for this year and everybody is happy. Most of the boys made their grade.

We are looking forward to vacation and then we go to camp for a week. We are planning to have fun this summer.

Cap Jackins is going to keep us busy this summer. We are going to keep the campus clean and help anywhere they need us. We are called the "Floating Group" some of the big boys are working with us and we are having fun.

Billy Black, Tommy Scott, and Palmer Wilcox are the "House Cats"

Mrs. Dawson spent the week-end with us. We enjoyed the Hershey bars she brought us. We are always glad to have company.

All the teachers have gone for the summer and we will miss them. We will be looking forward to seeing them next fall.

We will be glad when it gets warm enough for us to go swimming.

We will be back next month.

— Billy Black & Tommy Scott

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Folks,

We locked the doors to the "Little Red Schoolhouse" Monday, to begin our summer vacation, and we are really looking forward to it.

This is the time of year to be promoted in our cottage as well as in our school grades. All of the seventh grade girls are moving out except Louise Surles. A few of the sixth grade girls and one fifth grader have moved to different cottages to help the matrons.

The days are beginning to get so hot that we are counting the days until the swimming pool opens.

Our dining room matron, Mrs. Woods, took us to the show last night. We saw a technicolor musical, "Zeigfeld Follies." It was very good.

So long until next month.

Barkley; presentation of certificates to eighteen members of the eighth grade by Mr. T. Ward Guy, County Superintendent; presentation of Bibles to the graduates by their pastor, Rev. F. B. Benton; and awarding of medals and prizes by Mr. J. B. Johnston. The salutatory address was delivered by Lucille Smith and the valedictory address by Dewie Belle Buie. Dwight Spencer of the eleventh grade. His grade was better than 95 percent of the pupils of his grade who took the test in the country as a whole. A few others who made exceptionally good grades were Amos Hardy, W. A. Johnson, Lee Vinson, Tommy Hudgins, and Charles Barrett. All of those named made grades that were better than 70 percent of those taking the test in the entire country.

During the weeks immediately preceding the close of school chapel programs were given by each of the elementary grades, all of the children in these grades taking part; the seniors gave a three act play, "Don't Darken My Door", in which all of the seniors had important parts; and two piano recitals were given by Miss Green's piano pupils, one by the elementary and one by the high school pupils.

Thus ended what we at Barium feel was a very successful school year.

Barium Messenger

Vol. 23

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JUNE 1946

No. 8

Concerning the Once A Month Sunday School Collection

Some months ago there was an article in the Messenger telling in fable style of the death of the Prayer Meeting. This article is about the slowly dying of the once a month Sunday School Collection.

This Sunday School collection has been approved by the Synod of North Carolina for over twenty-five years. It has been practiced in many churches and it apparently has had a wholesome effect, not only on the Sunday School in increased interest in Barium, but increasing its interest in the other benevolences. In by far the most instances it has shown a commendable increase in the Sunday School collection for that Sunday, and some improvement in the other Sundays, even when the Barium cause has not been stressed.

In cases where there has been an enthusiastic promoter of the Barium cause Sunday School collections have reached amazing proportions, and yet with all of this, the sum total of the Sunday School offerings has never reached an impressive figure. We do not rely on that as a major portion of our support, and yet we are enthusiastic about the idea. Children grow up knowing about Barium and they early get the thrill of doing something for Barium. There are very few Sunday Schools in our church that do not have some contact with Barium, either by having a child to go from that Sunday School to Barium or to go from Barium to that Sunday School. In many communities there are families where either the father or mother was raised at Barium. These are always enthusiastic supporters of Barium.

It is so easy to work up enthusiasm for this wonderful place that the Sunday School offering becomes not a burden, but a delightful privilege, and in all of our years at Barium we have yet to hear a person express the thought that what they gave to Barium hurt them, or made them unhappy. Now, we have heard members of congregations and ministers and Church

Can any reader give any information about the Baptismal Font in Little Joe's Church as no record can be found here as to who gave it, or the circumstances under which it was given, or any information as to the person in whose honor it was placed in the Church.

The Baptismal Font is of white marble. Bowl and pedestal are cut octagonally and the base is cut square. Along the edge of the bowl is the inscription, "Suffer little children to come unto Me," and on the base of the bowl, "IHS". On the front of the base is the inscription, "In memory of Frederick Phillips Jackson, October 21, 1902."

If anyone can give us any information with reference to the circumstances of the Font given to Little Joe's, and as to who the donors were, and anything with reference to the one in whose memory it was placed, Frederick Phillips Jackson, please send such information to R. S. Arrowood, Treasurer, Barium Springs, North Carolina.

Report On Meeting of General Assembly

The news of most importance to the Presbyterians of North Carolina is of the meeting of the General Assembly which was held in Montreat, North Carolina, on May 23rd through May 28th.

This Assembly was very well attended as there were 371 present out of a possible 378 Commissioners, so only seven places were vacant.

The Moderator's sermon was preached by the retiring Moderator, Dr. C. K. Young of Memphis, Tennessee. His very timely topic was "Christianity's Most Excellent Way."

Quite a spirited contest was held for the Moderatorship, and finally Dr. J. B. Green of Decatur, Ga. was unanimously elected. Dr. Green is retiring as Professor of Theology of Columbia Theological Seminary, but will next year teach Homeletics.

The reports of the various committees were generally very encouraging and challenging.

From the Foreign Missions Report we learn that we now have 341 missionaries, some of whom particularly from Asia, are now in the United States, but these are anxiously awaiting the time when conditions will allow them to return. Last year we spent on foreign missions $1,209,185.00. The Churches are asked to give $1,430,000.00 next year. From the Report of the Assembly's Committee on Home Missions, we learn that we have 479 workers engaged in 812 projects. The receipts for the Assembly's Home Missions last year were $521,544.00, and we are asked to give for this cause for the coming year $699,750.00.

The Committee on Evangelism reports that 18,913 were received on the profession of faith last year. The goal put before us for next year is for 500 new Sunday Schools and 50,000 to be received on profession of faith and 50,000 by letter and restatement.

The women's work of the church is always carried on and very effective. We have 2,619 Auxiliaries with 210,395 members. The women of the church gave through their Auxiliaries last year $1,924,912.00. Items of interest picked up from the Assembly's reports include Chaplains still in service which is 114. Evidence that the long decline in Sunday School enrollment has taken a turn for the better is shown by the fact that we have 13,000 more in Sunday School than last year.

The Committee on Moral and Social Welfare has long been the center of considerable controversy.

The name of that Committee has been changed to "The Department of Christian Relations."

Several matters of special interest were the cause for considerable debate. The first was the question of reunion with the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. No vote on this question was called for this year as the Committee on Cooperation and Union requested permission to defer the report until next year, and this request was granted.

Another question which always calls for a large number of overtures and much debate is the membership of the Presbyterian Church, United States in the Federal Council. All overtures to withdraw from the Federal Council were denied.

AM I BLUE?

You said it, I am Danny Leroy Blue, and I am the son of Herbert Blue who used to lug a football on Sloan Field in a most satisfactory manner. Daddy is now a Marine and he and his wife, who happens to be my mother, please me very much. My name is Blue but that's all, I don't feel blue everything suits me fine.

Herbert Blue is one of that family of Blue boys - Robert, Herbert, and Miller, who spent a number of very satisfactory years at Barium Springs.

Hail and Farewell

The month of June ushered in a number of changes at Barium. Miss Sarah McNeill commenced her last month here and her leaving makes us all feel badly. She has endeared herself to us in all of the work that she has done here at Barium, as matron, as Physical Ed Teacher, as Girl Scoutmaster, and as Head Matron, she has done her work well and conscientiously, and we hate to see her go.

Mrs. Mary Bryant takes over as Head Matron. She comes to us from the Y W C A of Charlotte. She brings to the work years of experience with young women. We believe that her work at Barium will be effective and good. We welcome her to our staff and community.

Mrs. E. C. Williams comes to us from Y W C A work in Texas. She will be matron of the Women's Building. It has been a long time since we had a regular matron at the Women's Building and a Head Matron. Miss Clark and Miss McNeill would get a matron for that work and then have to lend her to some other department to make up for the woman-power shortage which we have suffered all during the war years. We hope Mrs. Williams will not be required to take up any other work but will devote her entire energies and time to this one big job. The community welcomes these two fine women.

Mr. Jerry Newbold is taking on a brand new job here for the summer. Mr. Newbold is a seminary student working his vacation at Barium Springs. He is sort of Promoter, and he is already showing his success in this line. During the summer months there is so much

Camp Fellowship

Camp Fellowship opened for business on June 7th with a group for the church at Davidson taking over from Friday through Monday. On Monday, June 10th, the first group of Concord Presbytery Pioneers showed up, and as this is written they are enjoying the camp eighty strong. June 17th through June 22nd the second group of Concord Pioneers will take over. Then on June 24th the Winston-Salem Presbytery Pioneers will have the camp for a week. On Monday, July 1st, the Broad Street Methodist Church of Statesville will have the camp for a week. On Wednesday, July 10th, the Davidson Methodist Church comes in. Friday, July 12th until Monday July 15th Catawba County's Sub-District A will use the camp. Monday, July 15th, the First Methodist Church of Hickory moves in. Monday, July 22nd, the 4-H Clubs of Wilkes County will enjoy their second outing at the camp. On Monday, July 29th, for that week and the two weeks following we ourselves will use the camp, and our summer activities are already beginning to point toward those three weeks as the climax of the summer.

going and coming among our children and workers that there is never two weeks with the same organization. We start out in the summer with lots of plans in mind "we are going to do this work" "we are going to have these games" "we are going to promote this project" and then the people who are interested in that particular project or game go away for two weeks, and when they come back the project has languished. The Pastor's Paragraph

By REV. F. B. BENTON

"OUR FATHER'S WORLD"

The season of the out-of-doors has come again. Everywhere men and women and children are leaving the crowded cities with their clutter of man-made civilization and going forth to enjoy the refreshing qualities of the world of nature. As we turn to the mountains, the woods, the seashore, we come face to face with God. Only those the eyes of whose souls are blinded can fail to see Him.

Out under the open sky "the heavens declare the glory of God" to us as we turn our faces upward. The immensity of space - the home of the sun and moon and stars - reminds us of the bigness of our God who created the universe. His glory and majesty and power and wisdom are all written there for us to read. We are moved to ask as did the Psalmist when looking heavenward, "What is man that thou art mindful of him?" And in our day of world-wide crisis and evil we might add the question, "What is the power of so insignificant a creature as man to thwart the eternal goodness of the Creator of the heavens and the earth?" The message of God written in the vastness of the open sky brings life into its proper perspective and thus brings peace to our souls.

Many of us this summer will be journeying into the mountains, and there again God is about us everywhere. "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills" and find there the strength and stability of their Maker. As the crashing of much with which we have clothed our lives and our hopes echoes across the world, we sometimes fear that we are to be left naked and defenceless. But there is a message in the mountains - "As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about His people from henceforth even forever." "They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth forever." (Continued On Page Three)

Quilt Makers

Did you ever try to stuff a quilt with marbles or acorns, or did you ever try to sleep on one stuffed like that? Believe it or not, we have had that experience, and here's how come.

You can occasionally buy a beautiful material of mixed cotton and rayon batting that is soft, beautiful and looks ideal for quilt making. Well, it is good until you wet it and then things happen.

It so happens that the quilts which we use in our infirmary have to be washed rather often and there's where the trouble shows up first. This beautiful mixture of rayon and cotton draws up into little knots - they are about as hard as acorns and rough as cockleburrs - and when the quilt does that it does not create any warmth or comfort of any kind.

All of you quiltmakers, whether you are making quilts for Barium or for yourselves, beware and do not use this mixture for quilts. It looks good, but it does not last.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hi Folks,

The chief topic of conversation around here just now is VACATIONS! We go to bed talking this subject and its the first thing we think of in the morning. More about this later. Our summer is also bringing about changes such as:

Have you folks ever gone through the experience of joy and sorrow at the same time? Then you can feel for us because that is just how we feel now. Our joy came with the coming of Mrs. Mary Bryant, resident director of the Y. W. C. A., Charlotte, who will be the new dean of girls and of Mrs. E. C. Williams, who held the same position as Mrs. Bryant in Texas. We take this opportunity to give them a warm hand-clasp of welcome. But as I said we are feeling sorry too at this time because Miss Sara McNeill, who has worked with us, played with us, and felt for us when it was needed, leaves us to take up work in the First Presbyterian Church in Reidsville, N. C. We are going to miss Miss McNeill in everything we do. We hate to see her leave from our midst but with her she will take our love and admiration along with our best wishes for great success in her new work. Come back often, Miss McNeill, and God Bless you.

We have a wide awake recreational program this summer, thanks to our summer director Mr. Jerry Newbold. Mr. Newbold came to us from Wilmington soon after leaving the Seminary in Richmond where he is studying. Things began to "pick up the day he arrived as he immediately launched a "whiz" of a tennis tournament. The championship for the girls lies between Peggy Coffey and Margaret Katin. The boys have not yet finished the semi-finals but we're for the winner! Specially if he'll be so generous as to let us wear the medal.

One night each week we're having a program of fun in the gym. Tonight it's a quiz program. Wish you could come up and join us and show off your intelligence.

Two afternoons and nights each week Miss Ruth Troutman, our high school librarian, opens the library for us to keep up with the current events, so our minds will not become too rusty! We get out books and Miss Troutman has a study hour with the younger children.

To return to vacations you'd be surprised how we miss one or two girls from our "family of 50" in Womans Building when they go away. Anne Wicker left Saturday and Margaret and Joyce Katen are going tomorrow. The others who are scheduled so far to go this month are Dorothy Plummer, Mary Anne Rhyder, Lee and Helen Vinson, Mildred and Kathleen Monroe, Betty Lou Williams, Nellie and Mary Frances Isenhour, Juanita Young, Margaret Bullard, Catherine Duane, Melva Powell, and Virginia Hendrix. Happy vacations, girls! Remember everything so you can tell us all about it when you return. We'll be going soon.

SYNOD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Gee, we are just having loads of fun playing and going in swimming since school is out. None of us can swim yet, but we betcha we'll have some by next month. We already have some expert divers, so we think!

And now for some good news. Our matron, Miss Taylor is now sailing on the high seas for England, to visit relatives. We call this good news because she well deserves this three months vacation which she has been looking forward to for some time. We miss Miss Taylor an awfully lot, but we are also glad to have Miss Faye Stevenson to help keep us clean and settle our fights and fusses. Really we aren't so bad; it's just that "Boys will be Boys."

Vacations have started and two of our boys, Johnny Collins and Idell Andrews are away at the present. Have a good time boys!

Oh yes! We must tell you about the new member of our family. Eleanor Pope and Shirley Inman. They're our new big "sisters". Welcome Eleanor and Shirley, we hope we won't cause you to get too many gray hairs.

We want to say thanks to Mr. Gene Fraley from Statesville for the box of chocolate candy he gave Miss "Lulie" to give us, yum yum, it was so good!

So long for this time folks! We hope you all have a very pleasant summer. As for us, We've already got a grand start so be looking for us next month and we'll tell you about it

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the news of the many different cases we've had since you last heard from us. Our patients have been scarce since the glass and many rocks have been removed. No stumped toes and hardly any cuts on the feet. Vaccination has caused a few of the children to visit us.

The swimming pool has been a great comfort to us on hot days especially, but, rain or shine that's where we're found most of the time, unless we've been bad.

We are very proud to say that we have one of our girls going to the conference Monday. Have a nice time Hazel!

Vacations begin the tenth and we sure are glad, but it won't seem right not having our sweet matron, Mrs. Hoover with us. Annie Marie Andrews has already gone home, but, don't think the rest won't have a turn.

Mr. Johnston, we thank you with our sincere appreciation for the lovely radio and it sure is a nice one.

If anything ever happens to anyone, we invite you to our house for any medicine you need, from aspirin to castor oil.

Here's to the medicine cabinet and a goodbye to our friends until next time.

— Little Nurses

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Since we wrote you last so many things have happened that we are doubtful about getting them all in one letter. First of all the swimming pool has finally opened and oh, what fun it is to get in that water again! We got a little needle stuck in our arms about two weeks ago and that has kept some of us out but it won't be long before our arms will get well and we'll all be sun burned.

We miss our teachers so much and some of us are already looking forward to next fall. We miss, Miss Blakeley, the teacher who lives with us and we want to thank her for thinking of us while she is on her vacation.

Vacations start Monday and two of our girls will go then. By the time they get back more of us will have gone.

Two little girls from Wilmington have come to live with us and we have already nicknamed one of them.

One of our favorite ladies on the campus has gone to Scotland to rest, visit friends and her relatives and we wish her a nice trip also we are all hoping she won't decide to hang her hat there.

That's all for now.

— The Annie Louise Girls

LEE'S COTTAGE

Here we are again folks, bringing you the news.

Some of our boys are going on a vacation this week, we will miss them. One of them is a housecat, his name is Palmer Willcox.

Miss Ford is planning to take a vacation for two weeks.

The Floating Group have been working in the Green Woods. We have been cutting down rotten trees.

All the house boys are going on a vacation.

Mr. Newbold has come up to Barium to teach us sports. Everybody likes him very much.

— Tommy Scott

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the news for this month. We are going in swimming now almost every day. Its bean shelling time again and we have lots of fun singing while we work. That's not all the fun we have because we have fun eating them.

We go to the library twice a week. We are looking forward for camp to come soon.

Some of the girls have gone on a vacation, these are the girls that have gone: Carol Jean Andrews, Peggy Ann Collins, Aline Thomas, Betty Hollifield, and Letha Walker.

— The Howard Girls

BABY COTTAGE

We are very little but as everyone knows very loud.

We have a big time now as we can play outside most of the time. We all had to get punched two week ago and have had very sore arms, but we are great big boys and girls when it comes to any thing like that.

We have two new girl with us and a new matron, Miss Moles. We all like them very much.

We are all excited over vacations. Clyde Andrews has already gone and we are all looking forward to our time.

And too, several boys will soon move to Synod Cottage to start to school and we are so glad.

Well this is about all for now, love to everybody.

— Baby Cottage

WALLACE COTTAGE

It's been quiet some time since we last made our report on the happenings of the day.

Charles Barrett took a journey to Fayetteville and we trust he spent an enjoyable "week-end".

Dwight now rooms alone due to the desertion of Jimmy Hayes. Charles Barrett now rooms with Herbert Good and J. D. Everett has left us.

Ed Walker, one of our faithful supporters, has become a "printers devil" on the Printing Office.

Vacations have begun but so far our building remains intact.

We'll close and try to report more often.

Over and out—

— Herbert Good

LAUNDRY

Listen Folks—

Since school is out for the summer, we naturally spend most of our time working in the laundry. We don't mind this though, because we find much happiness in our work as well as in our play.

We now have a new washer, which helps make the work easier. This month we also have several new girls from other cottages who have come to live and work with us. They are catching on to the work fast, and we are fortunate to have them.

Due to the summer vacations the laundry will be short of help, but with the full cooperation of everyone we have no doubt in our minds but that we will manage it.

Recently visitors have come down to see our work, and they weren't disappointed. Come in any time to see us for you are cordially invited.

Look for our news next month.

— The Laundry Girls

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the cottage news. Everyone made their grade year except one person, and we hope that she will do better next year.

Since the younger girls have moved over we have twenty-eight girls at our cottage. We hope they will enjoy their stay here.

All the girls are looking forward to their vacation. Nancy Jo Walker is leaving today and so are Louise Campbell, Kathleen Ellis, and Mary Lou Nunn who are going to conference.

Our original matron, Lucille Smith, who has been with us for a few weeks has taken over the position of being assistant to another, Mrs. Smith, from Red Springs. The Smiths seem to have us under control here at Rumble Hall. (Girls, with two matrons we will have to start being very good).

We all are sorry to say this is the last month Miss McNeill will be here. We like her very much and we want to thank her for everything she has done for us.

Mr. and Mrs. David Spencer are with us for a while and we like to play with their daughter, Jean.

Well folks, we will have to say good-by until next month.

— The Rumble Hall Girls

JOHNSTON COTTAGE

This is the first time you have heard from us in a long time, but we will try to let you hear from us more often.

Everyone is happy now because vacations have started. We will lose one of our gang Wednesday and soon we will lose more of them until vacations are over.

We have a new director here who helps us in our games. He has already helped us much in tennis and he will continue to help us much more.

— Donald Mitchell

Dear Alumni,

Have you begun yet making really definite plans for next Home Coming? Your old friends want to see you. Our mailing list is woefully out of date and incomplete. Maybe you know the whereabouts of someone (yourself, for instance) with whom we have lost contact. Send us addresses, especially of those who left in the '20's and before.

Let's make 1946 a real RE-UNION year!

Jimmy Stafford of McGill University in Canada made us a short visit.

ine that? Some one actually missing us? Why! You can hear our machines as far as the printing office. I guess thats how they remember us.

Since vacations has begun, we are keeping our heads at the machines trying to get out dresses and bathing suits in time for each girl to take with her on vacations. It really keeps us on the go, believe me.

We are planning more entertainment this summer than ever before up here. Our thanks go to Mr. Jerry Newbold, who has contributed much toward this. He has been with us only a short time and he is already known and loved by everyone here. He has even made some of our worst "wallflowers" take an interest in athletics. Thats how good he is.

When you have time, come up to the sewing room and see our new curtains. We made them ourselves, with the help of Mrs. Hudson, and they really are pretty.

Three of our girls are leaving for their vacations this week. Hurry back!

As for news of the girls, here goes: Jeanne McDonald, our "handy girl" has already lost four pounds running errands for us. If you know Jeanne, thats a great loss.

Helen Hawley said not to give away her secrets, so I don't guess we can.

Mary Anne Ryder turns a flip every evening when the mail comes. I know one boy who can make her do that.

Billy Everett came to see Margaret and he really looked good. Now she'll be getting letters from the U. S. Navy instead of State College.

Miriam Huddleston and Willie Stinson have finally reunited, after so many months of feuding, it's about time.

Wonder why Myrtle has lost that certain sparkle in her eyes. Can it be that W. A. has gone home?

Toni DeLancy seems to be doing O. K. with a black haired, black eyed boy from the P. O. H.

Lee Vinson, the girl with many boy friends, has finally settled for Benny Haller. Not bad!

As for Hannah Price, she is still "dumb" as ever.

Bye for now

treasurers say that they thought the Church was extending itself too much for Barium, and in many instances took measures to protect their Church and Sunday School from what appeared to them to be the inroads of our appeals.

Some of the friends with the best of intentions, we know, have prevailed on the Sunday Schools to discontinue the once a month collection for Barium, feeling that the giving to that source was too big in comparison to the giving to other Church causes.

We contend that this is bad logic, bad psychology, and bad Church finance. We do not believe that there has been a single Sunday School which has discontinued the once a month collection but that some individual from that Sunday School has written us deploring the change. Many have sent in money direct which they would otherwise have contributed through the Sunday School. In some instances there has been decided resentment over the ruling that stopped the collection.

We believe that we can safely challenge every Sunday School that takes this collection and ask them this question, "Do you think that the money contributed to Barium through the Sunday School is impoverishing the Church or robbing the other causes?" We do not think we will get a single answer in the affirmative. We really believe that the generous giving to the Orphanage instead of depriving or impoverishing the other causes is an inspiration for the Sunday School and Church to give more to them.

Let's use some everyday illustrations. A farmer plants wheat, corn, cotton, and a number of other things. Suppose he makes a great success out of one crop and a very poor success out of the others, what would you advise him to do? To try to build up his other crops to that good crop, or to cut down the good crop so that all the other crops would be on a par with it? If your child came to you with his report card from school showing a good mark on one subject and very poor marks on the other subjects, would you spend your time encouraging him to pull up his poor marks to the good mark, or would you insist that he cut down his good mark to the level of the poor marks?

Isn't this business of stopping the Sunday School offering a good deal like telling the child to cut down on his good mark to be on a par with his poor ones?

We have been told from our very beginning in orphanage work that we had to keep the orphanage and its needs before the public. The organization of the Woman's Auxiliary, the Presbyterian and the Synodical, all stress this we have letters by the score asking us to tell them about Barium and its needs so that they can stress it in the various organizations. We would certainly be considered derelict in our duty if we failed to keep the Auxiliaries and the other Church organizations informed. What is the purpose of this? Isn't it to create a lively interest in our institution, to keep it on the hearts of our friends throughout the State, and as a by-product to give them a chance to have a part in this work?

Now, if this work in the Sunday son Lee of Morganton.

Born to Jimmy and Lilly Bell (Smith) Dorton of Alameda, Calif. on May 6th a son, James Richard Lee.

Mott Price, who has been discharged from the army visited us at Barium. He is in Charlotte. Ben Lewis was also a visitor. It has been four years since Ben has been here.

Take a look at this young lady. This is the way she looked when she came to Barium and she was wearing the same smile when she left. Little Mary Mauldin - back home now with her parents and making friends just as fast and just as permanently as she did during her short stay at Barium Springs. She has a talking smile that says, "I like you and I know you are going to like me, so everything is all right."

School - which is one of the main agencies for instructing and informing our Church about the institution - is wrong, should we cease to publicize, or is the Church saying to us by inference that "we will penalize you because you are doing well what the Church has instructed you to do?" Shall we sit still and simply rely on the budget, saying nothing about our work and allow the money to come in as a percentage of the general benevolent impulse of our Church? How long would we or any other Church cause survive if we did that? We go to one Church Court and are told that if we don't publicize we will starve; we go to another Church Court and see machinery in operation which tells us just as plainly, if we do publicize we will be cut down.

Let's do a little sober thinking about this thing. Are the friends who oppose the once a month collection in the Sunday School, are they really afraid of Barium Springs? Can they recite anything in their experience where Barium Springs has taken one dollar out of the treasury of another cause? Can they prove that these Sunday School collections have in any way lessened the giving to any other cause? Can they find any member of the Church who complains about the opportunities to have themselves and their children contribute to Barium Springs once a month?

It is said and believed by many that we don't need to worry about the finances of an orphanage, that people will always take care of that. Well that belief has sometimes caused the children here to go hungry. Money doesn't just rain out of the clouds for Barium and it takes a sustained system of giving and of education to keep the flow of money to the level where it can do an adequate job.

The expenses of running an orphanage have increased just like maintaining your home. There are many things that have to be paid for now which used to be given to us. Many things are required of us now that were not even thought of twenty-five years ago.

Sometime ago we had a man of national reputation making inquiry as to just what we spent per day per child. We told him the figures according to our last report, expecting criticism from him since our cost had gone up so materially in the last five years. Instead of that he made this statement, "Well, I am glad to know it. Because any institution like yours that spends less than that figure is cheating somebody." He elaborated on this much more than we will in this article. He said an adequate staff, adequately trained and adequately paid, with due regard for time off and vacations, had to receive a certain amount of money or else you would get the scrubs. That children needed a certain amount of food, clothing, education, and health program, and all of this costs money, and that the general practice over the entire nation had established a pretty accurate minimum below which no institution dared fall and still claim to do a first-class job.

The Presbyterians of North Carolina, if we know anything about them at all, will never be satisfied with anything but a first-class job, if they are kept informed and their interest kept alive. The slow death of the Sunday School offering will bring about a slight decrease in revenue, but as the years go by it will mean a decided slackening of interest until the time may come when we will be forced to do a second-rate job, and nobody will mind it very much because they will have lost interest.

This article started out to be a sort of a pep talk to keep going those Sunday Schools that may be now debating the wisdom of discontinuing the monthly offering. Our plea is to consider seriously all the angles - consider what you would gain by it, if anything and consider what you would lose in addition to what we would lose.

The only test by vote was on the motion that the Presbyterian Church, United States, enter into a consultative relationship with the Federal Council. This motion was lost by a vote of 214 to 78.

Probably the most widely discussed action of the Assembly was with reference to the new set-up for our negro work. Hitherto the negro work of the Assembly has been under the direction of the Assembly's Home Mission Committee. A new Committee has now been constituted composed of the following men: H. L. Gladney, J. McDowell Richards, M. Ray Doubles, W. L. Dansey, Frank C. Brown, Arch E. Taylor, W. J. Gipson, Henry W. Mack, and Albert Kissling. This Committee is to operate with a budget of $100,000.00, and with the expressed purpose of making the Stillman Institute a four-year college and with the Assembly proposing to raise a million dollars for its support.

The following are interesting statistics:

In the Presbyterian Church in the United States there are seventeen Synods; eighty-seven Presbyteries; 2,623 Ministers; 3,524 Churches; 44 Ministers have died during the past year; there are 19,270 Ruling Elders and 22,793 Deacons; there was added on by profession of faith last year 18,913 members and added on by certificate 28,502 members; the total number of Church members now stands at 593,613; the total Sunday School enrollment last year was 423,012.

The next meeting of the Assembly will be at Montreat, North Carolina, on May 29th, 1947.

Flora McDonald College celebrated its semi-centennial at the commencement season. Dr. Vardell, who founded the College fifty years ago was on hand at this occasion. The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Dr. J. J. Murray, Dr. Vardell's son-in-law, of Lexington, Virginia and the commencement address was delivered by Dr. Frank P. Graham, President of the University of North Carolina. Diplomas were granted to 51 graduates.

Among new Ministers recently received into the Synod are Dr. Sidney A. Gates, now pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Salisbury; Rev. Samuel M. Houck, Pastor of the Concord Church at Loray, North Carolina; Rev. M. J. McChesney, now pastor of the Taylorsville group of Churches; Rev. E. H. Clark, Pastor of Warsaw and Bowden Churches; Rev. J. M. Smith, Pastor of Faison, Clypo; and Sanford Churches, Rev. B. F. Brown, Pastor of Rockfish, Willard, and Potts Memorial Churches; and Rev. W. B. Hood, Pastor of the Wallace Church.

ever."

As we drive through the countryside, the wild flowers and luxuriant greenness about us urge us to "consider the lilies of the field, how they grow." Or as we "behold the fowls of the air" and listen to the joyous song of the birds, we are reminded that "your Heavenly Father feedeth them." Nature is prolific with the promises of God's constant care for His own. Too often the anxieties of the business of living weigh heavily upon us, but out in God's open spaces these fall away and we find rest at last.

Are you going to the woods this summer? The poet has described them as "green cathedrals" where trees "lift their leafy arms to pray." Somehow to the soul that is alive the quietness of the forest brings a feeling of the presence of God. He is there, and in the stillness we commune with Him. when life's strain is heavy upon us, there is no better antidote than a trip alone into the woods. As the noise of the outside world is left behind, its stresses also fall away. And there, alone with God, we find once more "the peace that passeth all understanding."

"How great is His goodness, and how great is His beauty!" Oh, that we may see them and know them as we go out into our Father's world this summer. For then the beauty of the Lord our God shall be upon us and in us and shall shine forth from us unto others.

"A girl no longer marries a man for better or for worse."

"Indeed!"

"No; she marries him for more or less."

Orphanage Secretaries of Concord Presbytery Meet at Barium

On Thursday June 20th, the Orphanage Secretaries of Concord Presbytery will meet at Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

Mrs. Carol Beatty of Mooresville is Presbyterial Secretary of Orphanage work in Concord Presbytery. Mrs. Beatty is calling the meeting and making arrangements for the details.

The program will be conferences with the Orphanage Superintendent Mr. J. B. Johnston, with the Treasurer, Rev. Robert S. Arrowood; Miss Lulie E. Andrews, Clothing Secretary; Rev. F. B. Benton, Pastor of Little Joe's Church and possibly other members of the staff.

The ladies will also have an opportunity to look over the grounds and visit the cottages and other buildings. They will have dinner with the children in the big dining room and see the various enterprises of the home in operation.

Before the war and the consequent restriction on travel such a delegation was quite the usual thing here as we had many groups visiting us from time to time. War conditions practically eliminated such visits. The Home is poorer because of this because the contacts with the loyal people who so generously support the Home were very stimulating and helpful to all the children and workers here.

This is to issue a cordial invitation to all our friends to emulate the example of the Orphanage Secretaries of Concord Presbytery and to come to see us.

THE HOME IN DANGER

Enriched and improved in many ways and enjoying the highest standard of living and comfort in the world, the American home is nevertheless exposed to the gravest of dangers in these post-war years.

A recent booklet, "Temperance Begins in the Home," written by Dr. Raymond A. Smith, of Greensboro College, has just come to our attention. It is reprinted from The Christian Home, one of the publications of the Methodist Church, costs but fifteen cents a copy, and may be ordered from the Methodist Publishing House, Fifth and Grace Streets, Richmond, Va. Dr. Smith has done an excellent piece of work, and the study of the problem with which he deals is urgent. North Carolina Christen Advocate.

Hail and Farewell

Newbold is the connecting link that keeps these things going. Already there is a revived interest in tennis, softball, and many other games. Somehow we are enjoying our work more knowing that there is a live recreational period sometime during the day for each of us. Mr. Newbold is also helping with our religious services and altogether is making himself so useful and popular that we wonder how we have ever gotten along without him.

TO BE A MINISTER

When I hear some of the things which young men say to me by way of putting the arguments to themselves for going into the ministry, I think that they are talking of another profession. Their motive is to do something, when it should be to be something. You do not have to be anything in particular to be a lawyer. I have been a lawyer, and I know. You do not have to be anything in particular, except a kind-hearted man, perhaps, to be a physician; you do not have to be anything, nor to undergo any strong spiritual change, in order to be a merchant. The only profession which consist in being something is the ministry of our Lord and Saviour — and it does not consist of anything else. It is manifested in other things, but it does not consist of anything else. And that conception of the minister which rubs all the marks of it off and mixes him in the crowd, so that you cannot pick him out, is a process of eliminating the ministry itself.

Vol. 23

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JULY 1946

No. 9

C. K. PROCTOR

Just as the last issue of our Messenger left the press we received the news of the death of our dear friend and fellow worker, Creasy Kinion Proctor, for many years the most efficient and lovable head of the Oxford Orphanage in Oxford, N. C.

Eighteen years ago Oxford had the misfortune to lose their superintendent after a very brief illness. We who knew of the splendid work of Mr. Brown wondered where the Masonic Fraternity would turn to find a man to fill his place: it seemed a hopeless task. Well, they found one in Mr. Proctor he took up where Mr. Brown left off and has made of the Oxford Orphanage one of the outstanding institutions of its kind in the nation. It was his lot to weather the years of the depression; it was his lot to meet the vastly changed conditions of the second World War. He met these problems and crises in a quiet, efficient, uncomplaining manner and from them emerged a stronger and better institution.

We who have lived in the same generation with Mr. Proctor can only partially evaluate his services: it will take future years to really reveal the full worthwhileness of this great man's work.

Our sympathies go out to the Masonic Fraternity, to the organization of the Oxford Orphanage, and to the thousands of young people who have felt his guiding hand in this hour of their distress, and we hope that they will be guided in choosing his successor to find a man worthy and capable of carrying on in the high plane where Mr. Proctor dwelt.

Ladies From Concord Presbytery Visit Here

Our day at Barium June 20th was most enjoyable and instructive too. I speak for myself and the twelve ladies from the Women's Auxiliary of Concord Presbytery who attended the meeting.

We appreciate very much Mr. Arrowood taking so much interest in planning the day for us. It was a privilege to hear talks by Mr. Johnston, Mr. Benton and Mr. Arrowood.

You who could not go with us will never know what you not only the splendid messages mentioned but the food. Who was responsible for the good food? We know the Rumples Hall girls served it, and they really know how to serve.

After lunch we visited several of the Cottages, talked with the matrons and children. We wish that time would have permitted us to visit all twelve Cottages and the Infirmary; but we do remember just which ones we visited, and on our next trip we will visit the others.

If you have not visited Barium Springs you should. What we asked was: "How can you keep the Cottage so clean with twenty-five to thirty children living here, and how do you keep clothes for so many children in such a systematic way?" It would take a long time to go into this; you just visit them and see for yourself.

Mary Lee Beatty, (Mrs. E. C.) Sec. of Orphanage Work, Women's Auxiliary of Concord Presbytery.

Kindergarten at Barium Springs Seventeen Years Ago

This is the Kindergarten at Barium of Seventeen years ago - there are twenty-three youngsters in this picture - there are three sets of twins whom you can, no doubt, easily pick out. Thirteen of these twenty-three children graduated from Barium. Two joined the service just before graduation; Eleven saw service in the late war and every branch of the service was represented - the Navy, the Marines, the Army, the Coast Guard, and the Air. One boy lost his life. Nine went to college, are in college now, or have graduated from college. Six are married, three of the six marrying their Barium sweethearts.

A number of remarkable athletes are in this picture, among them the captain and center of Barium's State Champion football team, and six others were members of Barium's best teams.

Two of them were on the State Champion wrestling team. Four of the girls in this picture were basketball players and two were outstanding players on the team that was two years champion of the South Piedmont Conference. Do you know any of them? Well, here they are:

The fuzzy looking little blonde in the first row is Evelyn Coppedge, now Mrs. Lacy Beshears: she lives in Springfield, Mass. and has a little boy. She graduated from Barium and was quite a basketball player. The next two are Jack and Tom McCall. They graduated from Barium - one had a year at State, one had a year at Davidson and they are both now at Iowa State College. They saw plenty of service in the Army - Tom in India, Jack in the Air over the South Pacific.

The next lad is Robert Kerr who went back to live with his father while still quite young. We haven't heard from Robert in a good many years - he probably was in the service also.

The next smiling youngster is Pleas Norman who graduated from Barium and who is quite a football player and singer. He is now back preparing to enter Davidson College this fall. Next is Billy McCall who graduated at Barium, quite a football player and wrestler, he had almost one year at Davidson before going into the Army. He saw service in Europe and is now ready to enter Davidson again this fall. The pleased looking little girl on her knees is Catherine Trollinger who went back to live with her people so many years ago that we might not know her now, and from her winning ways we are almost sure that she is married by this time.

The solemn looking young lady sitting on the bench in the second row is Margaret Boyd whose father re-married and Margaret has been living with them for the last fifteen years at least. We are pretty sure that Margaret must be married because she got prettier by the minute as she grew older. The smiling little girl in the white coat is Althea Ellis who went back to live with her mother while still quite young. Her brother, John, finished at Barium. The next young lady is Sarah Parcell who graduated from W. C. U. N. C. just a month ago - quite a young lady. She has worked at Barium during her summer vacations and as student and worker she holds a high place at Barium. The next two are Evelyn and Helen Billing - twins - who went back to live with their father and step-mother while still in the Elementary grades - one is now married. They graduated from school in Statesville.

The next is Dick Parrish - football player and wrestler - just a good all-around boy. He graduated at Barium and almost finished a year at Davidson. He was in the Marines and was killed at Iwo Jima.

The back row, commencing with the young lady leaning so nonchalantly against the column. That is Vittoria Salvaggio the youngest of three of a family from Valdese. Her father re-married and she went back to live with him. brown eyes and all. If she hasn't married by this time it is because of the man scarcity.

Leslie Smith joined the Coast Guard just after he turned seventeen and before he finished his high school work. He has learned enough geography since entering the service to make up for what he did not learn in school. He is about the most traveled member of this group. Paul Horne is next. He graduated at Barium, had almost a year at Davidson, was in the Army, saw plenty of service in Europe and is back at Davidson again - he is now a rising Sophomore. Henry Pittman, quite a football and basketball player, graduated at Barium, had a year and a half at Davidson, and has been in the Navy. He saw lots of service in the Philippines and later on was in Japan. He married his Barium sweetheart and is now a student at Carolina. Billy Lindsey didn't quite finish at Barium - the war was just too much. He saw plenty of service in the Air and is now a student at Westminster College, Missouri. Dennis Williams - While Dennis was quite a little boy he and his brother went clear across the continent by bus to be with their father who had settled down in Cottonwood, Idaho. He finished his growing up there and was in the service.

The next two girls are twins again - Grace and Agnes Coppedge a famous pair on the basketball court. They graduated at Barium and had one year at Mitchell. Agnes married her Barium sweetheart, Joe Savage. Joe is still in the Navy. Hugh Norman, the captain of our 1941 football team and our most valuable basketball player in the same year. Hugh finished at Barium, went into the service, and is now married and living on the West Coast. Sallie Farmer finished at Barium and was quite a basketball player, although not a starter in the famous championship team; she was a member of it. however. She married her Barium sweetheart, Ed Cole. They live in Statesville have two fine children.

So now since you know them, you name the picture. Shall we call it The Champion Football Team or The Champion Basketball Team or The Champion Wrestling Team, or shall we just call them A Nice Bunch of Kids, whom we still love very much even though we could not get them again in that small a space. We are sure you who look at this picture will remember some of these youngsters.

Just to refresh your memory a little bit, Sallie and Henry Pittman graduated in the Class of '41; Paul Horne, all three of the McCalls, Sarah Parcell, Hugh Norman, and Dick Parish graduated in '42. The Coppedge twins graduated with the class of '40.

OLD MAN RIVER

"The Old Man River, he just keeps rolling along. This song was written about the Mississippi but it can apply to the old Catawba. It just keeps rolling along every day of the year - sometimes muddy, sometimes clear, sometimes swift, sometimes slack. It belongs to anybody with the time to sit near its banks and look at it or get in a boat and ride on it or get into its cool depths for a swim, but for three weeks in the year there is a section of the Catawba that belongs to the kids of Barium Springs. This time commences on July 29th this year, and anybody in the neighborhood of the Buffalo Shoals can, no doubt, see and hear a bunch of lively kids enjoying the river in boats, in swimming, or satisfying the appetites that such exercises engender at our grand outdoor cooking place.

For several years it was our pleasure to write to the boys in the service scattered all over the world and to girls too, almost as widely scattered. We received hundreds of letters in return. Along this time of the year it was a rare thing to receive a letter that did not have some reference to former camping parties on the Catawba at our gorgeous camp grounds. Well, old man river doesn't seem to get impatient and as long as it runs and our friends continue to be kind to us this generation and the next generation will still enjoy Camp Fellowship.

The old river does things to the camp, there was a big hole right near the dining room where we used to have a raft and it was good diving. Well, during the last two years old man river has just filled that hole up completely and almost made an island of it. It has dug (Continued On Page Three)

Information Received on Baptismal Font

In response to our request for information with reference to the Baptismal Font given in memory of Frederick Philips Jackson, several friends sent full and very interesting information about the little boy and his family.

Frederick Philips Jackson was born in Raleigh November 3, 1899 and died of diphtheria when he was almost three years old on Oct. 21, 1902. His father was Herbert Worth Jackson of Raleigh who was a grandson of Governor Worth. His mother was before marriage Miss Annie Philips. She was the daughter of Judge Frederick Philips of Tarboro, N. C. for whom the little boy was named. His father was an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Raleigh and Superintendent of the Sunday Schools.

Several people wrote of the beauty of the child as they remembered him a lovely blond with head covered with golden ringlets and a pure and spiritual expression on his face.

His sister Miss Evelyn Jackson of Richmond Virginia writes us that he had a little iron bank in which he had saved a good many small coins. After his death his parents took the coins and added to them to purchase the memorial for their little son.

After his death the family moved to Richmond Virginia. The father and mother are now dead and rest by their little child in the cemetery in Raleigh. Two brothers and a sister survive.

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

LEES COTTAGE

Hello Folks,
Here we are bringing you our news from our cottage. Most of our boys are back from their vacation and we are glad to see them back. Jack Jones took us to the show the other week and we enjoyed it very much.

We have been picking blackberries and we enjoy the blackberry pie they made for us. Miss Ford went home for the week-end and when she came back she brought us back a lot of funnie books. We will go to camp July 29th and stay a week.

— Tommy Scott

HOWARD COTTAGE

Our special topic for conversation in this cottage at present is about vacations and we want to tell you something about it. Most of our girls have already gone somewhere for two weeks vacation. Martha Nell Hall, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston and Phoebe Cockran went to Hickory Dockery camp. Martha Nell enjoys telling us about how she fell off the pony.

Mary Jane Andrews expects to go the 23rd to spend two weeks.

While Margaret Hopkins was on vacation she went to the Atlantic Ocean. She brought several of us some shells for souvenirs.

For recreation we have been going in swimming most every day and sometimes Mr. Newbold takes us on a walk. Last Saturday he took us to Kesler's bridge.

We'll be seeing you next month.
— The Bean Stringers.

BABY COTTAGE

Hello There,
It's news time again, and here are the babies. Just let us know when you want to hear the latest, we know it all - or think we do.

All fifteen of us went swimming this morning, more fun! We always go the first of the week because the water isn't deep then. You should see little Jimmy jump off the side. And Charles can swim like a fish until he turns loose the hooks.

Mrs. Nelson is in Montreat now "Nanner" Berryhill is taking her place and is almost always carrying an o'le wash rag around for our hands and ears. Miss Moles backs her up with the comb and hair brush (We do hope she will continue to use the hair brush for our hair only).

Ruth Shepherd is home from the hospital, and we're so glad.

Essie Jean Lee is our only vacationer now. Won't she be surprised to see our new sliding board? Oh, yes folks, we do have a new sliding board in our play pen. At first the newness of it kept us from sliding good. We'd stop right on the half way mark every time, but Ann Wilcox fixed that. She slicked it with bread paper and Johnson's wax. Now we go down with the greatest of ease, that is until our little bottoms hit the ground. We wish Mrs. Scattergood would slide down for us like Mrs. Gentry slid down the fire escape for the Annie Louise girls!

We'd better put an end to this chatter now and go wash for supper but we do hate to wash! Donnie slipped to supper last week without even touching soap and water, but Nanner caught on, bet he won't accidentally on purpose forget any more!

Bye now and come to see us.

— The Babies

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,

So many of our group have been home or are going that we really don't have much to tell you this time except that we want to thank each and everyone of you who have made our vacations possible.

Now that vacations are over we still have something to look forward to. Camp! We have a whole week down on the Catawba River and we just can't wait until the 29th.

We would like to thank someone for the magazines that were given to us. We don't know who it was but we will thank them and maybe they will read the messenger this month.

Hope you all had a pleasant 4th. We had a picnic supper and we had some extra special things. Thanks to our matron.

We'll be seeing you next month.

— The Annie Louise Girls

LAUNDRY

Hi Everybody,

This is the laundry girls bringing you the news of the month.

Most of the girls here now have been on their vacations, but there are still a few who have not been.

Anne Wicker has just returned from the State's Tourist Center, Pinehurst. Mary Morgan went to Rockingham, Bradley Jean went to Norfolk, Betty Lou Williams to Durham, Margaret Bullard to Kanna- polis and Mildred and Kathleen Monroe to Washington, D. C. We all had a wonderful time, but are glad to get back to work.

Mrs. Neel, our matron, has not taken her vacation yet, but is leaving August 1st. We certainly are going to miss her.

Right now the topic of conversation is our yearly trip to the river. We are all planning to have a good time.

Well Folks this is all until next time.

So long,

Bradly Jean Manus

Mildred Monroe

SEWING ROOM

Knowing that you enjoyed our Atomic news letter last month we somehow couldn't let another Messenger slide through the press without making sure the news and gossip of the S. S. S. S. (Sit, Sew, Sweat and Spread) girls were included.

Although most of the girls are on vacations there is still enough of us left to turn out playsuits by the dozens and to keep everyone up on our latest gossip.

When and if we ever get all of our girls together again, we are going to hold open house up here in the sewing room and put on display some of our domestic ability. Then we can prove that we have stuck to our tasks and have been smart girls this summer.

We know that you're just itching to hear from the girls who are here, so here goes.

Mary Anne has been wearing a flashy ring since she has returned from her vacation we've noticed. She's wearing it on her right hand though.

Helen and Maggie, after a long leave of absence, can be seen walking arm in arm down the side walk with no Mr.-in-between.

Lee's mind must have gone some where as she sewed her finger on the machine his morning.

Myrtle is all smiles and seems to be well satisfied these days.

We'll be glad when the rest of the girls, Toni, Jean, Mary Francis and Atomic Price get back.

Don't forget to tune in next month, Folks and listen to our chatter amidst the hum-drum of our sewing machines.

— The Sewers.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the news for this month.

Most of our girls are back from their vacations now.

We are planning to go to the skating rink Friday night if nothing happens.

We are all looking forward to the camp which starts two weeks from Monday.

We have been going in swimming and having lots of fun.

Our dining room matron, Mrs. Wood is going on her vacation the 15th and we sure will miss her a great deal.

We are going to have ice-cream for dinner and are going to have chicken two times a week, yum! yum! We had better stop talking about food we might make you hungry.

Well good-bye for this time.

— The Dish Washers

THE WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hello Folks,

Quite a few things have happened since we wrote you last. Many of the girls are still on their vacation but they are returning every day. We really miss them while they are away, and will be glad when they all come back.

Our thoughts have now turned to camp which is only a few weeks off. Going to camp is always lots of fun and it is just another little vacation before school begins.

Wish all of our friends could see our new recreation room. It's really nice. Our upstairs living room just didn't seem to get used, so to make it more attractive, it was decorated and furnished for games and recreation. One night each week we have open house for high school groups, including the boys, we really have lots of fun. One of the nicest things in way of equipment for the room is a lovely automatic record-player. We are really proud of that.

Well, Folks that's about all there is to tell for this time, but we'll be back next month with more news, so be sure to look for it.

— The Woman's Building Girls

INFIRMARY

Hello Folks,

We are so happy to be back with you again this month.

Vacations are almost over now and we are so happy that we all could go on a vacation. Annie Marie Andrews went to Manchester N. C., Elsie Vest went to Kanna- polis, they are back now. Vivian Jacumin went to Valdese, N. C., Hazel Creech went to Wilmington, N. C. Betty McMannen is going to

MOTHERS AND JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

It is no happy experience to reflect that something has come over far too many of the mothers of this country to interfere with their fundamental homemaking and child training responsibilities. We ascribe it to the times and to the customs of this age and let it go at that.

These times and these customs have for a fact, reacted upon motherhood with a pernicious impact.

They have forced masses of women into the atmosphere of our work-a-day world, and for this they are not to be censured.

Economic pressures rather than personal inclinations have been in many of these cases the contriving as well as the controlling factor.

Even so, these are not the only nor perhaps the major, influences, which account for a sort of faded glory to be hanging around the heads of modern mothers. In the cases of all too many they have lost their old-time attachments to their paramount concern.

The consequences of this desertion of the responsibilities of their own firesides are alarming. Upon what other factors in our modern life is the laxity in the morals of today's youth to be led than at this point?

The American home has within late times become invaded by various distracting influences which tend to break it up and it is the one human institution upon which through the ages the structure of a stable and moral society rested.

Against the poundings of contemporary life, this ancient citadel of decency and Democracy, of right and of character in our national living, of religion, of conscience life has sadly and seriously crumbled.

Excuse for this wreckage which has been made of the American home by whatever evil influences you may care to designate, the nation's standards of moral idealisms and of spiritual understanding would not today have had their flags dragged so humiliatingly in the dust.

Mothers who are sensitive to their superior obligations to their children must have an awareness of their responsibilities for much of what has happened in this regard.

In forgetting moments, multiplying into months and then into years, they have left their own throne seats in their homes and their children, leaving these latter to be brought up, trained and instructed, guided and influenced by proxies.

In North Carolina we have lately been shocked by some authentic findings as to the increase of delinquency among juveniles in this state.

These studies show that there

Durham. We hope they will have a good time.

We still go in swimming every-day. The swimming pool is a very good place to go when you are hot.

Camp time is just around the corner. We sure do have a good time at camp and we are eagerly looking forward to camp time.

We are having very few patients now. And that is a great help, during vacation time since we have less girls. We are glad that everyone is feeling good. But when you do feel badly you are welcome to come.

We had a pleasant week-end having Mrs. McNatt's son, Charles and his wife visiting us.

Betty McMannen had a visit from her Aunt and Uncle Sunday.

We certainly are enjoying the radio which Mr. Johnston brought to us and we wish to Thank him very much.

The apples this year are very good.

— The Infirmary Girls

has been an increase in mischief-making and evil-doing among white children of 41 per cent during the 30-month period following the nation's entry into the war.

And here is the most desolating of all these statistics. White girls showed the highest rate of increase in delinquency, namely 46 per cent.

If it is assumed that no one has a more contagious influence over the boys than the father, it must be equally true that no one has such a powerful influence over a girl as her mother.

The above statistics are preaching our modern mothers some harsh truths. — Charlotte Observer

WHERE PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY BELONGS

How Jesus would have scorned that limp sense of personal responsibility which forever lays blame for its moral failures upon the conditions where it finds itself! He drew a picture of a wayward, disobedient son coming back to his father's house, not with an eloquent indictment of the social and political conditions in that "far country" where he had gone to pieces. This young man came back with this frank statement on his lips, "I have sinned. I am no more worthy to be called my father's son." Had he blamed his misfortunes on some political party, or upon the Anti-Saloon League, or a high protective tariff, or the profit motive, he would be in that far country yet. We do not kill fatted calves, nor bring out the best robes and the gold rings, for those who lay the entire blame for their misdoing on environment.

How wholesome is that truth for these times! From soap-box reformers, from some professors' chairs from Christian pulpits, alas, one hears this sort of misdirected emphasis. People are told to say, "Create a better social order, O God, and renew right relations between all these various classes of men." We do need better conditions, political, industrial, social. But the better conditions will be created and maintained by better people. We are still compelled by the logic of events to go back and offer that basic petition, which has come down to us hallowed by the ages, "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me." If people generally were offering that prayer with sincerity of purpose, "All the kingdoms of this world," business and politics, education, recreation, and the rest would be in a fair way to "become kingdoms of our God and of his Christ." — Charles R. Brown

WHAT KIND OF EVANGELISM

By Richard L. Ownbey, D. D.

Some leaders in Methodism seem to be greatly distressed by published figures showing results in numbers from the Crusade for Christ emphasis on evangelism to date. They ought not to be disappointed! How could any Methodist leader ever hope that we could have a church-wide revival of genuine evangelism by the hocuspocus of adroitly organized ecclesiastical machinery with the "power" coming chiefly from episcopal, secretarial and general board pressures. Surely none of us should be surprised at the failure thus far of a campaign for souls in which emphasis on quotas and numbers and the like make it look strangely like another drive for the big money.

What kind of evangelism is this? Is it a gesture of skepticism of evangelism in Christian education — the only type of evangelism to which a liberal Methodism may look with any hope? Is it a resurgence of the superficial, fundamentalistic, "come to Christ" evangelism that is more concerned about bringing people into "our church" than about indoctrinating them in the truths of real Christianity? (Continued On Page Three)

There is no Christian evangelism in that—it is an un-Christian mis-evangelization, and the pity of it is that our country is overflowing with it already in a hundred evangelical, non-liberal sects today. The Apostolic Overcoming Holy Church of God has had an increase of 664 per cent in membership in the past eighteen years. Are we Methodist looking enviously in the direction of that kind of evangelism? In eighteen years the Church of the Nazarene has increased 183 per cent in membership, and the Christian Congregational Evangelistic Association 2,033 per cent. Can it be that any intelligent Methodist is intrigued by the methods and type of religion promoted by these and other fastgrowing cults? God forbid!

This special Crusade emphasis on evangelism began too soon. Before such a campaign can succeed the Church must itself be evangelized by being indoctrinated with a liberal interpretation of Christianity and fired with zeal for the expansion of the Kingdom of God on earth. Half the Methodist in this country do not know what liberal Christianity is, and of the other half ninety per cent are not evangelistically minded. Most of them are interested in being "saved by the blood of Christ," but have never had a serious intention of trying to live like Christ. What would we do with a million members of that sort uniting with our churches in 1946?

Jesus began a revival in Judaism by teaching a new and spiritual interpretation of religion in an age of fossilized legalism. Martin Luther led a tremendous advance in Christianity by emphasis upon the spritual as against the ritualistic religion of the Roman Catholic Church. John Wesley and his co-workers, under God, evangelized organized Christianity in the eighteenth century, and Methodism was born. And now Methodism must be evangelized so that its thousands of congregations may become mighty forces for spiritual production instead of remaining fallow fields to plow in and weep over, but that kind of evangelism is not visioned in the set up of the present drive. To be sure some people seem naively to think that if we could somehow get large numbers of unevangelized Methodists busy evangelizing others they themselves might ultimately be evangelized! But by what kind of evangelism?

Our churches go haltingly about the work of evangelism because their life is shot through with the spirit of secularism which imperils

Receipts Continue to Show Increase In First Quarter

We are glad to say that our first quarters' receipts from the organizations of the churches continues to increase. The following table gives the picture by Presbyteries. Five Presbyteries show an increase and four a decrease.

These figures are not conclusive as they merely reflect what has come into our hands during that period. They do indicate that the church is mindful of the higher costs of caring for our children and are helping us meet that increase.

the sensate society with which they are too closely identified. Standards of success in the churches like measures of success in our acquisitive order are quantitative rather than qualitative. What do you pay your pastor, and how many accessions this year? Give us the figures—and remember that we must not let the Baptists beat us in securing members in 1946. God help us!

Pastor's Paragraph
By Rev. F. B. Benton

THE BOOK AND THE HOME

A little girl one day pointed to the Bible lying on the library table in her home. "Mother, is that God's book?" she asked. And upon assured that it was, she replied, "Then let's give it back to Him; we never use it." Her statement well illustrates the paradoxical position of the Bible in America's homes today. It continues to be the most widely owned book while it has become one of the least read of all. We seem to feel that no home is completely furnished unless it has a Bible, but to feel also that the very presence of a Bible is sufficient to make a Christian home without its ever being used. The percentage of American families who set aside a regular time each day for reading God's Word together is so small that it hardly allows us to call ourselves a Christian nation.

In the sixth chapter of Deuteronomy we find God's instructions as to the place that His Word should occupy in our homes. There He tells us that His commandments "shall be in thine heart" and that "thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children". The solemn responsibility is laid upon parents to transfer the Word from the pages of the Book into their own hearts and lives. Then they are given the further obligation of teaching the Word to their children. God makes the home the primary seat of religious education. "Thou shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house," He says. The things of God should be, not a subject of embarrassment, but of the most intimate and delightful family conversations.

There is ample evidence of the influence that the Bible can have upon a home. Statistics today show that the divorce rate in America has reached the alarming proportion of one in every four marriages. Yet in even nominally Christian homes the rate is negligible, and in homes where the Bible is read daily in family worship it is practically zero. These facts alone should cause us to realize what the Bible can do for us in our twentieth century.

God's Book gives us a beautiful picture of the sanctity of the marriage tie, of the home and of the family. It bases life in the home on God's law rather than on man's pleasure. It teaches consideration for others, and achievement of happiness through sacrifice and service. Its "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" is a code of unselfishness which can make home the type of heaven that God intended it to be.

The Bible builds men and women of character and strength. It offers a better guide to child rearing than all the books of modern psychology combined. In the final analysis life depends not upon money or education or any of the so-called "advantages" of our day, but upon character such as the Bible builds.

Our world today cries out for adequate, dedicated, unselfish leadership. We look about us and wonder whence it shall come. In the Bible we read the beautiful love story of Ruth, culminating in the establishment of a godly home. And then we find that from this home came the line of Obed, Jesse, David -- the Christ. When God would provide the world with truly great leadership. He begins with a series of Christian homes. We can make no larger contribution to the world today than by making our homes worthy for such use.

CHEAPNESS IN THE CHURCH
By Wilbur Laroe, Jr.

The time has come for us laymen to revise radically our views about the conduct of church affairs. We have got to stop being so cheap.

We have fallen into the awful error of assuming that whatever the church does must be done cheaply. If we have a church dinner, it must be cheap. If we employ a church missionary, he or she must be inadequately paid. If we employ a church secretary, she must expect to be paid less than she would be paid in a business office because, forsooth, the church is less important than business.

Recently I spoke to a women's missionary group. Before the meeting I heard them discussing the need for redecorating the church parlor, where the furniture and draperies were shabby, and the whole atmosphere of the room was gloomy and funeral. The conclusion was reached informally that the room could not be redecorated because it would cost $2,000. From the church I was driven to a country club for lunch. There I was shown a new ladies' parlor which had just been magnificently refitted with modern furniture and equipment at a cost of $7,500. That room must be nicely fitted because it is there that the ladies drink their cocktails. It is only where the work of God is done that rooms must be shabby and drear. Members of a country club will pour out money more lavishly than will members of a church. The country club is important.

Two cocktails and two dinners at the average restaurant cost $3.80. The average weekly contribution to the Presbyterian Church is 54 cents per member.

The next time I am served cold ham and cole slaw and a cold, indifferent tea biscuit at a church supper I shall bring a tort suit against the church for the ensuing indigestion. Why in the name of common sense do we assume that we may have a very adequate and tempting dinner in our own home, but plan a church supper around baked beans or cole slaw? The average church member would fall into a faint if he were served lamb chops and apple pie a la mode at a church supper. Why? Because in things pertaining to the church mediocrity and cheapness are the accepted standard.

Recently a highly competent science teacher in one of our southwestern missionary colleges got her class interested in the production of penicillin and not only succeeded in producing a substantial quantity of it but turned it over to the medical department of the school where it was actually used in the treatment of certain skin diseases. This highly competent science teacher, who would easily command $3,000 to $4,000 in almost any other field of employment, receives the munificent salary of $50 per month, plus board and lodging. Our ideas are far too low as to the compensation which skilled religious teachers should receive. Is it because we regard religion as less important than other fields of instruction?

Our ministers are notoriously underpaid. We cling to the absurd fiction that they should, because they are ministers, dispense with the material things of life except food and a little raiment. Meanwhile we expect our minister to live in our community, to educate his children, to maintain the cultural progress of himself and his family. When shall we awake to the fact that our minister is, and must be, a highly trained professional expert, with numerous special qualifications required of a pastor, yet we pay him as if he were a truck driver or less.

We are cheap in our giving. At a time of indescribable world need, with millions facing physical and spiritual starvation, we Presbyterians give an average of 9.3 cents per week to all Presbyterian benevolences, including the wonderful work of our boards. And for current church expenses we give 44.7 cents. These figures reflect little real love for our religion or for our church. We ought to support our church better or join another faith to which we can give more wholeheartedly.

We Presbyterians have got to take the job of discipleship more seriously. We must awake to the fact that our religion is the most important thing in life—more important than our business, more important than our homes, more important than life itself. If we once convince ourselves of these things, Christ will get more than pennies and nickles and dimes.

away about twenty feet of the old shore line where we used to have our horseshoe pitching pits - and has made a deep channel just off shore, but it has widened out the big island in the middle of the river and made a bigger playground where it is safe for very young children to play. The grass that was sown on the ground thrives as well as it can considering the heavy traffic it bears. The sheep go out every spring and discourage poison oak so that our youngsters do not have that to contend with.

The boys who were in the service wrote back often that they were homesick for the camp. Several said that their highest ambition was to get back here and to someday be able to work at the camp during the summer months. Well, two sailors are doing that very thing - Ernest Stricklin and Pleas Norman - they are proving to be most efficient camp help. Both of them will be in Davidson College this fall; we do not know how much tan the other boys who go to Davidson will accumulate, but we would like to place a bet that our boys will have the most complete and the deepest tan of all, and old man river had a lot to do with that. Happy Days are here again, and by the time we are through with the camp we won't hear anything but football talk, and that suits us too.

HOME COMING DAY SET FOR OCTOBER 4TH

Football Game With Harding High To Be Feature of the Day

For many years our Homecoming Day was in the neighborhood of Thanksgiving and the weatherman did not cooperate at all. It was seldom that we had a good day. Then we commenced to experiment with having it earlier in the season and it worked out so well that this year we are putting it on the Fourth of October.

All of you alumni mark that date on your calendar - it is going to be a great day. We are going to have a big football game that day, too. For the first time in the history of things a Charlotte team is coming to Barium Springs to play - we have always gone to Charlotte for our games. Harding High will be the opponent and they have beaten us the last couple of years. That won't do, and we want the Homecoming crowd to help change that.

There will be some brand new seats to sit on down at the football field and we will try to have everything else in apple-pie order. We hope the time will come when there will be too many alumni to accommodate in our dining room and we will have to have an outdoor picnic dinner for them. That would be nice, too. That is the way Homecoming Days are usually handled at other institutions.

Just to remind all of you alumni (Continued On Page Two)

Successful Season At Camp Fellowship

As the Messenger goes to press the last of the Barium Campers will have returned to the campus and the camping season for the children of the home will be over for this year.

This has been a fine Camping Season with wonderful weather all summer. Only one rainy day put a stop to outdoor activities.

During this summer there have been twelve groups using the Camping facilities. They were: Davidson College Presbyterian Church, Two groups of Concord Presbytery Young People, One group of Young People from Winston-Salem Presbytery, a group of Methodists from Iredell county, Methodists from Davidson county and West Jefferson, Methodists from Catawba county - Sub-district A, two groups of Hickory Methodists, Four H Clubs of Wilkes county, and three groups from Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

Other groups will use the Camp on into September.

Mr. Harry Barkley has been at the camp all summer and has assisted or has been in charge of every group. He has been assisted on the water front and in the recreation by Ernest Stricklin and Pleas Norman. These young men have done an outstanding service at the camp this summer.

Mr. Jerry Newbold assisted in the Barium camps and had charge of the recreation.

Young People of the home helped to put on the camps for the younger children.

Other assistants during the Camping Season have been Mrs. I. B. White, Miss Cloyce Monse, and (Continued On Page Four)

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

SATISFIED.

In Paul's Letter to the Philippians we read a remarkable statement; "I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." It is unusual to find one who can make that statement truthfully. Most people are dissatisfied with their lot in life. We have only to stand on a busy street corner in some city and watch people pass to see dissatisfaction written in the great majority of faces. We have only to look about us at our own friends to find someone who has struggled all his life for some goal, only to find upon attaining it that it was not what he wanted after all.

To be satisfied, that is the goal for which people really seek. In the sixteenth Psalm we have a beautiful picture of one who has learned the secret. There David gives us the key in a lively poem that has well been called "The Song of a Satisfied Soul." He has learned, as Augustine said, that "Our souls are made for God, and they are restless until they rest in Him".

The first four verses of this Psalm are David's confession of faith -- a statement of his belief in God. He recounts the power of God to preserve and protect, and the righteousness of God which delights in goodness and punishes evil. And David looks up at this Lord of the universe and writes "my" across Him. "Thou art my Lord."

If, as students of human nature tell us, we are and do what we believe -- if our beliefs determine our character and actions -- then such belief in God must orient life and give it purpose and direction. It gives a sense of safety in a tumultuous world for it enables us to say at all times, "My life is hid with Christ in God." God is man's richest possession. It is good to say, "I am thine, O Lord." But life becomes complete only when we can add, "And thou art mine forever and forever."

The second four verses carry us another step toward satisfaction with life. They move from confession to communion, and in them we find some soul-satisfying statements. "The Lord is the portion of my inheritance." In counting his riches, he names God as first and chiefest. "I will bless the Lord who has given me counsel: -- because He is at my right hand I shall not be moved." Experience has proved his beliefs with an unanswerable proof that makes his soul invulnerable.

The richest possession that a man can have is a true friend, and man's best friend is God. No discontent is possible when we can say, "He walks with me and He talks with me and He tells me that I am His own."

I like the story of the man who called for a light that he might go ahead into the future. And the answer came back, "You don't need a light; step out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God." Even the darkest road holds (Continued On Page Three)

Jerry Newbold, Jr.

An outstanding addition to our staff during the summer months has been Mr. Jerry Newbold, Jr., a student from Union Theological Seminary in Richmond. He has filled a need that has long been felt on our campus, serving as director of recreation for the children during the vacation period.

From the first day that Mr. Newbold arrived he won the affection of all through his sympathetic understanding and his pleasant personality. He soon became known as the one person who always had time to stop and talk or play, and the children gathered around him in groups wherever he appeared.

Under his supervision game equipment sprang up all over the campus. Horseshoes, tennis, badminton and other games have flourished through his leadership, and in the afternoons he could always be found adding to the fun at (Continued On Page Four)

Recreational Program Needed At Barium

We carry in this month's Messenger an article about the fine work done on our campus by Mr. Jerry Newbold.

Mr. Newbold has been doing many things and doing them well, but I wish to make some comments from observation of his work in directing the recreation of the children.

Mr. Newbold's excellent service for a few months accentuates the fact that we need some one to carry on this work the year round. In fact a young man and a young woman might be used in this field very profitably on a full time basis.

This brings up the question of equipment. During the summer months most of the activities could be carried on out of doors. One of the parlors of the Woman's Building was converted into a game room and open house was kept several nights each week. This was fine as far as it went but was not adequate and left much to be desired. We have a basket ball court which doubles for an auditorium in our school building.

We need a recreational building that would combine the uses of the gymnasium for athletic games with social and general recreational activities for all the children of the (Continued On Page Four)

As I'll Remember

By Jerry Newbold, Jr.

Four months ago "Barium Springs" would have brought to mind hardly more than just two things: Thanksgiving Day and Football. Thanksgiving has always been the time to share with our home here through special gifts; and as for football -- well, you see I went to Davidson. But come next Fall and the future, "Barium Springs" will bring to mind far more than just a couple of things. Instead, many a moment of day dreaming will be devoted to drifting back to Barium to reminisce an unforgettable summer spent there.

Even now I can see myself "drifting back" -- back up the Charlotte highway, on past Doodlem's, the "Workers' Village", and the train station until we soon see there on the right, the football field. And what shall that sight bring to mind? Memories of treasure hunts, Bum Bum Bum, scavenger hunts, Red Light, and many an impressive outdoor Sunday night service, tho it'd be nice to forget the way I seemed to always stay "off key" while trying to lead the singing. On beyond the football field stands the High School; and with it comes thoughts of Bible School: spatter printing, Mark's Gospel, and the "swarm" of Juniors upstairs, thoughts, too, of Sunday School and Dr. Pike's Pink Pepo Pills for Petered Out Personality which proudly presented Professor Pat Patterson and his "Quiz Program" one night. Then comes Little Joe's Church and memories of a meanful Communion Service, an attractive bulletin each Sunday, the thrill of preaching to a congregation of young folks, but also the visit by a bat right in the middle of a sermon.

Pausing at the fountain for a drink, we drift on to the Office where my mind goes back to a group of helpful workers, interesting Staff meetings, and mail call each morning just after breakfast, the time when one gathers all the latest gossip as well as dust out the usually empty post office box. Friendliness and food reside next door, and then we reach the sideyard "playground" of the Woman's Building. There I'll be reminded of tennis and badminton, ping pong and horse shoes. And the "face washing" watermelon feast one certain Saturday. The Woman's Building, itself, will always bring to mind our Friday Night Open Houses: Bingo and cooling refreshments, a brand new record changer along with lots of new furniture and all kinds of games, memories too, of skating parties in Statesville, of Sunday Night Bull Sessions and front campus strolls and the thoughtful "Farewell Party" my last night at our Home.

Perhaps there is little to be remembered about the next building, the Grammar School building, except to never forget how good it looked after my first and last "journey" to Kiesler's Bridge one scorching, dusty Saturday afternoon. Who said it was just around (Continued From Page Two)

Impressions of A Teacher On Vacation

People are nice, and this is a wonderful country in which we live. Then drag yourself out of your rut, Irene, and this summer get a new outlook on life - go to California!

Me? Go all the way across the United States? Why, I've scarcely been beyond the limits of North Carolina. I'd be sure to miss connections somewhere, or get lost.

Then a trip is just what you need - a challenge to self-reliance. Yes, you're a Mathematics and Latin teacher, but first hand geography would do you good, too and you certainly need to learn to meet people. You'd be surprised how many interesting people there are beyond the circle of your acquaintance.

I can't afford that trip by Pullman. Anyway, that would be too fast for me. I want to see everything, to have time for a second look at mountains and plains and rivers and tall buildings. Then why not try the bus, you can stop as often and for as long as you wish; and a round trip ticket will be good for six months.

Oh, that ticket! It must be every inch of six feet long; believe I'll back out, I'm scared. But I'm ashamed to do that now after the agent has spent an hour and a half mapping out for me a route that (Continued On Page Three)

Bible School Was Held Here Aug. 12-23

The annual Vacation Bible School was held here on the campus August 12-23 with about two hundred enthusiastic children in attendance. Every available adult was pressed into service to conduct the school, and a number of the older boys and girls acted as helpers. Classes were held in the two school buildings.

The Beginner Department, under the leadership of Mrs. R. S. Arrowood, Miss Peggy Coffee and Miss Myrtle Rushing, kept the folks busy learning Bible verses and new songs and playing games under the trees. Paper and crayons and paste and scissors worked together with them to produce book marks, baskets and other articles of handiwork.

Mrs. Bruce Parcell, assisted by Miss Katharine Arrowood and Miss Betty Coffee, led the Primary Department. There are some thirty-five children, studied the prescribed course, memorized Bible verses and made picture posters to illustrate them, learned new songs and mounted Bible pictures on wooden plaques.

Work in the Junior Department was under the leadership of Mrs. F. B. Benton, assisted by Misses Helen Hawley, Maggie Katen, Bradley Jean Manus and Mary Dickson Arrowood. The juniors made notebooks from the material they studied and produced large wall maps of Palestine and a model Palestinian village. Scrap books of original and selected prayers, illustrated with pictures, were prepared for sending to Africa with some of our new missionaries who are going out this fall.

the curve? Then, too, I won't forget that good old fashion square dance my last Monday night at Barium. But on across the underpass there's much to be remembered, for there stands Howard which sends my mind back to trips to the spring, swimming every afternoon at two, sideyard playhouses, a cute little negro doll, acrobatic stunts, crazy songs and choruses, and innumerable string beans. The Baby Cottage, which is next in line, will always remind me of "May we go sthwhimming?" or "Can we go blackberry pic" then, too, a new sliding board and merry-go-round, a magician show in the basement, tiny beds, a hayride to the chicken farm in the old milk wagon, but perhaps above all: June bugs and sewing thread.

"Home, Sweet Home" comes now into view, for the Infirmary was my shelter for the summer. And how could I forget the nice sunny corner room with Venetian blinds in all six windows, or sick call each morning for all ailments from dandruff to fallen arches, or the many kind courtesies shown by the workers there. Slipping on over to Annie Louise, my mi goes back to "Hide and Go Seek" at Red Hill, leaf salads for lunch in the playhouse, blackberry picking parties which usually was more of a "Chigger Collecting Excursion", a trip to the rabbit pen, swimming lessons, and candy kissy hunts every time it rained. Food and Barium milk, of course, will always stand foremost in my mind at the thought of the next building but Rumple Hall will also remind me of our Pasture Picnic, extra ice cream every Thursday, falling plaster, good ol' Uncle Bob and his bicycle siren, outdoor swings, and chats with my "gals", but certainly more than anything else; that inescapable, inevitable expression, "Ou . . . Silly!"

Synod will remind me of ping pong and a nice piano in a well kept playroom, swimming every morning, and a hike to Doodlem's. Lee's will mean horse shoes and softball, blackberries and cherries, and the roaming Campus Crew who looked more like a flock of sheep and their shepherd than they did a bunch of boys, while bashful boys, when it comes to picnics with girls, a rainy skating party, the weekly exodus to the Crescent, and a Mule Naming Contest will always be brought to mind as we drift in our thoughts over to Jenny Gilmer. And then last but certainly not least, we move on down to the Quads; and there I find memories the Louis-Conn fizzle, a disappearing golf ball trick, fun and of endless jokes and bull sessions, fellowship with a great gang of guys, skating and show going in Statesville, stump digging and limb sawing, and baseball at East Monbo, especially being caught off third.

And so again and again I'll go back to Barium and wander from building to building reminiscing as I go. Yes, "Barium Springs, from now on will mean a lot, even more than has been mentioned above; for who could forget Camp with its ham and eggs, trips to the store and Long Island, ghost stories each night, moonlight hikes, stunt nights, square dancing, yellow jackets and water moccasins, a womanless wedding, riding the rapids, our huge rubber raft, boat races and ping pong and horseshoe tournaments, Vespers, "Fire from Heaven", Phil Harris' "Dark Town Poker Club", and Smut. No, "Barium Springs" will be synonymous with one of the happiest summers of my life.

superintendent of the Intermediate Department and was aided in the teaching and handwork by Mrs. J. B. Johnston, Miss Lee Vinson, W. A. Johnson and Dwight Spencer. Under their leadership each child prepared a notebook on the Gospel of Mark and made various articles such as dresser scarfs and model airplanes.

A feature of the school was a watermelon cutting at the end of the first week. Needless to say, participation in this event was as enthusiastic as in everything else done in the school.

On the last morning of the school each department held open house to show the work that it had done. Many visitors came in to see the various things made by the boys and girls. Then all adjourned to the church for a program of songs and recitations in which the children demonstrated what they had learned at the Bible School. Certificates were awarded to all who had attended regularly, and the program was closed with the benediction by the pastor.

Cottage News

INFIRMARY

Hello There,

Here we are back again with you this month bringing you the news from our cottage.

We have just gotten back from camp. We can not express what a wonderful time we had swimming in the river, going on boat rides etc.

We have had only six patients in the past month. We had two tonsil patient and a few little girls with poison oak.

Mrs. McNatt had a visit from her son from New Jersey. He had some girls our age and we had a swell time. Vivian Jacquemin had a visit from her sister and brother-in-law from Valdesse.

We are having a good time going to Bible school and we are all excited about our long school months starting Tuesday.

We are happy but down in our heart we can't help from grieving of losing Mr. Jerry Newbold, Jr. He has done a lot for us this summer and it's been wonderful knowing him.

Well I guess we will become artists and draw this to a close until next month.

SEWING ROOM

We have been having a wonderful time at Camp Fellowship and we about let this month slip by without bringing you the latest gossip. However, here we are and we hope you enjoy reading about us.

This is the first time we have worked in the sewing room in three weeks. We have worked in various other places on the campus because Mrs. Hudson's son came home from Quam and she took a short vacation. When her vacation ended, ours was just beginning. We all went to Camp the day she returned. It seems good to be running our machines again.

Our school starts next Tuesday and since we are seniors we are real excited.

Some of our girls are helping with Bible School this week. They seem to be doing a good job.

As for the gossip about our family, here goes:

Mary Anne Ryder is always talking about spending her honeymoon at Coney Island. How about that, Roscoe?

The Fleet came in and it brought with it Maggie's flame, Billy Everett. He really looks sharp, Maggie. Myrtle and W. A. are still hitting it. Myrtle is all smiles.

Toni said that we didn't have any gossip about her, but if you were here around 6:30 to 8:30 each night you'd find out different.

When Mary Francis finds out Esau is coming she about runs us crazy. We see why though.

Lee Vinson is trying to find a way to go to Greensboro. Is it because Herbert McMasters is located there?

There are only two things Hannah Price talks about, Earl Adams and going to Mississippi.

Jeanne McDonald said she was still here. She hasn't faded away yet.

Helen Hawley always gets twenty cents in her letters from Wilmington. Could it be that someone wants to take her to the show?

We'll be back next month but until then, Bye, Bye.

— The S. S. S. S. Girls

WOMEN'S BUILDING

Hello Folks,

This is none other than the young ladies of Barium Springs, bringing you the headlights of the month.

Everyone has returned from vacations and a few have been to Camp. Today over half of our girls left for Camp so you can see we are mighty busy.

The younger children started to Bible School this morning. We are proud to say that some of our girls were asked to help out a little.

Our sitting room downstairs is beginning rapidly to take shape. We have been working on it all summer and it seems to be a great success.

It isn't long before we will be getting our books and rushing off to school. We have enjoyed the summer but are always glad for a change. We'll be covered in books beginning the twenty-seventh of this month.

We miss Mr. Johnston, who has gone to school for a few days. There are many other people such as he at this school.

Mr. Jerry Newbold, who has been conducting our sports, preached in church yesterday. We really enjoyed it. Mr. Newbold will only be with us a week or so more. We will miss him.

Look for us next month friends, we'll be around.

— Women's Building

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Folks,

We are back again to tell you that we had a wonderful time at camp this summer.

We are having Bible School now for two weeks and most of the boys and girls have been going.

Our swimming season will soon close (much to our regret) because we must again take up our books and go back to school, but football season is coming around so we won't mind missing swimming very much. Be sure you don't miss any of our football games.

Louise Campbell, one of our big girls here at Rumple Hall is going over to our next door neighbors "The Synod Cottage." We will all miss her very much even though the distance is short.

We will be back again next month and so until then, Good-bye.

— The Rumple Hall Girls

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the latest news from Annie Louise Cottage.

"School" - that word has been the most used word around here for the last month. We are all looking forward to next Tuesday. We have all had a nice vacation, swimming, playing, and helping string beans but we would rather go to school.

This summer we have been very lucky to have Mr. Jerry Newbold of Wilmington here to help us keep entertained. Thanks a lot, Mr. Newbold, and remember us next summer when you get out of school. The gate will be open to you. Also we want to thank Miss Ruth Troutman for having the story hour twice a week. We really enjoyed it.

It won't be long before we put up our swim suits and put on shoes and that will suit us just fine.

Be sure to read the latest news in The Messenger next month.

Our foreman, Mr. S. A. Grier, who has been here the larger part of half a century is assisted by Mr. Isaac B. White. Assisting our able leaders are: J. D. Everett, Ray Clark, and myself.

The job of our group is handling the plumbing and electric end of the campus.

As of today, August 23, we are servicing the boilers on the campus in order to have them ready for winter use.

We hope that we will be able to inform you of our work next month.

THINK GREAT THOUGHTS

The measure of the mind is the measure of the man. The worth of the man is in the volume and the quality of the contents of his mind. Ideas are the creative forces in the world. Every act is the expression of a thought. Every invention was first an idea in some man's mind. The mind moves the hand, sees through the eyes and hears through the ears. The mind sees, hears and acts. The mind is the man. What the mind is the man is. Small men are small minds thinking small thoughts and doing small things. Large and strong men are large minds thinking great thoughts, undertaking great things. Shallow thinking, easy thinking made for softness and weakness of character. Hard thinking, high thinking, wrestling with great thoughts, grappling with large ideas make for strength of character and worth of character and worth of conduct and accomplishment.

There is a constant interplay and inter-dependence between the moral character of a man and the quality of his thinking. What the man thinks, that he is; what the man is, that he thinks. Thinking, character, conduct, these three, are one and indivisible, and the indivisible one is the human personality.

This fact of the nature of personal life means that the mind, its contents and employment, has a vital, an essential place and part in the religious life, in determining the character and directing the conduct of Christian people.

Great thinking makes great Christians. There is no doubt about it; there is no other way. It is difficult to understand how any man can be a Christian at all without being deeply stirred by great thoughts and moved to action by creative ideas. He must contemplate the greatest ideas the human mind can contemplate, ideas of the infinite and the eternal, the idea of God, of the immortal human spirit, of righteousness and truth, of measureless mercy and fathomless love, of inescapable responsibility, and of judgement to come, of redemption and forgiveness of sin, of the Kingdom of God on earth and a heavenly home. He can't read the New Testament or sit at the feet of Jesus without being disturbed by great thoughts of the greatness of life or without getting some stirring glimpse at last of the limitless eternal infinite glory and grandeur of God's thoughts for men.

How can he who has had that experience of thinking with Jesus, ever again think little things of himself or of any man, or doing little and mean things, or living a small, narrow, selfish life. Life surely has come to mean to him something large and wide and high.

The human body is limited to the reach of the hands and eyes and ears, but to the Christian mind there are no boundaries, no horizons, no impassable barriers to its interest, its understanding, to its sympathy and compassion, to its outreach hands of service.

no terrors when we walk hand in hand with Him. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me." It is enough, and he who can say that truthfully is satisfied.

The last three verses of the Psalm carry the thought through to its logical conclusion. Communion with God leads to perfect confidence in Him. "Therefore my heart is glad... my flesh also shall rest in hope." And again, "Thou wilt show me the path of life: in Thy presence is fulness of joy; at Thy right hand there are pleasures forevermore." The tenth verse points to Christ, the Hope of the World. David looks forward to Him in faith, but we have a heritage in our knowledge of Him that can give us an even greater confidence.

Though we spend a lifetime building for ourselves a bulwark against defeat and dissatisfaction, our fortress must fall in the hour of our supreme trial. None holds but one, and only the man whose confidence rests securely upon God can say, "I am satisfied."

will allow me to visit friends and return another way, retracing only the first hundred miles or so. And that's not too much to pay for six to eight thousand miles of riding on those big comfortable Greyhounds.

Well, I'm on my way! Imagine all this beauty at my very door and I'd never seen it - white buildings set like jewels in the green hills of western North Carolina. How beautiful is the Great Smoky Mountain National Park by moonlight and how pleasing the absence of billboards disfiguring the landscape.

Now, why did my seat mate, so friendly and talkative for a while, close up immediately he learned I'm a school teacher?

These are good sandwiches they serve at our stop in Cherokee Indian Reservation, and I sense a pride in the bearing of these pretty Indian girls and the stalwart men and boys.

The idea of stopping in Nashville, "hardly out of sight of home," seemed a joke, but it gives me a good idea of how long a stretch I can stand and what clothing will be suitable and more comfortable for traveling. Just what could be the meaning of that well-dressed man's low spoken suggestion that he has a car going to Memphis - "would the lady like a ride?"

"No, I'm staying here," (for a few hours, at least.)

One does meet interesting people, especially these ex-service men with their varied reactions to civilian life; this boy, hardly "dry behind the ears" is evidently returning to camp and feeling very clever to have "got by" the bus driver with his bottle; this one has already had too much to drink and is quarrelsome and profane; he has served his country and can't understand why any and all the girls don't welcome his insistent attentions; this one came through still level headed and able to face readjustment at home.

Now, southerner, this is St. Louis, Mo. and you'd better begin to accept the equality of races.

And already, with Kansas City you think you've had enough of strangers and big cities! Kansas City is a shining example of civic pride. It has so many beautiful parks and handsome buildings, and the lawns are all so well kept; but don't forget, Irene, that a native daughter would naturally put the city's "best foot foremost." How nice to have a car and be able to entertain a guest with sight seeing (doubly nice when one is the guest): that turkey farm at Liberty, Mo. with its 13,000 three-week-old turkeys that are "put out on the sun porches" in the day time; and the President's home in Independence; and the beautiful truck gardens of Missouri!

This pillow service on a long, or overnight bus trip is really worth the fifteen cents it costs. After the first night one can even sleep quite well. Now you're headed for your next planned stop - Salt Lake City - with no hotel reservation. Oh, well, one can always go on if there isn't a room to be found.

These vast grain fields and pasture lands of Kansas and Colorado are inspiring at first, but they become monotonous as scenery. Is that spinach I see growing in that field? No, that is sugar beets, and lettuce, as far as the eye can see.

We're approaching Denver and beginning to catch glimpses of snow capped mountains. They look like fairyland places in the clouds.

This must be the Continental Divide - wish I could have seen it by daylight. The bus has been climbing for some time, now the summit, and then a rather frightening rapid descent. These towering queer shaped, starkly bare boulders of Wyoming make magnificent scenery. We're well on schedule so our driver says we have time to stop and look at Devil's Slide in Weber Canyon, Utah. Very pleasing observation; Utah forbids smoking on buses.

That was good advice my friend gave me about getting a room at the Y. W. C. A. Now I can stay here and tomorrow hear the Organ recital in the great Mormon Tabernacle, and maybe even see the Great Salt Lake.

Is some unseen force arranging everything for my especial pleasure? What could be more thrilling than hearing Schuberts "Ave Maria" and "Swansee River" played on this magnificent organ; and later a dip in the Great Salt Lake which leaves one feeling, as the guide said, truly "ten years younger." There is something irresistibly attractive about Salt Lake City.

So this is Reno! Well, viewed from the vicinity of the bus station, I'll take up residence elsewhere.

Agriculture inspection station; hills covered with beautiful evergreens, orchards, fruit stands displaying great quantities of superb cherries, apricots, peaches, and apples; this could be nothing else than California. Can anything be more awe-inspiring than the sight of a mighty bridge! Can it be that I am actually riding along the lower deck of this one of the world's largest bridge, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay "symphony of steel"?

San Francisco, another of those big cities that make me feel so insignificant and all alone. Well, I'll just stay with Anne at her apartment for a day or two then go on.

But Anne, the perfect hostess and enthusiastic booster of her adopted city, has plans: first, a view of the city, from atop the apartment house, and there, within a stones throw it seems, is Alcatraz Island. Today we'll take a picnic lunch and see first Civic Center and the very buildings in which was held the United Nations Conference; then the beach and the famous Cliff House and Seal Rocks; then back to Golden Gate Park (1000 A.) and the aquarium and the beautiful Oriental Tea Garden. Now, we're caught in the late afternoon rush and they won't allow us to take the baby's carriage on the street car, so we'll have to walk home - blocks and blocks!

After careful study of the city map I'm venturing out alone today. A pretty good sense of direction guides me to the bus station, where I'm advised, for scenery, to travel the Redwood Highway from San Francisco to Portland. This business attended it is a simple matter to locate a street car going to the Ferry Building. Better not ride across to Oakland again, much as I like that ferry, or there won't be time left to visit Fleishacker Zoo at the extreme opposite side of the city.

This day is not yet done - we have tickets to a radio broadcast "Night Editor"; after that the breath taking view of the city by night seen from the "Top of the Mark"; and then China Town. I'll come back here again, this is too fascinating to be left after an hour; anyway, I haven't had time tonight to buy souvenirs.

There is talk of a street car strike. Yes, Saturday at midnight all cars stop so Sunday will find me limited to walking on the pier and Fisherman's Warf. Those queer huge cauldrons lining the sidewalks, you can watch crabs being cooked.

It was too far to walk to Sigmund Stern Recreation Grove so we missed the outdoor concert, but we have tickets to another broadcast, this time the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and Chorus and how thrilling to hear that chorus sing one of my favorites "The Lost Chord"!

Well, I've already overstayed my allotted time in San Francisco and have barely glimpsed its wonderful opportunities. Make a note to return here. Entrance was by way of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and to my delight departure gives me opportunity of crossing the famous Golden Gate Bridge.

Bus drivers are nice fellows - they know we passengers would like to stop and go through the famous redwood Tree House. So, we stop. This highway is scenic, and winding. Oh, joy! another state (Oregon) where smoking on buses is prohibited (and our driver sees to it that the law is observed).

Well, these sixteen days impressions have crowded each other so that there hasn't been a chance to write down anything. "We have four days off for the Fourth and we want to show you beautiful Oregon" - so my friends had written, and they've almost made me willing to forget I'm a Tarheel. I have eaten at every kind of restaurant: Smoegasbord, Bohemian, Pagoda, Lido, Marine Grotto, and tasted every kind of food new to me. I have seen superbly beautiful scenery: the Columbia River Highway; Bonneville Dam and hatchery. snow capped mountains, woodland parks and streams, blue lakes, sunset over the Pacific, totem poles, Portland by night from Council Crest, beds and beds of gorgeous roses in Washington Park, the Sanctuary of Our Sorrowful Mother with its wonderful wood carvings. I have ridden the ski lift and made snowballs on the Fourth of July, on Mt. Hood, have seen salmon swimming upstream over the fish ladders at Bonneville; have picnicked in Sherwood Forest; have enjoyed motor boat riding on the Pacific and witnessed the manouvers of an octopus safe in an aquarium; have attended Greyhound races at the Multnomah Athletic Club; have experienced the questioning and inspection necessary before one can go into Canada or return to the United States.

Is it any wonder I leave Portland with the greatest reluctance?

What a contrast, the heat and vast grain fields of eastern Washington and the graceful fir trees and cool streams of the west.

Northern Idaho has beautiful scenery, too, and interesting little nearly deserted mining towns.

Now what an experience this is - a two hour tour into the Leonard Copper mine at Butte, Montana. They've dressed us, the twenty-four tourists, in trench coats or coveralls, belts, miners' hats, lamps and battery. First we see the engine room of the 4500 H. P. electric hoist that lowers and lifts miners and ore into and out of the mine. We are packed, seven to a cage, and lowered 3300 feet into the "Worlds' Richest Hill." Our guide shows us how the mine is developed and each pocket filled after the valuable ore is taken out. He gives each of us a souvenir chip of ore bearing stone. I really wasn't worried, but it's good to be above ground again.

This is going to be a long hop from Butte to Chicago and there is such a sameness in the landscape. The Badlands of North Dakota are interesting, and Wisconsin has pretty green country and nice towns.

We're entering Chicago, the one city of my itinerary I'd dreaded. It's so big and I'm too tired to cope with the problems relative to sightseeing, alone. The bus comes in by Lake Shore Drive and our driver points out the strongest beacon in the world, the largest building, the Wrigley Building and the Stevens Hotel. As usual, I arrive here without hotel reservation, but my third call is successful so I'll have a night's sleep in a bed, at last.

Note: Travel by Express bus whenever possible. Stopping at every small station to discharge and take on passengers gets very tiresome.

They really keep people moving at this Cincinnati station. Even the maid sees that no traveler takes a nap in the lounge monopolizing a whole couch. Loafers and drunks are hustled out of the waiting room. How do these young mothers manage a bus trip with a babe in arms and two others scarcely older.

Knoxville - North Carolina state line - Asheville, almost the end of my vacation, but home!

It has been glorious, every hour of it a never-to-be forgotten experience.

Wonder how soon I can go west again.

Miss Rebecca Carpenter.

Rev. F. B. Benton, Pastor of Little Joe's, had vesper services each evening which were greatly enjoyed.

Up to this time over a thousand campers have enjoyed Camp Fellowship this summer.

the swimming pool. Softball games at twilight and other activities during the evening hours kept him busy and the children happier.

At Camp Fellowship this month Mr. Newbold gave valuable assistance in directing games and in sponsoring tournaments and other programs. His campfires and ghost stories will long be remembered.

In addition to his recreational activities, Mr. Newbold has made a valuable contribution to the religious life at Barium Springs. He taught a Sunday School class during the summer, served as one of the department heads in our Vacation Bible School, led the singing at out door vespers on Sunday evenings, and supplied the pulpit of Little Joe's Church several times in the absence of our pastor. The boys and girls here will not soon forget his vivid "first person" sermons and talks.

Mr. Newbold came to us this summer because he is interested in going into full time orphanage work when he graduates from the seminary. He felt that this was the best chance for him to learn what orphanage life is like. We send him back to the seminary with the hope that we have benefited him as much as he has benefited us. We know that he is admirably suited to the work he has chosen, and we pray God's blessing upon him in his further preparation.

home.

All the children at Presbyterian Orphan's Home with the exception of the Baby Cottagers are assigned to useful work. That is directed. We have coaches for athletics but these coaches have other work which takes most of their time. The development of supervised recreation in a well appointed building by competent leadership would add greatly to the building of character here, which, after all, is the main business of this institution.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., SEPTEMBER 1946

No. 11

Report of Synod And Church News

The one hundred and thirty-third meeting of the Synod of North Carolina was held at Queens College in Charlotte September 2-5, 1946. The enrollment showed that there were in attendance 380 representatives of Churches. This is the largest attendance on record.

The Retiring Moderator, Dr. J. A. Redhead, preached the opening sermon on the subject, "The Kingdom of God is at Hand." Dr. O. C. Williamson, Pastor of Cooks Memorial Presbyterian Church was elected Moderator of this meeting and served most efficiently and acceptably.

Rev. C. M. Gibbs was re-elected Stated Clerk of the Synod for a term of three years. Dr. J. O. Mann and Rev. R. K. Davenport were re-elected to the positions of Director of Religious Education and Synod's Evangelist respectively.

Among important matters that were approved by the Synod was the authorizing of the rebuilding of the William Black Home at Montreat. This structure was burned during the past summer and was a total loss. The estimated cost of replacing it with an additional building is $50,000. The Synod approved that amount for the Home. The Synod also reap-proved the campaign for $100,000 for Presbyterian Junior College at Maxton.

The Synod voted to establish a home for the aged in Greensboro and authorized a campaign for $300,000 to be used in building and in endowing this home - the campaign to begin October 1st. Applicants of this home must have been Presbyterians for five years and must pay $500 on entrance plus $150.00 for burial fee.

A benevolent budget for the year 1947-48 in amount of $880,000.00 was adopted. Benevolent gifts last year amounted to $982,055. Total gifts to Synod to current expenses and benevolences amounted to $2,571,068.00.

Among the fine addresses that were heard by the Synod might

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

WAITING ON THE LORD

In the fortieth chapter of Isaiah we find the prophet writing to a people who have difficult times ahead of them. He is imparting to them the secret of strength that he has found for his own life. As a climax at the end of the chapter come the words of promise: "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."

I used to have the idea that he meant by "waiting upon the Lord" a pious folding of the hands and sitting back in serenity amidst the constant turmoil of life. Such may be possible for some people, but most of us are not constituted for serene inactivity.

The method of "waiting upon the Lord" which it seems to me that Isaiah meant as a renewer of strength can be illustrated from an experience of my own college days. For three years it was my job to wait upon the faculty table in the college dining hall. There I was in constant touch, three times a day, with a number of my professors. Each of them had definite likes and dislikes about his food, and I learned what they were. In time I came to take pride in serving each one in just the way that would be pleasing to him. There was nothing degrading about such service; rather it won for me the most valuable friends that I made during my college years. The association with those worthwhile men in the intimacy of mealtime, hearing their conversation and learning to know them better than was possible in the class room alone, proved a real source of strength to me.

In the same way those who "wait upon the Lord" by serving Him find added strength coming to them from their service. His servants will certainly seek to learn His likes and dislikes and to satisfy these in all their actions. They will study His words as they are given to us in the Scriptures for this pur-

The Return of A Valuable Servant

In the Fall of 1929 there came to Barium straight from Davidson College a young man, Robert Glenn Calhoun. He came as a teacher in our High School and as a coach in basketball, track and football. A few years later he was promoted to principal of the school and continued to give great assistance to the athletic teams. He continued in this work until the summer of '42 when Uncle Sam tapped

WHAT A MONTH!

September is just about the busiest month of the year. It starts out with school just commencing, with many new teachers and new workers to get used to things, and here right at the first of the month a flock of new children to learn their place in the scheme of things. Then there is the meeting of Synod that causes a wave of excitement - we still remember the delightful times when we entertained Synod. This year Synod met at Queens College in Charlotte.

Then there is the beginning of the football season - two games to be played during the month and preparations for Home-coming Day for the first week in October. Then there is the Regents' meeting on September 24th and that is always a big day.

Apples are getting ripe and our trees are loaded to the ground and it is a problem to get those apples gathered. Sweet potatoes are building up for a big let-down. Hay-making and filling those big silos with corn.

And then there is the dentist who has to look at every tooth on the place and sometimes yank a few out. On the 25th of the month there is to be a big gathering here of women from over the Presbytery - every mail seems to bring in requests for information or material for a program or something about the orphanage. All of which would indicate that Barium is a live place. It is in the minds and hearts of many people and September is just the month when the symptoms appear most evident. It is a big month of preparation and the air is all a-quiver with anticipation of big things to come.

Barium Springs Eleven Defeated Mooresville 7 to 6 In Season's Opener

The whistle has blown, the kick-off has happened, and the first game is under our belt, and what a game it was!

Barium Springs journeyed down to Mooresville for their opener. The game was played on the baseball field and more than half of it is clay - naturally everybody is more or less nervous over the opening game and to make them more nervous it rained pretty hard during the hour before the game, and that baseball field became a rather slippery proposition.

The field slopes toward the south and the team going down hill naturally has the advantage. Well, on the toss Barium elected to receive and had the downhill pull. The game started out with a fair return of the kick-off, but Barium unable to gain and make a first down kicked; the ball was fumbled by the Mooresville safety man and Barium recovered deep in Mooresville's territory. It looked like things were going Barium's way, but Barium was stopped just short of a first down within the ten-yard line. The ball went over and Mooresville kicked out and on this drive Barium scored.

Here are the particulars of the score: it was third down and quite some distance to go - a forward pass was incomplete and then everybody seemed to take a good grip on their chewing gum and started another play. This was one of those long passes - Clark to Young - which Young took on the ten-yard line and on over to score. The extra point which turned out to be the deciding point of the game was made by Dwight Spencer on a quarterback sneak.

Shortly after this score the quarter ended and Mooresville had the downhill pull and it looked bad for Barium. Mooresville got to the six-yard line, first and goal to go but gave up the ball on downs.

The defensive play of the Barium team was plenty good. The half ended with Mooresville still threatening.

In the third quarter Barium had downhill but was unable to gain on it and did not seriously threaten. Mooresville took the ball and

Winners Announced in Mule Naming Contest

The Society for the Nomenclature of Quadrupeds takes great pleasure in announcing the winners in their "Mule Naming Contest" which closed last night, August 21, 1946. This contest was sponsored for the purpose of securing a fitting name for our faithful old dairy mule. First prize of $3.00 goes to Miss Vivian Jacumin for the name "Matilda" and for her original twenty-five word explanation as to why the mule should be given that name. Second prize of $1.50 goes to Miss Kathleen Ellis for her entry, "Caledonia;" while the third prize of two free show tickets goes to Mr. Edward Walker for his suggestion of "Boss." The mule has been properly christened at the Christening Ceremony held in front of Rumble Hall in the presence of the entire Home and henceforth she shall be known and loved as "Matilda."

She had been very ill at Davis Hospital for the past five weeks. Our deepest sympathy goes out to her family and friends.

A Letter From the Vice-President of the Barium Alumni Association

To The Alumni,
Barium Springs Orphanage,
Barium Springs, N. C.

It is my information that three hundred letters have been sent out to members of the Alumni, offering to each of them the privilege of contributing ten dollars to the Memorial Fund, and that only thirteen have responded.

I am of the opinion that this is the result of carelessness on the part of the members, and does not represent any spirit of indifference, or ingratitude for the wonderful benefits each of us has received by the generosity of others in the past.

Surely we cannot expect others actively to participate in this grand work if we fail, who so well know the wonderful work the Orphanage has, and still is doing for those children who otherwise would not receive the educational advantages and Christian training so necessary to fit them for their proper place in our social and domestic world. Appreciating what we have, ourselves, received, and desiring to further the activities of the Orphanage in the upbuilding of character and fitness for citizenship, it is more of a privilege than a duty that the response to the request sent out be one hundred percent. Let's all give to this effort our whole-hearted support, not only with our substance, but with all the moral support of which we are capable.

What is really more important than the money itself, is the attendance of each member at Home-coming Day. This year let's break all previous records for attendance and cooperation.

Sincerely yours,

MAUDE INMAN

News From Some of the Cottages

WOMEN'S BUILDING

News time once more and time to let all of our good friends in on our fun.

We have started to school since you last had word from us. We are doing very nicely in our studies, thanks to the hour and a half which we now have set aside for studying each night.

Our senior girls under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Bryant, the girls' head matron, gave a tea in the honor of the teachers who had just returned. The affair was wonderful and we enjoyed it as much as the guests seemed to. Of course they will have to tell you if they enjoyed it themselves. We were glad to welcome to our staff two new teachers: Miss Hickman, our musical director and Miss Westbrook, who teaches the fourth grade. We also had the joy of welcoming back Miss Straughn, who lives in our cottage with us and once more has taken the little tots in the first grade.

Some of our numbers have had some very nice letters from our summer recreational leader, Mr. Jerry Newbold, now at the Union Theological Seminary of Richmond, Virginia. We are very pleased to find that the "missing" goes both ways.

Football season has really gotten a good start and we're backing our boys for a fine season. Our voices are fine and our lungs hold out in rain or cold so when our boys decorate the ball park in their new uniforms we'll be right there with our good spirits to push the game ahead.

Our senior class has just chosen its class ring and invitations and that's about all you hear from them. The juniors have an extra member in their class now and we hear that Kenneth Baker is really a ladies' man. Of course our Sophomores are so interested in their bugs and worms in biology that they can't send a message. The freshman class keep reminding us that "they're big girls now."

Well, folks, what do you say we sign off for now and hear from another cottage?

— News Nose

BABY COTTAGE

Well, here we are again. It has been some time since you heard from us but we are still here and happy and having the most fun for Daddy Johnston is just too good to us. First he had us a nice play yard fence put up then four swings and a slide board and put us a small merry-go-round so we can get on and we have lots of fun.

We have had a big time all summer and now we have school every day from 9 to 11:30 in our play room and we are learning to do lots of nice work. Miss Moles is our teacher.

Five of our Big Brothers have moved up to go to school and we miss them so much. They are Charles, Ralph, David, Melvin and George. We miss Miss Berryhill for she kept us all laughing so much for she was tops in telling jokes.

Well it will soon be winter and we will have to play in the house and we don't like that so well.

We will have to stop now, love to everybody.

— The Baby Cottage

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

We are glad school has started and football season is here again. Although, we can't play football, yet, it is fun to see the games. It won't be many years before most of us will be out on the football field playing.

George Truelove, David Reid, Ralph Huddleston, Melvin Cannon, and Charles Shepherd moved from the Baby Cottage to Synods. We have 26 boys in our cottage.

Miss Kate Taylor, our regular matron, hasn't returned from Scotland yet, but we are all anxiously waiting for her return. We know she will have lots of interesting things to tell us.

So long till next month.

— "The Wigglers"

LEES' COTTAGE

Vacations are over and we are back in school again.

Six boys from Synods' have moved down to live with us and we are glad to have them.

Mr. Thomas and "Pete" Clendenin needed some help on the truck farm so we have been helping them pick beans, tomatoes and apples. We have plenty of apples and we are putting some up for the winter.

Football season is here and we are all glad. All the Lees' boys are going out for football. We will have a good time practicing if we don't get to play in any games.

We went to the show Saturday to see "My Pal Trigger."

We are glad to have Mr. Calhoun with us again.

We are all looking forward to our first football game here.

Miss Carpenter's nephew, William Carpenter, spent a week with her this summer and we enjoyed playing with him.

Some of our friends from Morganton sent us some books and we want to thank them.

— Lees Boys

SEWING ROOM

We now pause, cut off our motors, and put our brains on the table to see which one has any news for you folks.

No doubt you folks have read of the "open house" that we girls, under the leadership of Mrs. Hudson, gave. We want to express our deepest appreciation for the splendid write-up which Mrs. Long gave us in the Statesville Daily. We're sorry we can't help out in the teacher shortage, but let's hope we can find our place and help this old world out in some way. It certainly does need some helping.

Say, let's see how our members are feeling on the subject of news. "Red" Price and Toni DeLancey have even more interest in our football squad than we do because they are members of our set of four cheer-leaders. Is that why you girls head for football practice every day after work? Or is it that hero, Charles Barrett, Toni?

Mary Frances and Mary Ann Ryder have more to discuss now than school. They're room-mates, and Esau Davis and Roscoe Smith are best friends.

Helen Hawley and Myrtle Rushing along with Margaret Katen and Miriam Huddleston to say nothing of Lee Vinson are all stuck on bo - no not ys but books. Or are they? Helen and Margaret do a lot of letter writing and Miriam and Myrtle a lot of dating. Lee seems to like shows. Who else does. Lee?

Jean McDonald, the humorist of our bunch, has been sick with ear trouble lately and you can bet we are glad to have her back. So long.

pose. They will spend frequent periods in the intimate conversation of prayer. Their Lord's wisdom will flow into their own lives, and they will naturally grow to be like Him as they learn what He is like. God's waiters become His friends, and in His friendship there is strength for every need.

The good waiter's likes and desires are unimportant to his job. His one purpose is to please those whom he serves. He learns to say in all sincerity, "Thy will be done - - - by me." The Christian who learns this attitude toward his Lord can cheerfully "deny himself and take up his cross" of service daily. Because he becomes but the expression of God's will, he is strong to meet every situation of life.

Report of Synod And be mentioned the sermon of the retiring Moderator, Dr. J. A. Redhead; and address by Rev. A. W. Hewitt of Riverton, Vermont, on "Expository Preaching"; the devotional messages of Dr. Wade H. Boggs on the book of Hosea were of high order. Chaplain E. L. Daniel, who was a prisoner of war in a German prison camp during the war, and who did a wonderful service in ministering need to allied soldiers, made a stirring address, describing conditions in Europe.

Dr. L. H. Patterson, Director of the Home Mission Emergency Fund made a very interesting address on the development of our Home Missions. He said that in four years the Fund had raised $375,000 and built 350 Churches, and that the goal for this year is for $600,000.

Dr. George Mauze presented the report on Presbyterian Orphans' Home and made a most impressive talk on his observation of the work of the Orphanage.

The Synod changed the term of office of the Committee on Orphans' Home so that those who are elected at the meeting of Synod in 1947 and subsequent Synods will take office at the end of that Church Year, and the ones whose terms expire will continue in office until the end of the Church Year. This was reported in the public press as applying to the Regents, but that was an error as it only applies to the members of the Committee on Orphans' Home.

The Presbyterian Orphans' Home was well represented at the meeting of Synod. Little Joe's Church had as its representative, Elder H. L. Thomas, who is in charge of the truck farm, orchards and canning. Present from the Board of Regents were Mr. J. A. Cannon, president; Mrs. Coit Robinson, Mrs. George Patterson. Dr. George Mauze, and Dr. S. H. Fulton. From Synod's Committee on Orphans' Home was Mr. C. S. Hicks, chairman; Mr. R. E. Lackey of Concord Presbytery, and Mr. T. N. James of Kings Mountain Presbytery. From the administration of the Home, Mr. Joseph B. Johnston, Superintendent, and Rev. R. S. Arrowood, Treasurer.

The following are some items of general religious news: Dr. John H. Marion has resigned the pastorate of the Grace Covenant Church of Richmond to accept the work as Director of the newly formed Committee on Christian Relations. Dr. Marion is a nephew of Mrs. Joseph B. Johnston. His headquarters will continue to be in Richmond.

The Ashlin-White Bible Lectures founded by the members of the First Presbyterian Church of Mooresville in memory of their beloved Pastor, Dr. Ashlin White, will be delivered by Dr. Roy L. Smith, October 6-11. Dr. Smith is a very prominent Methodist Minister and is Editor of the Christian Advocate.

Two very useful ministers have died during the month of August. Rev. H. N. McDiarmid of Greenville died at his home on August 16th. Mr. McDiarmid was a graduate of Davidson College and Union Theological Seminary. His pastorates included the First Church of Kinston and Shelby. At his death he was Executive Secretary of Albemarle Presbytery and Chairman of the Trustees of the William Black Home.

Rev. George W. Hanna died August 26th in a hospital in Statesville. Mr. Hanna was a graduate of Erskine College and Erskine Seminary. He entered the ministry of the Associated Reformed Presbyterian Church and served for nineteen years in that Church. After that he joined the Presbyterian Church U. S. and held pastorates at Pinehurst, Antioch, and Harrisburg.

Chaplains who have returned and accepted work include Rev. Eugene Alexander, who goes to Victoria, Virginia; Rev. C. L. Brown goes to White Memorial at Raleigh and Rev. Carl H. Storke, Jr., goes to Pilot Mountain. Rev. R. Murphy Williams, Jr., will be Student Pastor at Davidson College.

The Presbyterian Hour Broadcast will resume October 6th and will continue each Sunday morning at 8:30 E. S. T. through December 29th. Dr. John M. Alexander, former Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Fayetteville, is director of these programs. The following speakers will be heard: Rev. David L. Stitt, Ben R. Lacy, Jr., William Crowe, Jr., Ansley C. Moore, Walter B. Healy, J. M. Walker, Frank L. McClure, Ben L. Rose, James Sprunt, John S. Land, E. B. McGucken, J. McDowell Richards, C. Darby Fulton. In this state the following stations will carry the broadcast: Asheville, WUNC; Charlotte, WSOC; Raleigh, WPTF; Winston-Salem, WSJS.

Synod will meet next year at Flora Macdonald College, Red Springs, on September 9th.

him on the shoulder. In spite of the fact that his work would have exempted him from service, he felt that as a single man he should leave the teaching profession to married men. It was not until the time approached for his leaving that we fully realized the value of this man to the life of Barium Springs. The students themselves waked up to this fact as well as the grown ups. At the final Basketball banquet the players presented him with a trophy.

It happened that he had lead this group of boys to three successive championships in the South Piedmont Conference. It is tough to win that championship one time; it is almost unheard of to win it three times in a row.

Barium's opponents in the South Piedmont attempted to explain the success of this team on material - that Barium just happened to have a bunch of good athletes all at one time, but when it was shown in their third championship year there were none of the players who participated in the first championship year it knocked this argument rather high, so then a good many people said that Barium was just lucky - they had a rabbit's foot. The players heard this so much that they decided to hunt for the rabbit's foot and they finally decided that Mr. Calhoun was it, so they presented the trophy to the rabbit's foot that had been giving them such good luck in their basketball careers.

By the way, it was at this presentation which was a complete surprise to Mr. Calhoun that we saw him speechless for the first time.

Then the war years - Mr. Calhoun entered the service as a private. His good qualities were quickly recognized and he was made an officer, and all during the war he had one of those hard jobs that the public very seldom hears about at Camp Shanks, N. Y., routing soldiers overseas and checking their returning.

He now returns to Barium as Assistant Superintendent. He will not have as much time to give to athletics as he did in former years, but his presence here will help. He has already taken hold of a few of the many duties which he will fall heir to and Barium Springs is already a better place for his being here. Everyone welcomes Mr. Calhoun back and we hope that nothing will ever take him away from us again.

on their own thirty and in two plays had a touchdown. One by a thirty-five yard run and again by a sweeping end run which brought the score. They failed to kick goal, and the score stood 7-6 until the end of the game.

This was the first game for both Barium and Mooresville. Barium's squad is so small this year that they had not had a serious scrimmage - that made the coaches and everybody else rather nervous - not knowing just how the boys would stand up under fire. They all feel better now. Watch for Barium's doings in the athletic line - we think it will make pleasant reading.

The lineup of the Barium team is as follows: Ends, Young and Barrett; Tackles, Lippard and Good; Guards, Baker and Allen; Center, Everett; Backfield, Whitey Clark, Mangum, Gregory and Spencer.

W. A. Johnson got into the game for a very brief stay while Baker was given a rest.

Barium cheer leaders in their new clothes did a grand job and were worth a lot in keeping alive that old Barium spirit that wins games.

THE BIBLE IN AMERICAN HISTORY

Historians seeking to discover the major influences which have molded the course of American history find that the Bible has played a significant role. Within the pages of this greatest of all documents lies the inspiration for the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, and the Four Freedoms.

The Bible was the first textbook of the American colonies. It was the most important factor in the educational system of those years, for, both in private and public schools, the Bible was the chief text. In the New England primer, used extensively in the elementary schools for more than a century before the Revolutionary War, characters from the Bible were used in teaching the three R's.

Making the Bible better known appeared to be the whole purpose of the early American education. Of the 10 colleges founded before the Revolution and still in existence, 9 were begun to give adequate training to ministers of the gospel. There were Harvard, Williams and Mary, Yale, Princeton, Washington and Lee, Columbia, Brown, Rutgers, and Dartmouth. The 10th, the University of Pennsylvania, developed from a charity school founded by George Whitefield, the great Bible evangelist.

Thomas Jefferson, who was asked to frame the Declaration of Independence, was steeped in the Bible. Much of the beauty and clarity of his prose were acquired through years of reading the New Testament, which he mastered in Greek, Latin, French, and English in order to compile a collection of excerpts covering the life and teachings of Jesus.

Where but in the Bible had he learned that men are equal under God and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights? Jefferson was expressing in immortal phrases the conviction which had led to the Revolution and which men had first gleaned from the Word of God.

One of the very earliest acts of Congress was to approve the printing of a large edition of the Bible and officially recommend it to the people of the land. The desire to maintain the Bible's influence in American life led to the formation of the Bible Society movement, whose purpose was to make the Bible available to every household in the rapidly expanding country. Nowadays, this function is carried out on an infinitely broader scale by the American Bible Society founded in 1816, which prints millions of Bibles, Testaments, and Scripture portions in many languages and dialects, and distributes them to the populations of teeming cities and to obscure people living in the remotest corners of the earth.

The influence of the Bible on American life has never waned, for each year since 1800 it has been a national best seller. In times of war, it is in greater demand than ever, among the men on the fighting fronts, prisoners of war, and families praying for their loved ones to come home.

As the Bible guided the men who founded our Republic, so today it guides the statesmen who are leading civilized nations out of the jungle of war, greed, and prejudice. At the dramatic meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill when the Atlantic charter was given to the world, the Bible was read in a service of public worship. This was a symbolic incident, for the truths of God given in the Bible chart the road to permanent peace and human brotherhood. — Bible Society

HOW DO WE HEAR?

The hearing of a sermon may bring us a great blessing, or it may be a weariness of the spirit. The difference is not necessarily in the sermon; indeed, it is much more likely to be in ourselves. If we are looking merely for entertainment, the sermon—perhaps the majority of sermons—may prove a bore to us. But if we have come as humble seekers, knowing "our need of finding the Bread of Heaven," and "set to receive some truth about God, about man, about life," that will help us to live in a more Christ-like way, the sermon will have to be poor indeed if we fail to find a blessing in it.

Even the best sermon, as Hugh Stevenson Tigner in his excellent little book, "The Christian Pattern," points out, cannot meet the need of everybody at the same time. Nevertheless, there will be some help for the seeking soul in every thoughtful and prayerfully prepared sermon. One may find in it, Mr. Tigner continues, "some sentence of Scripture, something that will be to his benefit, something that will open a new truth or open an old truth in a new manner; something that will stimulate, kindle, refresh, or command him in a moral-spiritual way; something that will help raise up a fallen spirit, a tottering faith, a crumbled courage; something that will sweeten a bitterness or console a grief; or something that will mark off the true from the false; something that will admonish; or something that will indict that which should be put aside and swept away."

If it should happen, as it may happen once in a great while, that a sermon should miss all of these human needs, even then the earnest hearer may find the task of listening a good discipline for his soul.

Because the hearer has a measure of responsibility, let no preacher dare neglect his preparation for that momentous hour when he stands in the pulpit to give a message from the Word of God. On the other hand, let not the hearer try to lay all the responsibility upon the preacher. We believe men are called of God to preach the Gospel. No less truly do we believe He calls us to be hearers of the Word. Was it not the greatest of all preachers who admonished, "Take heed how ye hear?" — Christian Observer

THE PRAYER ON SIGNAL HILL

Dr. Frank C. Laubach, as a young missionary, went to work among the Moros, a tribe of people living on the island of Mindanao, Philippines. These people were Mohammedans. He planned to start a normal school. But there were not enough Moros who could read and write to make teachers of them. So he had to begin by teaching them their A B C's. It seemed a waste of time, that he, a scholar with a Ph. D. degree should thus waste his time. He felt it was beneath his dignity as a learned man.

He says that one night he was praying on Signal Hill, telling God how discouraged he was and how the Moros hated every Christian. Then his own lips seemed to be saying to him: Frank, you have failed because you don't really love those Moros. You look down on them with your white superiority; you think because you are educated and they are ignorant you are better than they are. If you can forget yourself and remember how I love them, they would love you back."

This was the turning point in his life. He changed his whole attitude. He asked to study their Koran with them. He gained their confidence. They in turn asked him to teach them his Bible. But they had no language. Dr. Laubach discovered they had twenty-two sounds. He picked out twenty-two letters from the English alphabet and put with these twenty-two sounds and soon developed a basis for a language. In a short time he had taught the Moros to read. He became highly honored.

Because of his great success with the Moros his system of language was used in many other countries. He was called to many places in Asia, Africa, South America, and the islands of the Pacific to introduce his simple phonetic method of language teaching. It was my privilege to have a short visit with him and his wife two summers ago. My sister-in-law worked under him in Mindanao for sometime before the last war.

The seed which this great man sowed in Mindanao has grown into much fruit. It fell on good ground. At first he failed. The seed took no root. He was not a good sower then. But after the experience at Signal Hill he became the true friend of the Moros and they received his teachings, just as the good soil receives the good seed. — The Reformatory Herald

FOR AN AGGRESSIVE CHURCH

Christianity is natively aggressive. Its Founder was not a zealot, like Mohammed. He did not arouse His followers to a frenzy of passion. But He was aggressive, calmly and sanely so. He did not speak as a world statesman, but He was imperial in His outlook and program. He set the faces of His followers toward the nations and left a program of orderly expansion that looked from Jerusalem to the ends of the earth, and from the hour of the commission to the end of the age.

As we read the volumes of matter that come from the religious press setting forth the urgent need for aggressive Christian action, we cannot say that the leaders of the Church are not alert to the situation or unaware of the passivity of the Church. And judging from the multiplication of organizations and programs, we cannot change that there is not a willingness to meet the need. The church is progressive; it is enamored of progress. To be unprogressive would be the sin of sins. But it is not evangelically aggressive. It is not fired with a passion to propagate the Gospel.

As one reads the story of the first generation of Christians as found in the Acts and the Pauline epistles, he is impressed with the deep conviction of the early Christians that, apart from Christ, man is utterly undone, that the situation of the unbeliever is desperate.

What was needed was not just a change of environment, or even of life habits. There must be a complete break with the old ways of sin. The old man must be made new. There must be a re-birth. To this end, there must be repentance and faith toward Christ, leading to newness of life. Nothing short of that would meet the need.

And there is a companion conviction that must always go with this; namely, that the provisions of the Gospel are adequate to the need. The success of the Gospel program hinges just here. The need is great. Sin is deeply entrenched in the human heart. Its power over the life is strong. The whole nature is corrupt. The case is beyond human resources. If there is no adequate provision for the need, how shall we have the courage to try to meet it? But the Gospel is adequate for the need of the sinner, and the Christ of "all authority" is adequate for the effectual support of those who proclaim it. In this faith, the Church must become aggressively active, if the deep spiritual need of our generation is to be met. — Associate Reformed Presbyterian.

HOW TO LISTEN TO A PRAYER

By Roy L. Smith

The prayer period in any service of worship should be one of the most enriching experiences through which any person ever passes, yet it is probably true that many people sit through it without realizing any direct benefit whatever. This is because of the fact that they have never learned how to listen to a prayer. For increasing the spiritual value of the public prayer we offer a series of simple suggestions. 1. Assume a reverent attitude of the body. Few people ever benefit from the prayer through which they sit bolt upright with eyes open, roving over the building. 2. Enter the prayer period with an open mind. A mind that is cluttered up with a variety of concerns is in no condition to appreciate the suggestions that the Spirit may be seeking to offer. 3. Listen sympathetically. The person who listens for the faults in the prayer is almost certain to miss God's answer. 4. Make the prayer your own. Pay strict attention to the prayer that is being offered, and make expressions of need your own. 5. Add your own special petition when necessary. The prayer which starts us praying is worth as much to us as the prayer that is offered for us. 6. Accept each holy suggestion as though it were from God. The holy joy, or sense of reassurance, that comes with such an experience can have had but one source—God. 7. Assure yourself that God is very near while the prayer is being offered. We have been promised that he will be in the midst of any company of two or three who are making an honest effort to make themselves heard in heaven. Then believe the promise. 8. Say "yes" to any promoting of conscience that may occur. To fail to act, or to decide to act, is to refuse to accept God's guidance, and nothing is more certainly fatal to spiritual growth. — Christian Advocate.

WHAT I OWE MY PASTOR

I owe him respect as the ambassador of God, sent to teach me a better way of living than the selfish, sordid existence of which I might be guilty but for his guidance.

I owe him trust, that he may be free to serve the church unhampered by criticism and faultfinding.

I owe my pastor the protection of kindly silence by refraining from repeating, in his presence, the slander of gossip that would worry him and prevent him from doing his best.

I owe him prayer, that God may make his service a blessing to everyone with whom he comes in contact.

I owe him enough of my time to help him in his work, wherever he may need me.

I owe him encouragement, when vexations and annoyances make his work difficult.

I owe my pastor consideration, not to interrupt and hinder his work by financial worry.

I owe my pastor attention when I go to church, that he may not be annoyed by seeing my careless inattentive actions indicating that I am not interested in what he is saying. — Baptist and Reflector.

THE SERMON THAT YOU SEE

Yes, it is possible to see a sermon as well as hear one. The sermon that you see is likely to make a deeper impression than even the best one that you hear. It is a "vitalized" sermon—made alive in the face and in the behavior of the one who preaches it. That sermon is expressed in the joy that shines through the countenance, the sense of repose and comfort and joy that is pictured in glowing colors on the face, whether that face be wrinkled with the years or yet buoyant in the springtime of life. The sermon that you see is preached by faithfulness in service, loyalty to God and His cause, in devotion to the church in all its interests, but more especially in the unwavering devotion to Jesus Christ our Lord and Saviour. Someone has well said that as the pastor looks into the faces of his congregation, the faces of godly men and women, on Sunday morning, he sees sermons that are more powerful than any he will ever be able to preach. And you can preach such a sermon. — Religious Telescope

A DAY

What does it take to make a day?
A lot of love along the way:
It takes a morning and a noon,
A father's voice, a mother's croon;
It takes some task to challenge all
The powers that a man may call
His own: the powers of mind and limb;
A whispered word of love; a hymn
Of hope—a comrade's cheer—
A baby's laughter and a tear;
It takes a dream, a hope, a cry
Of need from some soul passing by;
A sense of brotherhood and love;
A purpose sent from God above;
It takes a sunset in the sky,
The stars of night, the winds that sigh;
It takes a breath of scented air,
A mother's kiss, a baby's prayer.
That is what it takes to make a day:
A lot of loving along the way.
— William L. Stidger.

KILLING THE PREACHER

A church known to me once buried its pastor, and on the following Sabbath held a memorial service in his honor. A large congregation overflowed the house.
One speaker told of his worth as a preacher, another of his tender administrations as a pastor, others spoke of him as a citizen. Finally they called on me to speak. I said,
"All you have said of my brother is true. He was a man out of the ordinary and gave his remarkable powers without stint or reserve to your service. But if you had while he was yet alive—filled these pews as you have today, and had said of him and to him what you have just said, he would not now be dead.
Empty pews broke his heart, and he did not know of the love of which you have just been speaking.
He died for the lack of the things you have today so beautifully said and done." — L. O. Dawson, in Time of Ingathering

Mrs. E. P. Thornton
503 E. Cameron

One-Half of Orphanage Income Is Received at Thanksgiving Time

From time immemorial the autumn season has been the time of ingathering. In the apple orchard, all during the year the fruit trees have been developing and maturing their fruit to bring it to ripened perfection. The most beautiful season in the orchard is in apple blossom time when the fragrant blooms are lovely to see. But the most satisfying time is when the trees are laden with the red or golden apples, then all the care and work which have been spent to bring the fruit to perfection is repaid.

This is the time too, "When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock." Or should we say the fodder is in the silo? That is less picturesque but more economical.

Here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home we are very grateful for a fine apple crop. We have had a very good year in regard to other crops too, for which we are thankful. We join the fellowship of all others in expressing to our God, the Giver of every good gift, "the thanksgiving of our hearts."

This is also a time of ingathering of the funds required to run this big Home for our many children with their multitude of needs. During more than half the year we do not receive enough funds to meet our needs, but this special offering has for several years taken care of the amount needed.

We have only to go back ten or more years to find a very different situation. Then the Home was in debt and not able to keep up

The Paper Shortage Hits Presbyterian Orphans' Home

You will note that the paper on which this paper is printed is different from the kind we have been using. This was a special concession from the firm that supplies us. This company has been expecting a supply of paper for several months. If it does not soon arrive our next Messenger will have to revert to newsprint.

You will note also that the paper on which our Thanksgiving leaflet is printed is of lower quality. Also we have had to reduce the number of leaflets. There are one hundred thousand Presbyterians in North Carolina. We would like to print a leaflet for each one, but we only had paper for 60,000. We hope that these will be so handled

The friends of Presbyterian Orphans' Home were made glad by the news recently of the wonderful bequest by Mrs. William N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem to Presbyterian Orphans' Home. The statement in the will of Mrs. Reynolds is as follows: "To my trustees one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00) in trust to pay the net income therefrom toward the maintenance and support of the Barium Springs Orphanage."

This will give a wonderful boost to our income from trusts and endowments which have been decreased of late years by the low

with its bills. Much credit for leadership in correcting this condition should go to a group of men in Albemarle Presbytery who led the way in organizing and informing the churches of the needs and opportunities at Barium. So the present organization of the Synod was set up with a chairman for the Synod, one for each presbytery and local chairman in each church. For many years this work was most efficiently led by Mr. J. A. Cannon of Concord, who is now president of the Board of Regents. The chairman of the the Synod now is Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham, who has given of his time and talents most unsparingly. He is doing a fine job.

Chairmen of Presbyteries are as follows:

Albemarle, James G. Johnson; Concord, Richard E. Lackey; Fayetteville, H. H. McKethan; Granville, J. R. Webb; Kings Mountain, T. N. James; Mecklenburg, A. Ray Morrow; Orange, M. E. Yount; Wilmington, Wm. L. McIntire; Winston-Salem, R. S. Haltiwanger.

We are very grateful to these fine men for giving of their time and efforts. We know that they will receive a ready response from the churches of Synod and that this will be a time of ingathering for Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C. NOVEMBER 1946

Thanksgiving And Barium Springs

So much of the Thanksgiving news appears in the tabulation of gifts and people may get the idea that all the cheering at Barium is done in the cashier's and treasurer's office, but such is not the case. You know, this thing of being friendly and kind is catching. It is one of the most contagious things in the world and what somebody does one year inoculates somebody else and they do something special the next year. The ladies of Laurinburg, Hickory, Durham and all around send us cakes. During the last few years they have not been able to get sugar but they manage to get us cakes some way even though they don't bake them themselves. Steele Creek Church has sent us chicken for our Thanksgiving dinner for so long that Thanksgiving would not be Thanksgiving without that fine gift. Then something else happened this year and if any of you Steele Creek folks read this don't let it interfere with you for we have more than one Thanksgiving dinner. Here's what happened. Every year we have as our guests the Civic clubs of Iredell County. They completely fill our dining-room and our dining-room is so big that you can hardly recognize a person from one end of it to the other and when its full of people putting away a big meal you may begin to wonder where all the food comes from. Well, two of our neighbors in Statesville have been guests at these meetings for a good many years and they, no doubt, commenced to wonder what miracle it was that put the food on the table. As it happens, they have been raising turkeys on the side this year and they have done well. Would we be stretching the thing to say that the Lord had blessed them in it? They are kindly folks and do many kind deeds in their regular line of business and have helped Barium Springs out of many a dilemma when it came to getting machinery, trucks, or tractors. The Battle of Iredell — Barium 12, Statesville 6

Elsewhere in this paper you will find an account of our football doings up to Friday, November 22nd. This take up the story from that time on.

The doings of Iredell County in a football way have not been such as to cause any state-wide or national talk. Only one Iredell County team seemed strong - that was Mooresville. Barium was lucky to win a one-point victory over this team early in the season. Later on Mooresville took Statesville apart, but the game between Barium and Statesville did not come along until near the end of the season. Both teams were just a little bit sensitive about their records: they had been pounded by so many teams that their victory columns required a microscope to read. So it all added up to this that the only satisfaction either team would get out of the season would be to take it out on the opponent in this particular game. Barium has had a lot of limpers in all of its other games but the players were so eager for this game that they forgot to limp, or forgot the cause of their limping. Statesville looked better than they had all season. A big crowd of enthusiastic rooters were out to see the game and the weather was perfect. The bands did their stuff and the cheering sections did theirs. The officials solemnly tossed a coin, the whistle blew and the game started. Barium threatened first, missed their chance, and then (Continued On Page Three)

Youth Convention On World Missions

The third Quadrennial Youth Convention on World Missions will be held in Nashville, Tennessee December 27-30, 1946. The convention will be held in the War Memorial Auditorium in Nashville. The general theme will be "The World, the Gospel and You". Those who may attend are all young people of our church, ages 17-25 with the understanding that college, seminary, and training school students and members of Synod's Young People Councils are eligible regardless of age. Delegates do not need to officially represent any particular group or organization or to hold any official position in a local youth organization.

Each delegate is expected to pay his own transportation, all meals, and a registration fee of $3.00. The Nashville Committee will provide room for each youth delegate. Delegates from our Presbytery should be able to attend the Convention at a cost of from forty to fifty dollars—Depending upon amount spent for food and transportation.

The program will be built around the theme "The World, the Gospel, and You", and will consist of worship, addresses, reports of commissions, forums, and discussion in small groups. Among the speakers will be found such names as Dr. John A. Redhead, Dr. Walter Judd, Dr. C. Darley Fulton, Dr. John A. Mackay, Dr. Oscar Blackwelder, Miss Ruth Seabury, and others.

Herbert Good and Lucille Stricklin will represent Presbyterian Orphans' Home at this convention.

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

"I BELIEVE IN GOD"

Recently here at Little Joe's Church we have been making a series of studies on the Apostles' Creed. By request of some of our members we want to summarize them in printed form and share them with you through this paragraph during the next several months.

From the earliest Christian times believers attempted to state the essence of their faith in short summaries or creeds. These were necessary even from the beginning as tests of membership in the church. Usually they followed the baptismal formula in the Great Commission, being built around the "name of the Father, and of the son and of the Holy Ghost". Early Christian documents show a slow evolution of statement until by the fifth century our so-called Apostles' Creed had taken approximately its present form. Since then it has been the common creed of all Christians.

The first article of the Creed opens with the simple statement, "I believe in God." There is no attempt at proof of the existence of God, for the Creed like the Scripture upon which it is based takes this for granted. The evidence is overwhelming, and to seek to prove it would be as foolish as attempting to prove that one has been born. The Bible opens with God already present and active and then proceeds to show what He is like and what He has done. The Creed follows a parallel course.

Through the centuries atheism has had brief periods of fashionableness, but men have always come back to the truth taught by their very natures. Several years ago Dr. A. J. Cronin, an English physician and author or note, epitomized this repeated wandering and return to faith of mankind in an autobiographical Easter editorial entitled "Why I Believe in God". He told of his early years (Continued On Page Two)

Huddleston Family

We are printing this month the picture of our biggest family. Somehow Barium Springs always manages to have one family, and only one, of six children. The Huddlestons have been holding this spot ever since the Smith's abdicated this position. The head of the family is Miriam, a senior. Next is Ray, then Earl, then Richard, then Elizabeth Ann, and the little one, Ralph. They did not all come to Barium at one time - the four older ones did and then Elizabeth Ann. She happened to arrive here on Christmas Eve and her first impression of Barium was that Christmas morning explosion that takes place with most emphasis in the Baby Cottage - she was a Baby Cottage youngster then. And then a little bit later Ralph came in. After next commencement this will just be a family of five because Miriam will be leaving us - but we will still have lots of Huddlestons around for many years to come - take a good look at them and you will recognize them when you visit Barium.

Presbyterian Orphans' Home And Special Offerings

The administration of Presbyterian Orphans' Home has had two letters in regard to the Thanksgiving tabulations as published in the Messenger calling attention to the fact that the two churches represented, took care of their responsibilities to the Presbyterian Orphans' Home in other ways than the Thanksgiving Offering; in one case through the regular church budget, and in the other through increased Sunday School givings and that this tabulation which only showed the Thanksgiving Offering was not a fair indication of what they had done for the Home. The names of the two churches are: The First Church of Morganton and The First Church, Rockingham.

We are glad to correct any misapprehension that may have been caused and publish below the total gifts to the home from all sources from these two churches.

From First Church Morganton, year ending 1945, $512.73, year ending 1946, $474.41.

From First Church Rockingham, year ending 1945, $485.48, year ending 1946, $472.45.

There are doubtless some other churches of the Synod who give (Continued On Page Two)

Football Season Drawing to a Close

There hasn't been one word said about football in the Messenger since the September issue, and we have received so many letters inquiring about what is doing that we have to give this feature more space in this issue than we might otherwise have done.

Up to now we have only reported the result of the Mooresville-Barium game played on the 20th of September, and that game resulted in a victory for Barium 7 - 6. Up until the time we write this article that game is the beginning and the ending of the varsity's victories for this season, but hold on a minute! The varsity still has two games to play and one of them will be reported briefly in this same paper - that is the game with Statesville. It will take place November 22nd and the Statesville papers are rating Barium as the underdog. However this article is about the games which have already been played and not about prophesies for the future.

On Friday, September 28th, Albemarle played Barium at Barium. Right at this moment Albemarle is leading the conference, and for the first half of the game they certainly led Barium, getting 27 points in the first half. In the second half, however, Barium not only held Albemarle scoreless but scored 6 points herself, with the game ending 27-6 in favor of Albemarle. A week later, October 4th, was home-coming day - the earl- (Continued On Page Three)

An Old-Timer Is Heard From

Attention you old timers! We are printing below two letters which should be of a great deal of interest to those of you who were at Barium in its early days. You will note that the writer admits that he was the boy who built the fire that overheaded the stove that probably set fire to the old hotel in which the orphanage was first housed. His second letter is in reply to a letter from Miss McDade, the president of the Alumni Association. We would like to have more letters from you old-timers so that we can keep history straight. Some of you who did the washing tell about where you did it and how. The old spring has pretty well disappeared - that is the spring where you first did these things.

October 18, 1946

Dear Miss McDade:

This being my 52nd anniversary of my leaving Barium Springs, I thought it a good time to express my regret at not knowing of a reunion there until too late. I just returned to North Carolina after forty-one years living in other states, the last twenty-five in St. Louis, Mo., and I am completely out of touch with everything. I am wondering if it is possible anyone I know ever go to reunions, or belong to the Alumni. These may be strange names to you, but it would give me much pleasure to see Jacob, Jack, Jim or Rebecca Woods, John Sterling, Minnie Reynolds, Jennie Maiden, William or Tom Blaylock, Dan Carter, Julia or Ophelia Carter. I could go on naming them, but some may not even be living now. I met one, Charles Daughtry, recently in Charlotte. He owns a business and is very prosperous. Incidentally, he was the third boy admitted to the Home, and I was the fourth. I went through the big fire that destroyed the original building, in fact I was the culprit who made the fire that overheated the stove that burned the house down. The old trap went up like a stack of straw. But I had been scolded for not making a big enough fire to warm up the big dining room, which was used both for eating and for morning (Continued On Page Two)

NEWS FROM SOME OF THE COTTAGES

HOWARD COTTAGE

One of the most exciting things the Howard girls did this month was going to Davidson to the football game and the best part of all we went in private cars with Mr. Johnston, Miss Carpenter, Miss Andrews and Miss Thompson. You'll never know how much we enjoyed it unless you could come and live with us and hear us talk.

On November 11, at 3:30, Circle No. 2 of Mooresville met with us in our cottage. We put on a program for them and after that they had their business meeting. We really enjoyed seeing how big folks do things. They gave us a shower of fruit and each of us a nice coloring book and crayons. We have really been working on those coloring books every day after school.

Six of our girls went to Statesville, they sang for the people in the church and someone gave each of them a dollar.

Mrs. Craig came Saturday to stay at Howard. She is going to be the substitute matron when Miss Jackson has her days off. We just love for new people to come to Barium.

—The Howard Girls.

BABY COTTAGE

Since the last time we gave you the news we have become very interested in painting. When we grow up we want to be painters and paint all the cottages on the campus. That's why we wouldn't dare miss seeing the men paint the windows during quiet hour and we just keep the corner of one eye and all our ears open to learn everything. No, some of us aren't sure that we can paint, so just in case we can't, we have practiced enough to take Mr. Johnston's, Mr. Benton's and Mr. Hethcox's places.

Of course you knew when Halloween came, for we blew our horns to warn you.

Just ask us and we can tell you all about "Black Beauty."

Mr. Grier took us to see the horses, pigs and sheep. He even let us touch the horses and we like Patsy more than the others. We'll like the colt better when he becomes more friendly.

We like to play in the leaves, we raked some and filled sacks for Matilda to come after. Ann Wilcox and Florence Andrews showed us how.

Douglas Byrd and Tommy Lane make up our football team. They spend hours practicing.

We all love to hear the bell for kindergarten for we know it means crayons, color books, clay, and other things. The clay is tops right now. We love to see our hands get red, green, blue and other pretty colors. Stick around sometime and you'll hear Donnie Privett's airplane buzzing over the head of Larry Terry's "Little Black Sambo."

Peek in the window of Shelia's house and see Mary's sizzling pancakes. Always ice cream is on our tables. We'll soon be making Santa Claus. Until then - that's all. Good bye and come to see us.

—The Babies.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Here is the latest news from our cottage. We have really been doing a lot of things this month.

First of all on Halloween night we had a big carnival and the spooks, oh my goodness! We weren't really scared at all.

The leaves have been beautiful and we have enjoyed raking them up very much. We get paid for each sack and we plan to use the money for our Christmas gifts to someone.

Six of our girls went to Mooresville to sing and they reported a grand time. We want to thank our friends in Mooresville for the nice fruit that they sent to us. Also the friends in Morganton for the jump ropes. We have really been jumping around to keep warm.

Jackie Liverman and Shirley Johnson have recited the Child's Catechism but we are all working on it.

Wish you could all see and taste the good apples we have been having. They sure are grand after playing in the leaves, and jumping rope all afternoon.

We'll be seeing you next month.

— The Annie Louise Girls.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

So many things have happened to us since we wrote you last month.

Miss Taylor came back from Scotland and England. She has told us many interesting things about these countries. We were all interested in knowing all about the ship that she come back on. We are so happy to have her back.

Circle Number Six of Mooresville sent us some candy. We certainly do appreciate it.

The story of "Black Beauty" was read to us and then we went to see the picture. It was very good because we like horses.

We are going to get our report cards soon. We hope that all of us will make the honor roll.

The Wigglers.

LEES COTTAGE

Thanksgiving will soon be here and we have many things to be thankful for. Our friends are so good to us. Someone is giving us turkeys for our Thanksgiving dinner.

We have our last football game next Thursday and we hope to win. Then we will start basket ball.

We have been raking up the leaves and they use them at the barn. We have filled 450 sacks.

We went to the show this afternoon - saw Roy Rogers. We enjoy going to the show.

It won't be long until Christmas. We are writing letters to Santa Claus.

We are having our basket ball court fixed up and it sure does look pretty.

Be looking for us next month.

—Lees Boys.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends,

Here we are again, "The Little Busybodies," and we aren't kidding, bringing you the news before our next task. Right now some of the girls are cleaning the dining hall (and what a job) while the others are resting until our time comes (time marches on).

We have completed another six weeks of school, our report cards looking much better than they did last time. Next month we hope to improve even more.

Since football season is coming to an end we are glad to see basketball just around the corner (lets not look too far around it for "Old Santa" is not so very far off). We really did like those Davidson games we saw this season, and we thank the friends from Scotts who so kindly took us in their bus.

Lucille Smith, our matron, had a visit from her brother and a friend, who are stationed at Fort Bragg. We liked their visit as "Lu" did.

We must say good-bye until the next time.

— The Rumble Hall Girls.

liberally in other ways but do not stress the Thanksgiving offering. To all of them we express our appreciation for their support in any way they choose to give it. We in no way wish to criticize or dictate the financial policy of any Church. That would not become an institution supported by the generosity of the Church. Nor is it in the power of the Presbytery or the Synod to dictate to the Church as to how its money shall be designated.

It were well however to take a look at our finances that we may see how dependent we are on the Thanksgiving Offering. From the earliest days of the Home the Synod and Presbyteries have not put enough in the budget to take care of the needs recognizing the special appeal of the children. So each year the Synod has called on the Churches to make a generous Thanksgiving Offering and has recommended to the Sunday Schools a special offering once a month for the Home.

In 1940 the budget of Synod recommended that 9 per cent of benevolent gifts be allocated to the Home. In 1946 the Synod recommends that 7 per cent be given to the Home.

Presbyteries have put the Home in the budget for the following percentages:

Albemarle	5.5%
Concord	6.5%
Fayetteville	7 %
Granville	5.5%
Kings Mountain	7 %
Mecklenburg	4 %
Orange	6.5%
Wilmington	6 %
Winston-Salem	7 %

So we see that six out of nine Presbyteries have reduced Synod's budget for the Home sharply.

The results of this policy is indicated by the following receipts as shown in our report for the year ending March 31, 1946.

From the regular budget $32,020.19.

Special Offerings from Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries $41,231.24.

Thanksgiving Offering $80,073.08

Again we reiterate that we want always to give credit where credit is due and we appreciate every gift large or small given for this great work committed to us, the care of dependent children.

spent in an atmosphere of narrow sectarian bickering which made him bitter toward religion, and of his medical education which left him a confirmed atheist. Then, he he says, he began his practice at a charity hospital in a city slum area. There he soon had his first experience with death, and was puzzled by an acute consciousness of the departure of something at the moment his patient expired. He laughed when older doctors told him that this was the flight of the soul, but he could offer no other explanation. Years went by, and repeatedly the young doctor was puzzled upon noticing people involuntarily break into prayer in times of crisis. Still more he was puzzled to see some of his patients come back from the very brink of death, apparently in answer to prayer. Finally came the great crisis in his own life, his wife's illness. For days she lingered between life and death. Afterwards his friends told him that during those days he had walked the streets of his neighborhood talking to himself. But he knew that in the hour of his extremity he, like so many others, had turned to God for help. At last emotion so powerful as to overrule his reason had opened his life to the evidences of his own nature, and he had found God.

The Apostles' Creed uses two terms to describe God, only two out of all those that might well have been chosen. But these two, "Father" and "Almighty", gives us the essential picture. In the Godhead the Father is planner and architect of our salvation. In His relation to men He is Father in the fullest and best sense of all that name implies. As our Creator He is responsible for our being, and His infinite love makes that responsibility a delight to Him. "Father" is a name which makes it possible for us to understand the showers of good gifts which He sends down upon us, and enables us to trust Him even in the valley of the shadow of death. ter way of teaching the goodness Even Jesus could think of no bet- and love of God than to call Him "Our Father".

The second descriptive term, "Almighty", gives us assurance that God is able to do all the good which His being our Father makes Him desire for us. As a Father He wills only that which is good; and as the Almighty "He can do all His holy will". Thus He created the universe by the word of His power; thus He laughs to scorn the puny efforts of evil men to flout His will, and thus He gath-Word has come to us of the death of Miss Mary Alice Raymond who was our music teacher here in 1925 and 1926. Miss Raymond went from us to Thornwell Orphanage in 1927. During the last fifteen years she has lived in Nashville, Tennessee. She had been in poor health for several years but had been confined to her bed for only a few days before her death. She died on October 15th.

ing prayer. I feel sure that was the fall of 1891, in November. I could almost write a history of those old days, but that is not my purpose. I would like to get more in touch with things, I would like to join the alumni if I am not a rank outsider to those who are in it, and if my joining can be to any good purpose. Let me know the requirements, and if "Our Fatherless Ones" is still published under that name.

Reference in the Charlotte Observer to the "class of 1924" struck me as an indication of great progress since the old days when we just went to school. Of course there were elementary and advanced classes, but we just quit when the time came, no class of this or that year or time.

Respectfully,

Dear Miss McDade:

I thank you for your nice letter, and assure you I am interested in the matters mentioned and will act upon them.

I am enclosing a clipping I took from the Observer which will explain the reference to the class of 1924. It was by this story I learned there had been a homecoming, and gave me enough information to start getting acquainted with the new Barium.

Being a teacher, you may be interested in knowing I have a son (my youngest child) who is a teacher in the St. Louis public schools. He is right now dividing his time between university work and his teaching job. He will get his master's degree next June. He had his B. A. before going into the Army and the Army sent him to University of Alabama and Carnegie Tech for nine months - eight of them at Carnegie. He is already a member of two honorary scholastic fraternities at the age of 26. His thesis for his master's degree was a masterpiece, and I feel it had more to do with the invitations by these fraternities than his class work, which was high. You will understand it is a father's pride which calls this forth. I want to add he served overseas - landed in Normandy a short while after the original invasion.

Sincerely yours,

Football Season

iest home-coming day we have had so far and the team that visited us that day was Harding High of Charlotte. That was a red hot game with Harding showing much superiority in the first half and scoring a touchdown. In the second half Barium played great defensive ball and managed to score a touchdown herself and the final score was 7-7 - a wonderful game that left the spectators thrilled. On October 11th Barium went to Concord and the game there was rather one-sided. Barium 7, Concord 35, with Concord getting stronger all through the game. The score at the half was 7-14.

Then on October 18th we went to Lexington. This was the first game in which Barium was held scoreless, the final score being Lexington 25, Barium 0. That game was probably the turning point for Lexington; from that time on she has been a real contender for top honors, and this week will try conclusions with Albemarle for the conference championship.

On October 25th, Barium had a most delightful game with the Davidsn B team and the final score was Davidson 19-Barium 6. Davidson did all of their scoring in the first half and Barium did her scoring in the last three minutes - an interesting game.

On November 1st Morganton came to Barium. Morganton is the undefeated leader of the Western Conference and appeared to be the best team that has visited Barium Springs this year. The final score was Morganton 39-Barium 6. On November 8th Barium entertained Salisbury and Salisbury played a grand game defeating Barium 12-0. Both teams looked good, with Salisbury packing a little more punch. On the night of November 14th, Barium journeyed to Winston-Salem for the annual contest with the Children's Home. Barium was crippled up with more players not able to play their usual bang-up game than in any game during the season. The Children's Home was at their best and the final score was Children's Home 42-Barium 0. And that brings us up to the eve of the Statesville-Barium game, and on Thanksgiving day Barium will wind up her varsity season entertaining Thomasville.

Now, a word about the Midgets. On Saturday, September 28th, our 85-pound team opened its season at Winston-Salem, losing to the Children's Home 13-0. The 100-pound team losing the same day to the Children's Home 34-0. On the following Saturday, October 5th, the 85-pound team lost to Concord 6-0; the 100-pound team lost to Concord 7-0. The B team lost to Concord 25-0. On Monday, October 14th, the 115-pound team defeated Cramerton 13-0. This team was organized to meet the conditions of the Cramerton team with the main part of the team being hundred pounders with about three players from the lighter 125 pound boys. This is Cramerton's first year in midget ball and they are a great bunch of kids. On Monday, October 21st, the B team was defeated by Statesville 26-0 at Statesville. On October 26th Children's Home midget teams came to Barium and the 85-pound game resulted in a tie. The 100-pound team - Children's Home 33 - Barium 6. On Monday, October 28th, the B team played Jackson Training School at Concord, defeating them 12-0. On Saturday, November 2nd, Morganton's 100-pound team came to Barium and was defeated by Barium 48-0. This was the only revenge we had for the defeat by them of our varsity 39-6. On November 4th our B team defeated Statesville 7-6. On Armistice Day night our 115-pound team journeyed to Cramerton and in a most interesting game defeated them 7-0. This was the first time this year that any of our midget team played a night game. On Saturday, November 17th, we had our return three games with Concord at Concord - remember Barium lost all three of these games when they were played at Barium and won all three when they played at Concord. The 125-pound team started off the fireworks by defeating Concord 24-13. The 100-pound team defeated Concord 13-0, and the 85-pound defeated Concord 6-0. One most delightful feature of this game was what happened right afterwards. When the Concord boys came to Barium we furnished them with apples and the boys liked them so well that some of the boys suggested our bringing apples along when we went to Concord to play them there. Some of the little Concord kids even went so far as to say we would bring some apples they would bring some lunches. Well, that is the way it worked out. Our team took about four bushels of apples and the Concord boys brought about four bushels of lunches, and after all three games had been played all these teams pitched to find out who was really the champion eater and it ended up in an all-around tie with the complete disappearance of every apple and every lunch but about one hundred thoroughly satisfied boys.

There are still three games on the midget schedule. The 100-lb. team plays Jackson Training School and then journeys to Morganton on next Tuesday, and then a final game with Davidson high school midgets Friday after Thanksgiving. We will try to stick the results of these games in some where.

Then on Friday, December 6th there will be a banquet and we can chew the fat and have a lot of fun re-playing all of our games. We wish you could all be there at the banquet to help us re-enjoy our season.

The list of victories is mighty slim but there has been some heroic stands and some brilliant playing nevertheless, and while we are not up at the top where we usually roost we are still in the league and raring for next year's contest to begin. We will be seeing you.

tors. Well, these folks decided to furnish the meat course for one of those Thanksgiving dinners, and it is going to be Turkey. Now, here is the plan. On Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, will be Steele Creek day and everybody will eat that dinner except the football boys. They have to play a game that afternoon so their chicken will be saved until after the game, and then on Sunday when the football boys and everybody else can forget training and relax, we will then absorb those turkeys. If anybody visits us that Sunday afternoon, please pardon us if we are a trifle sleepy. We are going to stay awake through Sunday School and Church and then we are going to do justice to that dinner and then we are going to relax and digest and think of what good friends we have.

We will bet you that everyone who eats of those chickens and those turkeys will catch that prevalent disease of being kind to folks and it will spread up and down and sideways until it takes in all the people at Barium, those who visit Barium and those who love Barium and that's a lot of folks.

That is just a few of the things that will happen to us Thanksgiving week, thanks to you.

The Battle of Iredell

Statesville threatened and made good and the score was 6-0 in favor Statesville. After that it just looked like anything could happen. Statesville tried a forward pass; it was intercepted by Dwight Spencer who took it to about the four yard line and from there Jack Clark carried over for the first touchdown - the score 6-6, and the first half nearly over. Barium kicked off and after an exchange of punts tried a little passing and one pass carried to the five yard line and from there again Jack Clark went over for the second touchdown, the score 12-6, and that is where it stayed all through the second half. Barium threatened and then Statesville threatened, but neither threatened hard enough.

In listening to the comments of the people who watched the game, we overheard these remarks: "That Jack Clark is certainly hot tonight; his passing, his running, and his kicking are right up to snuff." "That Jerry Young and Charlie Barrett are certainly playing one bang-up defensive game. They are stopping those end runs like nobody's business." "Benny Gregory is certainly calling a good game and carrying out his assignments whether it is carrying the ball or blocking. He looks like a million dollars." "That Jack Mangum is playing his best game. When he was called on to kick during Jack Clark's absence from the game he got off a kick that staved off a Statesville threat." "That Jimmy Williams playing his first entire game as center is certainly stopping those passing threats." "Kenneth Baker is really demonstrating what football he has learned this fall: that boy is really playing a grand game." "Herbert Good is just like his name sounds: tonight he is really good." "Earl Allen has been playing a good game every game and is just as good tonight, but you can't tell it because those other boys are playing right along beside him." An so on, and so on, until every man who played or substituted was mentioned. We hate to admit how small some of the substitutes were who went into that game.

All in all it was a pleasant evening. The Statesville folks did not feel too badly about it although the team did - they had counted so strong on winning this one. The cheer leaders did a grand job and the Statesville people, as always, were as courteous as though there were two home teams playing on their field. We wish all of our games could be like that, even though we might not win them all. One more game to go and the 1946 season will be wrapped up.

Father: "Be good while I'm out.
Son: "I'll be good for a nickel."
Father: "Son, you'll be good for nothing, or else you're no son of mine."

"What made young Bascom stay so late last night, Tillie?"
"Why, Dad, I was showing him some of my electric bills."

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., DECEMBER 1946

No. 2

Deceased

MRS. S. A. GRIER

The angels came and took her home. With the setting of the sun she went from us into the presence of her Savior.

On December 1, 1916, Mr. and Mrs. Grier came to live at Barium and since that day many, many boys and girls have found in them the sweet forbearance and understanding and strength that seemed lost to them with the loss of their own parents.

Her own went in infancy to be with that holy, happy band of children around the throne of God in heaven, and so Mrs. Grier gave a mother's love unstintingly and without bitterness to the children of others. For many years she was the beloved teacher of the beginners in Sunday School. To her neighbors, the babies and the little girls at Howard Cottage, she was a ray of sunshine passing by and going in and out amongst them, never too hurried to listen to their small troubles or to be happy with them in their triumphs.

To the older boys and girls she was an ideal of unselfishness and Christian faith. Her greatest joy was their trust and confidence, and many of us can recall how her interest and sympathy stood by us through the difficult times. Mrs. (Continued On Page Two)

Our Christmas Tree

This story has to be written just before the event happens. Reporters do this lots of times without admitting it. We are admitting it but we know we are going to have such a big time that it won't hurt to tell the story before it happens.

On Wednesday night, December 18th, Barium Springs will have her big "Give-to" Christmas tree. The affair will start at six o'clock. All of the children of the Orphanage and of the neighborhood will be present. We will eat a little, sing a lot, and do a lot. When the affair starts there will be a Christmas tree in the middle of the dining room with no decoration whatever on it. There will be a bowl on a table and a box full of decorations - that's at the beginning of the meal. An hour later the tree will be highly decorated with some four hundred decorations. The box of decorations will be empty. The bowl will be pretty full of contributions. We will sing Christmas carols and just have a whopping big time. As each child leaves the dining room he will have a bag of apples, nuts and candy, - just a foretaste of the good things ahead for the next ten days, and they will also have a nice warm feeling in their hearts in having done something for other people first before enjoying the many things which people do for us.

The gift this year is going to the Home for the Aged - that new cause which the Presbyterian Church so heartily endorsed at the last meeting of the Synod. We hope that the people receiving money for this cause will be the busiest people in North Carolina during these Christmas days.

There are many people anxious about this enterprise. They are wondering if this home can be built in time to help them. They are people who just a few years ago were vigorous, helpful people who helped all of our church causes to function. Now they need help and time is running out on some of them. It is the prayers of every contributor to our "Give-to" Christmas tree that our mites may be added to the dollars to quickly furnish a haven (Continued On Page Two)

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

"I BELIEVE IN JESUS CHRIST"

This article is being written at the beginning of the Christmas season, and certainly there could be no fitter subject than the second article of our Apostles' Creed. Last month we thought together of the first article, "I believe in God the Father Almighty", and now we come to the statement of that which Christians believe about Christ. It is the longest and most important section of the Creed. "I believe in - Jesus Christ His only Son our Lord; who was conceived by the Holy Ghost; born of the Virgin Mary; suffered under Pontius Pilate; was crucified, dead, and buried; the third day He rose again from the dead; He ascended into heaven; and sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty; from thence He shall come to judge the quick and the dead." This section of the Creed emphasizes both the divinity and the humanity of Christ and presents Him to us as our Lord and Savior.

The opening words, "Jesus Christ His only Son our Lord", present to us a living Being. He is God's Son in a way that no mere man could ever be. The human mind can never understand the mystery of the Trinity, but someone has given us a picture of the division of work among the three Persons which is helpful. The great work of God is the work of salvation. The Father is the architect who conceived the plan, and the Son is the contractor who actually builds the structure. He is the executor of the plan of God for our salvation.

Christ is also our Lord. The dictionary defines "Lord" as "one who has power and authority, a master, proprietor, ruler". And when we use the Creed we own Christ as all these things to us. We belong to Him, for "you are not your own; you were bought with a price". And that price was His own precious blood. Christ is our Lord and also the Lord of all creation. He is our King and the King of the universe whom the Father (Continued On Page Two)

Winter Sports

The last issue of the Messenger told the story of our football season up through the Statesville game, and all that remains to be told in this issue is the story of the final varsity game and four mid-get games and then the biggest event of all - the banquet.

First about the varsity windup. This final game was played on Thanksgiving Day at Barium. Thomasville was the team furnishing the opposition and some of you may remember that it was Thomasville who spoiled the end of our season last year. Last year we were leading Thomasville by one point until the last few minutes of the game when they scored. This year our team started out like they were meaning business and scored two touchdowns in the first half, but did not complete the point after (Continued On Page Two)

In Lieu of Cross Word Puzzle

Some papers have a crossword puzzle in every issue: sometimes it is the most interesting part of the publication. We have not adopted that particular policy but we do occasionally like to publish a puzzler - something to interest old-timers particularly. Today in this issue we are publishing a picture of the 2nd grade of 1928 and the graduating class of 1937. There are four boys and three girls who appear in both pictures. In the fourth grade picture, front row, there is a fighter pilot who earned a good many decorations; a captain in the Army; an officer in the Navy; and practically all of the entire row are G. I's.

In the second row there is a bombardier who was shot down over enemy territory but got back in less than a day - his wife is also in that row. In the top row there are four soldiers and among the girls there is a nurse who saw overseas duty; a Marine; and a WAVE, and in the whole picture there are two widows who lost their husbands in the war.

In the picture of the graduating class every boy in the picture except one saw service. One was killed. Of the girls all are married except one, and four of them married their Barium sweethearts, but none of their husbands are in this picture. Of the boys all are married except two, and one of these married his Barium sweetheart. Now you guess the names, and let's see how nearly right you are. Check your guess with answers on page two.

Given Scouting's Highest Award — The Eagle Badge

Barium Springs is not a large high school. Sometimes we run as high as 115 students, then sometimes as low as 70. We are down on the low end right now, and that makes this story all the more unusual.

It is a rare thing when a Boy Scout receives the Eagle Award and becomes an Eagle Scout. It is something for the boy to remember all his life and something for his community to be proud of. Well, on Friday, December 6th, there were three students of the Barium High School who received this Eagle Award. The ceremonies were held at Barium Springs in the high school auditorium. The boys did not all belong to the same Scout Troop. Dwight Spencer, a senior at Barium, was a member of the Barium Troop, Reverend F. B. Benton, Scoutmaster. Buddy and Ricky Lippard are also students of the Barium High School but are members of the Troutman Boy Scouts and they were the other two who received this award.

There was a Statesville boy, Duke Fowler, making four altogether to be honored and to honor our community on that occasion.

NEWS FROM SOME OF THE COTTAGES

LEES COTTAGE

We are all looking forward to Christmas and we know Santa will be good to us for we have so many friends.

We have been picking up apples but we don't have to go out to work to-day - so we will get to play until supper time.

Miss Ford is going home for the week-end and one of the big boys, W. A. Johnson is going to stay with us.

We have raked up 595 sacks of leaves and there is plenty more on the campus.

We had the football banquet last Thursday night and we had a good time.

Wishing every one a Merry Christmas.

— Lees Boys

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Are all of our friends being good so Santa will come to see you? We have been being especially good for about a month now in hopes that he won't forget us.

The 18th of this month we are going to have a Christmas party in the dining room. We all plan to give a little present so that we can have a part in the present that the Orphanage gives to the Home for the aged ministers and their wives.

Three more of our girls have recited the Child's Catechism. They are Shirley Anne Hollifield, Betty Jean Johnson, and Evelyn Cox.

We are still enjoying the nice candy that our friends in Mooresville and Belmont sent to us. We surely do appreciate the kindness of them to us.

Guess Santa is making out his list and "checking it twice" and we here at Barium hope that he remembers each and everyone of you!

Merry Christmas!

— The Annie Louise Girls

INFIRMARY

Here we are bringing you the news of our cottage again. Since Christmas isn't far off we have quite a bit of news.

We are all excited about Christmas and we wish to thank all of our friends who always manage to help us have a Merry Christmas.

We are all sorry about Mrs. Grier's death and we all want to sympathize with Mr. Grier.

Louise Harwell had a visit from her father and sister last week. Mrs. McNatt our matron also had a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Charles McNatt.

We had a grand Thanksgiving. The turkey dinner we had sure was good. We wish you could have been here to eat dinner with us.

We had a swell football season this year and we wish to thank the ones who so kindly volunteered to carry us to games away from home. We wish to thank Davidson College for inviting us to come to most of their home games. We sure did enjoy it boys.

Basketball season has now started and we are all looking forward to a grand season. Come on boys and girls.

We haven't had many patients lately. We only have three in bed at the time.

It is very nice to have Mrs. Holton on the campus now.

We wish all of you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

has set upon His throne.

The next words in this article of the Creed emphasize how Christ became man. They recognize His preexistence, for as Brother Bryan of Birmingham used to say, "He was the only man who ever lived before he was born". The eternal Son of God became man, not by natural generation, but through the work and power of the Holy Spirit in the Virgin Mary. His miraculous birth fulfilled the prophecies given long before to enable men to recognize Him, and kept Him free from the guilt of Adam which corrupts all born in ordinary manner. His being born as a baby, weak and helpless, was meant to show the complete humanity which He assumed. The eternal Son of God, a complete divine Being, added to His divinity a complete humanity and thus became God and man in one person for our salvation.

The Creed is too brief to carry a statement of Christ's life for our example, but goes directly to His death in accomplishment of the chief work which He came to do. He "suffered under Pontius Pilate"; and in those words we hear again the prophecy of Isaiah, "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed". But even more -- He was "crucified, dead, and buried". Unbelievers have made every effort to prove that Christ did not really die, but this statement emphasizes that His death was as real and complete as human death can be. Though sinless, He took our sins upon Himself and paid the penalty which God demands for every sin. And by bearing our sin He became the means of our forgiveness and reconciliation to God. Being complete man He could represent us, and being complete God He was a worthy sacrifice. Here is the very core of the Christian's belief about Christ.

But our belief in Christ does not end with His death. "The third day He rose again from the dead." That is the final proof of His Messiahship and divinity; and there is our assurance that the penalty for sin has been paid in full. Death, sin's consequence, has been conquered. Believers are assured of deliverance from its clutches through Christ.

And Christ is alive forevermore. "He ascended into heaven." Heaven is not the dwelling place of the dead, but of the living. The ascension was the final consummation of the glory of Christ and the final mark of His love, for He has said, "I go to prepare a place for you." In heaven He sits today at the right hand of the Father, having carried humanity to the very throne of the universe. There His wounds make constant intercession for us and give assurance that He will be heard for our salvation.

The last part of this article of the Creed concerns the work of Christ at the end of the world: "From thence He shall come to judge the quick and the dead". We today have little to say on the subject of a final judgement, but the Creed is clear. Judgement will come to all, and the same Christ who offers Himself as Savior will then judge every man. On that day those who have accepted Him will hear His "Come, thou blessed of my Father, and inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world". And on that day those who have rejected Him will find themselves rejected. Then the Son having put all enemies under His feet, He shall reign forever and ever. Then every kingly prophecy concerning Him will be fulfilled.

The Apostles' Creed thus gives us a strong statement of the essential Christian beliefs about Him who is Head of the church and Savior of all who call upon Him. It allows us to disagree upon many such minor points as the mode of His baptism, the manner in which He worked His miracles, and the various theories as to how His death accomplished its saving work. But the essentials which it does give are those upon which all Christians must agree. The Creed is still as good a test of a man's Christianity as it was in the first century. All who can say sincerely, "I believe in Jesus Christ - ", can be welcomed into the family of Christians as brothers.

Mrs. S. A. Grier

Grier loved the laughter and the happiness of youth and was never impatient with its mistakes.

To the adult members of her Barium family she was esteemed co-worker, trusted friend and confidante, and unparalleled example of life spent joyously and unselfishly. Mrs. Grier will be sorely missed in the local auxiliary in which she served faithfully in various offices. In 1942 the women of Little Joe's Church delighted to honor her with life membership in the Woman's Auxiliary.

Our first overwhelming grief is scotched when we think how our dear Mrs. Grier was spared pain and suffering and passed, as it were by a single step, from this life to life everlasting. There is an aching emptiness in our earthly day, but in our hearts a sweet peace, and in the heavenly home another dear one safe and well.

touchdown in either case. One of those touchdowns, by the way, was made by a 65-yard run by Jack Clark. It was a beauty. It seemed that somebody stepped on one of Jack's toes early in the game and as it turned out it was broken, but he did not know anything about this when he started on that run and he made that run with just nine working toes. There is no telling what that boy could do with a couple of more broken toes. Anyhow he went ahead and finished the game in fairly good shape, but the next day his foot was a mess. Our boys thought that the game was sewed up at the half but Thomasville didn't think so and they came back in the second half and clearly outplayed Barium scoring 7 points and threatening again, but the final score ended 12-7 in favor of Barium which gives us three conference wins and four losses and puts us at the head of the second division of the conference.

While the varsity was finishing up this last chore the midgets on Tuesday Nov. 26 journeyed to Morganton - the 100-pounders and played a grand game there defeating Morganton 21-0. Then on the 29th they took on a brand new team from Davidson. This team did not have very much equipment and it had to borrow a good many helmets from us but they knew their football and played on even terms with Barium during the entire first half. In the second half, however, Barium really got serious and ran up 21 points. The final score was Barium 21 - Davidson 0. In the return game on Wednesday, December 4th, Barium defeated Davidson 7-0. This game was played on Richardson field and a good many Davidson students came out to get their final football meal - they seemed to enjoy the game.

The Jackson Training School 100-pounders came over on Thursday, November 21st, and the final score was Barium 12 - Jackson Training School 6. Jackson Training School's team has one boy on it who is mighty hard to stop; when he really put his mind on it the Barium team could not stop him and that is the reason why they scored 6 points. All in all, our midgets season was enjoyable. We started off slow but ended up good.

On Thursday night, December 5th, we had our football banquet. Mr. Calhoun presided and that means that it had to be good. The meal was different and the guests were different. For the first time in a number of years no outside guests were invited - just 160 football players and friends right here at Barium. A home raised Barium hog furnished the barbecue meal with a little ice cream and cake to top it off. Letters were awarded as follows:

V.'s which was a combination of 125 pounders and B teamers and Mr. J. B. Johnston the varsity letters.

Earl Allen was elected the team captain and was also voted the best tackler. Jerry Young was voted the best blocker. Dwight Spencer was voted the most valuable player.

Our Banquet was moved up to Thursday night to leave Friday night clear for the Scout Court of Honor. You will read about that elsewhere in this paper. That, of course, winds up this year's football schedule but it does not end the duties of those who have to do with football - schedule meetings and such.

On Thursday, December 12th, the coaches and principals of the South Piedmont Conference met at Barium Springs. All afternoon and in to the night they chewed the rag and chewed apples, taking time off at six to chew some more durable rations in the Barium dining room, and when it was all over they had selected their all-conference team, which is as follows:

Ends — Klutz, Concord; Angell, Children's Home.
Tackles — Walsen, Lexington; King, Children's Home.
Guards — Alexander, Mooresville (Captain); Allen, Barium.
Center — Bowles, Mooresville; Back — Thompson, Albemarle; Singleton, Mooresville; Poole, Children's Home; Lefler, Albemarle.

You will note that a Barium boy is on this team for his second year. We received a new member into the conference and reinstated an old one. North Wilkesboro was the new member; Mills Home was the old one. Schedules were arranged in football, basketball, and baseball, and here is Barium's football schedule for next fall;

A Revival of the Student Conference

A number of years ago an idea was suggested by the Children's Home of Winston-Salem - it was to have meetings twice a year of selected students from several of the larger institutions. Eventually five institutions participated. The Children's Home, The Mills Home, The Lexington Junior Order, The Hughes Memorial School of Danville, Va., and Barium Springs. The war came along and broke into this conference as it did so many other gatherings and now all of the students who ever participated in this conference have graduated and moved out.

The Beta Club at Barium is attempting to revive this conference and has issued invitations to the Orphanages that participated before and to the Raleigh Methodist Orphanage and the Oxford Masonic Orphanage, too. Their invitation is to meet at Barium the latter part of March - March 27th to 29th to be exact, and it is hoped that this will again become a going concern to carry on the good work started by the original conference. If these other institutions accept the invitation more detailed description of the program and plans will be in the next issue of The Messenger.

Alumni News

We would like to take this opportunity to wish for each of you a very Happy New Year and to tell you that we appreciated the Christmas greetings very much. We wish that we could acknowledge each one.

Elizabeth Langly is now Mrs. M. D. O. Parker, 311 Jones St. Raleigh, N. C.

Charles Starling, a student at the University of North Carolina, was a visitor at Barium during the holidays.

We were happy to have many of our boys home for the holidays, Rufus Long, Paul Horne, Ernest Stricklin, Amos Hardy, students at Davidson College; George and Ray Lewis, David Burney, University of North Carolina.

Beulah and Bennett Baldwin of Whiteville were visitors at Barium at Christmas.

We had a Christmas card from Mr. & Mrs. Henry Alessandrini, but no address and no particulars.

Elaine Faircloth is married but we have no other information.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ziegler on December 16th a daughter, Theresa Mell. They are living in Charlotte and we would like to have their address.

Jack, Tom, and Billy McCall spent the holidays in Charlotte with Marion. Billy is back at Davidson, and Tom at the University of Iowa. Jack is planning to enter Catawba in February.

Lugene and David Spencer and little Jean spent the first part of their Christmas holidays in Spindale with Joe and Evelyn White and the last part at Barium. Joe White is Director of City and

January Doings

You have been in the movies when the picture changed from something like "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" to a news-reel, and the change is so abrupt that it takes you a moment or two to get adjusted to it. Well, that is something like the change at Barium right after the Christmas holidays. We have such a big time with our presents and our parties and our picture shows during the holidays, and then all of a sudden school starts again and we find ourselves in the midst of not only school activities but the annual health clinic, starting to make out the Duke Endowment Report, and getting started in a new athletic season.

Well, we have had all three of those things. First, a little bit about the Duke Report. We find that we have had 1.4 children less daily population than a year ago. The average age of the children is about a year younger than a year ago. We have not yet worked out the per capita cost to see how much it cost to keep well, how much it cost to keep appetites satisfied, and to keep clothed. All of those things will be interesting to check on after the final report is made.

In the health clinic the first thing on the docket is to weigh and measure, and we find only one boy in the whole place who did not make a satisfactory gain during the past year. In the tubercular test there were five reactors among the new children but none with even incipient tuberculosis. The general examination showed a good many enlarged and diseased tonsils, and we have already had our first tonsil party - three little girls went to the doctor on January 16th, came back to Barium on the 17th, minus their tonsils and managed to smile, a little bit weakly it is true, but able to enjoy a large helping of ice cream. These little girls to start off the tonsil activity of the season were Shelby McEwen, Carol Harwell, and Nancy Yandle. Another party is scheduled for January 21st.

In athletic activities: at this writing our teams have played four conference games, our girls winning from North Wilkesboro, Monroe, and Thomasville and losing to Children's Home. Our boys winning from North Wilkesboro and Monroe and losing to Thomasville and Children's Home. The midget teams are beginning to practice and will open their season against Oxford School in Catawba County on January 29th. Arrangements are already being made for our two big tournaments. The Mid-Piedmont will start on February 19th running through the 24th. The Junior Tournament will start March 18th, and run through March 24th. Trophies are already on hand for these two tournaments and inquiries are already being made. Don't we wish we had that new gymnasium to stage this year's tournaments in! We have a good basketball court but not nearly enough room for the spectators.

Boy Scout activities are progressing even though the weather has been bad almost continuously since the first of the year.

Industrial Recreation in Spindale.

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

"I BELIEVE IN THE HOLY GHOST"

This month our discussion of the Apostles' Creed brings our attention to one of our closest, though least known, friends and helpers. As Christians we say that we believe in a God of one Being and three Persons. The First Person is familiar to us as our Father in heaven. So is the Second Person, for He is Jesus our Savior. But to most of us the Third Person, the Holy Ghost, is a mysterious character about whom we know very little.

The word "ghost" recalls to our minds the spine-tingling stories we heard as children. Then our fears were quieted with the knowledge that "there is no such thing as a ghost", and association of ideas brings this teaching into our subconscious minds when the Holy Ghost is mentioned. Though we may learn that the "ghost" of childhood memory and the Holy Ghost have no relation, it is hard for us to free our selves from the sense of unreality about Him.

It would be well if we could use the more modern form, Holy Spirit, exclusively. We learn early that "God is a spirit", and we are accustomed to recognize the reality of a spiritual Being. Thus we are prepared for acquaintance and fellowship with the Third Person of the Godhead.

Scripture teaches that the Holy Spirit is like in being to God the Father and God the Son, and equal to them in power and glory. He is always mentioned by names indicating a real, living personality. The adjective "holy" describes His nature, which is that of God. He is called "the Spirit of Truth", indicating that His work is to enlighten the hearts of men with the truth of God. And He is called Comforter or Counsellor (the word really means "one called along side to help"), for He is the Helper whom God has sent into the world

We wish that every person who has mailed a post-card, sent a present, or done anything else to make Christmas at Barium happier, to read this.

Every year we start out with the best resolutions in the world - we are going to make a note of every post-card sent to us individually or to the Orphanage and acknowledge them, but before Christmas arrived we are hopelessly snowed under and it is out of the question to acknowledge or to even list those wonderful messages of good-will.

We wish it were possible to acknowledge by special letter every individual gift that is sent to the children at Barium, but that becomes an impossible task. To acknowledge these by post-card becomes a big job. We feel badly about this because it is so easy for a person to think that we take their gifts lightly and that we do not appreciate the many kind things done for us here, individually and as a family.

This article is an inadequate expression of our thanks for the many kindnesses done for us this year. It seems to have risen to a larger volume than ever before. Our children were better taken care of and we want everyone who had any part in making this possible to know that we thank them and appreciate highly what they have done for us.

Christmas is such a busy time. Before we have gotten our family together again after the Christmas holidays other things are crashing in on us. There is the annual health examination, which becomes more and more important every year it seems; then there are reports to make out; the Executive Committee of the Board wants to know how our finances stand; the Duke Endowment Report is due to be made out; the basketball season starts off; and there are nearly always some new worker starting in at the first of the year. All of this makes January a most hectic month.

We wish we could spend it in just saying Thank You for the many kindnesses that make our life here so worth living.

to be with men always.

In answering the question as to exactly what the Holy Spirit does for us, let us return to an illustration used last month. We likened the Father to a Great Architect, (Continued On Page Two)

Doings of A Dozen at Annie Louise Cottage

A most enjoyable party was given on Friday night, January 17 by the matron to the dozen little girls who have recited perfectly, the Child's Catechism. Those participating in the social activities of the evening were as follows:

Games were played and contests engaged in by all. A delightful social hour followed. Mrs. Gentry, assisted by Miss Blakney and Mrs. Craig served delicious refreshments consisting of a fruit salad plate with sandwiches, crackers and cocoa followed by ice cream and pound cake.

This was a nice reward for the efforts of these little girls who deserve much commendation for this first mile post in memory work in our Sunday School. We all wish for them much success in their journey forward and hope the next mile post will be reached soon.

—Written by a Friend and Admirer of these little workers.

NEWS FROM ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

We are just beginning to get settled down since Santa has come and gone and we want to tell you all about his visit.

Christmas Eve night we found it almost impossible to go to sleep but when we did we dreamed only of Santa's visit. He played a trick on us this year. He usually leaves our toys under our beds, but this year we awoke and there was not a play thing in sight. We hurried down stairs and still no toys and after we were dressed and ready for breakfast our toys were found in another room. It was a good surprise but next year we will all go to sleep.

We want to thank all our good friends for telling Santa what we (Continued On Page Two)

Mid-Piedmont Held At Barium Springs February 19th - 24th

Many things happened in February, including groundhog day. The weather sometimes cuts up and usually February is the month when the flu bug gets in his heaviest lick. In spite of all this we manage to have a big time at Barium and very little of it ever gets to the papers.

What we are referring to in particular is the Mid-Piedmont Tournament. This tournament started 16 years ago. It is an invitational tournament in which Barium Springs plays host to the consolidated schools of the adjoining counties. It started out on a very small scale, but there were some ideas about it which seemed to make it very popular. The members of the Barium teams act as sponsors for the visiting teams. The students manage the refreshment stand, the time-keeping, the scoring, and nearly all of the activities. All of this is supervised by some grown person but the students enter into it with such enthusiasm and do their work so effectively that they have made themselves very popular with the visiting teams and made the whole tournament very popular.

The tournament started out with 32 teams being invited and this continued until the war years, then it looked like the tournament would have to stop, and we did not plan a tournament for one year, but the neighboring schools were so insistent that we did finally stage a tournament late in March for that year. Next year we went ahead at the usual date in the middle of February. Some of the regular participants dropped out during these years for lack of transportation, then when the war was over they wanted to come back. We found that 32 teams was not enough and we had to expand it. Last year it was expanded to 42 teams, this year to 50. Now eliminating 48 teams to finally arrive at the two champion teams requires a lot of games. The first day, Wednesday, February 19th, 18 games were played, starting at 11:50 a. m. The games were shortened, being ten-minute halves and were run off the first two days a game every thirty-five minutes. Sixteen games were played on Thursday, eight on Friday, four on Saturday, and the finals Monday night. The people attending the games come from all of the participating schools and they have a grand time cheering and boosting their teams along. This year there were eight Mecklenburg teams entered and the Mecklenburg teams all had their cheer leaders which added to the occasion. The teams are the best-looking teams you ever saw. There has been a trophy awarded to the girls' team that was the best-dressed and neatest in appearance, and it has become harder and harder each year to determine the winner of this trophy.
